Eczema Cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T. R., Bradford.

RESULTS OF BANK AMALGAMATION

The Canadian Bank of Commerce Completes the Purchase of the Assets of the Bank of British Columbia.

The Bank's Capital Now Eight Million Dollars and Assets Over Sixty-three Millions.

The negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the Bank of British Columbia by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, an announcement respecting which was made some months ago, have been carried to a successful conclusion. A thorough examination of the affairs of the Bank of British Columbia was made by the officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and this proving entirely satisfactory, the amalgamation was finally completed.

A statement of the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce after the amalgamation, has now been issued, and discloses a very strong position. In point of capital and reserve the Bank now ranks fourth among banking institutions in the continent of America.

It has 62 branches throughout Canada; five branches in the United States, namely, at New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland (Oregon), Skagway (Alaska), and one in London, England; 68 establishments in all. The acquisition of the London office is an important step in the progress of the Bank. The bank's transactions in sterling exchange in the United States and Canada each year amount to many millions of pounds, and the ability to handle this business through the Bank's own London office will result in an important addition to the earning power of the Bank. In many other directions also the interests of the two banks will be immensely benefited by the amalgamation.

The following is a condensation of the statement issued by the bank at the close of business on the 31st of March:

The regular monthly meeting of St. Luke's Men's Guild was held last night. The programme was augmented with a paper giving the history and explanation of the Union Jack.
The plans for the Ceresia Company's mill are still in the hands of the architects and engineers. Mr. Stewart is expected to arrive from Chicago on Monday, when arrangements will be perfected for commencing active operations.
Mr. Jas. Skeele, traveller for the R. M. Deal Leather Co., of Lindsay, was liberated from the Toronto smallpox hospital Saturday, and before leaving was presented with a bill for $15 by Dr. Sheard, City Health Officer, who explained that as he was not a resident of the city it was but proper that he should pay the expense incurred on his behalf. Mr. Skeele will be remembered, developed smallpox in Lindsay about two months ago, and his escape by an early train from the town from great risk and a possible heavy expenditure.
Water-powers are advancing in price, and will soon compare as an investment with Standard Oil stock. The Collingwood way a man named Hogg owns a waterway property of about 45 acres, situated about 25 miles from the town. He would have been willing to sell it for a song a few years ago, but things have changed. Lately the Collingwood citizens began to talk up a power scheme, and Mr. Hogg was asked to put a price on his water-power. He did—he said the town could buy it for $100,000, and he was willing to take his pay in instalments. The sale has not closed.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

A Shovel Company to be at Once Established in the Town.

Peterborough is to have another important industry in the shape of a large factory for the manufacture of shovels, spades and scoops.
The company will build here if the town grant them certain concessions in the way of exemption from taxation, free site and sewer connecting. A building will be erected of brick, about 50 x 150 ft., and $25,000 worth of machinery installed.
The matter has come before the Manufacturers Committee of the Council, and a report, favorable to the company, has been prepared, which will be submitted to the Council at a special meeting which will be called for the purpose at an early date—probably to-morrow evening.

ILLUSTRATE HIS SERMONS.

Evangelist Crombie illustrated his sermon last night, and will do so again to-night. The interest in the meetings is increasing. All who attend are receiving a rich blessing through them. This will be the last week Mr. Crombie will be with us. Come to the meetings.

SOME FINE PICTURES

The Times yesterday showed some fine photographic views of the Strathcona's taken when the regiment was in England on its return from South Africa. Mr. Wm. Fanning, who was in the member of the Horse, in addition to the pictures above referred to, has some very interesting views of the Kaffirs, as they are being examined for diamonds by the owners of the diamond mines. Altogether the collection is very fine.

HASTINGS.

A bad runaway took place on Sunday last. It appears that Mrs. P. Elmhurst and little son were driving, and when on McCurdy's hill the horse shied, and plunged into the ditch, upsetting the buggy. (Mrs. Elmhurst was badly shaken up, and received some very severe bruises on the face and head. The child escaped unhurt. Dr. Coughlin was summoned and the patient is now doing nicely.
It is reported that Harry Wilson and Fred Cook, while fishing, caught a couple of huge suckers.
There is considerable dissatisfaction over the way the assessment of the village has been done, and many appeals will be entered.
It is said that our venerable but versatile fellow citizen, Mr. Hank Johnston, intends to appeal against his assessment on his income, which has been put down at $800 per year. It is ever thus—the poor are always being oppressed.
Mr. Frank Fairren, the general clerk of the government works, threatened, if the present condition of affairs in regard to certain matters is not speedily changed, to pull out and take up his residence near Roseneath.

FOREIGN NEWS NOTES.

The government of New South Wales is inviting tenders for 100,000 tons of steel rails to be manufactured in New South Wales within four years. This involves the establishment of iron works. It is stipulated that the price is not to exceed the cost of such rails in America and Great Britain, plus the freight.

TURKEY BEGINS TO PAY.

Constantinople, May 7.—It has been arranged that the Imperial Ottoman bank shall pay the Cramps $500,000 as a first instalment, and pay an amount, not specified, to the Krupp, from a six per cent. annuity on the general taxation of the empire. Simultaneously with this announcement the Turkish officials have received the old story that the Cramps payment includes the United States' Armenian claims.

FEET OUT.

Curious Habits.

When a person has to keep the feet out from under cover during the mid-winter night, it is a very disagreeable thing. It is time that coffee, which causes the trouble, be left off.
There is no end to the nervous conditions that coffee will produce. It shows in one way in one person and in another way in another. In this case the lady lived in Vermillion, S. Dakota. She says, "I have had to lie awake half the night with my feet and limbs out of the bed on the coldest nights, and feel afraid to sleep for fear of catching cold. I had been troubled for years with twitching and jerking of the lower limbs, and for most of time I have been unable to go to church or to lecture because of that awful feeling that I must keep on the move."
When it was brought to my attention that coffee caused so many nervous diseases, I concluded to drop coffee and take Postum Food Coffee to see if my trouble was caused by coffee drinking. I only drank one cup of coffee for breakfast but that was enough to do the business for me. When I quit it my troubles disappeared in an almost miraculous way. Now I have no more of the jerking and twitching and can sleep with any amount of bedding over me and sleep all night, in sound, peaceful rest.
Postum Food Coffee is absolutely worth its weight in gold to me. This lady's name can be given on application to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

STRICKEN WHILE PROPOSING.

Strange Death of a Man at Newburyport, Mass.

Newburyport, Mass., May 8.—Arthur P. Morrison, 27 years old, died in the hospital today as the result of paralysis, which came upon him last night while proposing marriage. Early last evening he called on Miss Lydia Lisson, to whom he had paying attention, and after proposing marriage he placed an engagement ring on her finger. He was suddenly stricken and fell to the floor. A physician was summoned, but the man was unconscious and he was removed to the hospital. He was a popular young man and played on several basketball teams. Heart disease brought on paralysis, according to the physicians.

Renewed the Grudge.

Even an old score will give its owner a twinge if it is not properly handled, says the Youth's Companion. Two elderly men met at a reception one evening, and after they had been introduced to each other, one of them said:
"I beg pardon, Mr. Yarty, but are you related to the family of that name who lived in Plattston about fifty years ago?"
"I am a member of the identical family," replied the other. "I resided there myself fifty years ago."
"Then you are Columbus Yarty?"
"Yes."
"I am delighted to meet you again. Do you remember Wesley Weston, with whom you played when a little boy?"
"Surely! Are you he?"
"I am."
"They shook hands again, and after a little pause Mr. Weston said:
"You remember we had a quarrel about something or other the last time we met, and you pushed me over into a lan-vat and ruined a suit of clothes for me?"
"Yes, I remember it very well. Ha! ha!"
"Ha! ha! We can afford to laugh at it now, but it was a serious matter to me then. I have thought of it many times since and made up my mind long ago that if we ever met again I would tell you freely and fully forgive you for the mean little trick."
"But as I remember it, you were entirely to blame in the matter."
"Not at all. I hadn't done anything to you. However, as I said before, I don't hold any spite over it now. I forgive you."
"But I won't have it! I told you—"
"I don't!"
"Good evening, sir!"
And the grudge of fifty years ago resumed business, so to speak, at the old stand.

Fastness of a Babylonian Brick.

It is marvellous what a mass of detailed information can be got down to us from the perishable brick tablets inscribed, or rather stamped before firing, with minute and complicated inscriptions and preserved in the buried libraries beneath the mounds of the Tigris and Euphrates. Now Prof. Joyce is able, for instance, to tell us from one of these tablets how "a widow brought action before the royal judges to recover her husband's property. She stated that after their marriage she and Ben-Hadad-Nathan had traded together and that a house had been purchased with a portion of her dowry. This house, the value of which was as much as 110 manehs, 50 shekels, or £42 10s., had been assigned to her in perpetuity. The said brother now claimed everything including the house. The case was tried at Babylon before six judges in the ninth year of Nabonidus, and they decided in favor of the plaintiff," for a woman's dowry was her own property. This might be an extract from the law reports of the Times, and other details of ancient Babylonian and Assyrian life are not less precise. "In the reign of Ammi-radok three men rented a field for three years on terms of partnership, agreeing to give the owner during the first two years one gur of grain upon each acre. The whole of the third harvest was to go to the lessors and the partners were to divide the crop in equal shares on the day of the harvest." This seems a pleasant kind of agreement, worthy of imitation. The third year free of rent must have been delightful.

Cataract Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the eye. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, it has a rumbling sound and imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH CURE. Send for circulars, free.

PROSPECTUS

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review Office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. Dutton, J. J. McBain, A. J. Gough, T. F. Matthews, W. H. Hill, H. P. Kennedy, A. Parker, F. H. Dobbin, C. H. Moore.

ROYAL VISIT TO CANADA.

Plans of the Palace Car to be Used by the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall.

The plans for the new car, which is to convey Their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York across the Continent have been prepared, but the contract has not been made. The car will be 70 feet in length and 9 feet 10 inches in breadth. At each end will be an observation room with plate glass windows, each fitted with a sofa and upper berth. These rooms will be eight feet ten inches long. At the end of a state-room comes next the observation. This room is also fitted with a sofa and upper berth. Next this comes the grand state room, 10 feet 4 inches, with a brass bed and all modern conveniences. Then comes the dining room, 15 feet by 9 feet, in the centre of the car and fitted with an extension table. The kitchen adjoins and is 10 feet 4 inches. Then comes the porters' room, 5 feet 6 inches, and between that and the observation, a toilet room, 4 feet 10 inches. The workmanship will be of the very best, and when the building is done the furnishing will be considered. Meantime nothing is decided on this latter point.

WEDDED AT OMEMEE.

Marriage of Mr. John Eaton and Miss Flora McCrea.

A VERY ELABORATE AFFAIR.

A special train from Toronto brings the bridegroom and fifty wedding guests. One hundred and fifty present.

An event of unusual interest took place at Omeme yesterday, when Mr. John Eaton, Vice-President of the T. Eaton Company, Toronto, was united in marriage to Miss Flora McCrea, daughter of Mr. John McCrea, of Omeme. The ceremony took place in the Methodist church, in the presence of about 150 invited guests.

The church had been richly carpeted for the occasion by Mr. T. Eaton, father of the groom, and was beautifully decorated with palms, potted and cut flowers. The bride was attended by her sister, while Mr. A. Adams, of New York, acted as best man. The bride was handsomely attired in white organdy, with satin trimmings, and carried a beautiful bouquet of flowers. The bridesmaid was similarly attired, and also carried flowers.

The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. G. Roberts, of Lindsay, assisted by Rev. Mr. Brown, of Omeme, the organ being presided over by Mrs. Lang, who played, in superb style, Mendelssohn's wedding march.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the party repaired to the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John McCrea, where a magnificent wedding dinner was served. After an informal reception, the happy couple left by special train for Toronto, on route for the Eastern States, on an extended honeymoon trip.

A special train brought the Toronto party to the village, and took them back. Mr. Webb, the famous Toronto caterer, provided the refreshments, and sent a staff of waiters to dispense them. Mr. Robert Leary had two horses engaged while Mr. Robt. Gibbs supplied one. These went to Omeme on Tuesday evening and returned last night. The decorations, consisting of palms and flowers, were brought from Toronto.

WORLD OF SPORT.

LACROSSE.

Buffalo is to organize a lacrosse club, and will arrange games with Canadian teams. It is understood that among the regulations which will be laid down to govern play for the Minto Cup, the Governor-General will reserve to himself the authority to appoint a board of referees from whose members all officials will be selected. These men will be selected from among the prominent members of the various lacrosse associations of Canada. The expenses of the officials will be paid out of the gate money. The complete regulations have not yet been formulated, but it is expected that his Excellency will issue them at an early date.

WILL SPEND $15,000. Montreal will spend $15,000 in entertaining the Duke and Duchess of York. The entertainment will probably consist in giving the city a good wash.

BOXING.

Cripple Creek, Col., May 7. Tom Sharkey lost to "Mexican Pete" Everett on a foul in the first round here to-night. It was to have been a 20-round fight before the Olympic A. C. The first round was a give and take affair, Everett making as good a showing as did the major. In the second round, a few seconds after the round was called, the men came together in a mix-up. Peter received a body blow which sent him to his knees. While he was down Sharkey struck him on the head, and the referee gave the fight to Everett.

WRESTLING.

Nourouah, the big Turkish wrestler, made short work of Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, the champion wrestler of America, at the Madison Square Garden last night. He downed Jenkins twice in a catch-as-catch-can match, the first time in 4 minutes 36 seconds and the second time 5 minutes 2 seconds. The match was decided on the best two out of three falls and Jenkins, while showing a remarkable amount of cleverness, was unable to compete against the enormous weight of his big opponent.

SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Jealous Husband Fatally Wounds His Wife, and Then Commits Suicide.

Bellefonte, Pa., May 8.—Jesse R. King of near Millheim today shot and fatally wounded his wife of two months and when an officer attempted to arrest him King shot himself through the heart and died almost instantly. Mrs. King spent most of the time the past fortnight at her parents' home. Yesterday she returned to her husband and a quarrel ensued, when the young wife declared she would leave to-day for good.

This morning Mrs. King made ready to depart, and the husband, unable to persuade her to remain, procured his revolver and shot his wife in the abdomen. King then went to his father's house and told what he had done, and angrily declared he would return and finish the job.

In the meantime Mrs. King managed to make her way to Squire Muser's office at Millheim and Constable Leitze was sent to arrest King. He met the angry husband on his way to Millheim and when King saw the officer he immediately shot himself, dying in about ten minutes. Mrs. King is still alive, but the doctors say she cannot recover. Jealousy was the cause of the crime.

MR. WHITNEY TALKS ON THE PROSPECTS

The Leader of the Opposition Feels Very Confident.

ELECTIONS MAY COME SOON.

Mr. J. P. Whitney, the Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature, has been talking lately regarding the political outlook from his standpoint. Mr. Whitney tells his interrogators that the election will finish the Ross government. In speaking of the outlook, he says, he believes the feeling throughout the province was with the Conservative party, and he had no doubt of the result when the Government applied to the people. He has had opportunities to come in contact with men who observe the trend of events, and the outlook was expressed, and he is quite confident.

Mr. Whitney's opinion that an early election is quite possible. The question has been brought to his mind whether the Dominion Government will disallow the act of the Legislature prolonging this life of Parliament, as it is clearly unconstitutional. This question adds to the possibility of an early election. As regarding a series of public meetings this summer, the Conservative leader said that the party would prepare to offset the efforts of their opponents.

Hon. Mr. Stratton has a different story to tell the people. He says that the government has no fear of the result of the election, as it will assuredly be returned to power. The policy of the government particularly in regard to the development of New Ontario will commend the admiration of the country, and will ensure a renewal of power.

GETTING READY FOR VICTORIA DAY

Progress of Arrangements for the Celebration

LIVING PICTURES ON WHEELS

Fortnightly, More or Less True to Life, of Prominent Men and Institutions Will Be Shown in the Procession—Committee Means to Be Observed.

The Council Chamber was crowded with old and young at the meeting called by the Victoria Day Celebration Committee last night, and if the enthusiasm and joy that pervaded the meeting may be taken as a criterion, a very enjoyable holiday on the 24th is assured. The principal business was to obtain volunteers for the various "floats" in the procession. This procession is expected to be a great feature. Already 15 or 20 "floats" have been arranged for. Various public institutions, corporate bodies, manufacturing establishments, etc., will each have its peculiar "float." Some institutions that are now only talked about will have their first material existence in the procession. It will be a panorama of Peterborough's public men and things. Persons and institutions of renown elsewhere will also be portrayed.

The Chairman in opening the meeting predicted that the celebration would be the biggest thing of the kind that ever took place in the town, and that there should be from 5,000 to 10,000 visitors.

Persons having horses and double harness that they can spare on the 24th are asked to communicate with Mr. Whitney. The livery stables will have none to spare and the Committee are dependent upon private sources for their supply. A reasonable price will be paid for the use of the horses, if required. Mr. George Stevens, of Ashburnham, has generously placed all his horses at the disposal of the Committee, and others should follow his example.

The premises, No. 353 George street, lately occupied by Mr. Alex. Elliott, have been secured for use as a committee room, for one week preceding the 24th. Secretary Burritt will be in attendance there and the place will be the headquarters for completing the arrangements.

PEASANTS UP IN ARMS.

Alarming Situation Throughout Sicily as a Result of the Strike.

PARMA, May 9.—The Patria to-day publishes dispatches from Palermo, Naples and Foggia reporting an alarming situation in Sicily and south Italy. The peasants in the provinces of Messina, Catania and Syracuse are in perpetual revolt and sanguinary conflicts with the police occur almost daily.

The region in which the sulphur mines are situated is agitated and a general strike is threatened. The fields and gardens are lying waste, the municipality has suspended payment and the syndio has gone to Rome to confer with the premier. Strikes are extending everywhere in south Italy.

THE CULTURE OF FROGS

An Industry That is Rapidly Forging to the Front.

The Ottonabee River the Natural Home of the Little Jumpers Some Successful Frog Farmers.

Frog farming is rapidly developing, and promises ere long to give employment to many persons. On the Ottonabee River, near Rice Lake, is conducted a large and prosperous frog farm, of which Mr. Wedlock is the owner. Here thousands of frogs are exported annually to the United States, where "frogs" are regarded as a very great delicacy. Messrs. McGraw Bros., of Harwood, are also engaged in the business, and are making a success of it. This farm has frog farms on Ottonabee, Ottonabee River and on the Italian Lake, waters.

The culture of frogs is of economic importance in fifteen States of the Union. In one place in Ontario it is referred to in the Manual on Fish Culture, recently published by the United States Fish Commission at Washington (which devotes some eleven closely printed pages to the subject of frogs and their artificial cultivation) in these words:—"One of the most successful frog farms in Ontario, in the Trent River basin, has been in operation about twenty years, and annually yields a comparatively large product of frogs."

During the years 1884 and 1885 this farm yielded 5,000 pounds of dressed frogs, and 1,000 living frogs for scientific purposes and for stocking other farms.

Some idea of the great demand which exists for this luxury in the United States may be gathered from the fact that the annual catch in the United States is given as but little less than 1,000,000, with a gross value to the "hunters" of about $500,000. Indeed, the demand for frogs in the United States, where the consumption is said to be ten times that of France, has been so great that it is feared their unrestricted hunting will result in their practical extinction, and artificial propagation is already talked of. Much interest has been aroused on the subject in our own Province. It is believed that there are thousands of acres of waste lands, the property of private individuals, which are now practically worthless, and which could be turned to profitable use in raising frogs. All that would be necessary would be to stock the waters with paired breeders, and they would do the rest as natural food is present in sufficient amounts for successful growth. The species considered most profitable on account of its size is the eastern bull frog, Rana catesbeiana, which reaches a body length of over eight inches. They begin to breed at the age of three years and reach a marketable size in four or five years. Only the hind legs are preserved, and a pair of which will average about half a pound in weight. The price in the New York market varies from 50c to $1 per pound.

25 YEARS IN A MADHOUSE.

Killed His Wife and Fleeced Insanely.

New York, May 9.—After spending a quarter of a century in various insane asylums throughout the States, Joseph J. Burroughs was on Friday released as sane by Judge Phillips in Matteawan and is now at the home of his sister in Brooklyn.

In 1878 Burroughs killed his wife in Brooklyn and was tried for murder in the first degree. A plea of insanity was entered for him and he was acquitted, but was ordered incarcerated in the State Asylum for the Insane in Utica.

There he remained until 1884, when he was transferred to Auburn, and in 1892 was again transferred to the Matteawan Hospital for the Insane, where he has since remained.

A short time ago friends interested themselves in his behalf, and on Thursday last he was brought before Dr. William J. Conklin, of Elmkill, who pronounced him sane. A writ of habeas corpus was at once taken out, and Burroughs was brought before County Judge Phillips, who on the strength of the doctor's certificate issued an order releasing the convict from custody.

NUMBER OF MISSING BILLS UNKNOWN

It Will be One of the Most Difficult Things Imaginable to Implicate Arrested Parties.

Mr. Chappell of New York Denies Their Story—Chief of Police Has Issued a Circular Giving Fac-Similes of the Two Raised Cheques—Where the Difficulty of the Case Lies.

The news from Pittsburgh that two negroes had been arrested there yesterday afternoon because the possession of two $100 bills had been traced to them was of considerable interest to the Toronto detective department.

The story is that one of the women, Mamie Williams, a servant at a house on Water street, tried to have a $100 bill changed at Max Schouberg & Co's steamship office and was arrested. She explained that she had received it from Bertha Searles, who lived in the same house. When the latter was arrested she said that she had obtained it from Charles Chappell, a negro gambler, who lived at 226 East 127th street, New York, and who had won it, she said, in a game of poker.

When Inspector Stark received word of these happenings he at once wired to New York and had enquiry made of Chappell, but that worthy gentleman said the Pittsburgh lady was a liar.

And so the matter stands, awaiting further developments.

Inspector Stark says that the difficulty lies in the fact that the number of the stolen bills is unknown, and for that reason it is not easy to say positively that the $100 bill found on the negroes' prisoners is one of the bills in question. If this could be done they or they could be put on trial on a charge of receiving stolen property. They would then be obliged to divulge truthfully where the bill was obtained or stand the consequences.

Thobill is No. 1980, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Nell Triplett, proprietress of the Water street house, states that the Searles woman had another $100 bill a week previous, and that it was exchanged at the Marine National Bank on May 2, and then sent to Zimmerman & Forsyth, 9 and 11 Wall street, New York. Though there are many other Canadian $100 bills floating about, it is very probable that these two bills came from the pocket of the renowned Mr. Winton.

Chief of Police Grasset has issued a circular giving fac-similes of the two raised cheques, and as full a description as possible.

The victimized banks have offered a reward of $1,500 for the delivery to the department of the swindler.

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Dashes Here and There by a Man Without Occupation

ADVICE ABOUT GETTING MARRIED

The Day is Done, and the Darkness falls from the wings of night. And the way things fly around me I'm afraid that I am tight.

The above comprehensive and instructive poem is from an attractive volume sent to this great family journal, for review, entitled, "The Life and Adventures of The Man With a Jag," Moonshiner & Co., Toronto, Ont. Bound in Skin, and delivered at $1 per copy. This beautiful and charming book appeals at once to all of the sorrowful Lushers, and creates a desire to destroy that Furred Fanged beast which comes to those after taking Liberal and reckless discounts.

There is an idea about among a certain class of people to the effect that it is a very charming thing for two young Turtle Doves to marry and settle down on Nothing a year and board themselves.

It is supposed to be a delightful thing in this prosaic old world for a woman to be willing to let her hair for life to a young man without money enough to keep him in Cuffs and Collars, and then work with him like a pack horse all through life to help him secure sufficient means to keep them both out of the poorhouse in their old age.

In theory it is all very fine. It has a noble self-sacrificing sound, and looks real nice in Novels. But, as a proposition in every-day existence, it doesn't appeal to me for a cent. I like Romance and Sentiment and Nobility of soul and all the rest of it, as well as the next one. But when a man has the nerve to ask a girl to leave a Good home and indulgent parents, to go to work in his kitchen as Cook and Scrub woman, for her board and a very few Clothes, I am bound to tell him what I think of him. I'm bound to tell him that 30 cents looks grand and imposing alongside of him.

If a man desires to live like a man, in Peace and Comfort and Companion-ship with his wife, let him see to it that he marries a Wife and not a House hold Drudge. If it's a housekeeper he's after, let him hire a nice, robust Irish lady, or a person with a dark brown complexion and plenty of Muscle.

The woman who drudges all day long among pots and kettles soon loses the charms of person and grace of manner which were her Chief Attraction in the old days, when her sweetheart came a wooing—the days when he whispered in her ear that old yet ever new story of a Life's Devotion, and told her he would put her upon a pedestal and worship her till his heart would swell.

She soon gets to know that she will be yanked down off that pedestal very suddenly if the steak burns or the dough gets Soak Fat. She can't stay up there long enough to have much worship going on. She makes a Scramble for it, though, at first, and tries to keep on her Perch; but she gives up the struggle after a while, and stays right down on the earth among her Soap-suds and Kettles.

She cannot run to the door and greet him with a Kiss and Roast on his Knee and offer him her little confidences now.

No.

Her face is tired and Hot. Her hands are rough, and she hasn't ventured to rub his cheek affectionately since that day when he told her they were like Sunkist Graters. Her dress is not quite tidy, for she has scrubbed floors and washed windows, and such work is not conducive to immaculate attire. The above poem after breakfast and drove her near to Distraction.

Poor little soul! She begins to look her legs lard over on the sly, and to wonder how she deliberately elected to work like a slave for him. What was there about him that made such a Sacrifice of all the Best Things in life seem so Noble and Beautiful and Desirable?

And the man—what of him?

He looks on her Faded Beauty and her Rough Hands and Rounded Shoulders, and tells himself he was a Great Fool to commit matrimony at all, and puts on his hat and goes down to call on his friend Brown, whose wife is such a Sweet, Adorable creature, with sunny Temper and Pretty clothes and Fascinating ways. And he is dissatisfied with his lot. He doesn't stop to think that his friend has made a Companion of his wife, taking pride in her Accomplishments, her Beauty, and her Demeanor, and has chosen to Cherish and treasure her, instead of making of her a common Servant and Household Drudge, without even a servant's privileges.

No woman in this world can be a Companional Companion and a General Servant at the same time. The combination is impossible.

And so I say if a man wants a "Chum," a Pal, a Companionable Life Partner, let him wait until he can afford the Luxury. Young man, don't take a girl from bright surroundings and plunge her into an atmosphere of Smoky Chimneys and Soap-suds, expecting to find Happiness in that way. You may be the deuce of a fine fellow, and think any girl ought to be glad to Slave for you just for the privilege of having you come in and Snub and abuse her every day. But if you start housekeeping on this plan Happiness will vanish out of your life quicker'n a man could say "scat!"

And the wife will wonder what has passed quietly away during the bethinking period. There's my sentiments on the Marriage question, and I don't care a gosh-darn who knows it.

AN INDEMNITY OF OVER $700,000,000
Foreign Ministers Demand This Amount of Chinese Government.
Peking, May 7.—The foreign Ministers to-day decided to address a collective note to the Chinese Government, informing it that a joint indemnity of $720,000,000 would be demanded, and asking what methods of payment were proposed. A reply is expected at the end of the week, which probably will propose to meet the indemnity by raising the Customs tariff. It is considered likely that the powers will assent to some such measure in return for concessions on the part of China in the shape of a total abolition of the likin, the placing of import duties on a gold basis, really free navigation of Chinese waters, the removal of impediments to navigation, and the tax at Woosung. The Ministers were unable to agree as to the desirability of opening the whole Empire to trade and residence, some of them holding that it would be asking China to assume too great responsibility, and that under the present system of Government it would be impossible to guarantee the safety of then numerous foreigners who would flock into the interior if the Empire were entirely opened.

SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF.
Jealous Husband Fatally Wounds His Wife, and Then Commits Suicide.
Bellefonte, Pa., May 8.—Jesse R. King of near Millheim today shot and fatally wounded his wife of two months and when an officer attempted to arrest him King shot himself through the heart and died almost instantly. Mrs. King spent most of the time the past fortnight at her parents' home. Yesterday she returned to her husband and a quarrel ensued, when the young wife declared she would leave to-day for good. This morning Mrs. King made ready to depart, and the husband, unable to persuade her to remain, procured his revolver and shot his wife in the abdomen. King then went to his father's house and told what he had done, and angrily declared he would return and finish the job. In the meantime Mrs. King managed to make her way to Squire Muser's office at Millheim and Constable Leitze was sent to arrest King. He met the angry husband on his way to Millheim and when King saw the officer he immediately shot himself, dying in about ten minutes. Mrs. King is still alive, but the doctors say she cannot recover. Jealousy was the cause of the crime.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

It seems Kaiser Wilhelm gets very excited whenever he refers to the assault upon him at Bremen, where an imbecile hit him in the face with a coupling pin. According to the Kaiser's view, coupling pins are not in the list of articles which it is permissible to hurl at royalty, and he objects to the establishment of an undignified precedent.
Therefore, royalty has been made the target for bouquets and bombs only.
The bouquets are very nice, but the bombs are not. Nevertheless, bombs have a heroic flavor, while coupling pins—imagine a Kaiser killed by a coupling pin! History squirms at the mere thought.

In his spirited speech at Guildhall the secretary of state for war declared Britain's ability to maintain her rights on the Nile, the Grange, the Yang Tze or the Indus. It will be noticed that Britainia not only rules the sea, but most of the big rivers.

If eventually, an agreement is made whereby the Isthmian Canal may be built without trouble, it's another argument in favour of peace work.

England thinks it all right to capture so much Boer ammunition. The first chance the Boers had they'd fire it away.

Kitchener reports that he is still thasting the Boers. This whole business may have cost England a lot, but it is extremely getting a run for its money.

Perhaps few people fully realize the amount of murder that goes on in the United States, and the comparative immunity enjoyed by the murderers. The total number of American officers and soldiers killed in the Philippines during two years and a half is but little over 3,000. More than five times this number of murders have occurred in the United States during the same period. More men are killed in the country every six months than have been killed on the American side during the Philippine war. In no other country in the civilized world is the crime of murder so common.

BUYING STOCKS.

There is a story printed of a man in Chicago who had ten thousand shares of Union Pacific which he bought three years ago at 20 and has just sold it at 131. This gives him a profit of over a million dollars on an investment of two hundred thousand. That is the way to make money in stocks.

Anybody could have done the same.
Almost any reputable railway shares bought and paid for three years ago, or one year ago, or one month ago, could have been sold at varying but generally high profits in the last few days.

The trouble with most people is that they do not think of buying stocks until they hear that everybody else is buying, that prices are booming and fortunes being made. Then they rush in at the top of the market, preferring the shares that have risen the highest.
As a natural result they come out short.

RESULTS OF BANK
AMALGAMATION

The Canadian Bank of Commerce
Completes the Purchase of the Assets of the Bank of British Columbia.

The Banks Capital Now Eight Million Dollars and Assets Over Sixty-
three Millions.

The negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the Bank of British Columbia by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, an announcement respecting which was made some months ago, have been carried to a successful conclusion. A thorough examination of the affairs of the Bank of British Columbia was made by the officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and this proving entirely satisfactory, the amalgamation was finally completed. A statement of the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce after the amalgamation, has now been issued, and discloses a very strong position. In point of capital and reserve the Bank now ranks fourth among banking institutions in the continent of America. It has 62 branches throughout Canada; five branches in the United States, namely, at New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland (Oregon), Skagway (Alaska), and one in London, England; 88 establishments in all. The acquisition of the London office is an important step in the progress of the Bank. The bank's transactions in sterling exchange in the United States and Canada each year amount to many millions of pounds, and the ability to handle this business through the Bank's own London office will result in an important addition to the earning power of the Bank. In many other directions also the interests of the two banks will be immensely benefited by the amalgamation.

The following is a condensation of the statement issued by the bank at the close of business on the 31st of March:

PREPARE TO LEAVE PEKIN.

When China Pledges Payment Troops of the Powers will Withdraw.

Berlin, May 9.—The National Zeitung publishes a statement, evidently inspired, regarding the withdrawal from the province of Chee-Lee. The withdrawal, it appears, will be under Count Von Waldersee's command, no nation proceeding alone. The first step will be a note sent to the Chinese commissioners, naming the total indemnity. If China gives a written pledge of payment the greater portion of the foreign troops will be withdrawn, but a sufficient number will remain until the indemnity question is settled. Not until then will all the troops be withdrawn, with the exception of the legation guards and the garrisons between Peking and the coast.

To-morrow the foreign ministers are to meet and hold a final discussion of the terms of the demands which they are to make upon the Chinese government. They are unanimously of the opinion that the oppressive hikin taxes should be abolished and that the important duties should be put on a gold basis.

Likin is a sort of provincial custom due levied in every province and sometimes in nearly every district of a province. The likin tax is said to have originated owing to the necessity to raise money after the Tai-Ping rebellion. The whole object of it appears to be to squeeze the poor, the weak and the enterprising. It is an effective bar to the extension of trade. No sooner is a new trade route opened than likin exactions are imposed, and in every province it is merely an excuse for tyranny and extortion.

NIGHT LUNCHEON

All Right If of the Right Kind of Food.

The difference brought about by the use of well selected food, as compared with ordinary food, is well shown in the experience of a girl attending high school and boarding herself.

She says: "My house-keeping" compelled early rising, and I had to become very sleepy over my books. To keep awake, I resorted to the use of strong coffee, and in a short time began to have a dull, stupid feeling. No appetite, but a feeling of "goneness." I realized that I must eat something or faint in the class room. I would wash down a little breakfast with another cup of coffee.

I began growing thin, pale and nervous, and made very unsatisfactory advancement in my studies.

One day the good wife of one of our Professors asked me if I felt well, as I appeared so weak and nervous. Between my sobs I managed to relate my woes. She saw where the trouble lay, and advised me to leave off tea and coffee and take up Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts Food.

I followed her advice and found the Postum a delicious beverage, and the Grape-Nuts was just what I wanted. So my breakfast consisted of a little fruit, a saucer of Grape-Nuts, and a cup of Postum, an ideal breakfast. If, at night, I felt the need of something to eat before retiring, I ate a little Grape-Nuts.

My head grew clearer, my cheeks rosy, and I gained so rapidly in health that my acquaintances remarked upon it.

There is a reason for both Postum and Grape-Nuts contain the elements from Nature's store house that the body uses to rebuild the brain and nerve centers throughout. These wonderful food elements are presented in such a fascinating form that users stick to them year after year, and very greatly to their benefit. The name and address of the young lady can be given by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at Battle Creek, Mich.

NINE EXPEDITIONS TO ARCTIC REGIONS

A Boom in Exploring the Frozen and Dreary North.

New York, May 8.—Arctic exploration will have a boom during the present year. No less than nine expeditions will sail for the frozen regions. They are as follows:

1. The Ziegler-Haldwin, to be led by Mr. E. B. Haldwin, who lately returned from the Weather Bureau for this purpose, the funds to be contributed by Mr. William Ziegler of New York.
2. A Russian expedition, commanded by Vice-Admiral Maklaff, in a vessel constructed to push its way through ice fourteen feet thick.
3. A Canadian expedition, in charge of Capt. Bernier, in the Scottish King.
4. A German expedition, plans not yet published.
5. A joint expedition by Dr. Nansen and the Duke of the Abruzzi.
6. Peary and his companions will finish the exploration of Grinnell Land and return home.
7. Dr. Robert Stein and his companions will complete the exploration of Ellanor Land.
8. A relief expedition to Franz Joseph Land, under the command of Capt. Stokken, and apparently at the joint expense of Nansen and Amundsen.
9. Baron Toll will send a party from the Kara Sea eastward along the Siberian coast.

COAL DEALERS CONVENE.

A little over a year ago in Brantford a number of mechanics formed an association, funded their money, bought in coal, and divided it at cost. To offset this plan, and, if possible, prevent its adoption in other towns, the Brantford dealers agitated, and the Ontario Coal Dealers' Association was formed in Brantford last fall. The Association numbers 175 members. The second annual meeting is now being held in the Confederation Life Building, with 125 members present. Mr. Thomas Elliott, president of the association, presided.

The members of the association say that the meeting is merely for protection and not to endeavor to raise the price of coal. They do not hold out any chance for reduction in the present winter prices, and say that the coal syndicate in the United States is responsible. On the other hand, prices may go up.

The price in Buffalo for egg, stove, and nut coal is $10.00 with 10c per ton freight, and $5 a ton by water, and they say that selling at $6 as at present gives them but little profit on small orders.

The association will elect its officers to-morrow and will conclude business to-day. A committee has been appointed to arrange an excursion to Buffalo to visit the Exposition.

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Northey on Wednesday evening, April 28th, when their second daughter, Miss Jennifer J., was united in marriage to Mr. J. H. Clapp of Harvey. The duties of bridesmaid were performed by Miss Eva McInnis, cousin of the bride, and the groom was ably supported by his brother. The bride was becomingly dressed in white, and the bridesmaid in light blue. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. McManis, of Lakefield, in the presence of over ninety invited guests. After the ceremony the company sat down to a sumptuous supper, succeeding which a pleasant evening was spent. The presents to the bride were useful, numerous and costly, showing the highest esteem in which she is held by the friends of the community. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

ASHBURNHAM SCHOOLS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ashburnham Public School Board was held Tuesday evening, May 7th, the following members being in attendance: Mr. H. Morgan, chairman, and Messrs W. Fowler, W. Manrice, E. A. Peck, and R. H. Rogers.

The report of the principal, Mr. Wm. Mathelet, was received and showed the usual attendance.

A number of accounts were received and passed.

A Property Committee was appointed, to consist of the Chairman and Messrs. Manrice and Fowler.

The resignation of Miss Coveney as teacher was received and it was decided not to make an appointment until the next meeting of the Board. Miss Coveney's resignation will take effect at the end of the present term. She intends going to the Normal after vacation.

The matter of arranging the programme for Empire Day, May 23rd, was left for the teachers to deal with.

A PROPOSED CINDER PATH

Editor Morning Times.
Dear Sir,—I see by the report of the "Council proceedings" that the Corporation propose constructing a cinder path through Central Park. Well, Mr. Editor, if the proposed walk is to be composed of the same material as the Victoria Park walks are composed of, I would suggest that you, as an able bodied man, should be stationed with a club to slay the man who is responsible for the delivery of the first load of this filthy material that they are pleased to term "cinders." The Victoria Park walks have been a good thing, not to walk upon ever since their construction, and for any one to build such walks and put up signs not to walk on the grass, must be lamented and have no regard for ladies skirts.

MAYOR OF OTTAWA TIES UP THE CITY

He Refuses to Sign Cheques in Order to Tide Over Difficulties.

Ottawa, Ont., May 8.—Mayor Morris has tied up the city financially, as he refuses to sign any cheques borrowing money from the bank to tide over the expenditure until the taxes are collected. As a result of this the laborers are without their pay, and being poor men, are in distress. This morning two laborers called at the police station, and wanted to get a summons on the corporation for the amount of their wages, $12.50 and $15.15 respectively. The Police Court clerk advised them to go to the Division Court, and get a judgment against the city, when they could seize on the City Hall furniture for the amount due them. The men thought this would mean too much expense, but say that they will have to do something to compel the Mayor to perform his duty. One man had a sick wife at home, for whom he wished to buy necessities. There are many cases of hardship on account of the Mayor's action.

TO CARE FOR WATCH

A watch should be wound up every day at the same hour.

Avoid putting it on a marble slab or near anything excessively cold.

A sudden change of temperature, contracting the metal, may sometimes cause the mainspring to break.

The cold also coagulates the oil, and the pivots and wheels work less freely and affect the regularity of the time-keeping.

To keep your watch clean, take care that the case fits closely and see that the watch pocket is kept free from dust, which is so often given off by linings.

Avoid sudden jars and falls, for even if it does not seem to affect it at the moment, a watch will resent a rough handling, by becoming gradually "out of order" without apparent cause.

Mr. Goodfather had brought up his son according to the good old model which teaches that children shall be seen and not heard, say "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," and respect their elders.

When Johnnie went to college he arranged with his father that on his arrival there, if he found everything satisfactory, he would telegraph "Yes." When the telegram arrived the busy father had forgotten what "Yes" referred to, so he wired back, "Yes, what?" and Johnnie answered, "Yes, sir."

The Athletic Girl.

The athletic girl is and to be influential, to have power—and most of us like this—and when she expresses an opinion she is generally listened to with respect. A sound mind in a sound body is the superlative of attraction, and this a girl may and should possess. For most girls, as for many older women too, it is well to strive for the rounded life, the life of symmetry, the life which is not unduly developed in one direction at the expense of another.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Ready Made Oratory on Tap.
Oratory nowhere flourishes as it does on the east side, and that is how the dealer in speeches thrives at his trade. He has a little shop in Grand street, which bears the sign, "Speeches of all kinds sold and taught. Banquets, wedding, christenings, debates, all occasions."

The seller of speeches is a wizened little old man who has for years conducted a profitable trade. He observed early in life that the east side liked to talk, and frequently had nothing to say. He immediately took steps to supply the demand. He is not a finished English scholar himself, but he speedily found reasons of education for a comparatively small sum, were anxious and willing to help the residents of Grand and Essex streets, and of Poverty Hollow, to find expression for their thoughts. Sometimes they had no thoughts, yet he was able to supply every deficiency.

He extended his market to politics, and many a district leader of the eastern part of the city is able to deliver orations which his admirers regard as inspired flights worthy of Cicero and Demosthenes. Frequently the speaker has nothing of "Demosthenes" but his stutler or nothing of Cicero but his warts, but the east side, in matters of eloquence, is not critical, provided the sound of speech is continuous and loud.

At weddings the fond father of the bride or some other person thinks it necessary to make a speech. He buys a suitable package of oratory, as he would buy cheese or sausage, and under the instruction of the dealer, he speaks it until he is able to retain it with passable fluency. The felicitous addresses for the christening or for the silver wedding feast can both be found at the Grand street dealer's in great abundance.

If the election capital feels that at a meeting of the local political club he should have a few words of denunciation for his rival, he carefully memorizes a choice creed.

It is at the meetings of the literary societies, which flourish on the east side, that the demand for ready-made oratory is often frequent. With a given subject in mind, the aspirant for forensic fame can get a supply of material which would be space filling and satisfying. He can then devote his full attention to the more important part of east side oratory—sound.

The Decline of Sunday Schools.

One of the most startling phenomena of the time is the great decrease in the number of children attending Sunday schools. A safe estimate shows a falling off of 32,000 scholars in one year. The shrinkage is not marked in one body more than in another. The Church of England equally with the other Protestant churches has to lament a loss, and the loss is greater in reality than the mere numbers show, for the population naturally increases every year and the increase ought to contribute to the growth of the Sunday school. That it fails to do so suggests an inquiry probably of greater moment than many social questions that make much noise in the world. Why should the Sunday schools have ceased to attract? The most obvious answer is that the days of what was practically compulsory attendance are over. That means, of course, that the churches are losing some of their moral hold upon the parents. The inference seems to agree with the facts. In ceasing to be dogmatic and to wield pains and penalties, social and eternal, the churches have laid aside one weapon without attempting to replace it by another.

PROSPECTUS OF THE PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY (LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000 IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

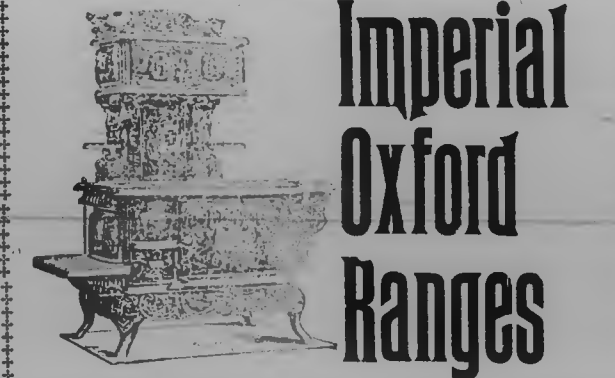

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review Office.

SERVIA LOOKS FOR HEIR TO ITS THRONE

All Servians Feel Proud That an Heir to the Throne of the Little Kingdom is Assured

Belgrade, Servia, May 10.—The news that Professor Spegref and Goubereff, two of the most eminent of Russian archeologists, are making their way to Belgrade with all speed from Moscow raises interest in Queen Draga's hopes to a high pitch. Her Majesty, whom Alexander, in defiance of his late father's wishes, married from among his subjects, is far more popular than in her consort, and so high is the estimate placed on her qualities of mind and character that the Servian people will be well pleased to know that a son of hers is born heir to the crown.

Whether the child expected at the palace be a boy or girl, Servians feel assured that this marriage of their King bids fair to yield them a better government in the long run. In the event of Alexander's death without an heir Queen Draga, by the terms of the Constitution, will become Regent. Even if her rule were overturned it would be in favor of the Kara-georgievich pretender, and his government would be strong and popular.

PETERBOROUGH COM- MON WEAL SOCIETY

An Institution to be Organized for Elevating Public Morals.

THE OBJECT OF THE SOCIETY

To Make Men Sober and Free from Many of the Modern Vices. No Member to Drink Liquor in the Town or Neighboring Village During Certain Hours.

This is an age of progress undoubtedly. New ideas are being brought to the fore almost daily, showing that the human mind is active. There are societies for the prevention of vice, associations and clubs for the furtherance of the principles of temperance and total abstinence; for the promotion and spread of religion, and for the circulation of good literature. These are objects worthy of the support of all good citizens. But this proposed "Peterborough Common Weal Society" is an institution different from all the others, as the sequel will show.

The following circular has been issued and mailed to many of our prominent citizens. It is signed by Rev. Dr. Symonds, (convenor), and Messrs. R. M. Dennison and E. H. D. Hall, (committees).

The Peterborough Common Weal Society is an organization of citizens of Peterborough and Ashburnham for the purpose of forming and sustaining a high level of public citizenship.

It is a organized fact that the trust and best citizenship rests upon a moral basis, and that in its promotion none of us stands or falls to himself only, but all are linked together by certain common ties as citizens of one community.

The reputation of any community is founded on the basis of its average goodness or badness, and for the estimate of this average the life of every citizen counts.

THREE DEATHS CAUSED IN THE OTTAWA FIRE.

Terrible Tragedy in the Capital City at Midnight Wednesday.

Ottawa, May 9.—Ottawa was visited again last night by a very disastrous fire. Three men are dead, and many are in the hospital suffering from their injuries. The dead are: (1) Geo. Maxwell, 42 years of age, Point Levis, Que.; (2) Leblanc, 30 years old, St. Joseph's Village; and (3) John, 38 years old, 88 years old, St. Joseph's Village. All were boarders in the house of Mrs. P. Leblanc, 25 Clarence street, and were trapped in a top story room. Mr. Maxwell, son of the man Maxwell who was fatally burned, was arrested hurried to death himself in an endeavor to rescue his father. He had no hands, arms and feet badly hurt.

Many wept without clothing, several women jumping from a second story window in their frantic efforts to escape from the flames. One old lady, 82 years of age, with her grandchild, jumped from a second story window to the sidewalk. The young woman injured her ankle, and the old lady was badly shaken up. She may die. The damage done consists of the entire ruin of almost a whole block of wooden houses. In all it will amount to about $30,000.

Young Maxwell, who was awakened by his father, is a graphic story. He was shaken by his father, and told to get up that the house was on fire. He jumped and rushed down stairs to the street without clothing, but found that his father had not followed him. He went back into the thick of the fire and smoke to try and rescue his father, but flames had cut off the room from all outside communication, and his father was doomed. Young Leblanc tells a similar story.

The following are reported injured: Simon Broudeaur, whiskers burned off, chest burned, right shoulder and thigh injured. E. Lampron, left ankle sprained and right foot badly crushed. Alf. Delvin, spine slightly injured. Amdees Tergoon, left foot badly burned, also suffered from severe intoxication. Clifford Lampron, left leg badly crushed. Pene Maxwell had the toes on his left foot seriously wounded.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT EVIDENCE at the inquest will show that there was no negligence on the part of the fire department. It was a case of a death trap. When the firemen arrived on the scene they were without life nets, and it might have been possible to have saved from injury some of the inmates who jumped and were injured. The fire was in one of the most thickly populated parts of the city and the houses were principally frame structures.

JOHN C. ROBINSON PRESENTED.

Mr. F. L. Robinson, V. S., was presented on Wednesday evening by a number of his personal friends, with a handsome chair. The occasion was the approaching marriage of Mr. Robinson, who replied to the address in feeling terms.

FATHER DID LITTLE TO SAVE CHILDREN

Startling Particulars About Fire Near Parry Sound.

"LET THEM BURN," SAID PARTON

Damaging Evidence Given at the Coroner's Inquest—Said Outside and Watched the Fire.

Parry Sound, May 9.—Additional details regarding the shocking tragedy at Hurdville are coming in. It now appears that a great mass of evidence against the accused has been collected and placed in readiness for presentation at the Assizes here next Monday, before which Parton will appear if committed for trial by Police Magistrate Farrer. The prisoner, apparently, is a man of many eccentricities and cruel disposition, taking a livelier interest in world's belongings than he does in a happy home. "Yes, all my clothes and my dollars are burnt," was all he could find inclination to say when the fire had all died away, the bodies of his children still being in the ashes.

Parton left the house as soon as it was discovered to be in flames, and after gazing at it apathetically for some time took his departure for a nearby farm. He did not return to the homestead nor yet did he attend the inquest. The Parton family have been resident in McKellar township, thirteen miles north of here, for twenty years past. Mrs. Parton was a Miss Martha Wallace of Parry Sound. It is widely believed that the prisoner was in receipt of regular remittances from relatives in Chicago, England and elsewhere. It is true that he was never a man to indulge in the exchange of confidences.

THE MOTHER'S EVIDENCE.

Some light on his treatment of his family were given at the inquest. The mother, after telling of her own and her husband's escape, continued: "I saw him standing outside looking towards the fire. I think he was further than I was from the building. My husband did very little. He was beside us when Jim and I tried to put the ladder against the building. He had escaped from the fire. As soon as we put the ladder against the building to help the girls out it began to burn. The floors fell in before I could climb. I could not tell or distinguish them. My husband remained nearly as long as I did. I never heard him say anything about the fire. He did not know where he went. I saw him last at Ed Hurd's and have not seen him since. I never heard him make use of suspicious language about the children. I have heard him say a great many things, but in my heart I did not believe that he meant it."

In his account, the boy James says he was awakened by the fire burning the bed in the room he occupied. He got up, looked out the window and saw the flames. He then jumped out of the window and then jumped out himself. Then he met his mother, who said his father was in bed. When the flames were ended he went up, but the ladder stopped him. He went to the window. "Father," the boy continued, "did not help fix the ladder. I tried to keep the fire from the barn and outbuildings. Father stood outside the barn and threw water on the bodies of the children in order to preserve their identity, when the father came along and said: 'Don't do that, let them burn.' Later in the morning I saw the bodies of the children on the road to Parry Sound and inquired what provision was going to be made for burial. They received in reply absolute prohibition of any effort to arrange for a coffin for anything else but to bury them. Parton saying an old boy was good enough and he would not pay for a coffin. However, the family took care of the remains and they were all buried in one coffin."

VENEZUELA IS BUYING GUNS

Armament is Regarded as a Pretext, Against Colombian Emancipation.

Washington, May 10.—The reports from Germany concerning Venezuela's application to Kurrup for the purchase of large supplies of arms and ammunition are not believed to have any sinister significance as applying to the United States or to the recent friction between this country and Venezuela. It is explained that Venezuela is chiefly apprehensive of her neighbors, particularly Colombia. Recently Colombia purchased an armoured yacht, and if Venezuela is now looking for cruisers and armaments in Germany it is the view of these well informed on the situation that it is a move toward preparing for any emergency arising out of the revolutionary conditions south of the isthmus.

DOVER VS. DENNE

Decision at Toronto in Favor of the Defeated.

The well known out of Dover against Denne, it will be remembered, was decided by Judge Weller about six weeks ago in favor of the defendant. An appeal against this decision was carried to Toronto and yesterday decision was given again in favor of Mr. Denne, dismissing the appeal with costs. This, in all probability, is a final settlement of the case. Hall & Halsey and Mr. Watson were counsel for Mr. Denne, and E. B. Edwards, K.C., for Mrs. Dover.

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK.

Desires Here and There by a Man Without Occupation.

In the spring the young man's fancy should turn to internal things, and if he thinks this thing is needed, Go and get a pack of pipes.

For what is love but perfect health, For which we thank the Giver, And purest love is greatest wealth. —Investigate your liver!

For what is a liver out of which, And what is love grown cold? One cries to "bring my money back!" But health's no "tough" with gold!

"This," says a bright contributor to this great family journal, "is a true poetic proposition which you will find nowhere. It will fit Peterborough, it will fit Bureigh—it will fit South Africa. I indulge in poetry because Poetry, the kind of Poetry which I write and which is the Real Kind, appeals at once to the Soul or the Liver—or anything that is out of gear. During the years of my scientific research in New and Old Worlds, I never did believe in hatching 'eggs' to a day and driving him up till a heavy load until his Tongue Stuck Out. But when I have a velvety sentiment to express, I would rather use Poetry than the coarse and profane lines of prose."

And B. Contributor left, stating he was going to submit a new plan for a Spring-Style hat for Mrs. Orris Nation in the Kathuphup procession on Victoria Day.

Let's see. I am now discussing the Bore in all his Infinite Variety. I believe.

The man who comes out flat-footed and speaks against a woman's character is no bore. He hasn't time to bore anybody if he happens to be in the company of just one Real Man. He will see more great Dippers, Milky Ways, evening Stars, and long-lived Comets inside of three seconds than could be crowded into the heaven of one of its lustiest nights.

There is only one way to treat a man who speaks slightly of a woman's character. That way is to lay him out with Promptitude and Dispatch. Tar and feathers would answer the purpose very well, but they aren't always handy. The first we have available for this man is no bore, but a Bloodguard, impure and far from Simple. But there are men, I regret to say, who like to let on that they are away up in it with the ladies without saying anything derogatory of them. You'd think, to hear them tell it, that their Desirability was considered to be the most Desirable Thing this side the River Jordan. They'd make you believe that every woman of their acquaintance was all ready to give up a million-dollar home and follow them barefooted Around the World, and be tickled to death to do it.

The man who talks of women, or of any one woman to another woman, is Doing himself up good and hard, and trying Redemption. This is when he begins to be the Greatest Bore on the footstool.

I got this from several women whom I questioned on the Subject, and I put it down as Straight Goods. If a man is going to Remember there is another woman on earth except the One he is talking to, he is going to Dig his own Grave so far as she is concerned.

And I can understand that too. What does Mary Jane Jones care about Susan Ella Thompson? She doesn't want to be told that Susan is a Lovely Girl and has Fine Eyes the Best teeth on record. I know a man who, whenever he takes a woman to the theatre, goes to rubber-necking to see if he can discover any other women he knows. To Point Out to the one to whom he is doing escort duty. When he finds somebody like that, he is tickled to pieces and begins dragging her into the conversation and telling her Post flattery from the cradle up along.

As a result that man finds his circle of women friends getting smaller and smaller, for they are sick of going out with him and listening to his prattle about people in whom they feel no interest whatever. Besides, women are not dead snorks on listening to some jockey of a man pouring into their ears the most Delightful Compliments—so somebody else.

I am told no, anyway, and I don't wonder at it. Women, as a rule, are very Polite, and too Kind-Hearted to appear disgusted when a man bores them in this way. A man should know better. He should learn to be an Artful Dodger where the ladies are concerned, and assume an Absorbing Interest in Her society, if he has it not. From a woman's standpoint, the man who tells her of his conquests or of his experiences with other women, and compliments the Absent one and leaves his though present company were not All there was in the world, is a Bore of the most pronounced and tedious type. He will never be popular with any member of the Fair sex, no matter if he turns himself wrong side out, so long as the other woman gets the Attention and the Praise and the Compliments, and she has to furnish the cars.

Some men haven't sense enough to go in Out of the Wet. A woman might Squire nicely and Yawn audibly and they'd never dream that they were anything but vastly Entertaining. There are many kinds of the genus Bore, but this is the kind that a woman never forgets. And I'll be damned if I blame her, either.

Recovered $2,000 Damages.

Detroit, Mich. May 9.—Miss Christine McIntosh, a Kincardine girl, has been given a verdict against W. J. Brown, a wealthy vessel owner, in the sum of $2,000 for slander. According to the testimony taken before the jury at Judge Fraser's court yesterday afternoon, Miss McIntosh took passage last summer on the steamer Pittsburg, from Windsor to Kincardine to visit her mother, and while the vessel was lying at Goderich, Brown, the owner, made some accusations against her in the presence of witnesses, stating that she had not been behaving properly while on the boat. Miss McIntosh brought suit for $2,000 damages. Neither defendant nor his attorney were represented at the trial, and the jury in a few moments brought in a verdict in Miss McIntosh's favor.

Two Vessels in Collision.

Detroit, May 9.—The propeller E. W. Ogilby and Jupiter collided last night at the Grosse Pointe cut. The accident was caused by the fact that the Jupiter steam boat did not work properly, causing her to steer into the Ogilby. She struck her on the starboard side and a great deal of damage was done to the other vessel. The Ogilby's forward water-tight compartment was badly crushed, and such an extent that from a small boat near her the interior of the compartment could be seen. It was required several days' patching and the outlay of several thousand dollars to put her in shape again.

AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT OPENED

Impressive Ceremony in Which the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall Took Part at Melbourne.

Lengthy Address Made by The Heir Apparent.—British Precedents Followed Closely.—Black Rod Figured as in England.—The Text of the Speech.

Melbourne, Australia, May 9.—The new Australian confederation of states was formally inaugurated to-day when the first Parliament of the Antipodes was opened by the Duke of Cornwall under happy auspices. Another important step in the federation of the empire is thus marked, for its two most powerful outlying parts—Australia and Canada—have now been converted from chains of disconnected states into powerful and united dominions, the one with a population verging upon four millions, and the other with a populace numbering considerably over five millions. Australia, though somewhat tardily, has followed in the footsteps of her sister, Canada, and the British chain stretching from London to Ottawa, to Melbourne, to Cape Town and Cape Town back to London, has become stronger than ever by the addition of these links under the southern cross.

The opening was a most impressive ceremony. The capacity of the Exhibition building, the scene of the ceremony, is 12,000 persons, and the available space was taxed to the utmost. The decorations consisted of regimental standards, trophies of arms and floral festoons.

The doors were opened to the ticket-holders at 9 o'clock this morning, and by 11 o'clock the auditorium was filled except the Royal Box. This was located beneath the great dome. It held a single row of chairs, the largest in the centre being surmounted by a small gold imperial crown. The whole was overhung with the royal standard. In front of the royal chair was a small table, on which was a telegraph key, by which the Duke of Cornwall and York was to flash the opening signal throughout the commonwealth when the Union Jack was to be simultaneously raised in every settlement of the Federation.

The majority of the audience was composed of ladies, mostly clad in mauve-colored costumes. A brilliant scattered group of army and navy uniforms gave color to the scene. A great orchestra enlivened the anti-meridian hour with operatic airs.

The formal proceedings were begun at 11:51 a.m. with the reading of the proclamation summoning the Senate and representatives. Noon was signified by a fanfare of trumpets from the military bands outside.

The royal party then entered and was conducted to the dais, the orchestra playing the National Anthem. The Duke, who wore an admiral's uniform with the ribbon of the Order of the Garter, through Black Rod, summoned the two Houses in accordance with the strict formula of the British Parliament and the members filed in. The hundred psalm was sung, with all present standing, and the Earl of Hopetoun read a paper, after which the Duke of Cornwall and York made a lengthy address and declared Parliament open.

The Duke of Cornwall and York, in his opening address made reference to the wishes of the late Queen, who before her death signed his commission to open Parliament. He paid a tribute to the generous aid rendered by the colonies in the South African war, the splendid bravery of the troops, and the services of the squadron in China, and expressed the interest taken by King Edward VII. in the Australian people. It was his earnest prayer that the union, so happily achieved, would prove an instrument for the further advancing of the welfare of the Australian subjects of the King, and the consolidation of the Empire. Then the Duke read the following telegram from King Edward VII.:

"My thoughts are with you on this august occasion. I wish the Commonwealth of Australia every happiness and prosperity."

HERO'S PORTRAIT WAS UNVEILED.

Likeness of Late Sgt.-Major MacGregor Seen Light Yesterday.

KILLED IN SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

Large Gathering Assembled Yesterday Afternoon in Gladstone Avenue School to See Hero to the Decadent.

Toronto, May 9.—At Gladstone avenue school this afternoon pupils and friends, together with many men prominent in Military, political and educational circles, assembled in the school yard to witness the unveiling of a portrait of the late Sgt.-Major Duncan J. MacGregor, late of Howard's Scouts, who was killed at Eerstefels, South Africa, on January 29, 1901. Young MacGregor was for many years a pupil of Gladstone avenue school. He served through the campaign with "C" Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, and when the troop was disbanded he joined Howard's Scouts. When the news of his death reached Toronto, Principal Muir, of the Gladstone school, conceived the idea of placing a portrait of the gallant boy in the school, but to perpetuate his memory and to act as an incentive to future pupils of the school in their efforts to maintain the unity and integrity of the Empire. Edwin A. Crossman, the artist, was commissioned to execute the work, and when the covering was removed by the Minister of Education an excellent likeness of the gallant scout was revealed. It is done in water-colors, and represents him in uniform just before leaving Halifax for the front. The frame measures four and one-half feet by three feet, while the figure is 35 inches in length. During the course of the afternoon, a class of pupils of whom Mr. Muir is justly proud, sang the "Majesty Leaf Forever," "The Battle of Paardeberg," "Rule Britannia," and "Soldiers of the King," the first two being from the pen of Mr. Muir himself. Invitations were extended to many of Canada's prominent men, and while many were able to accept, the great majority were unable to attend owing to the pressure of business. Letters of regret were read from His Excellency the Governor-General, the Lieut.-Governor, Col. Otter, Dr. Borden, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. J. M. Gibbon, Prof. Clark, Principal Parkin and Capt. A. H. Macdonell. Among the many present were: The Minister of Education, the Mayor and City Council, Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Thos. Crawford, representatives of the Army and Navy Veterans of '80 and Capt. Barker.

HAVE LEARNED THE TRICK

A decline of ten millions in the value of United States manufactured exports for the month of March, as compared with the same month one year ago, indicates that the foreign customers, who are in a sense also foreign competitors, are learning that high tariff protection is a game that two can play at.

Because they must, the European manufacturing countries have learned the Yankee trick of preserving their home markets. The ten-million drop in the March exports probably marks but the first putting up of the bars.

The war against American products has not become universal in European countries, but the hostile feeling is certainly extending. France and Germany have been excluding Uncle Sam's meat products for some time, and both are disposed to extend their restrictive legislation to other products.

Russia, has resented their countervailing duties on sugar, and Austria is disposed to put obstacles in the way of American products. The competition of American iron and steel with those of Great Britain has alarmed the British producers, who will in self defense use the most effective weapons within reach to overcome this competition.

The significance of the March drop in American exports lies in its revelation that foreign alarm at the growth of America's export trade is being followed by effective defensive measures, and American manufacturers may as well face the unwelcome fact that as far as for time they must eventually, that foreign trade on any extensive scale must be a give-and-take affair.

If the Yankees persist in their Chinese wall tariff policy they must prepare themselves to encounter sufficiently tariff restrictions everywhere.

RESULTS OF BANK AMALGAMATION

The Canadian Bank of Commerce
Completes the Purchase of the Assets of the Bank
of British Columbia.

The Bank's Capital Now Eight Millions
Dollars and Assets Over Sixty-
three Millions.

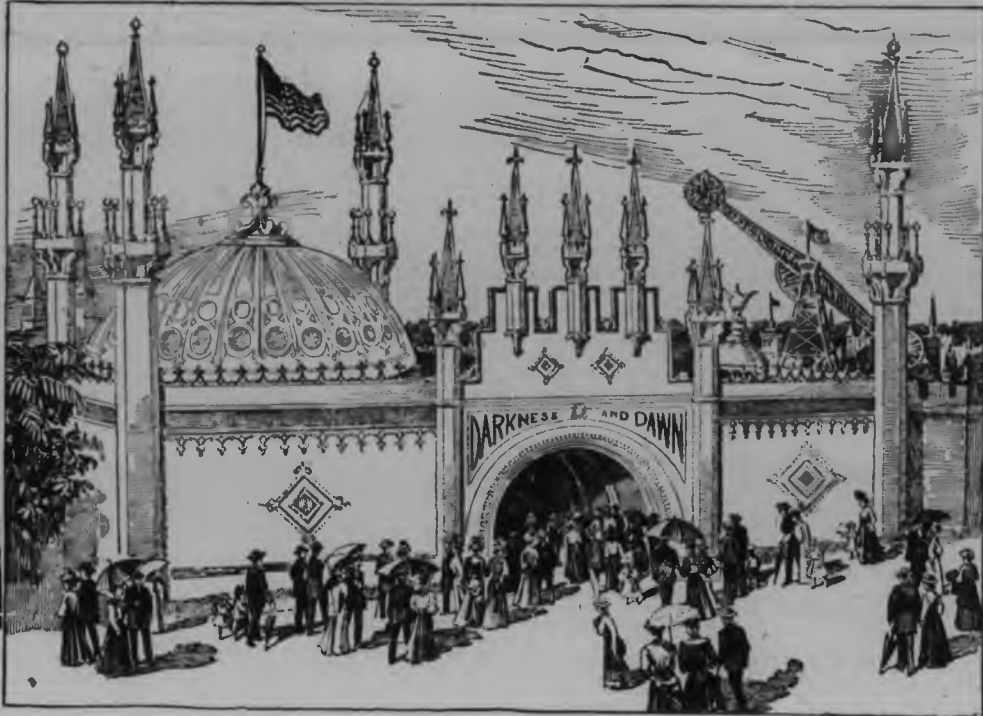

The negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the Bank of British Columbia by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, an announcement respecting which was made some months ago, have been carried to a successful conclusion. A thorough examination of the affairs of the Bank of British Columbia was made by the officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and this proving entirely satisfactory, the amalgamation was finally completed. A statement of the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce after the amalgamation, has now been issued, and discloses a very strong position. In point of capital and reserve the Bank now ranks fourth among banking institutions in the continent of America. It has 62 branches throughout Canada; five branches in the United States, namely, at New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland (Oregon), Skagway (Alaska), and one in London, England; its establishments in all. The acquisition of the London office is an important step in the progress of the Bank. The bank's transactions in sterling exchange in the United States and Canada each year amount to many millions of pounds, and the ability to handle this business through the Bank's own London office will result in an important addition to the earning power of the Bank. In many other directions also the increase of the two banks will be immediately benefited by the amalgamation.

The following is a condensation of the closing business on the 31st March:

A NEW STORE AT THE OLD STAND

Kennedy's Maat Market Will be Re-Opened To-Morrow.

Up-to-date Equipment Throughout—Electric Fans and Other Modern Devices Now on Hand.

Owing to the constant extension of his five stock business, Mr. H. P. Kennedy found it necessary to improve his office facilities, and decided to take advantage of the occasion to completely renovate and refit his whole establishment. A few weeks ago he secured temporary premises across the street, and since then carpenters, painters, electricians, metal workers, and others have been busily engaged in transforming the establishment. The opening of the new premises will take place to-morrow. As a souvenir of the opening Mr. Kennedy has procured some hundreds of very handsome pictures, including the favorite "Yawling Boy" and "Mamma's Boy." These are copies of famous paintings and are particularly handsome and attractive. One of these will be presented with Mr. Kennedy's complimentary to all regular customers, and to all patrons who make purchases of meat to the extent of 50 cents and over. An early call at the store is suggested in order to ensure getting the picture before the supply runs out.

The renovating has been done in most thorough fashion from floor to ceiling. The new floor is of solid hardwood. The tastefully lined walls and ceiling are attractive to the eye. Along the south side of the store runs the counter, from the front to the refrigerator in the rear, and with the chopping block in the center. Over the counter are two electric fans, which will keep pure air in circulation and drive away flies in the summer. Besides being agreeable to customers on hot days, the north side of the section is partitioned off to form offices. The partitions are nicely finished and add to the stylish and business-like appearance of the establishment. Facing the street is Mr. Kennedy's private office. Immediately behind this is the cashier's office for the retail department, and opening on the market is a well-equipped apartment for the live stock business. There are three entrances to the store—the front on George street entrance, the rear entrance, connecting with the market, and a third door opens on the Arcade and thence either way, to the market or to George street.

The establishment is in every way extremely convenient, and in this respect as well as in the success of his business Mr. Kennedy gives evidence of sound judgment as well as progressive ideas. It is now five years since Mr. Kennedy began business at the present stand. His Easter opening on that occasion will be remembered by many as a very successful affair. His business has since enjoyed uninterrupted prosperity and growth. To-day he will doubtless greet many whom he has regularly supplied during the whole of that period. New as well as old customers will be given a cordial welcome.

BROADENING THEIR FIELD.

Through the generosity of Senator Cox, a building on George street has been placed at the disposal of the Y.W.C.A., free of rent for one year. This is the outcome of a largely attended meeting, held in the parlors of Mrs. A. L. Davis a short time ago, during Miss Carson's stay in town, when the question of increased accommodation came up for discussion. The rooms will be properly furnished and equipped and will consist of reading room, gymnasium, parlors, etc. An efficient and capable person will have to be placed in charge, and the Board are planning to secure the services of a trained secretary from New York City to undertake the management of the work. The Board hope to open these new rooms on September first next.

THE VICTORIA MUSEUM.

Many Additional Pre-arrangements Have Been Made.

The Museum Committee of the Historical Society, met at the Victoria Museum to inspect the improvements and repairs now being carried out by order of Mr. Richard Hall. The brickwork in front has been repaired, and will be tuck-pointed. The roof, eaves and piping have been renewed, and the exterior wood work is to receive a fresh coat of paint. It is the intention to brighten up the lower rooms and hall by removing the old paper and wallpapering the walls and ceiling. The drop-boards are to be repaired and fitted with new grates. The caretaker's apartments have already been improved and made more comfortable.

The committee feel very grateful to Mr. Hall for his kind and efficient assistance in a work of public benefit. The work is being done in a first class manner under the direction of Mr. Thomas, which is a large and comprehensive and is constantly being added to. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nesbitt, of Florida, who presented the most beautiful and valuable collection of Florida birds, two years ago, are supplementing their gift by another collection which will arrive in a few days. Mrs. T. G. Hazlett has kindly deposited two large and handsome cases containing birds, which have been very much admired, also some war trophies from the Sudan.

Mr. Norman Bell has deposited his collection of birds and mammals, which is said by authorities on the subject of Egyptian antiquities, to be one of the best collections in existence in Ontario. Mr. Bell has also presented specimens of reptiles preserved in spirits, and several other articles. Col. Greenwood and Mr. Alf. Brown, of Strathcona House, have presented a collection of South African battlefields, and several other returned soldiers have promised to contribute articles now belonging to the library. The ladies of the Society under the direction of Mrs. Hurlburt, will fit up a room in the museum with antique furniture, part of which is already collected.

The committee find themselves handicapped for want of funds to purchase additional cases and fixtures, and will wait on the Town and County Councils with a view to procuring assistance. Owing to the improvements and repairs now being done to the building, the Museum will not be opened until a later date, of which due notice will be given, but the caretaker will allow small parties to inspect the rooms by applying at the residence.

EMPRESS MAY STOP TRADE.

Chinese Open Door Is Only Stayed by Action of Court.

Washington, May 10.—It has developed that the movement for the extensive opening of China to foreign trade and commerce has the active approval not only of the United States and several other leading powers, but also of Chinese officials. About the only doubt as to the formal position of China is that caused by the empress dowager's recent creation of a council of state.

How far this council will have authority to check the action of the more plenipotentiaries is not yet clear, but the negotiations are proceeding with the prospect of uniting the various principles of the open door policy with the support of the present plan. The attitude of Russia also is the source of some solicitude, although the negotiations are being so framed as to obviate any objection which Russia might raise if the opening of commerce was to apply principally to Manchuria.

THE APSLEY RAILWAY.

The friends of the Norfolk and Apsley Railway are becoming very anxious on account of the Ottawa Government's action. It is evident that no grant is to be made, at least this session, and the outlook is therefore, we regret to say, not as bright as it might be.

Yesterday the Times had a call from Mr. S. W. Wainwright, of Apsley. He says the people in the back country are intensely in earnest in regard to the railway. They are disappointed that there is no grant at all, and they are now all for the project now fall through.

Mr. Laing, the member for East Peterborough, has a duty to perform in regard to that matter, and the effect of forcing the Government to recognize the claims of this district. If a grant is not forthcoming, he should at once tender his resignation as a member against the policy of the Government with regard to this much-needed railway.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc. being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review Office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. THE ADVENTURES OF PETERBOROUGH BEN

In the Wilds of South Africa Related by Himself

WHAT BEN THINKS OF THE WAR

Ben Continues His Narrative of His Experiences as a Member of the Strathcona-Some Remarkable Incidents.

On Saturday last our readers were treated to the opening chapter of the adventures of Peterborough Ben. In South Africa, supposed to be related by himself. We now publish a continuation of the dog's narrative.

"My sleep was deep, long and refreshing, my quarters were all that could be desired, the same being in the ship's longboat, almost amidsips, with no one to dispute my right to the berth. Early as I awoke, there were signs of life aboard in plenty. My very best friend, Alf, Brown, had a genuine surprise in store for me, consisting of a brand new collar, on which was engraved the following:

Touch me not but let me jog
For I am Lord Strathcona's dog.

—Peterborough Ben.

My new decoration seemed to add new life. I gambled about the deck and in every way possible expressed my thanks to Alf, and was on good terms with myself and all on board. One of the sailors managed to muster up enough courage to approach me. Finding me rather more friendly than my appearance warranted, he stooped to examine my collar. Slowly he read the inscription, looked me all over, then expressed thusly: "Well, I'm blown!"

Alf, who I had heard the doggerel, greeted Alf's I ever heard of!

Alf dog! Well, I was blown!"

These remarks were ambiguous enough to set me thinking whether or not a compliment was intended for me or for the dog in general.

"We had not proceeded far on our voyage, when some of the gallant Strathconas began to act in what appeared to me to be a strange manner. Pup would go a hand to a mouth, and in a half crouching way a man would make a dive for the ship's rail. Alf noticed that I was somewhat interested in the operations. He informed me that the men were paying tribute to Neptune. It struck me very forcibly that if Neptune had no better stomach than the payers of tribute, he would hardly relish the kind of currency in circulation. Alf remarked to one of the men: "My friend, your stomach is a little weak this morning?"

"I don't know about that," replied the trooper, between disgorged mouthfuls, "I seem to be throwing it about as far as the best of them."

Very soon we got our sea legs under us and were able to take part in the sports and amusements, a favorite pastime being pitching quoits. Now quoits on shipboard are made of pieces of ropes ends in the shape of a ring. It fell to my lot to run and secure such of the quoits as got out of range. This was too much like work, as many of the troopers imagined they were putting the shot or throwing the shoulder stone. I managed to keep the quoit manufacturer pretty busy by carrying most of the stray quoits to my den in the long boat, so before long enough could not be found to carry on the game. Then a general search was made. My den did not escape, and enough quoits were found there, as one of the sailors put it, to make sufficient oakum to caulk the Great Eastern. I got along very well with both troopers and sailors and had many new friends before reaching the far-away coast of South Africa.

Here the "devil" ventured to enquire if Ben had been seasick. "No," replied Ben, "you see I had the best berth on board, and I give you this valuable piece of advice free: should you ever take a sea voyage, secure if possible a berth amidsips."

"Well, our long voyage was over and we landed well pleased to attain find ourselves on solid earth. There were crowds and crowds of soldiers and horses and mules."

"You must have had a lot of trouble keeping in touch with your own regiment remarked the "devil."

"Well, no," replied Ben, "not quite so much trouble as the 14th Light Horse had in keeping clear of the Strathconas. You see our boys had peculiar notions with regard to the ownership of anything portable in the shape of refreshments, so our camping ground was never disputed by any other regiment. They preferred us, it seemed to me, as long-range neighbors."

"Was grub scarce at any time?" asked the "devil" in some anxiety.

"Well," said Ben, "I could believe more than on one occasion have found accommodation for more than our scanty larger afforded."

"Say, Ben, did you meet with any of that stuff called emergency ration?"

"That I did," replied Ben, "and I tell you for a fact I'm not struck on it either."

"What kind of grub is it anyway?" asked the "devil."

"I can hardly do it justice in describing it," was Ben's answer, "but if you can imagine something of a cross between cut straw and split peas, of the consistency of the material used as a top dressing on George street, after Jim English has fondled it with his steam roller, you have the emergency ration as near as I can describe it."

"Great Scott! how did you live on such stuff?" asked the "devil."

"I didn't live on it; I nearly starved on it! In less than a week I was as thin and disreputable looking as McAlister's wolfhound. However, I soon got initiated, and with an occasional stray chicken and such, I got into fair condition again, and, as Alf remarked, I was in the best of fettle and enjoying life immensely."

"One day when taking a stroll around camp I noticed a lot of holes in the sand. Thinking there had been an engagement at this place and that the holes had been made by the guns of the enemy, I questioned Alf. He smiled and said these are gophers' holes. Then I remembered how the Times' 'devil' had read to me about gophers and the fun I would have hunting them. Alf explained that the gophers had had reference to were an entirely different animal and sure enough before long a number of the 14th Light Horse could be seen approaching in the distance. These were the gophers coming to their sporting ground, not far from our camp. A scout-eyed lieutenant of the 14th Light Horse prepared to open the ball and taking up what he no doubt considered a striking attitude in the most literal sense of the word, made a drive at the ball and succeeded fairly well in filling ing the air with sand. Now the game was not new to me, as on many occasions I had before leaving Peterborough followed my old friend Mr. McHarrie to the links and when I got a good look at that squint-eyed officer and tried to draw some sort of a comparison, I could but exclaim in the words of the immortal Shakespeare: "On what a falling off is there!"

One day, I will remember, when McHarrie was feeling about his best, he drew up his fine, manly proportions, displaying his splendid physique to good advantage, pointing his chin in the air while his eagle eye swept the surrounding country. Any one might know he came from the land of the leather, so grand, so sublime, and at the same time so correct was the entire attitude. It has been said that great minds run in the same groove; be that as it may, it somehow happened, we were at that moment thinking alike, as you will see.

"Try it, Mack," I said, "I believe you can do it. I would like to, Ben, but for the probable serious result." "If the ball is lost I will find it," I assured him.

"Ah, Ben, it is not the loss of the ball that restrains me, there are probably a couple of hundred men working around the lift lock, and the dread of the fearful havoc that might possibly result makes me in the interest of humanity hold my hand."

"But to my story of the game in South Africa: Once in a while, it seemed almost by accident, the lieutenant would hit the ball, at other times he was digging the sand out of his eyes and other receptacles. Coming over to where Alf stood looking on, he remarked: "That dog looks as if he might be useful in the way of fetching stray balls."

Alf, only nodded, without saluting, and winking at me, said: "You see, Ben, you are down for promotion already."

Trying another drive, the officer succeeded in sending the ball to some distance, and looking in my direction calling out: "Fetch that ball! Fetch the ball, sir!"

"As this piece of instruction appeared to be lost upon me, he approached me in what appeared a rather hostile manner. When about a couple of paces away he halted, drew back his foot, it began to look serious, I glanced towards Alf for instructions. I had not long to wait. Alf, slowly opened his mouth and deliberately raised his hand with the index finger pointing to the interior. Then he shut his teeth together with a snap. That was good enough dog language for me. I dodged the well-meant kick, although it was a peer in account of the slight to know if he would kick the place he was looking at. The fact of him kicking at nothing upset his equilibrium, and in recovering he was in the best possible position for my attack, which I made promptly. Well the names of the personages and places that he made use of were such as might with propriety be mentioned by the chaplain, but would be entirely unfit for publication. Exercise on the emergency ration had made the muscles of my jaw everything that could be desired, and I did not spare the lieutenant. As soon as he had recovered a little, he said, as he pressed his hand to the injured portion of his anatomy: "I'll have that dog shot without a moment's delay!"

"Not on your life," said my friend Alf, "if there's going to be any shooting done, you will find that more than one can play the game. Come along, Ben. Alf says to me, and I followed him to our mess tent. But the trouble was not to be so easily settled. I learned that night that I was to be tried by a drum head court martial, and tried I was, but as the incidents leading up to it and the trial itself are of such importance, I must ask leave to tell it to you next Saturday."

—ACCIDENT AT MARMORA.

A terrible accident occurred at the Car-dova Gold Mines, near Havellock, yesterday, by which a lad named George Forbes lost both hands.

It appears from the meagre information obtainable, that the unfortunate man was preparing a stick of dynamite, for use, when in some way not yet disclosed, it exploded, shattering both hands in a frightful manner.

The wounds were dressed temporarily by a local physician, and the injured man brought to St. Joseph's Hospital, where both hands were amputated at the wrists.

The amputation was successfully performed at 6 o'clock, and the patient is now doing as well as can be expected.

Forbes is, we believe, a resident of the township, and is only 17 years of age.

MAGNIFICENCE OF THE BUFFALO FAIR

General Passenger Agent Bell on Pan-American Exposition.

ALADDIN'S LAMP IS OUTDONE.

He says the fair is a most fitting introduction to the marvels of the new century.

Mr. G. T. Bell, general passenger and ticket agent, and Mr. M. C. Dickson, district passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway system, returned to Toronto yesterday from Buffalo. He says the progress visible everywhere gives ample evidence of the ability and push behind the colossal enterprise. "A Buffalo gentleman well expressed the idea when he enquired of me yesterday, 'Can you credit that a year ago this work, pointing at the same time to the wonderful spectacle before us, had not even commenced?'"

"Do you think there will be any disappointment for those who visit the Exposition on May 20th, the day selected for the official dedication ceremonies?"

"Quite the reverse," Mr. Bell replied. "What has been accomplished is, the best prophecy of what will be; while the next two weeks will possibly not see the Exposition finished in all its departments, the grandeur, freshness and brightness of everything will more than compensate for any lack of completeness in some minor details. Why," said Mr. Bell with emphasis, "the two leading features, viz., the beautifully colored and highly ornamental structures by day and the brilliantly illuminated grounds, buildings and surroundings at night, cannot fail to impress the minds of the least imaginative, and excels the storied dreams of Oriental magnificence. It is said that all the inventions and creations of man's intellect must first originate in his imagination. The past few years have done much to prove that the fairy tale writers of our youth were the true prophets of their time; submarine and air navigation, wireless telegraphy, telephone, phonograph and electrical marvels of every description are forcing man to comprehend how mean an estimate he always places in his own inherent possibilities of development. Take one illustration of this thought, the nightly illumination of the Exhibition. We are apt to regard the Arabian Nights as merely a flight of prose into the realms of poetry, yet human fancy which produced 'Aladdin's Lamp,' only foretold the electric light of our present time. At the touch of a button palaces of surpassing grandeur and beauty spring by magic out of the darkness of night into the radiance of day. At another touch all is again night, the Genii controlling the marvellous transformation scenes all the time quietly presiding over the store houses of power more than twenty miles away at Niagara Falls."

"I advise every one within 250 miles of Buffalo who does not wish to miss ten years of extraordinary progress in an age of rapid evolution to decide to go to Buffalo early and often. The expense will not be great, as provision will be made to get passengers to the Exposition in the morning, and return them after the illumination at night. There is much to absorb in one or two visits. Toronto people should go at least once a month."

Mr. Bell expects to return to Montreal to-night.

Mr. Redmond Henry Talks of What He Saw in China

CRUELTY OF CHINESE BOXERS.

Terrible Scenes of Carnage, Rape and Debauchery Graphically Told Which Will Haunt Him Until His Dying Day

Mr. Redmond Henry, brother of our esteemed fellow-townsmen, Mr. Myles Henry, has some thrilling adventures to relate of his experiences in China. Mr. Henry was attached to the American forces that went to China from the Philippine Islands, and they were amongst the first to enter the Chinese capital.

Mr. Henry is taking a well-deserved rest, and in a talk with the Times yesterday told many things about the conditions in China which confirmed the worst reports that have been sent out by the press agents. Mr. Henry was on hand when the allied troops commenced the historic march along the Peking valley to Peking. He was present at the capture of Tien Tsin and witnessed the horrible scenes of misery and bloodshed in the weeks of weary marching to the capital city.

At the capture of Tien Tsin the honor of first entering the city gates was won by the gallant little Japanese soldiers. Hordes of Boxers manned the walls of the city and poured a deadly shower of shot and shell into the ranks of the approaching troops.

The city gates were blown up with dynamite.

On the march up the Peking valley Tung Chow, sixty miles from Peking, was made the base of supplies and the march to the rescue of the besieged legations was made across country from this point.

Mr. Henry had nothing but praise for the British, American and the Japanese soldiers, but he spoke in the greatest abhorrence of the atrocities of the Prussian, German and French soldiers. Scenes of carnage, rape and debauchery were witnessed such as haunt the memories of those that saw them, and even to-day rack mind and nerve a system. Mr. Henry says the Russians were guilty of irreparable brutality and butchery, and the Germans and French were nearly as bad. The Russian was a good soldier so far as fighting qualities were concerned, but seemed to be utterly depraved.

The French soldiers were from the ranks of what is known as provincial soldiers and were not representative of the fighting stock of the nation.

The Germans seemed to be actuated by an infuriated hatred on account of the murder of Baron Von Kettler, and certainly obeyed what was said to be an imperial command to take no prisoners, but seek revenge. The dead German ambassador was certainly avenged.

After the fall of Peking the scenes of butchery and rape were continued

JOSEPH PARTON MAY GO FOR TRIAL

Remarks Dropped by Magistrate at Parry Sound
Friday Gives This Impression.

Papers soaked in Coal Oil Were Found in Ruins—The Accused Man Tells His Story to an Interviewer.—Proceedings Before the Magistrate Friday Morning.

Parry Sound, Ont., May 10.—The proceedings before the magistrate in the Parton murder case was resumed this morning. Chief Constable Williams' evidence was to the effect that Parton on the morning after the fire in telling of the affair said that he and his wife had to crawl out of the building on their hands and knees to effect their escape from the burning building. This corroborates the evidence of another witness as to Parton's story, but is not in accordance with the actual facts of the case established by the accounts of the surviving members of the family on the scene.

Later, Parton, when officially notified by Williams that there would be an inquest, said they could make nothing of it.

At the conclusion of the constable's evidence, the Crown Attorney announced that he had a material witness who was indisposed, and at his home in the country, and could not then appear.

Mr. Lowell pressed to close the proceedings on the ground that as the witnesses were to be held here next Monday, it was necessary in case of commitment to have the case ready. He asked, however, for a dismissal. The Crown Attorney stated that he had sent after his witness, and hoped to be able to produce him by 2 o'clock this afternoon. On this understanding the court adjourned till that time. From remarks dropped by the magistrate this morning it is now thought that the prisoner will be committed to stand trial on a charge of murder.

PARTON TELLS HIS STORY.

Parry Sound, May 10.—The investigation into the charge of murder against Joseph Parton was rather in the prisoner's favor. The only sensational evidence was that which referred to the finding of a charred oil-soaked file of papers found in the ruins of the fire. The theory of the Crown appears to be that this general habit of regarding his children as a burden led him to the extremity, when he was on the verge of moving to Parry Sound, of taking this means of wiping them out. This theory requires proof that Parton's cruelty to and hatred of his children had existed up to the time of the tragedy. In the witness box, however, the children declare this to have ceased when they grew up. The Crown has not the insurance leg to stand upon, as the premises were uninsured. On the other hand, they were no longer the old man's property, James and Alfred, two of the sons, having but recently bought the farm for $1,000.

THE PRISONER'S STORY.

When interviewed by a reporter yesterday the prisoner said: "Before God in heaven I am innocent. I say may God strike me down if I am not, I am innocent as an angel in heaven."

Continuing, he said he knew nothing of the cause of the fire, but thought at a spark might have fallen to the roof from the chimney. In describing his movements on the night of the fire Parton said: I went to bed at 11 o'clock, went to sleep, and never heard a sound until my wife awakened me, saying the house was on fire. I put on my trousers and went outside. I have been sick for three months with the grip and catarrh and was sick the night of the fire. The sight of the fire made me dizzy, and I could not stand up. I was too sick to do anything at rescuing my children. Do you suppose any sane man would set fire to his house and burn up his property, his clothes, his money and even his children? Do you suppose I would deliberately set fire to my house and burn my children? I would not think of such a thing."

DENIES THAT HE WAS CRUEL.

This explanation regarding the charges of cruelty to his children was as follows: "My boys used to go away and work in the lumber camps. They learned swearing and bad manners there, and when they came home I objected to the examples they set before the younger children. I was not brought up to that, you know; I was brought up well in England, and was a chemist before coming out here. It grated on me, and I corrected them for it, so they got angry with me. Then I could not stand any waste. You know where there are thirteen children you have to be very careful with the food."

His only violence towards his wife was, he said, an occasional word regarding waste, for which she would run to her parents, who lived across the river. My wife punished the smaller children when they needed it. I loved my children; I used to come to Parry Sound and buy apples, candies and nuts for them, and when they saw me coming they would run out to meet me. Do you suppose I would keep on buying these things for them if I did not love them?"

Parton said that after the fire he stood around a while, then feeling sick crawled into the hay mow but did not sleep. After daylight he drove to Parry Sound for medicine. He did not attend the funeral because he could not stand it. He had not attended a funeral since he came to Canada. If he was convicted of murder his prosecutors would have to answer for murder before the bar of heaven.

Mr. Henry is strongly of the opinion that the trouble has just commenced in China, and thinks the negotiations now in progress are merely a subterfuge to gain time to prepare for a general outbreak. The agitation against the foreign devil had spread all over the country.

"I have a nightmare now when I think of it," said Mr. Henry. "The sight of the Peking almost filled with dead bodies was frightful. The villages along the line of march were razed, and the panic stricken natives fled in thousands before the advancing lines. The old and infirm who could not flee for protection were bayoneted in cold blood by the ruthless bandits, and women violated in the most brutal manner."

One thing Mr. Henry was especially emphatic in repudiating was the charge made by an English correspondent that the Christian missionaries were largely responsible for the Boxer outbreak.

Mr. Henry said he made careful investigation and found nothing to support such a contention. He thinks the charge was made with a desire to gratify agnostic delight in assailing Christianity.

In Mr. Henry's opinion the cause of all the trouble arose from commercial and political reasons. The western innovations caused apprehension in the Chinese mind that his means of making a living were being destroyed. He looked with suspicion on the railway, the telegraph and manufacturing machinery and this with political intrigue, formed his root from which the trouble sprang. The missionaries had nothing to do with it but of course as the discontent increased, shared the general aversion to "foreign devils."

"Foreign devils," Mr. Henry expressed the opinion however, that missionary effort has received a serious check. The pillage and the brutal outrages on Chinese women have given the Chinese a hatred of Christianity that will last for many years.

Sir Robert Hart, who has lived in China for years, thinks it will take a century to eradicate the effects of the dastardly outrages.

"While," said Mr. Henry, "there was everything to make it necessary that the powers should interfere in China, there was absolutely nothing to justify the excesses indulged in by the soldiers of the countries mentioned."

As an instance of the awful barbarity Mr. Henry said that over one thousand non-combatant Chinese sought refuge in a compound, and without an order or justification of any kind, a band of Russian soldiers broke in and massacred every one of them. The soldiers who were uniformed in white came out looking as if they had dipped their clothing in the blood of the slain.

After the fall of Peking the scenes of butchery and rape were continued

BRITAIN DENOUNCED BY IRISH JOAN OF ARC

The Irish Female Agitator Makes a Speech Denouncing Britain in the United States.

Philadelphia, May 11.—Three thousand sympathizers with the cause of the Irish revolutionary party crowded the Academy of Music last night to hear Miss Maud Gonne, "Ireland's Joan of Arc," and Major John McBride, who fought with the Irish brigade in the Boer army. It was an audience that gave vent to wildest enthusiasm upon the appearance of the tall woman leader.

MAUD GONNE.

Ireland's opportunity, said Miss Gonne, was now. The Boer war had demonstrated to the world England's weakness. The Transvaal patriots had taught that courage counted for more than numbers. "Put away your idle dream of bloodless freedom by talk," she thundered, "there is no example in history of winning liberty from a tyrant nation, but by fighting for it. Ireland's hope is that you will do your part by giving all possible assistance to the Irish revolutionary army."

"We are in desperate need of help. England is steadily carrying on a campaign of oppression. Famines have always occurred through British economic laws. Ireland is poor only because England is robbing her. There is a studied effort to exterminate the Catholic population."

"I hate war and violence, but I pray for it, as the only thing that will bring deliverance and peace to Ireland. One year ago when the English forces in Ireland were reduced to 8,000 we lost an opportunity because unprepared. We cannot afford to lose another. For thirty years we have been waiting time on breath. England's difficulty is Ireland's opportunity. Our's will be a blood-struck in a righteous cause—the cause of humanity."

Major McBride told of the Irish brigade's services in the Boer war and the eagerness of all Irish loving people in the Transvaal and Orange Free State to resist British domination. Of a total of 1,000 men in the brigade the loss in action was fifty per cent.

ENGLAND DENOUNCED.
Resolutions were offered by P. C.

B. O'Donovan, and unanimously adopted, denouncing England for breach of treaties, unjustifiable and unbecoming campaigns against weaker nations, and denigrating and covetous attempts to monopolize the holdings of her people. The Boer war was called an act of spoliation, without justification, and sympathy was warmly expressed for the Boers still in the field, with hope for their ultimate success. The closing phrase was:

"We recommend to the people of Ireland the doctrine of revolution as the only means to attain that freedom for which each generation of the Irish race for centuries has sacrificed brave and generous hearts, and trust that, the present time being propitious, the warning shall have full force and credit."

Miss Gonne and Major McBride arrived from Saratoga at noon and were taken in charge by a committee of the Irish-American Club. They were driven through the Park in the afternoon. Following the meeting they were banqueted at the club. Miss Gonne will go next to Brooklyn, where her last address will be made. She will sail for home on May 16.

Prior to the meeting there was a street parade of Irish Volunteers, the Emmet Guard, Hibernian Rifles, the Sarsfield Rifles and a number of Irish societies, marshaled by Dr. William Curran.

house for it and I don't stand out on my stoop pelling for it, and shouting directions and calling off the Name of the Street. I live on like a trolley car conductor. I'd just as soon it would get lost as not. I haven't any use for it. I don't want to borrow it, or steal it, or own it. I discourage it, every chance I get. Nobody can say he ever saw me with my arms around it making much of it and treating it like a Long Lost Friend.

Trouble never got anything from me but a Klondike shoulder, and a heart colder than the North Pole. But if trouble does get into my house if it manages to squeeze itself in through the Key Hole or pops down the chimney when I'm not looking, I don't get hold of it and carry it out to my neighbors. I don't offer to lend it or give it away. I know it means business and I'm the man it's After.

I turn my Undivided attention to remonstrating with it. I let it understand plainly that it's for it, not invite any of my friends to come in and get acquainted with it, I am very Rude and Inhospital to it, and don't encourage it to stay and Spend the Summer.

I've seen people who were miserable as a Sick Monkey, without any Troubles to call their own. They seem to revel in Trouble and to love to see it come, and to hate, like Sam Hill, to let it go. Trouble seems to be their Best Friend. They get Lonesome with it out. They coax it to come and make Long Visits and cart it round with them wherever they go. They won't wait for it to call at its Own Convenience. They go after it with a horse and buggy, so as to be with it just as Long as they possibly can. They trot it round and show it the Sights and take it out to Tea and to the Theater, and give it such a Good Time that it never wants to leave.

This is not my way.

I think I like my way the best. I keep it out as long as I can, but when it Breaks In I treat it like a man often treats his brother-in-law.

Then it gets Mad and goes off about its business.

I've got no use for trouble.

MARRIED A YEAR.

And kept the Wedding Secret from Relatives and Friends.

New York World: William James Kavanagh came home yesterday from the University of Baltimore with his parchment as a physician. After greeting his mother he announced that he would bring his bride to her. Then he explained that he had married Queenie Mullen, one of the prettiest girls of Richmond Hill, L. I., and daughter of wealthy William Mullen, formerly of New York. The young doctor's mother is a widow. He is a son of the late Andrew Kavanagh, who was a contractor. The family has lived for many years at No. 600, Fourth avenue, Brooklyn.

The wedding took place Feb. 16, 1900. Young Kavanagh had long known Miss Mullen. They were playmates in childhood and had often promised to wed each other when they grew up. When he went to the university she was inconsolable. In February, 1900, he was informed by letter that another had supplanted him in her affections.

The young medical student hastened to Richmond Hill. He told Miss Mullen that he would make more progress in studies if she would straighten up her bride. She was opposed to a secret marriage, but his ardor won the day. With a girl friend they repaired to the home of a clergyman and were married, all pledging secrecy. Miss Mullen had just reached the legal age.

The bridegroom returned to his studies. He was graduated last month at the head of his class and will soon take up the practice of medicine in Brooklyn. He is twenty-four and his bride is nineteen years old.

When the young doctor called yesterday to claim his bride her parents for a time were too astonished to speak. Explanation was made and forgiveness followed. The bride is popular in Richmond Hill society.

What Admirers Say of Edward Beaupre, a Canadian Giant.

Ottawa, May 13.—A young French-Canadian giant at present in Ottawa is believed by his admirers to be the biggest man in the world. His name is Edward Beaupre.

He is 7 feet 8 inches tall. His weight is 362 pounds, and his feet are 17 1/2 inches long. Around the armpit his measurement is 84 inches. Beaupre is only 20. He is a native of the Northwest territory of Canada. His father was a French-Canadian and his mother a half-breed.

Up to the age of 3 the young giant was no bigger than an ordinary baby of that age. From that time he grew enormously, until at the age of 10 he was six feet tall.

He is in excellent health. All his brothers and sisters are of normal size.

SALSBURY MAY QUIT

Premier of Great Britain in a Very Critical Condition

HE IS A VERY SICK MAN

It is Believed the King Will Select Duke of Devonshire as Successor

In Case of Refusal Leadership May be Given to A. J. Balfour—Premier Asked to Resign

(Special Telegram).

London, May 13.—Alarming reports are prevalent to-night respecting Lord Salisbury's condition. There has been complete silence on the subject for the past three weeks, the only indication that his recovery is not progressing being offered by the postponement of his return from Beaulieu. He was to have been in London today, but he has not yet left his Riviera residence. The attack of influenza which he had before Easter has left him extremely enfeebled, and the latest news from Beaulieu received in London to-day is to the effect that his debility is obstinately resisting all treatment and has now reached a grave point.

The correspondent of the Times to-day asked Lord Hugh Cecil, M. P., one of Lord Salisbury's sons, whether it was true that the premier is seriously ill. He replied: "I know of no ground for such a statement." But Arthur Balfour had a private audience with the King to-day, which is understood to have been in relation to Lord Salisbury's health.

KING'S CHOICE OF SUCCESSOR.

The possibility of Lord Salisbury's retirement is freely canvassed in political circles. His death would not dissolve the ministry, but would lead to its reconstruction. The correspondent of the Times bears that the King will, in the first instance, send for the Duke of Devonshire to take the premiership. If he refuses then A. J. Balfour will be asked. Chamberlain is now regarded as quite out of the running.

When Lord Salisbury departed for the Riviera early this spring persistent rumors of his increasing ill health and early retirement were current, which, in view of the present alarming news, seem to be corroborated. The appointment of Lord Lansdowne to the foreign office and the information given out that Lord Salisbury would be able to retain his premiership was perhaps misleading. It is not at all improbable that the premier only consented to remain in office at the earnest solicitation of the late Queen Victoria.

MAY OFFER TO RESIGN.

King Edward may not be so persistent in his requests and if the debility of Lord Salisbury is as complete as reported his resignation will undoubtedly be announced in the near future and a new premier may be appointed before his death.

The prospective selection by the king of the duke of Devonshire as the successor of Lord Salisbury cannot fail to please the aged premier. For years the duke of Devonshire, who was Lord Hartington, has been an ardent supporter of the conservative leader. Mr. Bright once described the duke of Devonshire's qualities as health and hard-headedness. In 1874 Lord Hartington was chosen leader of the liberal party. He then worked hard at politics than many men do to earn their bread until home rule split the liberals. Then he parted from Gladstone. Lord Salisbury offered to serve under him in a coalition ministry, but he yielded place to the conservative leader.

HOW IT IS IN CHINA.

Mr. Redmond Henry Tells The Times of Some Chinese Peculiarities.

Mr. Redmond Henry, who only recently returned from China, told The Times of some of the peculiarities of the Chinese. For instance:

The Chinaman shakes his own hand instead of yours.

He keeps out of step when walking with you.

He puts his hat on in salutation.

He whistles his boots instead of blackening them.

He rides with his heels in his stirrups instead of his toes.

His compass points south.

His women folk are often seen in trousers, accompanied by men in gowns.

Often he throws away the fruit of the melon and eats the seeds.

He laughs on receiving bad news (this to deceive evil spirits).

THE CENSUS TAKERS
ON THE WARPATH

They are very Indignant Over Being Paid by Piece Work.

SOME REFUSE TO HAND IN LISTS

Enumerators Unhappy Because They are Only to be Paid Five Cents Per Name Instead of Three Dollars Per Day

The census enumerators throughout the country are not in a happy frame of mind just now, and then—sentiments towards the commissioners who employed them are not of the most kindly.

This is caused by the intelligence that the enumerators are to be paid at the rate of five cents per name, instead of three dollars a day, as was understood. In fact all the bills have been made up by day work, and the change will cause any amount of confusion.

Some of the enumerators left fairly good jobs on this understanding and went to work. When they finished, their accounts were handed in to the Commissioner for the several districts, and duly approved on a $3 a day basis. Most of the enumerators handed in their books, and some even were told, sold their claims. A couple of days ago, however, the enumerators received circulars informing them that they would be paid at the rate of five cents a name, with additional payment for each industry.

It is said some enumerators who have not yet handed in their books have expressed their determination not to return the books until the affair is settled. Liberal politicians, it is said, in this locality back up the enumerators in this action. They say that some of these men gave up their former positions on the assurance that they would be paid $3 a day. Some of the enumerators had to call three or four times at the one house before they could get the requisite information, and they consider it unfair that they should get nothing for these extra visits. Some of them who worked in the outlying districts would receive at the rate of five cents a name, only about $1.50 a day.

The chief kick, however, comes from the back country, where enumerators had to cover miles and miles of territory in order to make an entry. Altogether the situation is anything but pleasant for the enumerators.

The census enumerators of Toronto are indignant over the Government's recent order that they shall be paid at the rate of $5 per hundred names. They claim that they were engaged on the distinct understanding that they were to receive $3 per day.

The feeling is strongest in Centre Toronto, where the work was rendered slow and difficult because of the many Italians, Chinese, Assyrians and other foreigners resident in that part of the city. The enumerators had frequently to search for interpreters. To pay these men five cents per name would mean in many cases a day's wage of a dollar or less. Yesterday a number of them interviewed Commissioner Hunter and announced that if the Government insisted on the piecework basis they would use him for engaging their services under false pretences.

It is also pointed out that the application of the new rule also works injustice in East and West Toronto.

MODERN REFORMATION IN EUROPE

France, Spain and Portugal are all in Revolt Against the Catholic Church.

Fruitless Efforts of Hierarchy to Stem Tide—Will the Movement be Directed into Channels Similar to Those to England in Time of Henry VIII?

London, Eng., May 11.—While the attention of the British public has been divided between South Africa and China, events of far-reaching importance have occurred in France, Portugal, and Spain, says The Daily Chronicle. With little comment from the press, and scant notice from people not directly affected, laws have been promulgated or revived in France and Portugal that aim a dangerous blow at the priestly brotherhoods whose directors are in the Vatican, and whose ramifications extend all through the Latin countries. Students of continental life have seen the slow approach of an anti-clerical movement in the countries overrun by the powerful militant associations of the Latin Church, but not a few have thought that the agitation would spend itself in protests, or be directed into other channels, as it was in England in years before the sudden action of Henry VIII severed England from Rome. The history of great movements shows that they await the arrival of a strong man who, acting often from a purely personal cause, gives popular opinion the opportunity it would never have secured without revolution.

It is unlikely that the full power of the Roman Church in matters beyond its proper jurisdiction was perceived by the men at the head of French affairs before the Dreyfus case, and then the gravity of the situation impressed itself upon the few strong men left on the side of the republic. That the Church would overthrow the republic if it could, was apparent to all thinking people, and in the meantime the Vatican's campaign was making the army unmanageable. While the loudest outcry of the Nationalists has been directed against Jews, at the instance of the Jesuits, it has been evident that the republic is the offender in their eyes, the various groups that make up the nationalist party finding, in hatred of the republic, their one common sentiment. As the Latin Church has nothing to hope from the republic, and everything to expect from a Pretender of the type of the Duc d'Orleans, it has befriended the Nationalists, and sought to capture the heads of the army, recognizing that the army holds the power in times of crisis. And it has very nearly succeeded.

SITUATION IN FRANCE.

President Loubet and Premier Waldeck-Rousseau know that if they cannot control the militant clerical associations, their days will be few, and that, even should France repudiate the Royalists for a time, she will be given over to the keeping of a Cavaignac and a melée. On this account it is reasonable to believe that the new law for the regulation of associations will be strictly enforced, and, unless the unexpected happens, the brotherhoods of the Latin Church now working in Paris under orders from Rome will become illegal communities by the end of the year, liable to suppression. Their members will be liable to fine and imprisonment. If M. Waldeck-Rousseau succeeds in a task that is well nigh completed, the Jesuits will no longer be able to train the young officers of the French army; they will not be able to exert secret influence over the heads of the army, nor to evade taxes due upon such of their property as is not returned to them; they may even be unable to draw the hard-earned money of the French peasantry, as they and their brethren the Assumptionist Fathers have done so successfully in the past. Moreover, the bill relating to associations enables the Government to break up any union whose objects are deemed by the Cabinet to be inimical to the republic, and thereby to control movements that, while they appear to be the outcome of the popular will, are in reality promoted or financed by the clerical associations through the medium of men of straw.

PORTUGAL'S TROUBLES.

A very curious parallel may be drawn between Portugal in the early thirties and France in the late nineteenth century civil war in France waged on paper. The Portuguese law was a success for a few years. Associations of nuns having less than twelve members were dissolved, and members sent to other convents, for the nuns were not treated as harshly as monasteries. The nuns were to die out, and in Lisbon to-day is an old lady in her ninety-second year, relic of those troubled times, and the last survivor of the old regime. She saw the uprising, and has lived to see the religious associations creep back to their old places, in spite of the law. Monasteries and nunneries have sprung up again, the power of the Jesuits has waxed strong, and their procedure has become so unbearable that a crisis was reached little more than two months ago. Some Jesuit fathers of Oporto tried to remove a young girl to a convent against the wishes of her parents; the action was made public, and served to fire the smouldering discontent. There were riots and bloodshed on a scale that alarmed the authorities. The popular feeling was strengthened by the regular clergy, whose antipathy to the foreign brotherhoods is very great. Queen and Cabinet have been on the side of the Jesuits; Don Carlos, the King, alone is liberal in his views. It was a striking episode in Portugal's latter-day history, more suggestive of the Orient than the Occident. Several religious houses have been closed in the last few weeks, and the inmates sent away to their own countries. The Jesuits are fighting hard, but not wisely. They issued a proclamation a week ago calling upon the people to petition the Throne to restore their privileges. These proclamations have been torn down in several places.

THE OUTCRY IN SPAIN.

In Spain the outcry against the clerical brotherhoods is very loud and very strong. Throughout that unhappy country the very lowest orders of clergy seem to find a home. They have a comparative immunity from punishment, and are for the most part men of little or no education. It is well-nigh impossible to say what is true and what is false in Spanish politics, which are run on principles compared with which Tammany stands for righteousness; but the time is not far off when the people will take the law in their own hands, and then—Between the people and reckless action stands a rather insignificant-looking man, who wears side whiskers after the fashion of Spaniards in comic opera. He goes about Madrid in far more modest style than many of his associates, and from the Queen-Regent in her palaces to the beggar on the Prado all Spain fears him. He is known to his friends as the Marquis of Tenerife, and to the world as General Weyler.

The revolt against the Latin Brotherhood is a very serious factor in the social and political situation for the time being. It is not unlikely that the Franco-Italian entente will spread the trouble in Italy, and that we shall see the movement working from Paris to Madrid, and from Lisbon to Naples. But while Governments change and Ministers pass away, Rome remains, and it would be unwise to rely upon a permanent change in the relations between Church and Latin countries until the standard of education is far higher than it is to-day. In the temporal empire of Rome, Cardinal Rampolla marshals some of the keenest intellects in Europe. Rome will bend before the storm of popular opinion, and when it passes renew her statue as of old time. Financial crises are within view in Portugal, Spain and Italy, and the Latin Brotherhoods find plenty of material for denunciation of irreligious Governments when food is at a premium and the maximum of taxation pursues the minimum of wages. Yet in the hands of unscrupulous Governments crises are a two-edged weapon, and many Latin Governments owe the Latin Church little affection.

A SHORT CHAPTER ON GIRLS

The Peculiarities of the Sex as Seen by Our Talented Correspondent—Other Matters of Interest from the Pen of The Times Philosopher.

Lord love the girls! Every one that knows me knows how I adore the dear things, but some of their ways are so innocent and guileless that I have to smile sometimes in spite of myself.

They please me very much, just as I like to watch a baby that sits up and takes notice and looks inquiringly into my eyes.

Girls amuse me. And not only girls, but grown-up, full-fledged women, who cry away past the period when they are liable to Teat under the wings.

They are funnier than a lot of live leopards—all of them.

I think their innocence and childish ways show up best on the trolley car, when I go to the city, which is quite often. I think it's just charming to watch them hopping on to a crowded electric, hanging on to a strap, and looking at every man who has a seat and pretending that they are looking some other way.

And the way they all stand in clusters at the rear door, so that no man can get in or out without squeezing, jostling, and tearing his way through the Double Knot of dry goods at that end of the car! The conductor shouts, "Move up front! Plenty of room forward!" and, oh! it's sweet to see those dear creatures ignore him—the Rude Giant!

They don't care how uncomfortable others may be. They aren't out to please others; and this is just as Frank and noble of them as can be.

I hate hypocrisy.

I like to see people stand by their colors. If they don't look out for themselves who will look out for them, bide their little hearts! They know what they want and they get it. And I do love to see a big Woman, who really needs four seats all to herself, slip along and squeeze into a vacant place, occupied formerly by a bag of peanuts, and squat there for fifteen minutes, perfectly miserable herself, and making two other unfortunate victims who had died in childhood. Oh, it's a beautiful, soothing sight! So grand, so elevating!

And then when a man gets up and offers his seat to a sweet young thing—she never offers it to a sour old one, you will notice—to see how hard she seems to say "Thank you" so that no body will hear it. This is bashfulness, and bashfulness is always admirable in women. Bashfulness is next to godliness, I reckon. She moves her lips the least bit without looking at him, slides into the vacant place, and then takes a Sly Glance round to see if anybody has observed her in the act of thanking any one for anything.

It worries her a good deal. You can see that. Then the minute she gets a chance she slides round so that no one can crowd her any to speak of. She doesn't pretend to be a philanthropist, or a benefactress, or anything else that is supposed to be beautiful and attractive by some idiotic persons.

She is not one of the "King's Daughters" or a "Good Samaritan." She is just girl, and in this world for what she can get out of it. And that's business.

She doesn't know that's what she is and that's innocence.

Women are just babies; nothing more. You can't deny it if you have watched their dear little ways as I have.

And when a woman goes shopping and it's delightful to see how she feels like she's owned the whole shop! Isn't it fun to see her pull things over for two or three hours, to kill time and a few useless clerks who are encumbering the earth.

You don't know what pure, unadulterated joy is unless you have made a study of woman and her Artless little Ways.

And at the theater—isn't it sweet of her to hum the songs which are being sung on the stage, so you will be sure to hear them, and tell the history of her second cousin's marriage and divorce so it will reach your ears, and keep you entertained between the acts in case you don't go out for a breath of fresh air.

Heaven bless the women! Artless, unselfish, and coy. To me they are the very sugar of the earth, the milk in the coconut, the juice of the strawberry, and life without them would be a barren waste.

When it comes right down to trouble I never borrow or lend. I don't believe in it.

I know people who, when they get an idea that trouble is on the way, will open the doors and throw up the windows and beckon to it, and wave things at it, they're so everlastingly afraid it won't see them and will switch off into some bypath before it gets to them.

Trouble comes fast enough without running out to hunt it up, and get it by the hand, and drag it home with you, and make things pleasant for it. If I think I can see trouble dooming up on the horizon anywhere, I don't call a hurry-up wagon and go after it pell-mell. I'm not scared to death thinking it may possibly change its mind and turn down a side street or up a Dark Alley and lose its way.

No! a bit of it.

RESULTS OF BANK AMALGAMATION

The Canadian Bank of Commerce Completes the Purchase of the Assets of the Bank of British Columbia.

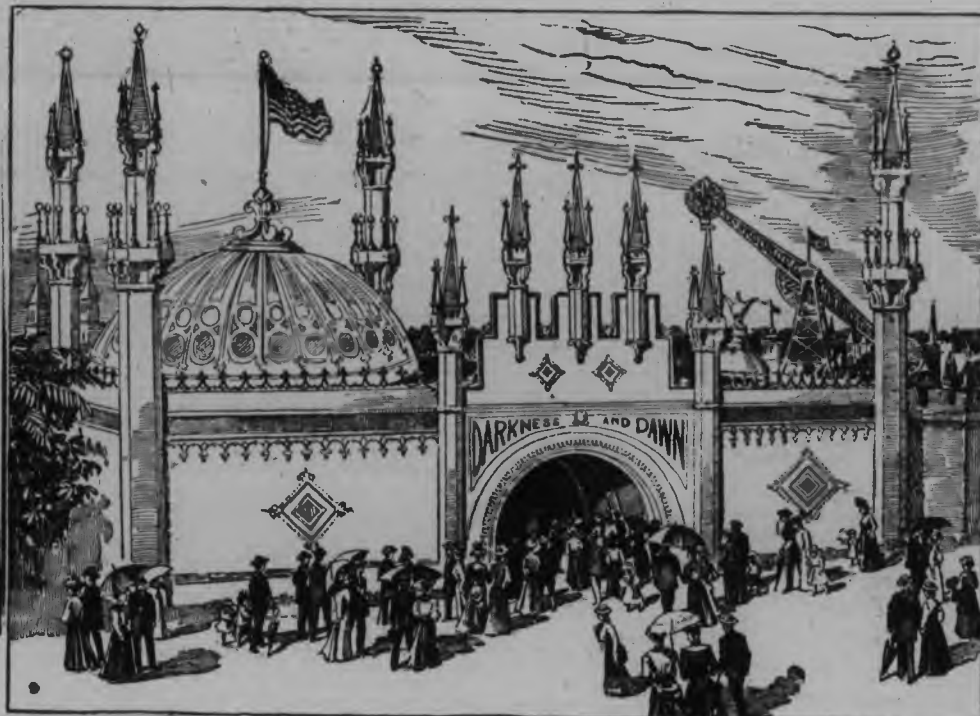

The Bank's Capital Now Eight Million Dollars and Assets Over Sixty-three Millions

The negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the Bank of British Columbia by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, an announcement respecting which was made some months ago, have been carried to a successful conclusion. A thorough examination of the affairs of the Bank of British Columbia was made by the officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and this proving entirely satisfactory, the amalgamation was finally completed. A statement of the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce after the amalgamation, has now been issued, and discloses a very strong position. In point of capital and reserve the Bank now ranks fourth among banking institutions in the continent of America. It has 62 branches throughout Canada; five branches in the United States, namely, at New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland (Oregon), Skagway (Alaska), and one in London, England; 68 establishments in all. The acquisition of the London office is an important step in the progress of the Bank. The bank's transactions in sterling exchange in the United States and Canada each year amount to many millions of pounds, and the ability to handle this business through the Bank's own London office will result in an important addition to the earning power of the Bank. In many other directions also the interests of the two banks will be immensely benefited by the amalgamation.

The following is a condensation of the statement issued by the bank at the close of business on the 31st of March:

R. V. DR. SYMONDS HONOURED.

Ashburnham Public School Children Present a Congratulatory Address.

For about eight years Rev. Dr. Symonds has presided over the Ashburnham Public School to conduct exercises in religious instruction. A half-hour on Fridays from 1.30 to 2, is set apart for this purpose, the pupils, as far as possible assembling in one room.

At the close of the exercises on Friday, May 10, the reverend gentleman was pleasantly surprised when Miss Laura Smithson stepped forward and read the following address, Rev. Dr. Symonds replied, expressing his appreciation of the kind feelings expressed therein, and at the same time giving the pupils some very useful and kindly advice.

To the Rev. Dr. Symonds:—We are very much pleased to be able to address you this pleasant day on the occasion of the annual conference recently conferred upon you, and which you so well deserve, and pleased because it has been our privilege for so many years to have your services as a religious teacher from week to week.

Your example as a earnest student cannot fail to stimulate us, and the systematic way in which your work is conducted cannot but be a lesson to us as we arrange our work in life. We desire to extend to you our hearty congratulations, and to express the hope that you may long be spared to enjoy the honor you have received, and to continue your weekly visits to our school.

Signed on behalf of A. P. R. S. P. E. Coverdale, A. M. Beattie, Herbert Geale, Muriel Sharpe, Lorne Scriber, Laura Williams, Alva Korman, Laura Smithson, George Rogers, Elva Greenwood.

Presbyterian Church Century Fund.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—The Executive of the Century Fund Committee met in Toronto on Friday last and carefully went over the reports received from congregations of the church. These indicated that the sum of $625,000 was actually subscribed for the Century Fund, including estimates of subscriptions yet to be got in a number of congregations in the North West. There is thus lacking $75,000 of the $600,000 asked for.

The time fixed for the completion of the effort, according to the action of the General Assembly, was May 1st. The Committee prolonged the date to May 28th and resolved to make an earnest appeal to every congregation and mission station in the church for a special additional contribution on Sabbath 19th May, or, where this is not convenient, on Sabbath 26th May. Envelopes have been prepared, containing a brief appeal, with blanks for the name of the contributor and the amount to be offered. These have been sent out in parcels to every minister, and it is hoped that, without a single exception, the people in every congregation—members and adherents—will take the envelopes distributed among them, and the opportunity given to contribute on one or other of the Sabbaths named. The Committee are most anxious that the effort should prove an entire success as they are confident it will, if the people in every congregation have the opportunity given them to subscribe. During the past year, nearly $100,000 was got from the church on behalf of the India Famine Fund, without much effort, and, considering the prosperous condition of the country and the great benefit to be derived to the church in all its departments by the Century Fund scheme, the fullest confidence is entertained regarding the result. Attention is called to the following points:

- 1.—That the envelopes be immediately distributed so that every member and adherent in each congregation may receive one.
- 2.—That if, from any cause, envelopes have not reached the minister or missionary in any district, application be made immediately for them to Rev. Dr. Warden, Toronto.
- 3.—That ministers bring the matter from the pulpit before their congregations on the Sabbath preceding the return of the envelopes.
- 4.—That the contributions from the envelopes, together with all other moneys for the Common Fund, be forwarded as soon as possible to the Treasurers on or before Wednesday, 29th May. This is especially important, because the report for the General Assembly requires to be printed that afternoon so that it may be stitched with the other reports to be submitted to the Assembly. In the memorial volume to be published will appear the names of all who contribute by means of the envelopes, together with the amount of their contribution, as well as the names of those who have already subscribed in connection with the canvass of individual congregations.
- 5.—This Sabbath envelope collection, it should be distinctly understood, is special and additional to any contribution previously made.
- 6.—That if, from any cause, any one desiring to respond to this appeal may not receive an envelope, their contribution may be sent direct, before May 28th, to either of the Treasurers of the Fund—Rev. E. A. McCurdy, Halifax, (for the Maritime Provinces), Rev. Dr. Warden, Toronto, (for Quebec, Ontario and the North West). Of the amount subscribed for the Common Fund $225,000 have already been received by the Treasurers. Nearly $800,000 have, in connection with the Century Fund movement, been raised for the church by the people of the various churches over and above the amount subscribed for the Common Fund.

Yours faithfully,
ROBT. H. WARDEN,
Convener of Committee on Century Fund.

Died At The Hospital.
Mr. W. G. Hetherington, insurance agent of Millbrook, died at the Nicholls Hospital Friday night, after a short illness.

Mr. Hetherington's disease was of a chronic nature, and about two weeks ago he was removed to Nicholls Hospital here. On Thursday an operation was performed, and for a time the patient's condition was rather hopeful. However, the end came as above, and the news of his death will come as a great surprise to his many friends. The late Mr. Hetherington was about 57 years of age, and his death will come as a great loss to his family and the adjoining townships.

A "KNOCKER."

Found on Many Tables.

People will "knock" themselves with coffee and then hunt around for medicine to cure them of the trouble coffee produces, but they keep on drinking coffee and making new disease right along. That is some people do. There are thoughtful people, however, and they are the ones who prefer good, sturdy health to sickness, and they leave off coffee because it is a drug that produces disease.

Many people have to learn that this is true by hard knocks, and they get the knocks all right if they stick to coffee.

Mrs. Ida M. Nowyck, of Anderson, S. C., says: "For two years or more before leaving off coffee and beginning the use of Postum Food Coffee, my health became very much impaired, as I discovered afterward, from coffee drinking. I suffered from shortness of breath, pains about the heart, and the slightest exertion completely exhausted me. My digestion was bad and gas would form in the stomach rendering me wretched, and my life a burden. Medicine did not help the trouble. I was on the eve of giving up in despair when my attention was attracted to the statement that coffee caused some of the symptoms that I had. I determined to abandon it and try Postum Food Coffee."

I had the Postum well made and the result during the past twelve months has been something wonderful. All of the old troubles left. I have been in excellent health, and my friends all notice it and speak of it. I never lose an opportunity of telling them that the change in my health was caused by leaving off a drug called coffee and taking on a liquid food drink like Postum.

No argument from any source could convince me to the contrary of what I have found out. I have seen much the same results in my sister's family and among other acquaintances."

ARRESTED IN B. C.

County Constable Cochran Leaves For The Pacific Coast.

High County Constable Cochran left on Saturday for the Pacific Coast to bring back W. T. Abbott, who is wanted on a charge of forgery.

Abbott is under arrest at New Westminster on the strength of a warrant issued by County Magistrate Edmondson and forwarded out west for execution by Mr. Cochran. The warrant has been issued for some time but it was with great difficulty that Abbott was located and this was accomplished only after a clever piece of work on the part of the High County Constable, Abbott, until last fall, resided on a fifty acre farm in Smith, John, and John's place, Carleton's place, and owned by Mrs. James Brumwell. He cut the farm and left this part of the country. Shortly afterwards, Mrs. Brumwell received a notice from Ontario Bank that her note of $300 in favour of Abbott would fall due on a certain date. She was naturally very much surprised, as she could not recollect having ever signed such a document. It was upon further investigation decided to be a forgery.

The note in question was dated Nov. 28th, 1900, was drawn for $30 in favour of Abbott, and at three months. Investigation, it is alleged, showed that Abbott had been in the habit of forging these notes, and had, as a rule, redeemed them by floating still another, and so on, until things reached a climax.

As above stated, a warrant was issued for his arrest and he was located in a small place near New Westminster. High County Constable Cochran received a telegram yesterday from the Chief of Police of Victoria, stating that he had arrested the accused. County Constable Cochran therefore left on his long westward journey Saturday morning.

DEATH OF J. W. FITZGERALD.

Passed Away After a Lingering Illness.

The death occurred yesterday of an old and highly esteemed resident in the person of Mr. James W. Fitzgerald. The deceased passed away at the hospital, where he had gone to undergo treatment for Bright's disease. Mr. Fitzgerald was born in Ireland, and was educated at Dublin University. Coming to Canada, he was appointed a Provincial Land Surveyor, and was one of the leading men in that occupation who were intimately and influentially associated with the earlier history of the Province. His memory will be honored by a wide circle of acquaintances.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, at 9 a.m., from the family residence on Smith street to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The Webs Appearing.

Examine your fruit trees and every little grove and cluster of trees on the farm, and if possible remove the caterpillar webs which are now appearing about the leaves of the trees in the morning sun. While these little caterpillars are growing and the whole company remain in the web it is the time to destroy them. They grow rapidly, and if left undisturbed a week or ten days after they begin to be active, they start out on their work of eating leaves, buds and blossoms, cleaning out everything before them. Hundreds of trees have been killed and the growth of shrubs stunted by the ravages of this pest. A general move early in the season will prevent further destruction to a very large extent. Remove the webs with your hands, dump them into a tin pail containing a little coal oil, and the work of snuffing out life is rapid and sure.

On Kawartha Lakes.

The following paragraph is taken from the Toronto Daily Star: "One of the finest of the many excellent summer outings, open to the Toronto man on a holiday, is a trip through the Kawartha Lakes. Cobocoon, Lindsay, or Lakefield are the best points to start from and the scenery is well worth the time, to say nothing of the fresh air the traveler can imbibe. The Trent Valley Navigation Co.'s steamers which are running in the route, are all fast, safe craft, and are well appointed. The fleet consists of the Edwin, Ogemah, Minata, and Sunbeam."

The Mayor Invited.

The President and Board of Directors of the Pan-American Exposition present their compliments to His Worship Mayor Dore, and request the honor of his presence on the occasion of the dedication of the Exposition in the city of Buffalo on Monday, May 20th, 1901. A Club House.

It is proposed to form a 'Company' to purchase a club house, and steps have been taken in this direction. The residence occupied by Dr. McClelland, and owned by Mr. James Stevenson, will, if possible, be secured. The matter is only in its incipient stages, but enough is known to make the outlook bright for carrying the project through.

To Be Dispatched to Cross River.

London, May 13.—At the end of the rainy season a military expedition will be dispatched to the Cross River district of Southern Nigeria to subjugate the tribes living there and to open up the country. The troops employed are expected to be all taken from West Africa, and will number about 2,000. The chief tribe of the hostile native combination which will have to be fought are the Aras, a very warlike race, who are known to have in their possession a large number of guns and arms of precision. Like the Ashantis they are addicted to fetish worship. They have always held aloof from the British and have repeatedly threatened to kill any white man entering their country. They were equally turbulent in the old days of the Niger Company, which, owing to the constabulary not being sufficiently strong enough to deal with them, the latter, though they could not help trading with the Aras, were unable to enter the country. The people are great robbers and in their method of fighting are known to use deep concealed pits covered with sharpened stakes, and similar ambushes.

PROSPECTUS

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review Office.

AN OPEN DOOR

About as apt an illustration of current life and gossip as the Kathlametian Council, (for as such it will always be known) of our town, could draw for Victoria Day would be the kicking in of the Chinese door by a Christian from the West. Beyond doubt the most horridly lapped of Christendom, back from common fairness to housebreaking, is now taking place in China. Not all the horrors of the Inquisition equal the results of the determined and wholly unjustifiable attack of the alleged Christian nations of the West upon the Chinese. It shows that unless the fundamental doctrine of liberty be first understood and held to, how all the moulting professions are, especially of those who are determined to compel others to think as they do, or "kick in the door." It is not intensely and it would be intensely ridiculous

what wonder at the decay of ortho-doxy? Are the clergy doing anything to obtain it? Surely they have sowed the wind and are now reaping the whirlwind. The ruling spirit of all centers in the politician. He buys and sells and makes the profit. "We are doing well," were the last words of Prester John. He died laughing.

THERE'S MANY A SLIP.

If Frank Elliot had been an older man or a less loyal friend he would never have attempted on the afternoon before her wedding day to open the eyes of Millicent Ainsworth in regard to the character of her betrothed husband. He would have regarded such an enterprise as foolhardy to failure, and in any event none of his affair.

But the sight of Phil Cleaver's big guard young face, and the insistent thought of the misery to which the girl was surely devoting herself moved him to sacrifice himself on the altar of friendship.

She heard him to an end with a pale, angry face, her burning face fixed steadily on him.

"Are you quite through slandering an about man, Mr. Elliot?" she asked quietly.

Frank winced. "I thought you ought to be told," he blurted out.

"As you know, I returned from the west only yesterday and did not hear of your approaching marriage till this morning. I could not stand by and see an old friend, one whom I have known all my life, make a mistake of that kind without—"

"Because, if you have finished I shall ask to be excused, sir."

Elliot bit his lip at the contemptuous tone in which she said this, and out of her voice. "Oh, you are not anything you like of me, Millicent," he cried desperately. "I was prepared for that. I can only hope my warning may do you some good, that you will investigate—"

"Certainly shall not say upon the man whom I am going to marry tomorrow," she interrupted haughtily.

"I am not a poor fool who can be led by the nose of a man who is not a man of the kind of man you are.

I shall always hate you for your unwarranted insolence." Then, pa-sionately, "What right have you to come to me in this manner, Mr. Eliot? I beg your pardon," corrected Eliot, flushing to the roots of his hair.

"I know no other way to accomplish my purpose except directly. Believe me, I am not a poor fool who can be led by the nose of a man who is not a man of the kind of man you are.

I shall always hate you for your unwarranted insolence." Then, pa-sionately, "What right have you to

THE OUTLOOK

For a woman's happiness in the married state depends less, as a rule, upon the man she is to marry than upon her own health. The woman who enters upon marriage, suffering from womanly weakness, is "heaping up trouble against the day of trouble."

Weak woman are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the one reliable regulator. It dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

It nourishes the nerves and invigorates the entire womanly organism. It makes the baby's advent practically painless, and gives strength to nursing mothers.

"I suffered for twelve years with female trouble," writes Mrs. Milton Grimes, of Adair, Adair Co., Iowa, "which broke on other diseases—heart trouble, Bright's Disease, nervousness, and a host of other troubles. I had headaches, neuralgia of stomach. I can freely say your medicine (some bottles in all of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of Golden Medical Discovery, and two of Dr. Pierce's Pellets), has cured me of all my troubles. I can now before I would be tired all the time and have a day headache, and my nerves would be all torn to pieces. I can now sleep in peace and do a big day's work, something I had not done for twelve years. I am now a healthy woman. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical

RESULTS OF BANK AMALGAMATION

The Canadian Bank of Commerce Completes the Purchase of the Assets of the Bank of British Columbia.

The Banks Capital Now Eight Million Dollars and Assets Over Sixty-three Millions

The negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the Bank of British Columbia by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, an announcement respecting which was made some months ago, have been carried to a successful conclusion. A thorough examination of the affairs of the Bank of British Columbia was made by the officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and this proving entirely satisfactory, the amalgamation was finally completed. A statement of the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce after the amalgamation, has now been issued, and discloses a very strong position. In point of capital and reserve the Bank now ranks fourth among banking institutions on the continent of America. It has 62 branches throughout Canada; five branches in the United States, namely, at New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland (Oregon), Skagway (Alaska), and one in London, England; 68 establishments in all. The acquisition of the London office is an important step in the progress of the Bank. The bank's transactions in sterling exchange in the United States and Canada each year amount to many millions of pounds, and the ability to handle this business through the Bank's own London office will result in an important addition to the earning power of the Bank. In many other directions also the interests of the two banks will be immensely benefited by the amalgamation.

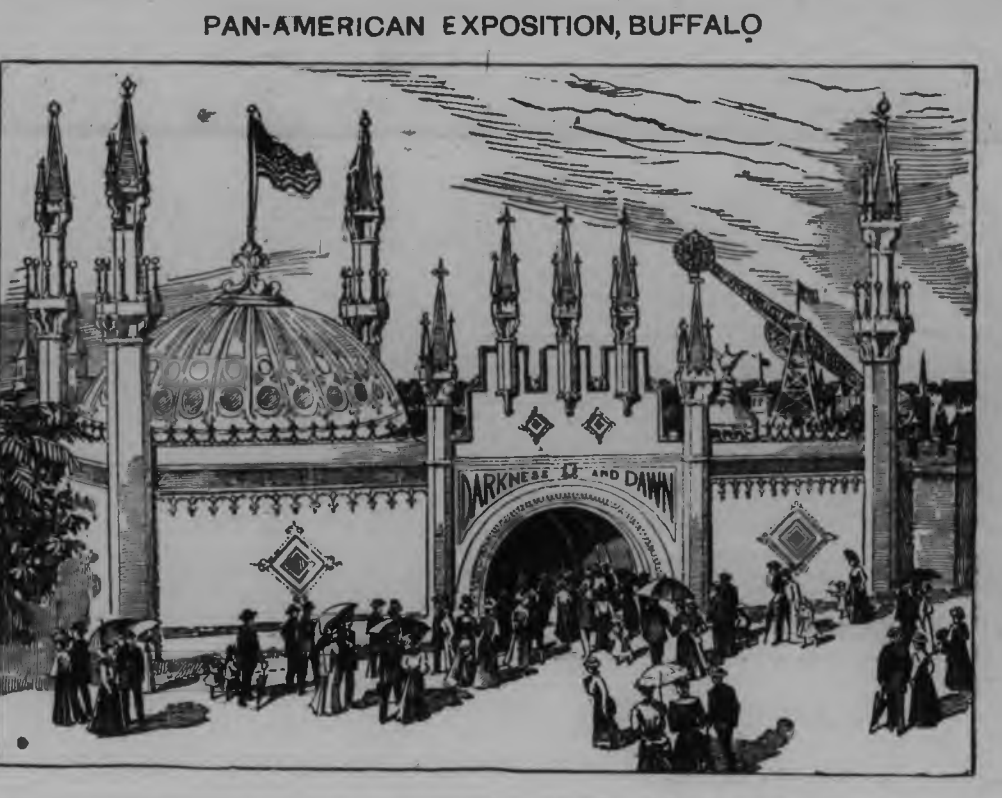

The following is a condensation of the statement issued by the bank at the close of business on the 31st of March:

OPPORTUNITY LOST TO THE BOER ARMY

Had Once Chance to Drive the British Army to the Sea Coast

Pole-Carew Talks and Tells of the Conditions at the Outbreak of the War When the Boers Had Everything Their Own Way.

London, May 15.—At a banquet of the Cornish association held in London last night General Pole-Carew said:

"At the beginning of the war, had the Boers fully realized their strength and our unpreparedness, we would have been driven into Durban and Cape Town and we would have presented the spectacle of reconquering South Africa from the sea coast."

BOERS ACTIVE IN CAPE COLONY.

Cape Town, May 15.—A force of Boers raided a store Friday thirty miles from Richmond, Cape Colony.

The Boers who were in Bedford district last week have moved north into the Transvaal. They still have a couple of field guns.

General Campbell of the Seventeenth brigade, while returning from Middleburg met with opposition from forces of the Boers, who employed two guns and two pom-poms. They moved parallel with the British force. General Smith-Dorrien's brigade was also engaged at considerable loss before re-entering Wonderfontein, the force opposing having a pom-pom.

Large areas of Kaffirs' crops were not touched during General French's recent operations.

The yeomanry, including the recent drafts, have had a hot engagement at Scharpsburg. They behaved splendidly. Subsequently the Boer commands moved south to West Greylingstad. General Kloos and General Elliott's columns are converging on this force, which is phasing a fight.

Recruiting is going on for a new force of the mines division of the Rand rifle. The military authorities have sanctioned the recruiting of 500 men, including 100 each for the May, Pretoria City, and Johannesburg mines. These recruits will be given preference in securing work when the mines start cranking again.

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Dashes Here and There by a Man Without Occupation.

CRIME AS A NATURAL TALENT

"I see," said an intimate friend of the field, "that there is a reformer in the idler, who is trying to make the old theory 'Bob up Serenity,' which is to the effect that women should not marry men who booze, because she claims that the offspring of a booze-soaked man inherits a Romantic Passion for Rum. It is all right for them to have their theories and their hobbies concerning the increase of crime, but feeling that I have about as much right to an opinion as any one else, I am going to say that I can't believe in this hereditary business."

"I don't care whether it is a hanker for rum or a desire to rob a bank or what it is—I am going to say that Crime is a talent just as distant as music—and if it's in you, it will remain dormant if you want it to—but you can cultivate and propagate it and make it bloom and blossom as it pleases."

The world is eager for excuses. Moral weakness will find behind anything from an old hen to a dead parent. Did you ever see such a dissatisfied Thirst as that possessed by the Noble Red Man? Any Indian would rather his hope of entering the Happy Hunting Ground—turn his back to all the pleasures painted for him there—for one gallon of the Cheapest Firewater. Do you mean to tell me that Poor Joe would attempt to put off on his ancestors who never tasted rum the disgrace which he had voluntarily attached to himself? Not on his scalping knife he wouldn't. But that is not what makes me weary. I do not see why a family which is brought into the world under apparently the same conditions can be half drunk and half sober. I have seen three girls and three boys in one family, and the father was a temperance man, and the girls were as good and pure as the angels in heaven, and the boys, every one of them, turned out bad. One of them would drink, one of them would steal, and the other unfortunate fellow got into politics. Was that any 'forced maternity' would they explain the fact—and unhappy truth it is—that sometimes girls from the best families go astray—step by step depart from the influences of home life, and after a few years of 'laborious ease' turn up at the Morgue, painted and polluted bags whom nobody owns that can be charged to neither rum nor lust. It strikes me that these moral teachers—and they all do some good—would be more useful and accomplish greater results if they would proceed to teach what is nine times out of ten a fact—i.e., that when a man or woman or girl is old enough to go out into the world alone, they should understand, and it would be understood, that it is up to them. I wouldn't allow men to hide behind 'hereditary influences' or women to tell me that they couldn't help it. Circumstances and Association have much to do with getting people off the main track, and I am very much in doubt whether these new reformers are saving any souls by going after the all-dyed-in-the-wool sinners. It seems to me that the ones to put the Life Preservers on are the young and undefiled who are just about to jump overboard and drift with the tide."

And our intimate friend said that this little talk of his was entirely confidential and if it was published he didn't propose to stand for it.

If you feel blue—if you think the world has been unkind to you—go out into the haunts of the city and get

The Princess Chimay Tells the Public Her Secret.

London, May 15.—Princess Chimay (who was Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich.) is still staying at the Cecil hotel with her husband, Rigo, the gypsy, whose attempts to get an engagement at a London Music Hall at a fancy salary so far have failed. The princess, whose costumes are the envy of all the women in the hotel, and whose free-and-easy manners are quite in keeping with her career, in doing everything possible to make the running for the gypsy violinist, but the managers say she altogether exaggerates her musical capabilities.

In an interview with a correspondent for The Chicago Chronicle the princess said: "I am going to tell you something the world has never known. I did not leave my home for the sake of caprice, but because I had lost my position and I was too proud to remain anywhere under sufferance."

"But how did you lose your position?"

"The king of the Belgians had shown me such marked courtesy that the whole court was aroused against me. At the celebrated garden party all the ladies turned their backs upon me. What I suffered at that moment which so insulted my pride none can ever know."

"I left before the queen, thus breaking the strictest law of the court, although the queen treated me sweetly, saying she knew what had happened and was the king's fault, not mine. I am glad that my children are so clever and attractive and that I have the right to see them once a month, but like the true mother of Solomon's judgement, I love them too much to cause them suffering from my lost position."

Asked why she posed for pictures in Paris that were suppressed by the police, her eyes filled with tears and she said: "Ah, that was a wicked act of revenge on my part. I would give half of my life to undo it, but I may tell you that some 4,000 more of these pictures were sold in England than in any other country."

Recovered Bit Dogs.

Mr. J. M. Brooks, of the Palace Cafe, lost a couple of valuable dogs. Like a sensible man that he is, he sent an ad. to the Times, offering a reward for their recovery. With the result that the animals have been located put in South Monaghan. This is only another evidence that everybody reads the Times.

BRANTFORD MURDER CASE.

Preliminary Examination of Mrs. White at Brantford.

Brantford, Ont., May 15.—Mrs. Josephine White, who is charged with the murder of her husband, was arraigned this morning. The court-room was packed to its utmost capacity, standing room being at a premium. A. J. Wilkie, K.C., acted for the Crown. L. F. Heyd, K.C., appeared for Mrs. White. All eyes were eagerly turned on Mrs. White as she entered the court room accompanied by her son. She was dressed in a simple black costume. Her face was partially concealed beneath a heavy black veil.

The evidence of Dr. Wagner as to the fact that death was caused by strychnine, and of several barbers in Mrs. White's house, as to statements by the woman that she intended to secure a divorce having been heard, Druggist Second was called and testified that Mrs. White had several times purchased arsenic from him. The case was adjourned until Thursday, when all the evidences will be taken, including that of Dr. Ellis, of Toronto.

NOBLE FAMILY IS DOOMED.

Tragic Fate Fears Household of the Earl of Eilemere.

London, May 15.—One of England's noblest and wealthiest families is under the shadow of a terrible series of tragedies. A few weeks ago a middle-aged upper footman shot a pretty kitchen maid and then committed suicide at the Bridge-water house, the palatial London residence of the Earl of Eilemere.

Two of Lord Eilemere's young daughters, who were in the house at the time, were drawn to the scene of the tragedy just as the footman was breathing his last beside the dead body of his victim. Both daughters suffered a frightful shock. One died within ten days and the other is now in a hopeless condition from brain fever. The earl himself, overcome by this accumulation of afflictions, is also gravely ill.

Bridge-water house, a magnificent palace in the Italian renaissance style, stands close to Stafford house and overlooks the park. It contains the most valuable collection of French pictures in the world. The Eilemere family are great coal owners and land proprietors. It is said that the increase to the Earl of Eilemere's income from his coal mines last year, owing to the high price of coal, was $1,000,000.

BOA IS CAPTURED.

Boat's Big Snake Turns Up at Niagara Falls and Causes Much Excitement.

Niagara Falls, May 15.—"Big Ben," the 22-foot b.a. which escaped from the waken den of Boat's Zoo at the Pan-American some days ago, arrived in this city some time during last night, and at dawn this morning almost had the suburbs of Toronto up in a commotion.

The giant snake made his presence known as soon as the sun came up by attacking a goat that was tied to a fence near the Swamp at the Sugar street dock. A number of chickens belonging to "Skip Eberle" spread the alarm, and a minute later a wide-eyed tramp ran down the road as though a thousand demons were after him. Eberle, who owned the goat, secured assistance, and he and several others went at the reptile with clubs, but did not succeed in killing it until after the goat and a number of chickens had been killed. Residents of Toronto turned out en masse, but kept at a respectful distance. A telegram was sent to Boat's, and a reply stated that a trained would be sent at once to take charge of the snake. The boa was not very ferocious, as this is its sleepy season, and for this reason Eberle and a couple of assistants were able to capture it. It will be shipped back to the Exposition this afternoon.

CHINESE ARE ASTONISHED.

Ask Ministers for a Reduction of the In duty.

London, Tuesday, May 15.—Dr. Morrison, writing to the Times from Peking, May 14, says:

"The Chinese plenipotentiaries are drafting a reply to the Ministers of the powers, expressing astonishment at the amount of indemnity demanded, and urging a reduction on the ground of the Empire's financial difficulties, but underlining, if the full amount is exacted, to pay in thirty annual instalments of 15,000,000 taels ($9,750,000) from the Likan, salt tax, and native Customs. Pending a revision of the tariff they also ask the powers to consent to an increase of the Maritime Customs and the import and export duties by one-third."

A CRISIS IN MOROCCO.

Serious Rising Reported from the Interior.

FRANCE TO BE OUSTED.

War of Greater Magnitude Than the Algerian Campaign Feared.

Gunboats are Sent to Stations on Moorish Territory—Troops are Hurred to Inter-cept the Advance of Chiefs.

Tangier, May 15.—Couriers from the interior bring reports of increasing risings all over the country, which extend even to the better classes of natives, who are anxious to overthrow the French regime. In anticipation of a concentrated rising of natives France is sending reinforcements to Morocco.

The cause of the trouble is the aggressive activity of the French who are now occupying stations on territory which was never out of Moorish possession. A continuation of this policy, it is believed, will lead to a colonial war of the magnitude of the Algerian campaign. The most effective move, it is believed, will be to a colonial war of the magnitude of the Algerian campaign. The most effective move, it is believed, will be to a colonial war of the magnitude of the Algerian campaign.

M. Revoil, the French minister and ex-president of Tunisia, has just returned here from a secret mission in the interior. He reports that the route between Ain Seffa and Igli is now under French control, but that it would be necessary to subdue the entire district of Tappet before peace will be restored. In addition to the severe fighting of an interior character is going on around Fez. Should this continue, it is reported, M. Revoil will have to fight his way north this month through hordes of hostile natives to evade annihilation.

Meanwhile in Tangier itself political corruption prevails and the degenerate sultan grants the astute representatives of France all sorts of concessions in exchange for troops of fair singers, dancers and equestrian to amuse his favorites.

A MONSTER LOCOMOTIVE.

Weighs 154 Tons, and Has a Six Foot Fly Wheel.

Toronto, May 15.—Superintendent Egan, of the Grand Trunk Railway, has a new pet, which he calls 988. It is the largest locomotive that ever rolled over the rails of the Toronto yards, and no larger one could get within the round-house without raising the roof. The big locomotive which hauls the average fast passenger train, weighs 90 tons, but this gazelle type, which weighs 154 tons. The ordinary fly-wheel is five feet in diameter; the wheels which carry this one are 72 inches high. To feed her as she flies across the desert of steel she carries ten tons of coal and six thousand gallons of water, about double the allowance of the average passenger engine.

This graceful creature is 65 feet long, and the top of the boiler towers up 15 feet above the rails. The pistons are 20 by 28 inches, much larger than the ordinary, and she will carry 200 pounds steam pressure instead of 135, but in spite of this, and in spite of her great drawing capacity, she is not a heavy cater of coal, as she works at easy pressure, and does not throw coal out of the smokestack.

This engine, working easily, will haul a train along at 80 miles an hour and draw ten to fourteen cars, and if pressed will leave the telegraph poles behind at 70 miles per hour. She will be placed on the run between Niagara Falls and Sarnia Tunnel, and will make the run without change. The engine was turned out of the Grand Trunk shops at St. Charles, and was designed by Mr. Frank W. Morse, superintendent of motive power.

RUSSIA READY TO INVADE.

Rumors Building of Manchuria Road to Facilitate Army Transport.

Paris, May 15.—The China question is still uppermost here. The Cologne Gazette prints a St. Petersburg special saying Russia is hastening to finish the Manchuria railroad by purchasing locomotives in America, taking temporarily the rolling stock from the Russo-European roads and greatly increasing the number of railroad officials, etc., enabling Russia, before long to throw a couple of army corps into Manchuria by rail. The paper further says M. Delcasse, the French foreign minister, who recently visited St. Petersburg, pledged Russia France's support in the Manchurian question.

Rev. Dr. Symonds.

Rev. Dr. Symonds has received an invitation to take the principality of Trinity College, Port Hope, and should he accept, as we learn, all probability he will, Peterborough will lose a devoted dignitary. There will be universal regret over his departure, as he has endeared himself to the people, not only of his own church, but of all the churches in town.

WORLD OF SPORT.

BASEBALL.

Port Hope and Lindsay appear to be out of the swim when they cannot produce material for a team to compete in a league with Peterborough. Consequently baseball is not so brisk this season as last.

Toronto last to Worcester by a score of 7 to 4, thereby losing 2 out of the 3 games played.

THE WHEEL.

Some of the local wheelmen are complaining of the condition of the bicycle track as a claim that the track is in very poor shape and consequently keeping them back in their training. The boys should be given all the inducement possible, as Peterborough has some pretty fast men.

TRANSFORMATIONS.

Curious Results When Coffee Drinking is Abandoned.

If it is almost as hard for any one to quit the use of coffee as it is for a whiskey or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can quit coffee and take up Postum Food Coffee with out any feeling of a loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well boiled and served with cream, it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays, and to the taste of the connoisseur is like the flavor of fine Java.

A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee is left off and Postum Food Coffee used, for the reason that the poison the nervous has been discontinued and in its place is taken a liquid that contains the most powerful elements of nourishment.

It is easy to make this test and prove these statements by changing from coffee to Postum Food Coffee.

Laid at Rest.

The remains of the late J. W. Fitzgerald were interred yesterday morning from the family residence Smith Street. The large funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's Cathedral, where solemn requiem high mass was sung. Venerable Archdeacon Casey conducting the very impressive service. Thence the funeral proceeded to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment. The gentlemen who acted as pallbearers were—Messrs. John Maloney, J. Dolan, H. LeBrun, B. Morrow, L. M. Hayes and Dr. McGrath.

MAY WAR ON TURKEY

Powers of Europe Threaten Alliance Empire.

MAIL ROW A SERIOUS SITUATION

Constantinople, May 15.—The row over the reception and delivery of mail to the ambassadors of the powers has suddenly assumed a threatening aspect. The situation is so serious that diplomats are indulging generally in war talk to-day. Sir Nicholas O'Connor, representing all the ambassadors, has been exchanging notes with the porte for the past week on the matter and instead of assuaging the squabble the Turkish government seems to be obstinate and refuse all concessions.

Sir Nicholas O'Connor received a third note to-day, evidently emanating direct from the sultan, demanding in peremptory language the immediate suppression of the foreign postoffices and reiterating the charges of smuggling against foreign officials. The ambassador immediately returned the note to the porte, thus creating a partial cessation of relations between the embassies and the Turkish government.

Early in the week the ambassadors of the foreign powers dispatched identical notes to the porte characterizing the seizure by the Ottoman postal authorities of foreign mail bags as a breach of international law and holding the porte responsible for the consequences. One of the mail bags opened Sunday contained dispatches of Count Von Marshall, the German ambassador.

In reply to the protest of the ambassadors the porte maintained the right of the Ottoman postoffice to receive and distribute foreign mails. The object of the Turkish government in maintaining a strict censorship of the mail from foreign countries is to stem the plots of the young Turkey party, which, it is known is conniving with the foreign elements of all lands for the purpose of overthrowing the regime of Abdul Hamid. Signor A. Pansa, the Italian ambassador, resigned recently because it is believed his mail was constantly tampered with and his protests proved futile. The ambassadors of France, Baron Von Cille of Austria-Hungary and M. Snowyev of Russia have concurred in the action against the porte.

ALBANY RIOTERS WRECK STREET CAR

Attempt of the Company to Operate the System Leads to a Riot and Much Violence.

Trolley Pole Broken in the Struggle—Car Thrown Into The Gutter—People in a State of Frenzy.

Albany, N. Y., May 14.—The United Traction Company started out its first car shortly after ten o'clock this morning. When the doors of the car were opened and a motorman on the front of the first car started stolidly into faces of over 2,000 men, women and children, a frightful roar went up of "Seize 'em," "Seize 'em," but the motorman turned the switch, and the car slowly moved out towards the main track. Two policemen mounted the platform by the motorman and two others took position on the rear platform. Then the mounted and foot police drove the crowd back, and amid jeers and boos the car moved along the down town route. At every street corner there were special policemen and regular policemen. There were no passengers on the car, and all windows had been removed.

At the car barn, as the car passed out, the police arrested five of the crowd for refusing to obey orders, and not crowd on the tracks. Two Pinkerton detectives rode down in the first car.

One half hour after, the first car had left the barn the doors opened once more and a second motorman faced the crowd, which was now in a perfect frenzy. This time the police could not control the mob. With a rush they boarded the car. The police swung their batons without effect, the dense crowd pushed the men in front forward until they were on the platform. The motorman was struck several times on the head with blows, and senseless, he relinquished his grasp on the handles. On the rear platform two men pulled the trolley pole down and bent it until it broke. The car had obtained some momentum, and striking the switch, went off into the gutter. The police could do nothing with the crowd, and they wrecked the car. Finally, when they found that they had accomplished their purpose, they withdrew with cheers. The police arrested four or five of them.

The car which got safely out of the barn for the first trip, made several trips up and down, not carrying any passengers. It was hoisted at, but no violence occurred.

Nearly a dozen of the non-union men the company brought from out of town, deserted after the attack on the second car. They were carried away in triumph on strikers' shoulders.

The indications are that if the company persists in running the cars the guard will have to be called out.

This by-law provides for the conveying of lots 10 and 11, north of Perry street and west of George street, to the company in question, of which Messrs. R. B. Davidson and A. F. Leck are the promoters, on condition that within one year from passage of by-law a substantial brick building, 150 x 50 feet, shall be erected, furnished with $25,000 worth of machinery capable of manufacturing 100 dozen shovels per day. This by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers on Tuesday, June 11th.

TO REPAIR BRIDGES.

Ald. Shortly reported on the work of the Joint Committee of the town and county. This committee has authorized Mr. Kelly, at a salary of $150 for the season, to keep the old Chemo bridge in good order while the new one is under construction.

The committee found the Locks bridge in bad condition; it needs to be repaired, readjusted and made safe for public travel, which it is, and at present. The estimated cost of this work is $475. Colonel bridge also needs repairing and its approaches attended to at an estimated cost of $70.

The council endorsed the work of the committee, and authorized the necessary work being put under way at once, for which the town pays one-half the cost.

WEST END PARK.

Mr. J. L. Hughes complained that the plot of ground at the west end of the town, by courtesy named "the Charlotte street Park," is in a wretched condition and a disgrace to the town. He asked that a water service be provided, more trees planted to replace those which have died for want of watering, and those destroyed by cattle, and that the park be fenced in.

This matter was referred to the Property Committee with power to act.

A GRANT OF $50.

Mr. Smith, publisher of the Marmora Herald, addressed Council and asked for a grant of $50 in return for a page or a page and a half write up on Peterborough in his book on mines, mining and other industries in Eastern Ontario. He explained that the book will contain articles on the Belmont gold mines, the Canadian gold fields, iron mines, including the old Blairton mine, Lakefield Cement Works, and other kindred subjects.

The Provincial Government are taking $900 copies for distribution at the Pan-American Exposition, and 2000 more copies will be distributed to the best advantage.

This matter was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

Boer Farms Burned

During Six Months

London, May 14.—A Parliamentary paper just issued shows that 234 farm buildings, mills, cottages, and hovels were burned in the Orange River Colony and the Transvaal from June, 1900, to the end of January, 1901.

A Queer Accident.

A rather mysterious bicycle accident occurred last night at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, which might have proved a very serious affair, but no one was hurt. Mr. John Haggart, while driving along George street came into contact with a wheelman, both being on the wrong side of the street. The wheelman struck one of the shafts, and turned several summersaults, lighting on the grass in a heap with his wheel, on getting up and brushing the dust off, and finding that his wheel was alright, he looked at Mr. Haggart to see what he had to say, and seeing that he appeared quite dazed, mounted his wheel and rode away; but when Mr. Haggart proceeded to drive on he found that the shaft was broken and he had received a trifling wound of the collarbone, and did not fare quite so well as the wheelman. However both parties ought to be satisfied with the result, that the accident was not serious and that it would not have occurred had they been on their right side.

THE MINISTER'S

TEMPTATION

Rev. Robert Boyd was the most promising young preacher in all the great city. His devotion, his call led him to give his time and his talents to all the details and demands of his ministry and made him a familiar figure in the homes of the sick and the aged, and in the halls of the hospital. Without seeking public approval, the very fervor of his work and his self denial made him widely berated.

He was a handsome young fellow, too, a perfectly formed giant with broad shoulders and a Byronic head, eyes and lips that bespoke all healthy human passions and impulses. He did his work because he loved it and because he was thoroughly interested in it. He believed in the church, in the creed and in himself.

It was the deliberate and emphatic opinion of the entire feminine wing of his church, declared at many sewing circles and aid society meetings, that it was a shame that he did not take unto himself a helpmeet. But he was too busy with his work and his ambitious plans to hasten the millennium, and gave little thought to the allurements of womanhood. In a vague sort of way he sometimes thought that when his work seemed better in hand

he would marry and establish a hearth stone. But no particular figure figured in these thoughts.

It came quickly as the lightning and with the force of an avalanche.

Returning from a visit to a hospital with his mind thoroughly occupied with the theme of his next Sunday's sermon, as he turned the corner he ran directly into a young woman. Clapping up with an apology on his lips

he beheld a face which startled him.

It was a face glowing with life and color, delicate and perfect in every feature, alive with intelligence and piquancy, crowned with a mass of jet black hair coiled up under a jaunty little hat with apparent carelessness.

As she flashed a coquetish glance at him from under the long lashes the clergyman recovered sufficiently to lift his hat and murmur a word of apology. She swept on and as he walked on he saw more slowly after her he could not fail to note the perfection of the little figure and the jaunty grace of every movement. As he walked on he saw more slowly after her he could not fail to note the per-

Topsy-turvy.

That's a favorite attitude of the small boy. And in this again the child the father of the man. The man does not easy to walk through life on his hands, but he creates for himself a kingdom of topsy-turvy.

JOINT HIGH COMMISSION.

The Trouble Between Canada and the United States to be Adjusted.

A Move Being Made by the United States for the Re-Assembling of the Commission—Hopes that a Settlement May be Arrived at Washington, May 16.—Negotiations are now in progress between the state department and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, looking to the re-assembling of the joint high commission, which considered questions at issue between this country and Canada two years ago and reached no conclusion for presentation to their respective governments.

Information received here is to the effect that Premier Laurier has been in correspondence with the English government with the result that Dr. Hilly acting secretary of state, has been notified that Canada's representatives are prepared to take up the negotiations where they were left in 1898. Dr. Hilly, acting on the well-known desire of President McKinley and Secretary Hay to reach some sort of an agreement with Canada relative to the various matters on which there is a difference, has indicated the willingness of this government to have the commission meet in Washington. When Secretary Hay returns it is understood that all the details of the meeting will be arranged and that it may occur as early as the 1st of July, although that is doubtful, and the meeting will probably not occur until early in the fall. That will give ample time to arrange a treaty for submission to the senate if there is a disposition shown to do business.

The most important questions to be considered by the commission are the Alaskan-Canadian boundaries disputes, the fisheries and reciprocal tariff arrangements. The latter question is the one on which the representatives of the governments split at their last meeting.

HAY ANXIOUS FOR SETTLEMENT.

Although the impression conveyed by state department officials is that the initiative to start another meeting of the joint high commission came from Canada, the real fact is that Secretary Hay is very anxious for another meeting. He is not altogether hopeful that there will be a definite agreement on the questions at issue between this country and Canada, but he is anxious to negotiate another international canal treaty with Great Britain. An opening for trading will be afforded by the meeting of the joint high commission.

WORLD OF SPORT.

THE WHEEL.

What is needed in this town of ours is a good bicycle club. An amalgamation of all the wheelmen in town, and in doing this help to revive the enthusiasm displayed a few years ago. At the present date, in every sense of the word, no good club, why not revive it? Peterborough and the surrounding country holds forth every inducement to the wheelmen. What is more inspiring or exhilarating than a run out in the country followed by about 50 members of a club. Therefore let us do all in our power to bring about a formation of a bicycle club, and by so doing get the young men as well as young ladies interested in this, the only summer pastime.

LACROSSE.

There will be a practice of the Y.M.C.A. lacrosse team this evening.

FOOTBALL.

The Y.M.C.A. football team went out to practice last night. The boys are in fine shape for the game on the 24th.

A programme of events of a highly interesting character has been prepared by the sports committee of the 67th Regiment for the afternoon of Victoria Day. The primary feature will be the parade of the regiment at 1:30 p.m. from the armories to Nichols oval, where the sports are to be held. The men will march without arms and upon arriving at the park will form a cordon about the oval and thus prevent crowds crushing in upon the sports, and also thereby afford every one a chance to see all that's going on.

The first half of a football match between the Scots, of Toronto, and the local team will take place at 2:30 p.m. This will be followed by a one-third mile foot race for prizes amounting to $7.50; trial heats of 100 yards; a menagerie race to be run by officers; the funny feature being the provision that each contestant shall drive some animal—a hen, a goose, a pig, a horse or some other specimen over the course of 100 yards. The prize for the winner will be $1. The second half of the football match; the final in the hundred yard race, prizes amounting to $10.50; a sprint race, participated in by five men from each company, who will wear belts and each company will be roped together, the prize being $2; a bayonet contest between a local man and one of the Scots team, who is said to be exceptionally skilled in this event; the description; pick-a-back wrestling, in which each contestant is mounted upon the back of another, the prize to be $3; a wheelbarrow race for a prize of $1.50, for which are eligible three members from any company of the regiment or any organized company. The boys are getting in a considerable amount of training for the events, and it is probable that each will be very interesting.

SMALL POX SPREADS AMONG INDIANS.

Reports reaching the interior department show that smallpox is widespread among the Indians of the western reservations. A report to-day from the Cheyenne river Sioux agency in South Dakota says smallpox is prevalent throughout that reservation and that many deaths have occurred. Out of twenty-two persons quarantined near Pierre, S. D., there has been one death and sixteen persons are affected. Smallpox is raging in the vicinity of the Yankton agency, South Dakota, among the white population. Reports also reach the agent there that it is prevalent among the Indians at some of the up-river agencies and that numerous deaths have occurred. At Yankton ten extra policemen have been sworn in as an emergency measure.

A HUNDRED INJURED.

ON TROLLEY WRECK.

Car Dashes Down Hill at a Frightful Speed.

NO ONE ESCAPED BRUISES.

One of the Most Exciting Trolley Accidents Ever Recorded.

One Hundred People More or Less Injured.

Many of Whom Will Probably Be Killed.

Happy Ending of a Pleasure Excursion.

Englewood, N. J., May 15.—Crowded with more than a hundred passengers, an open trolley car ran away down the Leonia Hill this afternoon, right to the bottom, where there is a short turn, and threw its entire load out. Strangely, no one was killed, and only three passengers seriously hurt, but none in the whole car, except the motorman, escaped without a bruise.

The most seriously hurt were: Frank Sunstock, conductor, contusions and fatal internal injuries.

Mrs. J. E. Robinson, 286 St. Nicholas avenue, New York, fatal injuries.

J. E. Robinson, her husband, similar injuries.

The seriously injured, who consented to give their names, were: Milton Demarest, lawyer, Hackensack, N.J.; A. S. Stone, 130 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, New York; Miss Bradford, 157 West Seventy-first street, New York; Carl Ziehlman, 157 West Seventy-first street, New York; L. H. Frohman, 878 Madison avenue, New York; A. A. Stone, 230 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, New York; George Dulle, 273 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street, New York; Mrs. George Dulle, same address; Mr. Dutton, 157 West Seventy-first street, New York.

Some of the injured came on here and had their injuries attended to. More walked up the large hill into Park Lane and had the local doctors there attend them. They then hurried to the Spaulding ferry to get across to New York, their day's outing having been spoiled.

The car took a load of passengers from the Manhattanville ferry at the Spaulding and started up the Palisades by way of the Horseshoe curve. The ascent of the hill was made in safety and Fort Lee reached. Only a few passengers alighted there, the rest being bound for Leonia, Hackensack and Englewood.

From Fort Lee the road ascends to the summit of the hill at Leonia heights. At the crossing of the North Hudson trolley road more passengers boarded the car. The cash register in the car showed $125 fares. Allowing for those who had alighted, it is thought there were about 115 passengers in the car when it ran upon the switch at Leonia heights and waited for another car bound for the ferry to pass eastward. The car which met with the accident was there overtaken by a second car which had started from the ferry with a similar load.

Frank Newton was the motorman. As the car started from the incline Newton appeared to have it well in hand. It had gone but a short distance when it seemed to get entirely away from his control and shot down the hill with increasing momentum.

WOMEN TRIED TO JUMP.

As speed increased the passengers became frightened. Women screamed and some tried to jump off. This would have been fatal, as the car was then travelling fully forty miles an hour, and there was a Macadam road to leap upon. Men held the women on the car and there was great excitement.

The flight down the hill took but a few seconds. At the foot the road curves sharply to the right. The cars turn to run north to connect with the cars for Hackensack. The rails at the curve were laid specially to hold on the tracks run.

When the front trucks hit the curve they went successfully around it. The rear ones followed part of the way. The wrench upon the car, however, as it swung about, was so great that the coach was lifted and torn from the trucks and rolled over to the ground. Newton stuck to the car, and when the jerk came which pulled it apart he shot into the air and landed on the ground with great force.

The passengers were caught in and under the car and were piled in a screaming, praying, struggling heap. Passengers on the following car had an excellent view of the accident. Their car was slowly descending the hill as the one ahead of them lurched and swayed, hit the curve and then toppled. The motorman put on what speed he dared and, on reaching the curve, stopped. The passengers piled out and assisted in caring for the injured.

Fully a score of passengers were laid helpless upon the grass. Most of these were women, but when rescue had time to turn their attention to anything beyond getting all from the car it was found that many who had not anything worse than slight bruises were in a faint. They were revived quickly. Most of the women were hysterical and had to be calmed. The car which followed the wreck took many back to the top of the hill. Some who appeared to be hurt were all right as soon as they recovered from their fright. Mr. Robinson and his wife and Conductor Sunstock were brought here. Others who had cuts were brought to the hospital, where their injuries were dressed. The trucks of the wrecked car were removed from the rails and traffic was speedily resumed.

GEN. KITCHENER'S NEW PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

Proposes to Burn the Veldt in Order to Compel the Boers to Surrender. Boer Losses up to April are Heavy.—Boers Worn Out.

London, May 15.—The Manchester Guardian, dealing with the operations in South Africa up to the end of April says: "Lord Kitchener's plan of operations north of the Delagoa Bay line is no unintelligible, in spite of the telegrams. About the beginning of April he divided all the forces he could spare for the northern movement into three parts. On the left wing was General Plumer, who had been brought up by rail from the operations against D. Wet in the Cape Colony; in the centre, resting on the Delagoa railway, was General Bull, lately arrived from India; and on the right at Lydenburg, was General Walter Kitchener. The left wing, under General Plumer, moved first. Advancing rapidly along the railway, he seized Pietersburg without meeting with much opposition. Some of the Boers retired south-west into the Waterberg district, others north, and the majority fell back into the Drakensberg hills, near Haenertsburg. General Plumer did not pursue them, but instead marched south-east through Smithsburg to Bathfontein. Recently General Plumer's scouts were said to be 'in touch' with General Kitchener's force, which had marched north from Lydenburg. In the meantime General Bull with several columns had advanced north from Middelburg, and detached a force which occupied Roosendaal.

HEAVY BOER LOSSES.

But though we are as far as ever from gaining a strategic victory, the Boers are losing very heavily. Since the beginning of the month they have lost, according to our official reports, nearly 800 men in killed, wounded, and prisoners north of the Delagoa Bay line. It allows the totals of prisoners include women and children, they must have lost more heavily this month than in any month of the war excepting February last year, when Cronje was captured at Paardeberg. They can hardly have been more than 5,000 Boers altogether north of the Delagoa Bay railway line when the movement began, and even if we make a liberal reduction from the official estimates one out of every ten must have been killed, wounded or captured since the beginning of April. No strategic success can compensate for such a reduction of strength. It is a false metaphor to speak of war as a game and to point out that the Boers are scoring more points in it than we. The right metaphor is that of a tug of war. The campaign is a test of endurance, and the great fact in it is that the Boers are limited in numbers and resources. The strategic victory they won over General French in the Eastern Transvaal was dearly purchased at the loss of so much stock and ammunition. The Boers are growing perceptibly weaker. We must, however, be careful not to exaggerate the rate at which they are losing strength. The loss of their artillery is not very serious, for the days are gone by when they could use it to hold a position against a determined attack or to assault an entrenched post. Nor, in spite of the great captures of small arm ammunition, have we yet had any signs of the Boer supply running short.

London, May 15.—The Pretoria correspondent of the Morning Post, gives an indication of the secrecy with which Lord Kitchener prepares his plans. Remembering the manner in which important information used to be quickly transmitted to the enemy by their sympathizers in the British camp, it may be well considered that to this secrecy is largely due the recent important successes of General Plumer and Bullington. Writing soon after Plumer started north, he says: "The combined movement in the north and that in the west are being kept secret. Even some of the officers do not know when they left Pretoria in what direction they were going. Col. Plumer, in addressing a body of the men before starting, stated that while they were being sent on an important mission, only Lord Kitchener and himself knew their destination."

BOERS WORN OUT.

Pretoria, May 15.—The number of burghers who are surrendering is rapidly increasing. These men state that the Boers are worn out by the incessant movements of the British troops. The majority of the burghers who have surrendered, are without horses, and all are half starved and poorly clad. The local Dutch think the advent of winter will witness a general surrender of the fighting burghers. Already the nights are bitterly cold and the veldt is dry. Commandant Beyers's force of about 400 men is reported to be near Nylstroom, north of Pretoria.

FIREWORKS' DISPLAY.

A Splendid Programme for the Night of Victoria Day.

Indoubtedly the Finest Display Ever Seen in Peterborough—The Display Will Take Place on Central Park and Will be Free to All.

Of two programmes of pyrotechnics submitted by Prof. Hand, of Hamilton, to Mr. Thos. Rutherford, chairman of the Committee on Evening Sports, for the 24th, the following seems to have met with the approval of the Committee as promising to be of great excellence and within the pecuniary allowances set apart for evening attractions:

1. Ascent of heavy detonating aerial display, exploding aloft and announcing the commencement of the display.
2. Ascension of illuminated balloon, bearing festoons of jewels in changing colors as they ascend.
3. Grand illumination of the grounds by prismatic lights, changing color several times and producing varied and beautiful effects.
4. Discharge of large rockets, with silver tails and mauve stars.
5. Discharge of shell, bursting forth into a jewelled cloud, with ruby stars.
6. Discharge of rockets with wheat-sheaf effect. Variegated twinkling stars and brilliant magnesian stars.
7. Discharge of four billion key-strings, forming an immense height and throwing out a circle of brilliant golden fire in ascent and descent.
8. Device, Sparkling Glory—A new-fangled design, throwing out brilliant golden showers and myriads of jewels, centred by a brilliant four-pointed star.
9. Discharge of shell with champagne stars.
10. Discharge of rockets, blood red and orange, amethyst, and emerald changing stars.
11. Ascent of mines with darting fiery serpents.
12. Discharge of yellow-headed snake rockets and rockets with Kaleidoscope effects.
13. Discharge of shell with verine and heliotrope stars.
14. Device—mammoth Shamrock wheel, surrounded by a glory of Transvaal gold, dust, the Shamrock appearing in brilliant green lights. This is a very beautiful piece of art very popular at present, owing to service rendered by Ireland in the South African war.
15. Discharge of volcanic eruptions, throwing up brilliant golden spray studied with jewels.
16. Discharge of shells, with silver and gold scintillating lights and topaz and sapphire stars.
17. Discharge of rockets, with eagles, claws and sunlight bursts.
18. Discharge of jewelled mines and mines of grasshoppers.
19. Ascent of large rockets, breaking at a high altitude, with steel coruscations and wheat-sheaf effects.
20. Terrace of fine fountains and poplars, extending over one hundred feet and making a very brilliant ground display.

GIVES AWAY MONEY.

A Unique Method to Secure Large Congregations.

Jessey Shore, Pa., May 15. The advertisement of Rev. W. Emerson Karns, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church here, to the effect that money would be given to every person attending service Sunday, was the means of crowding the edifice to its utmost capacity. The advertisement was carried out to the letter and everybody received a copper penny.

Not a particle of light was shed on the pastor's unique plan until he read from the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew the parable of the man who, travelling in a far country, called his servants to him and delivered unto them his goods, giving to one a single talent, to another five talents and to a third ten talents.

Following the sermon, which had no bearing whatever on the pastor's purpose, Rev. Karns explained under what conditions the money would be given away. He said that while engaged in prayer seeking to rid the church of its present debt an idea suggested itself to him, and he decided to follow the example of the man who in the parable distributed his goods. Every person in the church was then handed an envelope containing the smallest possible amount of one cent. These envelopes were printed, "This is your talent. Don't waste it up in a napkin, but use it. Your love for the success of the cause will be determined by your efforts. Harness up this little talent and make it pull in others." Rev. Karns explained that he expected the penny to be so invested that it would bring a return of either $3, $5, or $10 by September next. So far as securing a crowd Rev. Karns' unique plan worked like a charm.

PREDICTED HIS DEATH.

Strange Premotion of Bridgeport Man Which Came True.

Norritown, May 15.—A strange case of premonition of death occurred in Bridgeport. Thomas Dillon, an aged resident, on arising in the morning announced to his children that he believed that he would not be with them long; in fact, he did not think he would see the light of another day.

His children were excited over the strange statement, but Dillon went out for a walk in the morning, returning for dinner, after which he took a bath and put on clean underwear, saying that he wanted to die clean.

He then went to bed, and though medical aid was summoned, all efforts to prevent the aged man's death were unavailing. He passed away in a few hours.

GERMANY IS PREPARING.

Plans Formidable Increase of Military on Russian Frontier.

TROOPS READY FOR THE BORDER.

Emperor Disapproves Russian, French, Italian Alliance. Commercial III Feeling Grows More Acute Against United States.

Berlin, May 15.—Germany is showing its teeth at the Russian-French-Italian alliance in an unmistakable manner. The War Office to-day made plans for a formidable increase of the German military forces on the Russian frontier. The orders for this proceeding, comes direct from Emperor William.

Even now the forces distributed between Allenstein and Lyck on the frontier are strong, comprising eleven full battalions, but it is proposed nearly to double their strength. Eight battalions will be dispatched there within the next few days, and these may be followed by others.

An increase of the forces on the French frontier also is in contemplation, but the war officials refuse to say what the extent of the re-enforcement in this direction will be. They are chary of discussing the matter too far because warlike preparations right at France's border would be looked upon with immediate suspicion, whereas the Kaiser had hoped to cloak his enlargement of the Russian frontier force under the pretence of simply changing the garrison point for some troops that are now at congested points.

DELIBERATE THE NEW ALLIANCE.

Emperor William has made no secret in discussing with his advisers the Russian-French-Italian alliance that it is a matter of the gravest concern to him. Members of his cabinet admit that the Kaiser sees in the new alliance a sort of retaliatory move for the friendly attitude of Germany toward England. But beneath that is the evident purpose of Car to strengthen Russia in case of any renewal of the trouble over Manchuria.

WOULD ACT AGAINST AMERICA.

The Cologne Gazette, which often voices the views of the German Foreign Office, in the course of a glowing article to-day advocating a tariff understanding with Russia in order that the two powers might act jointly against the United States, says:

"As matters stand for Europe to-day, the struggle for existence demands that the exceptional position of the United States be abolished. The United States are a most dangerous competitor for Germany, especially in iron manufacture."

GREAT BRITAIN TO FIGHT FRANCE.

A. S. A. Writers' Vaporings About John Bull and Frenchman.

WOULD CAPTURE MADAGASCAR.

New York, May 15.—"Insider," who claims to have peculiar facilities for getting at facts, writes to The Sun that the English had planned an attack on France for the conquest of Madagascar, a proposal which he says was intimately connected with the subjugation of the Boers.

"There is a commercial-political school in England," says the writer, "of which Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is one of the strongest exponents, which aims at repeating what took place toward the end of the eighteenth century, when England laid hands on the French colonies in India, and North America. The idea, conceived originally, is, France is organizing colonies for us to take. This end has never been lost sight of even when concessions were being made to France in regard to disputed territories; and the occasion for putting it at least a part of it into execution was expected as an after consequence of the Boer war, which was believed at the outset to be only an affair of a few months. The navy preparations for a transfer of the victorious British army to Madagascar, or at least that portion of it which might be sufficient for the purpose, were complete, and every precaution had been taken to secure the communications by sea between England and South Africa against interruption by French ships of war or torpedo craft issuing from Dakar on the Senegal coast or other points. The French Government appears to have discerned at an early stage of the South African war the advisability of being prepared for contingencies, and accordingly hurried on work on the fortifications of the navy station at Diego Suarez on the northern extremity of the island of Madagascar, besides considerably increasing the garrison."

Insider picks the bubble, however, by the following statement at the end of his article:

"The probability that the end of the Boer war might see an extension of hostilities in other directions has to a large extent been removed by the recent interchange of courtesies between England and France and the obvious solidity of the relations between the latter and Russia. These considerations added to the unsatisfactory domestic condition of the United Kingdom itself make for peace. Thanks there fore to the Boers, a scheme which could hardly fail to involve more than half the world in war, appears to have been nipped in the bud."

MR. PETER KING KILLED.

Crushed by a Heavy Engine in Toronto.

Mr. Peter King, who left Peterborough last October to accept a position with the Pullman Iron Works, Toronto, was at work on a marine engine on Tuesday, when the wheel of a passing wagon struck one of the props under the engine and it toppled over on him. He was terribly injured and died on the way to the hospital.

The deceased was about fifty years of age, was a quiet, industrious man who was highly respected in Peterborough, where he lived for many years. When here he was a member of St. Andrew's church.

The family, consisting of Mrs. King, Misses Bella and Bessie and Messrs. Peter, Harry and Eddie have the deep sympathy of this community.

Convention of The W. M. S.

The Peterborough District Convention of the Women's Missionary Society, of the Methodist Church will be held this year at Bridgenorth on Wednesday, May 22nd, commencing at 11 o'clock a.m. A very interesting programme has been prepared. Three good addresses may be expected in addition to the usual discussion and reports. Mrs. Morrow will address the convention on the "Present Outlook and Future Possibility of Our Work," and in the evening Miss Brodie, returned missionary from China, will speak of the work in that country and also relate some of the thrilling experiences through which the workers passed during the late riots. Miss Munroe, returned missionary from Japan, will also speak for a short time. The public is invited to every session of convention.

Many thousands of fish are being found dead in the lakes contiguous to Fergus Falls, Minn., chiefly in Otter Tail lake, from which the city named gets its water supply through the Red river. This is a serious feature of the situation. General belief has it that severe electrical disturbances have killed the fish.

Anything seems to be good enough reason for bringing divorce proceedings. A Washington woman has sued for freedom on the ground that her husband is not as strong politically as he thought and said he was, and a Leavenworth sister has just lost her matrimonial bonds because her husband would not take her to church.

Miss Nee Bana (Northern Light) is an Indian girl who lives on an island near Old Town, Me. She is an expert swimmer and canoe navigator, has saved life at the risk of her own, reads books, dances bewitchingly, and is very good looking. The City National bank of Kanabek has paid Miss Nee Bana good dollar for the privilege of engraving her pretty face on its checks.

The mails in Central Africa are still conveyed for the most part upon the heads and backs of native porters. The men are recruited chiefly from the Yao and Atonga tribes, and wear a uniform. Fully 300 bags of mail are made up each month at the different postoffices in the protectorate for conveyance by these men, the total distance traveled being close upon 10,000 miles a month, the cost of transit being less than a half-penny a mile a bag.

Municipal authorities of Riegelsburg, near Saarbrück, Alsace, propose to establish an automobile service between the town and the centre of Saint-Jean-Saarbrück, a distance of six miles, and have advertised for offers of eight place vehicles. These are to be hired at first for six months, and may be purchased, if found suitable. At Charlevoix, near Berlin, an electric omnibus is now in circulation, which can transport seventeen persons, eight in the interior and nine on top.

If a woman was as careful in selecting a husband as she is in selecting a dress to match her complexion there would be fewer unhappy marriages than there are.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The wholesome regulations applied to weighing and measuring of other commodities seem to be overlooked when we come to the berry boxes and fruit baskets. Here, measure goes by rule of thumb. The berry box that has its bottom midway is an especial fraud upon the unsuspecting. Almost all other commodities are sold by the pound or quart. There is no reason why berries and fruit should be excepted. Not only should they be sold by the pint or quart the same as other articles, but steps should be taken to prevent fraud by the covering up of inferior stuff with selected fruit on the top of the basket or box. The government should do all it can to enforce the principle of honesty in transactions between buyer and seller. In no line of goods is there greater play for dishonesty than in the sale of berries and fruit. The law should step in and protect the consumer in every legitimate way, and one such way is the use of standard measures in the sale of these articles.

The spectacle of a batch of judges in jail for contempt of court, and likely to finish their term of office there is not often seen. Their specific offense is that they refuse to obey an order of the Federal Court of Missouri to levy a tax on St. Clair county, in that State, to pay a judgement for bonds on a railway that was never paid. The judges in contempt are those of the county. Whatever may be the technical aspect of the case, the jail-judges seem to be on the side of honesty.

Eczema Cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture

Sir,—At the request of the publishers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me where every known remedy failed. J. Britten G. T.R. Buffalo.

PROSPECTUS
OF THE
PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY
(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000
IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. Wedding Bells

On Wednesday evening, May 8th, a very pretty and attractive event took place at the home of Mr. Jas. E. White, when his youngest daughter, Katie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Gilbert H. Murdock, of Wyevalle. At 7:30 p.m. the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Creighton, of Bobcaygeon, in the presence of about thirty intimate friends of the contracting parties, after which a sumptuous supper was served.

The bride looked beautiful in a gown of white organdie, trimmed with lace, ribbon and ribbon, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Mary, who was attired in white similar to the bride. The groom was supported by Mr. Ernest Telford, of Bridgenorth.

Mr. Murdock is a prosperous young farmer living in the County of Simcoe. As he has taken a full course in the Agricultural College at Guelph, he is both a practical and scientific farmer.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, and which was a beautiful gold bracelet, the gift of the groom.

Another event which took place during the evening was the baptizing of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thurston's baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdock left on Thursday evening on the 6 o'clock train for their future home near Wyevalle.

Mr. Crane's Remains

Mr. John Crane has been persuaded to reconsider his resignation as organist and chorister of St. Paul's and will continue in that position.

It is understood that Mr. Crane has been relieved of considerable of the work which encroached on his time on the evenings of week days, and he will have three months vacation during the year.

Confirmation Services

In St. John's Church on Tuesday evening the Bishop of Toronto administered the rite of confirmation to sixty candidates from All Saints' and St. John's. Much sympathy was occasioned from the announcement that two members of the class were unfortunately prevented from being present by illness, and one young man, Percy McInnes, had been called to his rest before this event, to which he had looked forward with great desire.

REV. DR. SYMONDS GOING.

Will Accept Principals of Trinity College Port Hope.

Rev. Herbert Symonds, Rector of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, has been offered the position of Principal of Trinity College School, Port Hope, and states that he will accept the appointment will date from the 1st of July next. The position is a very good one financially, the enrolments being between $2000 and $3000.

A fact, unusual, and at the same time significant, is that the committee appointed to consider the selection of a successor to the present principal, were unanimous in suggesting Rev. Dr. Symonds; in fact no other name was suggested, nor were applications for the principalship advertised for. The committee consists of Dr. Worrell, K. C., Chancellor of the Diocese of Toronto; the staff of Trinity College, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Bethune, formerly principal of Trinity School, and others.

Their choice will be regarded here as proof of their acumen. Those who know Dr. Symonds best, best know his exceptional qualifications for such a position.

Cataract Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the eye. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AUTHOR'S SECRET.

Food that brings back strength and health.

Newspaper writers have a time of it to get the right kind of food to nourish them. One of these professions who writes for a Boston paper says: "From the first Grape-Nuts Food worked like a charm. My stomach had been failing to digest ordinary food, and my nerves were completely unstrung. I was about to give up work while preparing a series of articles for the press, but by a stroke of good fortune they began to feed me on Grape-Nuts. My strength gradually returned, nerves became steadier day by day, and I soon found I could do more useful work with greater ease than ever before."

There came to me that feeling of buoyant health and satisfaction with my work and satisfaction with myself. In short, I felt that life was worth living, and that I was 'girded up like a strong man for a race'."

In my opinion, Grape-Nuts is the one perfect article of food invaluable alike for those who are sick and those that are well." W. S. Gidley, Author of "Happy Go-Lucky Papers." "The Landlord's Story," etc.

It is a fact that Grape-Nuts Food does supply the brain and nerve centers with the elements necessary to rebuild, nourish and maintain. That brings health, strength, happiness and the feeling of buoyancy Mr. Gidley speaks of.

MISS GALT'S ELOQUENCE INSALVATION ARMY WORK

A Lady Who Possesses Wonderful Power For Doing Good.

The Salvation Army Barracks The Scene of a Soul-Stirring

It would be hard to find one better adapted for the work she is engaged in, may, for any work—than Miss Galt, who for a few days longer speaks with the Salvation Army in Peterborough. Her message is the love of Christ for man, and if a human being can be, without sacrifice, described as worthy of her message, surely she is. Whatever is good, whatever is pure, whatever is noble, finds a place in her words. Each word, too, is a little dwelling-house of love. Anyone who would expect that the red-jackets, poke-bonnet and strident noise are all in so far characteristic of the whole affair, will be disappointed. In her hands the drum-beater is no longer noisy. She transforms everything, for she is filled with the beauty of her Master. To her the world is a hell already made by the hand of man—the work of God turned to an ill use, but with her the winning of souls—the wooing of weak—for such it really is—is like the voice of love itself speaking to men. There is no dread in her words, no threatening and no mockery of the tears of blood. The awfulness of the sacrifice of Jesus stands out in poignant plainness. Likewise the worship of God to her means the ennobling of the meanest. From him to whom little is given less is expected than from him to whom much is given. But words fail to describe the heavenly character of the messenger. She is far from being sensational or vulgar, as far as light is from darkness. It would be hard to find her equal, yet she is no artless and unaffected. Men will be led to ask, "Who else but God could have sent her?" It is a rare—almost a unique privilege to hear her.

Dashes Here and There by a Man
Without Occupation.

AN OPINION ON FIRST LOVE.

Tell me! Tell me, ye sons of men—
Examples all around you—
For instance, take the scratching hen—
Then go to work, contending you!

"There we have it," said the Timor philosopher, Poet, Short on Stock and Long on Told-you-so, "in those lines there is an expression of Rhyme, Rhythm and Rhinoceros. It is Soul speaking in Soul—The Exhaust of a Blatant Stub at Mid-night's Holy Hour—the Dumb Speaking, the Blind Seeing—a Vinegar Receipt and a Box of Pale Pills for Pink People. It is the Stuff with Bark on the Bark-off. It is Symphony and Sound and Salaratus. I wrote it myself and I know it will pass."

I see where a writer of some renown is taking up the question as to whether or not First Love is the Stuff. The writer in question says that there is not one girl in a 100 who would at 30 accept the lover she adored at 15. Maybe this is so. And maybe it is not so. Girls are fickle anyway, and Women are only a few grown Tall. It always seemed to me that a girl had a faculty of shifting her affections much more easily and effectively than a man. Somehow or other, when a man or youth gets a case of Genuine Love it hangs on to him with the grip of death. The old love—the "Minnie Merle of Childhood"—haunts him in his sleep and waking hours. He hears her voice ever and anon crying to him in the wilderness. The face, the form, the eyes, the lips, the waltz of flowing tresses—he remembers them all—they are indelibly stamped on his mind—his heart. No matter how much he may love another in maturer years; no matter how perfect and how loving and how fully other women may have met all Requirements and all Fancies, that girl whom boyish fancy learned to idolize yet has in his heart of hearts a place, and will always have as long as life's blood throbs—Unless—

Unless, after the mellow years have hardened and the moon's bright beams have faded, he runs against his Clara of the forgotten years and sees that Time has also had its bout with her. The gentleymph with downcast eyes has grown into a robust Matron of about 160 pounds. Down Weight! Crow's Feet have left their impression around those eyes which are no longer the Eyes of Youth; the hands which were velvet and the fingers which were pink have hardened and grown chubby; the slender waist and willowy form are no longer in evidence—and the Youth grown to Man long years since cannot make himself believe that it is She.

Then he betakes himself to his room, and says, "Well, old man, she is not like I thought, at all," and while part of the picture is rudely brushed away, it can never be entirely destroyed—he feels that after all Love's Young Dream is more of a myth than a reality. But those childish recollections are all pleasant and happy—it is well that we all possess them for an idle moment, as we pause for a Trampling Spell in our mad chase after the Phantoms and Spooks and Hobbies of the world which men call Gold and Commerce and Business.

And, humming "Annie Laurie," I dismiss the subject as being too Sad and to dwell long upon.

I see there has been a Society for the Promotion of Public Weal formed in Town, the objects of which are too Numerous to mention. It occurred to me that these men are on the Wrong Track. If drinking is an evil, why tolerate it as

Unfounded Reports of a Hostile European Alliance

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON

What the Senators Prepare to do
Regarding the War in South Africa

The Joint High Commission and likely to discuss anything like Sam to Me dare fight in the East.

Special Telegram to The Times.
Washington, May 17.—There are a few men of the Senator Morgan camp who propose to do some tail-twisting. They are urging Krieger to visit the United States, in order, if possible, to work up a feeling against Great Britain. A document, it is said, has been forwarded to the ex-President, urging him to cross the Atlantic.

THE ALLEGED COMBINATION.
The report from Berlin that negotiations are in progress for the formation of an alliance to prevent the further encroachments of American manufacturers on what is regarded as the legitimate field of European manufacturers is not causing any excitement among officials in Washington. Dr. David J. Hill, acting secretary of state, said yesterday that not one of our representatives at foreign capitals had reported any whisper even that such negotiations were in progress. He rather treated the whole matter in a humorous way, ascribing the report to a certain element in Germany which is anxious to arouse the agrarians and to bring them into line in support of the government, as is suggested by dispatches from London. It is pointed out here that a trade combination with government sanction is an impossibility, as each nation that might be approached to enter into an alliance would immediately attempt to secure the cream of the trade in its subject manufacturers for its own subjects, thus blocking an alliance before it had even formed. Newspapers talk without any official backing is the verdict on the report here and until something more substantial in corroboration is offered no attention will be paid to it.

Reduce the Fleet in the East.
The navy department 10-12 sent orders to Rear Admiral Kempel, sailing command of the Asiatic station, to send home the ships Concord, Minerva and Cadmus during the latter part of the coming summer. This is in pursuance of the policy announced some time ago of reducing the naval strength in the east. The Bennington, Petrel Oregon, Newark and Bruis already have been ordered home, so that with these ships there is a total reduction of the fleet in Asiatic waters to about forty-two vessels.

Consul Alfred A. Washburn at Liege reports to the state department that the trade between the consular district of Belgium, in which he is stationed, and the United States is undergoing important changes, generally to the advantage of the latter. The consumption of American goods at Liege is several times as great as it was three years ago, since their great superiority has come to be so generally recognized.

THRILLING TALES OF SOUTH AFRICA

War Correspondent Tells of Prophecies of a Native

THRILLING STORY OF WAR

The Adventures of Captain McNeill of Dublin, Who Knows Much About Kaffirland.

In 1897, in the heart of Africa, near the haunts of Lobengula, a witch doctor prophesied of the South African war, and told of the siege of Mafeking, and in his prophecy he told Captain McNeill that he would be in this story, that he would see many people killed, would see many buried, but that he would be safe from harm, and after returning to his home across the sea would once more head towards South Africa. And when Captain McNeill received the written translation from a brother officer who understood the tongue, he put it in his haversack as a memento, and little dreamed it held a history which would convulse the world, cause the expenditure of billions, and the wreckage of thousands of homes. He took it to his home in Dublin and gave it to a friend as a keepsake and forgot the occurrence.

The Boer war came and Captain McNeill was hemmed in in Mafeking, and saw many killed and many buried. He was not harmed, and returned to his home again, when the strange prophecy, which he had entirely forgotten, was resurrected. To-day he is completing the story of the African witch doctor, and is in Toronto on a journey which will take him once more to South Africa.

THE LANCERS' GLORIOUS CHARGE.

This is but one of the many incidents in the eventful career of Captain McNeill. In Mafeking he was again brought face to face with the supernatural, when one night the sound of merry-making was heard from the kraal of the blacks. It was a blue night for the whites, for the Boers had been unusually active on the outskirts, and the fever was raging. Sending a messenger, Col. Baden-Powell asked an explanation for the rejoicing. A witch doctor had had a vision and spread the news that down near the sea at Natal there had been a battle between the Boers and British horsemen with spears, and that the horsemen had three times ridden through the Boers as through water, and the doctor explained, there had not been such a letting of blood in Africa for many years. Possessing many remarkable instances of second-sight shown by these mysterious women, the officers of the garrison remembered the time, the date, and the day, and it was shown that, although nine hundred miles away, and without any means of communication, this enchantress had described the battle of Mafeking with a few hours after the Lancers had ridden three times through the Boers.

Captain McNeill has visited Africa five times. His first trip was with Count "Carro" of Italy, his cousin, and whom he will succeed in the early eighties, when the Count's party went through 1,700 miles of the Dark Continent from the East Coast to Cape Town. Lobengula's death was then on the throne, and when he became satisfied that the party of adventurers were not spies seeking to seize the land he held a "smelling out" in their honor, when all evil-doers and traitors against the King were supposed to be detected by the witch doctors. Hundreds swarmed in great circles, and chanting weird songs, and naked except for bits of bone strung about their waists, and holding the tail of a gnu in their hands the witches spun about like tops. Suddenly they ceased, and one of the squatting hundreds was touched by the gnu tail of the leading doctor. The King's soldiers rose and twenty spear thrusts killed the victim in a moment. Then his body was thrown over a precipice and the watching vultures devoured it.

A "trailing out" followed the "smelling out." A huge fire was lit, and when the King gave a signal the soldiers, naked to the belt, rushed in to tread out the flames. Some were burned to death, but they were calm even in the fire; some were burned to the bone, but they too, were stoic, and showed no agony. The fire was quenched, and the King was satisfied, for he had shown what his soldiers could do.

HUNTING FOR BIG GAME.

Captain McNeill protested against any further barbarisms, and the black monarch ordered out a small army of hunters, and the little band of whites spent five months hunting, during which time Captain McNeill shot three elephants, a lion, and a large number of buffalo and antelope. Then he returned to his home at Einsieine House, Dalry, Dublin, visiting Africa three times afterwards, and at last becoming one of that famous little band of men who at Mafeking for seven and a half months kept thousands of Boers at bay and won the admiration of the world.

FUED ON WHITE FLAG.

Captain McNeill chafed for over an hour about his remarkable experiences and escaped in the unexplored town. He was chosen to bring in the bodies of two cousins, Partland and Wash, who were

BASEBALL.
LONDON LOST AT WOODSTOCK.
Woodstock, May 15.—London opened the Canadian League season here this afternoon and were defeated by the locals by 6 to 1. It looked very much like a shut-out for the Londoners until the ninth inning, when a three-bagger put Bell on the farthest base. Ashplan singled and Bell scored. Pitcher Thomas of the Woodstocks put up an excellent game and held the visitors down to 5 hits. The attendance was not large, but very enthusiastic. Score:

Woodstock 4 runs 1 hit 1 error 6 3 2
London 1 run 1 hit 1 error 1 5 8
Pitchers: Woodstock, J. Thomas, G. Thomas; London, Killien, Gibson; Umpire—W. A. Field of London.

ROCHESTER 5, SYRACUSE 4.

Rochester, May 15.—Well-placed hits coming at a time when, in most instances they meant runs, won for Rochester the first game of the season with Syracuse this afternoon. Rochester, although fast, was somewhat wild, allowing five men to get bases on balls. Score:
Rochester 5 runs 1 hit 1 error 1201010
Syracuse 4 runs 1 hit 1 error 001000200-4
Pitchers: Rochester, J. Thomas, G. Thomas; Syracuse, Killien, Gibson; Umpire—W. A. Field of London.

MONTREAL BLANKED WORCESTER.

Montreal, Que., May 15.—Worcester could not hit Peck opportunity today, and had base running by Smoot made the Montreal pitcher's task easier. Montreal bunched hits on Klobenstein and gave Peck great support. The billiard work of Wrigley and Delahanty were the features. Score:
Worcester 0 runs 0 hit 0 error 000000-0

CASE OF PITHEER MATTHEWSON.

This New York pitcher Matthewson, whose sensational work on the tubercle in the talk of the National League, rightfully belongs to the Toronto Ball Club, and a claim is now before the National Board of Arbitration for his services. Last fall for a consideration of $10,000, he was secured by the Toronto club, to whom he belonged, and he was sold for this season. During the winter the Cincinnati Club drafted Matthewson from Toronto. He, legally, as Toronto contends, and then sold him back to New York, for which club he had pitched last year while being farmed out from Norfolk.

THE RING.

Hot Springs, May 15.—At Weing, of Buffalo, defeated Jim Scanlon last night before the Whittington Park Athletic Club in one of the hardest fought battles ever witnessed here. The fight was scheduled for 20 rounds, under straight rules of Queensberry rules. Weing, who had the advantage in the fight in the clinches, Weing's close work was terrible. Scanlon did some excellent work early in the sixth, and in the eighth which lasted half the round, Scanlon was slightly handicapped by Weing. The battle was a slugging match for the first four rounds, with honors about even. The fifth ended slightly in Scanlon's favor. Half of the round he was terribly punished with blows upon the ribs and kidneys. In the seventh straight jab on Scanlon's jaw by chin delivered in rapid succession placed him at Weing's mercy, and the latter was declared the winner.

The first to fall in the defence of Mafeking and who fell side by side. The Boers shot two holes through the white flag that he carried. Both bodies were stripped, while Partland had a finger missing. The finger had held a ring which Captain McNeill had offered to buy for two pounds. But Partland was revenged, for before the siege was ended Captain McNeill shot a Boer, and on examining him found the missing ring. He wears it now.

The Boers practiced many outrages which have never been made known to the world. Once they took a woman prisoner, stripped her naked, and told her to hurry back to Mafeking upon pain of death. On the memorable 15th of May, when the enemy under foreign officers made their last attempt, Captain McNeill had two bullets cut through his tunic and one through his heel. On his way to the trenches he called at the "tail and spoke" to Jailer Head. As he turned and left a shell dropped in and blew Head to pieces. At another time Herbert Birdwood was shot through the temple and fell dead in McNeill's arms. When the Captain was in Montreal last week he told the story of Birdwood's tragic end, and a gentleman in the party said, "That was my cousin."

EXCITING SCENES YESTERDAY.

WILD AND TUMULTUOUS SCENES ON WEDNESDAY

Non-Union Men Escorted by a Square of Infantry, Taken to the Car Barns—Revolutionary Doings on City Streets.

Albany, N. Y., May 16.—Promptly at 8 o'clock this morning the United Traction Company began preparations to move its cars. At that hour General Barnes, in command of the 23rd Regiment, brought out before the Quail street barn his entire regiment. At the same time the Tenth Battalion started down town, dropping out details on the way at the street corners along the Traction line, running to Broadway. One company of the 23rd started to clear out the mob massed at the curve on Central avenue. Persuasion was of no avail, and back went the Company a dozen paces. "Charge bayonets!" shouted Lieut. Col. Brady. Down went the gleaming points, and on a rush the men started for the crowd. Just as they reached them there was a quick reverse of the guns, and the bullets smashed against human flesh. With a howl the crowd started back, some with bloody faces and some with broken bones. The moving mass was not allowed to stop until it had been driven three blocks away. Then every side street for blocks around was cleared, and details began the work of closing up the saloons and houses. All the time inside the now open barn doors were five open cars ready manned with non-union men waiting the word to run out.

On each one were two motormen, two conductors, and two Pinkerton detectives, the latter with rifles in their hands ready to load to shoot. "The men are ordered not to fire except it is absolutely necessary," said Superintendent Bassett of the road. At 8:30 o'clock the first car poked its nose out of the door and rounded the curve to the spot where the crowd had wrecked two others several days ago. General Barnes was on the car and when it reached the obstructions a coupling was made and the damaged cars soon removed to the barn. The crowd was too far distant to even see the operation, and if a window were up a guardsman soon shot it with an order.

At 9:20 a second car left the stable and started out towards Madison avenue, a thoroughfare not guarded. On board of it were Lieut. Col. Brady, and a company of the 23rd Regiment, guarding two motormen, and two conductors. They proceeded over Quail street, stopping to remove obstructions from the track. The car was an open one, and the militiamen just filled it. It was ten o'clock before the first car reached the alst of the obstructions, and then it howled over Quail street to Madison avenue, and up to the end of the line. In the meantime the company ran out seven other cars, and got them ready for business. On the first one designed to come down Central avenue and State street was a full company of the 23rd Regiment. On the other six were similar details. The first car moved out and down the avenue with no trouble, and car No. 2 with a trailer followed a few minutes after. There was hardly a ripple of excitement as the cars moved down the hill to take different routes. There were hisses at several points, but up to the time the various cars reached the foot of State street not a bit of serious trouble had occurred, and there were no great crowds at any point. Evidently the great display of military force, and the way the crowds were handled had awed the rebellious element.

Again, while working on his typewriter, McNeill was possessed of a strange desire to leave the machine for a moment. He yielded to the impulse, and a few seconds later a shell burst near the place where he was working and blew the typewriter to atoms.

THE RELIEF OF MAFKING.
Captain McNeill grows eloquent as he tells of the day of the relief, how in the distance the Boers were seen retreating, how the sun reflecting from the arms of a steadily-advancing column told the story of friends at hand, and when the sun dropped, and darkness came, the signal lamp flashed out: "Bravo, plucky Mafeking. The world is proud of you. We are delighted to see you again. Major Powell is with us. Will see you in the morning. Good-night."

And in the morning strong men wept, and women fainted, and the dead were for the first time honored and three solemn volleys fired over their graves.

Captain McNeill will on Saturday evening lecture in Toronto in aid of the Widows and Orphans' Fund in connection with the war. First to hunt for the dead, Captain McNeill was first to give the news of the relief to the world, and galloped over thirty miles to do it.

Rebels being war correspondents for the Fall Mail Gazette for twelve years the Captain has proven himself a writer of unusual ability, and his book "Bismarck to bring in the bodies of two cousins, Partland and Wash, who were

Out of the seventy-five non-union men who started from the railroad depot, only fifty arrived safely at the car barns. A hollow square of infantry, protected by lines of pickets that reached into every bisecting street, and with an outer skirmish line in circular form that encompassed all, guarded the traction tower wagon out of the Quail street barn this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and two hours were spent in repairing trolley wires. Anticipating a movement of the cars in Troy, Major-General Rose, who is in charge of the military here, has ordered three fresh regiments of infantry and a battery of artillery to hold themselves in readiness.

As the numerous cars kept coming down the hill the crowd near the post-office increased in numbers and began to get excited. So as to avoid trouble the military in that vicinity charged upon the crowd and drove them two blocks away from the junction of State and Broadway. This was the only incident during the running of the first cars.

Following the procession of cars the repair wagons guarded by seventy mounted signa corps men, came down the street and turned up Broadway, where there was some repairing to be done.

MRS. MCKINLEY LIABLE TO DIE

Associated Press Says That He Life Hangs by a Thread.

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR SPOILED

Francisco, May 16.—9:40 a.m. (Pacific time).—The Associated Press learns that Mrs. McKinley's life hangs by a thread. She is liable to die at any moment.

President McKinley is at the bedside of his wife without hope that she will ever recover. After a comparatively easy night she began to sink rapidly at 8 o'clock this morning. Dr. Rixey, who has been in attendance almost without relief for several days, hurriedly summoned Doctors Hirschfelder and Gibbons. They arrived before 7 o'clock and everything they knew and skill could do, was done to keep Mrs. McKinley alive. Access to the house for the press time was denied by newspaper representatives. Guards were posted at the door and every one but the doctors was turned away. At 9 o'clock the physicians held a consultation and at 9:30 a.m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out a bulletin announcing that Mrs. McKinley's condition had become more alarming owing to the sinking spell at 8 o'clock and that the President had cancelled all engagements. Later it was learned by the Associated Press that Mrs. McKinley was barely alive, and liable to expire at any moment.

THE GOLD SUPPLY OF THE TRANSVAAL

Effect of the War on the World's Money Markets.

The re-establishment of peace in South Africa will bring to the front several problems, not the least interesting of which will be that relating to the financial situation. The resumption of operations in the gold mines which have been practically non-productive during the war will tend to a large increase in the world's supply of gold and will have a considerable effect on the distribution of banking reserves. Although the Boers did not, and probably at no time had any intention of, blowing up the mines of Johannesburg, the effect of the war was to cause almost entirely many of the richest and most productive of the world's sources of gold supply. The production of gold in South Africa began only about twelve years ago, but the mines have been rapidly developed and their output and importance have increased with remarkable rapidity. In 1887 the total gold production of South Africa did not reach one million dollars, but in 1898, the output reached the large sum of $2,300,000 and was steadily increasing. During the nine months preceding October, 1899, there were produced in South Africa 3,913,000 ounces of gold as compared with 3,981,997 ounces for the corresponding months of the preceding year, or a gain in value of some $1,800,000 per month. This large and increasing output was suddenly and almost completely stopped owing to hostilities in South Africa, the twelve mines which were worked during the months from September, 1899, to May, 1900, only having produced during that period some 500,000 ounces of gold, and the total production of the mines last year was only valued at some $7,200,000. This sudden diminution in the supply of gold naturally affected the money market and Europe has found it difficult during the period of diminished supply to maintain its banking reserves, and during the latter end of 1899 the bank rate in nearly every European city was raised to the highest point which it had reached within the past fifteen years. Since then Russia and India have been largely drawn upon in order to relieve the European money markets. The mines of South Africa are in a position to resume operations at very short notice, and once peace is assured in South Africa a stream of gold worth between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 may be expected to pour from that country. Most of this gold will be sent to England but whether it will be absorbed by the internal circulation of Great Britain or whether it will be exported to Russia, Germany or the United States is uncertain. What effect the sudden and continuous increase in the world's stock of gold will have upon trade and prices is another question which remains to be practically solved.

Eczema cured After Many Years of Terrible Suffering

Editor Morning Times.
Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T. K., Brantford.

TO CARE FOR WATCH

A watch should be wound up every day at the same hour.

Avoid putting it on a hard surface or near anything else which will cool it.

A sudden change of temperature, contracting the metal, may sometimes cause the mainspring to break.

The cold also congeals the oil and the pivots and wheels work less freely and affect the regularity of the time keeping.

To keep your watch clean, take care that the case fits closely and see that the watch pocket is kept free from dust, which is so often given off by fumes.

Avoid sudden jars and falls, for even if it does not seem to affect it at the moment, a watch will resent such handling, by becoming gradually "out of order" without apparent cause.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000 IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Fousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. Dutton, J. J. McBain, A. J. Gough, T. F. Matthews, W. H. Hill, H. P. Kennedy, A. Parker, F. H. Dobbin, C. H. Moore.

—The Celebration Committee's telephone number is 169.

—A number of new houses are to be erected in Peterborough this season.

—Work on the lift lock is now in full swing. It is daily becoming more interesting.

—There is a big kick coming from the ungenerous these days. Many of them refuse to accept poor work pay.

—Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin, Fenelon Falls, delivered a fine lot of porkers to the Matthews Co. on Wednesday.

—The Times is anxious to secure a correspondent in each of the following places: Millbrook, Keene, Hawke's Nest, Norwood and Warren.

—Mr. "Jimmy" Tobin, of Ashburnham, will sail on the Seagull waters this year. Jimmy will be missed by the people of the Ottonabee.

—The report printed in the Toronto papers state that Victoria Day will not be a bank holiday, there not being time to get the bill through the House. This it appears, is not correct. The bill will be put through in time.

—Mr. J. B. Grafton, the senior member of the firm of Grafton and Co., of Dundas, has forwarded to the local Y.M.C.A. a cheque to provide membership tickets for all the men employed in the Peterborough branch of that firm. Here is an example worthy of imitation.

—Two big boys and a little one in an Orono. One big boy bets he can make an egg where the other big boy cannot find it. Taken. As precaution the egg is hidden under the small boy's cap. He laughs at the searcher and is given a bang on the head. Discomfiture of small boy.

—Willie Mitchell, the blind young man, complained to Chief Russell that he was being tormented by some thoughtless children. On Wednesday night he said a bicycle was purposely put on the pavement in front of him, and almost tripped him up. The mischievous youngsters also made with the stick with which he feels his way. The Chief promised to make it hot for any one caught meddling with the unfortunate young man.

Soarecrows.

The term is almost a misnomer, now-a-days. For the "century living crow" has been schooled by experience. The scarecrow does not scare him. Investigating ornithologists say that he can tell a gun from a stick and can count up to seven. Evidently the crow has progressed from the ignorance of his ancestry.

The crow is in some things in advance of the human family. There are scarecrows which scare our grandfathers, and which are just as fearful to us. In spite of the fact that some scientific investigators say, "There's nothing to be afraid of. A scarecrow can't hurt you," the bulk of men and women still believe the scarecrow is a powerful and terrifying fiend.

This attitude of mind is most marked in relation to certain forms of disease. In diseases of the lungs and respiratory organs, for instance, it is the custom to assume that there is no cure for the cough, no hope for the hemorrhage, no healing for the lungs. The scarecrow, Consumption, is set up, often taking the form of some inexperienced and unskillful practitioner who denies hope or help to the victim of disease.

Yet the records go to show that stubborn coughs have been cured, that persistent hemorrhages have been stopped, and that weak lungs have been made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

TESTIMONY TALKS.
All the claims in the world for the curative virtues of a medicine will not equal one testimony to the actual fact of cure. Thousands of testimonials like the following have been received from persons cured of lung troubles, bronchitis, hemorrhage, obstinate coughs, etc., by "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Detroit, Kansas City, "and I thought I must die soon, for I felt so awfully bad. I had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, in fact, could hardly get my breath at all. I had pains in my chest, and right lung, also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Peppermint' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing. I worked in the canning factory this fall, and I feel like a new person. I thank you very much, Lord, and also Dr. Pierce for making this good medicine. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years, took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of Doctor Pierce's Peppermint."

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Sometimes a dealer will offer a substitute for the "Discovery," claiming it to be "just as good." The substitute pays him more profit than that which will protect yourself from unscrupulous dealers by insisting on Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

THE CONTRACT LET.
A Toronto firm secures the Electric Works Job.

Yesterday the contract for the new buildings to be erected by the Canadian General Electric Company was let, the successful tenderers being Messrs. Oakley & Holmes, Toronto.

The new building which completed will be utilized as a lease country, a blacksmith shop, a iron storehouse and a coal house. All but the latter will be under one roof, the coal house being a continuation of the power house.

The building will require about 3000 bricks, and is to be completed by July 15th. It is expected that over 100 men will be put to work at once.

In addition to the above the company are building a splendid new power house at their dam at Russell, where a large force of men are now at work.

Laid at Rest.
The funeral of the late Peter King took place yesterday, upon the arrival of the body from Toronto.

Herbert King, of Chicago, son of the deceased, and Mr. F. King of Toronto, nephew, together with the minister of St. Andrew's, Rev. J. B. Potter, accompanied the remains from Toronto. Former comrades of Mr. King acted as pallbearers, and others, in company with the relatives of the deceased, were among the mourners at the grave. A beautiful floral wreath bearing the inscription "From Comrades" was sent from the employees of the power works; another from the Christian Endeavour Parkdale Presbyterian church, and others from private persons. Mr. John King, brother of the deceased, who resides in Chicago, took ill at Toronto and was unable to come to Peterborough.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.
The 31st of May has been chosen as the day to celebrate.

A despatch from London to The Times yesterday announced that King Edward was born Nov. 9, 1841, has decided that his birthday shall be celebrated on May 15th of each year, thus continuing the holiday hitherto observed by all the public departments on Queen Victoria's birthday, and giving an impetus to the colonial movement to observe the date as Empire Day.

The Local Enumerators.
On a basis of 5 cents per name, the local enumerators would be entitled to about $550, in round figures. The town assessors get $150 each, or $600 for the work of assessing the town. This is, we imagine, a far more laborious job than that of taking the census.

FRANCE GAINS RICH COLONY.

Leaders of African Expedition Tell of its Results Obtained.

Paris, May 16.—Gentil and Joalland, the leaders of the French African expedition, received an enthusiastic welcome to-day in the large amphitheatre of the Sorbonne from the French Geographical society. Gentil gave an outline of his mission and his operations against Rabat, including the battle of Kousseri, after being joined by Joalland, Meynier and the Fourreau and Lamy missions. It was at Kousseri that Rabat's power was finally broken and Captain Lamy was killed. Gentil drew a glowing picture of Tchad province, which had been given to France thereby gaining a region rich in cattle and all kinds of grain. The population of the province is large, and the country will prove a fruitful market for French goods.

Joalland said that he and Meynier had severely recovered from the wounds that they had received beside Captain Klobb when they had resolved to pursue Captain Klobb's mission to the end, with the result that they reached Lake Tchad and signed a treaty with the Sultan, by which France gained all the western shore of the lake. In describing the Zinder district the speaker said it was necessary to borrow the imagery of the Arabian Nights. The Sultan's palace was marvellously furnished with carpets and rugs embroidered with gold and was replete of the essence of roses. The country teemed with citron, maize, rice, and dates, and the climate is healthy.

Simultaneously with this reception comes a cable dispatch from Captain Robillot, dated Feb. 10, announcing the defeat on Feb. 2 of Rabat's sons and their submission to the French. The pacification of this vast and wealthy district adds largely to France's colonial empire, but it is probable that it will remain a colony without colonists. Captain Robillot has been considered France's newest hero. The work that he has done with a few men has been simply marvellous, and exceedingly productive of results beneficial to France.

Robillot has been sent to the colony to the aid of Colonel Marchand, which though glorious was unprofitable.

MOUNT PLEASANT.
The text chosen by Rev. Canon O'Leary Sunday was the last clause of the 14th verse of the 1st chapter of 2nd Timothy.

The subject of discourse by Rev. Mr. Kanan was on the lives and labors of the prophets of the Old Testament.

Mrs. J. McLean has gone on a visit to her daughter at Smith's Falls.

Mr. Joe Fox lost six feet of young cattle last week.

There are nearly done seeding, and the growing crop look promising.

We extend our sympathies to the family of the late W. G. Hetherington, who died last week at Peterborough. Many will miss his regular visits to the homes in the township of Cavan as insurance agent. How true the words of Jesus, "Be ye also ready."

Hay Fever Can be Prevented.
Don't seek other cures at "Hay Fever Season." Don't destroy your stomach and nerves by drugs—prevent the disease. Hay Fever is caused by germs that float about in the air and finally find lodgement in your throat and lungs. Medicine won't reach them there, but Catarrhoxone will. Catarrhoxone is sure death to germs. Start now to use Catarrhoxone. Inhale it into the throat, lungs, nasal passages and bronchial tubes; it goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and it will prevent and cure Hay Fever. Endorsed by not less than one thousand doctors in Canada and U.S. Sent to any address for $1.00 forwarded to Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S. or Kingston Ont.

Pain in the Joints.
may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Polson's Nervine exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nervine equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often call the doctor if Nervine is in the house. Price 25 cents.

CAPSIZED ON RICE LAKE.
Occupants of a Yacht Just Rescued in Time.

Hastings Star: On Sunday while Mr. Douglas Simpson, of Bristol, accompanied by Mr. Treen, was out sailing on Rice Lake in a yacht, the boat capsized throwing the occupants into the water. Had it not been for the timely assistance rendered by Masters Willie Coppenhaver and Johnny Birtie, there is little doubt but that the accident would have terminated fatally as the lake was very rough and the water cold. The two men, however, were rescued at the risk of their lives, although only in a canoe, rescued the shipwrecked crew.

Lindsay's Band.
Lindsay is determined to have a band, if possible. "The council has agreed to guarantee the salary of a good leader. How would it do for our Lindsay friends to employ Mr. Giddens to go up, say once or twice each week and teach the boys to fool. Lindsay would thus be assured of a first class musical organization in time."

Too Many People Daily With Catarrh.
It strikes one like a thunder-clap, develops with a rapidity that no other disease does. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Lotion is the radical, quick, safe and pleasant cure that the disease demands. Use the means, prevent its deep-seated and years of distress. Don't daily with Catarrh. Agnew's gives relief in ten minutes. 50 cents.—97 Sold by H. H. Edmonson, Peterborough.

The Lakefield Mills.
Mr. John Thompson, of the Dickson Company, told The Times yesterday that the Lakefield mill would start to cut about June 15, as soon as the first drive of logs, which were now running in Massagouet creek arrived. Mr. Thompson says the Company's mill is in splendid shape, and will give a good account of itself this season.

On Monday Night.
Rev. Mr. Symonds has placed his resignation in the hands of the officers of St. Luke's and it came up at a meeting held on Wednesday evening. It was decided to call a general meeting of the congregation, to be held on Monday evening, when the matter will be discussed, and a strong effort made to retain the popular pastor.

The mammoth programme of the Kaitiaki procession will be issued from The Times jobs rooms to-day. They give only a fair idea of the gorgeousness of the display.

Secretary Burritt has fitted up an office in the store lately occupied by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, below the City Hotel, George street, where he may be found. He has also put in a telephone.

Tommy Burnham is in need of six young fellows to help him in the procession.

Harry Alvine has secured a contract to cut a large number of things lively. A few more requisites wanted.

We learn that Mr. H. P. Kennedy will put on a large number of his own, to be known as "Kennedy's Stock Brigade."

There are many new features cropping up every day, which will make the procession by far the greatest ever seen in this district.

'ROUND ABOUT TOWN'

—Who instructed the trees to be cut down in Central Park?

—The 12th of July will be celebrated this year by the local Orangemen, at Fort Hope.

—A number of persons were fined yesterday at the Police Court for not taking out tags for their dogs.

—The Auburn Sunday School will again run an excursion up the lakes on the 1st of July next (Dominion Day).

—Belleville Intelligence: Spades are trump in Peterborough; they are going to have a shanty factory in that bustling town.

—Mr. J. H. King, who conducted a very successful sale of Kansas horses, left yesterday for Smith's Falls, where he will conduct another sale of these fine animals. Mr. King will also sell in Brockville and in Kingston before returning to Peterborough.

—Poor Girl, Fly Her.

Growing! Yes, into weakness, but not strength. Studies—plenty of them. Tired, of course she is, and weak too. Does not eat enough, and digests far less than enough. This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozone, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirit buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough making blood, and thereby strengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozone gives a woman's strength to weak girls. Your daughter or wife needs Ferrozone. Get it to-day. From Ormond & Walsh.

Death of Mrs. Gleason.

The Times joins in the general feeling of regret that exists over the death of Mrs. F. J. Gleason, which was and totally unlooked for, even occurred at the family residence on Thursday evening. The deceased lady had been quite ill for some three weeks, but was apparently on the mend. On Thursday evening she was so far recovered as to be able to enjoy a meal of solid food, the first in some time. Soon after heart failure set in, and she passed away, surrounded by her husband and sorrowing family. Mrs. Gleason was born in Downsville, Emily in 1837, and was, therefore, 64 years of age. Some 25 years ago she was wedded to her now bereaved husband, her former name having been Ella Callahan. Five years ago the family was welcomed to Peterborough, their former place of abode being Lindsay. Thither the remains will be conveyed this morning for burial.

The Late J. W. Fitzgerald.

The Catholic Register, referring to the death of the late J. W. Fitzgerald, says: "Not only in Ontario, but in the United States and Ireland with the announcement of the death of the late Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, we heard with regret. He was one of the Irishmen in Canada who unhesitatingly kept himself in touch with the affairs of his native land. His contribution was always first whenever aid to the nation at movement was asked for in Ireland, the United States or Canada. Unselfish in his own devotion, he regarded with affection such men as Hon. Edward Blake, who have devoted their time and talents to the Home Rule cause. In his profession Mr. Fitzgerald held a high place. He was a devout Catholic and a citizen whose worth was acknowledged by the people of Peterborough of every creed and class."

A NEW ORGANIZATION.

A Strangers' Fellowship Club Organized by The Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. have organized an auxiliary in connection with their work that promises good results. At a meeting held on Thursday night in the Y.M.C.A. building, the organization was completed, with the following aims and objects:

1. To locate young men arriving in town and report their names to the Association.

2. To notify the Secretary of young men leaving town.

3. To exercise a prayerful interest in young men who are strangers, as well as young men generally, and to carry on systematic visitation among them.

4. To report the names of young men who are sick.

5. To endeavor to get young men who are strangers located in home-like boarding houses, and to introduce them to the pastors and young men of the churches they should attend.

6. To interest them in Association work and membership.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres.—Mr. B. F. Ackerman. Hon. Vice-Presidents—The ministers of the town.

President—Mr. John Manning. Sec. Treasurer—Mr. Garnet Gailley. Executive—President, Secretary Treasurer, and Messrs. W. Thewlis, R. Merrill, S. Hall, G. Pringle.

The Committee, as above, will meet in a few days and draft a constitution. Any member of the Association may join the club.

Pain in the Joints.

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Polson's Nervine exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nervine equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often call the doctor if Nervine is in the house. Get it.

A Pleasant Re-Union.

The annual re-union of the congregation of All Saints' church was held Thursday evening and was a most enjoyable success. There was a large attendance, and the gathering was marked by the warmest social spirit which made it most enjoyable and pleasant for all. Mr. James Mulholland acceptably occupied the chair, and a delightful programme of music, recitations, etc., was rendered. A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to Rev. W. L. Armitage by the congregation of a camera and a complete photographic outfit, accompanied by an address. In the address the congregation expressed its hearty appreciation of the work Mr. Armitage was doing and gratification at the satisfactory condition of the church's affairs. Rev. W. L. Armitage made a suitable reply. Refreshments were served, and the evening was a most complete social success. The piano used was a Dominion, kindly loaned by the Peterborough Music Store.

Mr. A. G. Parker Promoted.

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Parker will learn with regret that they are likely to leave Peterborough. Mr. Parker having, it is understood, been promoted to a more important position in the Bank of Montreal. Mr. Parker was seen yesterday and said that he had received no official notice of the proposed change. During Mr. Parker's residence here he has gained the esteem and respect of all with whom he came in contact. Not only has the business of the bank been most successfully managed under his charge, but he has taken great interest in local affairs and has never hesitated to give his time and means to the advancement of all that tended to the advantage of Peterborough at its interests. Mrs. Parker, whose talents as a vocalist is widely known, will also be greatly missed by the music-loving citizens of the town.

WORK DON'T HURT.

Poor Selection of Food is the Cause.

Many men, and women too, feel that their work is the cause of symptoms of nervous breakdown, but work is not the cause, as any one can prove by their entire satisfaction, by leaving off the food they have been trying to subsist on, and taking in its place food made for the express purpose of rebuilding the brain and nerve centers and the body and supplying other portions with sufficient nourishment and kept right on with the same work and get well and strong.

An illustration is given in the case of E. A. Whiteley, Sup't. of the Public Schools at Excelsior, Minn. He is also a student and teacher of hygiene. He says: "This spring at the beginning of the last month of school, I was very much run down, and my duties were quite confining. I naturally ascribed my condition to that."

I discovered that I made the same mistake that many do. It is not work, but a lack of proper food that causes breakdown. Wife went visiting at this time and I concluded to get my own meals for a time. The grocer suggested that I use a ready cooked food known as Grape-Nuts. I found the food delicious, requiring no cooking. I simply poured milk or cream over it and had it in that way.

I used Grape-Nuts for breakfast, dinner and supper, and finding it so well I simply lived on it for the next three weeks. My work continued quite as arduous and confining as before but I experienced a decided rise in spirits and vitality as well as in general health. Food I did not tire as before and entirely lost that worn-out feeling which seems to take the heart out of one.

I am satisfied the change was due to my change in food, and I have been so greatly helped and have been taught so valuable a lesson in food as related to the human body that I wish to express my appreciation in this manner.

It will pay any brain worker to dispense with a part of the ordinary diet and use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day at least, for the food is made by food experts, for a purpose, and that purpose is to furnish the human system with the elements, in a concentrated form, required for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers throughout the body. There is no sort of question of the truth of the statement and value of the food, as can be demonstrated by anyone.

A Big Show.

Peterborough is to have a big circus of international reputation this season. This is Ringling Bros' World's Greatest Show, an institution that has never been in Canada, but which is expected to make a sensation on this side of the international line. In the latest Ringling Bros' circus is considered the leading amusement institution of its kind. In magnitude it surpasses all similar shows. It has, it is declared, the other day, and performers, and more novel features than any other circus in the United States. In addition to all this it has a thoroughly first class menagerie, including 30 elephants and the only giraffe now known to exist. A beautiful introductory spectacle, a revival of the old Roman hippodrome races and a new street parade a mile in length are among the features that will attract attention.

Hay Fever Can be Prevented.

Don't seek other cures at "Hay Fever Season," don't destroy your stomach and nerves by drugs—prevent the disease. Hay Fever is caused by germs that float about in the air and finally find lodgement in your throat and lungs. Medicine won't reach them, but Catarrhoxone will. Catarrhoxone is sure death to germs. Start now to use Catarrhoxone. Inhale it into the throat, lungs, nasal passages and bronchial tubes; it goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and it will prevent and cure Hay Fever. Endorsed by not less than one thousand doctors in Canada and U.S. Sent to any address for $1.00 forwarded to Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S. or Kingston Ont.

Duty Comes First.

Mayor Denne had to choose between duty and pleasure the other day, and not hesitate to forfeit the pleasure end of it. He had arranged to attend the formal opening of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo on Tuesday next, when word came from the Grand Trunk Railway Committee of the City Council stating that the Grand Trunk had been granted re-hearing of the case recently considered, and judgment in which had been ordered the construction of guard gates at railway crossings on certain streets in town by the Grand Trunk. It is said that the company will endeavor to hold half the expenses of the erection and maintenance of the gates upon the town. The re-hearing will come off on Tuesday next, and Town Solicitor Edwards, Mayor Denne and a number of Aldermen will be on hand to look after the town's interests.

Mr. Leary's Enterprise.

Peterborough has no reason to be ashamed of its lively establishments, which are among the best to be found in Canada. Mr. R. H. Leary, who is always up-to-date, has recently added a very handsome rubber-tired launch, similar to the one purchased by him a few months ago. This conveyance is an elegant one, and cost $1000, being furnished in the most modern style. The top can be thrown back most conveniently, producing a fine open carriage, and displaying the luxurious cushions and rich upholstery. Matthew M. Guy, Toronto, was the manufacturer. Mr. Leary's new launch will undoubtedly be appreciated.

Awful Experience with Heart Disease.—Mr. L. J. Law, Toronto, Can., writes: "I was so sorely troubled with heart disease that I was unable for 18 months to lie down and rest. After taking one dose of Dr. Agnew's Heart Cure, I retired and slept soundly. I used one bottle and the trouble has not returned."—99

Nasau Power House.

About 50 men are at work at Nasau, making excavation for the foundation of the new power plant to be erected just below the site of the Canadian General Electric Co. The building is to be situated on the west side of the river, and is to be 80x80 feet. It will be up-to-date and the Electric Company, with the water that is there available, hope to generate more than sufficient power for their works in town. Superintendent of Construction Moss, of Toronto, has his office at Nasau in one of the main vacated houses there, while the laborers are putting up in another of the dwellings and most of them boarding themselves. Greater accommodation will be available in a few days.

"I believe it to be the most effective remedy for the Stomach and Nerves in the Market."

Sunday School Teachers.

Jeffers, of the Collegiate Institute, led a discussion on "Teachers and their Qualifications."

THE SELF-DENIAL EFFORT OF THE SALVATION ARMY

Period Begins on May 26th and Lasts Until June 1st Inclusive.

Remarkable Success of The Effort in Self-Denial in Canada.

A remarkable illustration of the development of the Army operations is given by a glance at the history of what is known as the Self Denial Effort—annual event, which this year falls on the dates from May 26th to June 1st, inclusive. This wonderfully successful method of raising funds for prosecuting the work of the Army originated some thirteen years ago, when, to assist the Foreign Fund of the International Headquarters in London, General Booth made an appeal on these lines. The sum asked for was $25,000 and $24,110 was realized. Since then Great Britain alone has raised $1,500,000 by its self denial effort. This territory, with about one-eighth of the population, has raised $250,000 last year's amount being $200,000.

This self denial effort entails upon Salvationists giving up not only what money they may be able to afford to spend on the extension of Army expansion, but some luxury or personal indulgence during that week, abstention from which will keep before their minds the spiritual lessons of self denial. It is in fact an annual fast, in which not only the devotee, but the world benefits.

The movement, however, is not confined to Salvationists, as they, with marvelous success, enlist the sympathies of those who are by no means at one with them in religious creed. The effort is one which can only have a beneficial effect on those who participate in it, while its financial results are an important item in the extension of the many branches of Army work, with which the whole world is now familiar. We can only wish for the same success that has attended previous efforts.

The visit to Peterborough of Miss Galt, in connection with the Salvation Army, is bringing into prominence the great work the Army is doing in Canada.

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Dashes Here and There by a Man
Without Occupation.

The Idler received the following anonymous letter:

"The most reliable life insurance agent is dead. I have done business with all of them."

Now, here is a chance for some human flesh or yellow bread to get in their work. As to age, cause or condition, our correspondent leaves me in the dark, but the clue he hurled recklessly at me, and I submit the case to Chief Kowser, for what there may be or not be in it.

Ashburnham, May 18.—Mr. Idler: I am a young girl 17 years of age and my Ma is anxious for me to go out in Society. Would you advise me to make my day here this spring or this Fall? I am already in love with four or five people, and I do not see the use of going into society at all. I think it would be better to get married and settle down and go into the gardening and chicken business. Will you please give me your views on this subject and tell if you do not think it would be disastrous for a young lady to go into society if she didn't feel at all that way. MAUD.

I hasten to reply. I'll tell you, Maud, honestly, I think the Chicken Business is terribly exaggerated. I think that it is all right to get married, but, were I you, I'd make my day here in Society, even if I didn't stay in it fifteen minutes. Your husband might love another, or be drafted into the army—and a young widow who has never been a society belle—well, her heart would be heavy all her young, lone life.

P.S.—What does poor Pa think about it?

And now they have done it sure. I am appealed to learn that again Wall Eyed Science comes to the front, and solemnly and reproachfully informs the world that cats have diphtheria and Tetanus and Eweeey and Gout and all the ills that flesh is heir to. And that the ills that flesh is heir to that those cats, all cats, and a Chicago man has made the discovery, spread disease, and naturally Nervous People will taboo him. By a good way to fumigate a place is to spill a hickory sapling and place the cat's tail in it, and hand the sapling up in the smokehouse with the cat's head down, as would naturally be the case and burn brimstone and sulphur and coal tar for three days. This will kill the germs and it will kill the cat, and it will kill diphtheria. Little things like this, if it's advice or directions you want, I can give you while you wait.

There is now and then a pathetic story told over the wires—stories which cause one to ponder. If not to grieve. There was a little story sent out from New York the other day—a story woven from the warp and wool of Happiness, Misery and Despair. The story, briefly stated, was how Tillie Pink, a 19-year-old Russian girl, came to this country and left behind a lover bold and gay; of how she toiled and saved, and finally purchased a ticket for him and sent it across the ocean wild and waited for him to come. Or how he wrote her that he had found another girl—his own true love—and how he cared no longer for the one who had loved and worked for him. Of how from her pack's want treasure, she had taken money and bought a bottle of carbolic acid, and how after two weeks of agony in a hospital, she had given up the ghost and crossed the Dark River, but not to meet the one who was all the —Rev. R. P. McKay, D. D., of Toronto, foreign Mission Secretary, conducted anniversary services in St. Paul's church yesterday, preaching to large congregations both morning and evening.

—Mr. R. M. Riley has returned from Belleville, where he had been called by the severe illness of his mother, who is eighty-five years of age. Her recovery, we are pleased to say, is not despaired of.

BOERS HAVE A SECOND DE WET

Commandant Krutinger, Who Has Been Active in Cape Colony.

London, May 20.—Krutinger, the Boer commander, whose name has figured so prominently in connection with the invasion of Cape Colony, seems to be a leader of exceptional ability, not second even to the celebrated Christian De Wet. Times without number since he has been in the colony he has been described as hotly pursued, cornered or crushed up against the Orange River in full flood, his capture being expected every hour but when the columns surrounded him and his hard-pressed force cornered at the point where he was expected to be found, it was invariably discovered that he had passed through some gap in the British encircling line and doubled back on his tracks, or gone off in some other direction. At one moment he was with 1,000 men with him, and a day or two later, when the British have concentrated, it will be only to find that they have broken up into small bands and disappeared among the mountains, where pursuit is useless.

Our correspondent wrote at the end of March that the chase after Krutinger continued unabated, and was full of curious situations. No fewer than seven columns were in hot pursuit of him, driving him to the Orange River, which was fordable, but when they thought they had caught him they discovered that he was fifty miles in their rear, threatening the railway, after having broken up his command into two sections. Then everything had to begin again.

WHAT KRUTINGER IS LIKE.

An officer of the Intelligence Department who fell into Krutinger's hands gives an interesting account of his experience. Life was on his way to notify the local force in the radock district of Krutinger's proximity, when he found the drift where he had proposed to cross a river held by the Boers. He endeavored to swim the stream at another point but lost his horse and narrowly escaped drowning, being rescued by a passing Kaffir who chanced that way.

Krutinger, he described as a fine-looking man, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, broadly built, and speaking English perfectly. At the time of their meeting in lavender colored trousers, with yellow tanned gaiters, a well cut coat, starched white linen shirt, and a brand new taily hat, with puggaree. He wore gloves and carried a hunting crop. His men were well dressed, and all their horses were in splendid condition.

It was believed that one of the reasons for General De Wet's return north of the Orange River so soon after his last advance into Cape Colony was his recognition of Krutinger's ability to carry on the operations without his assistance.

Later he recovered his horse, which had landed further down, and rode off to warn the locals. He had ridden barely ten minutes in the direction he had to go when he was brought up short by two men sitting on a bank. One called out "Good morning," and the two advanced to make him prisoner. One was the Boer commandant and the other his right hand man, Krog. They were watching a large British force which was crossing the railway line in the far distance.

Finding there was no help for it, he submitted with good grace, and was closely searched, but no papers were found on him, he having previously destroyed those he had carried. He was deprived of his horse, saddle and field glass, but his watch and money were left with him.

MANY CUSTOMERS AFTER BROKERS

Claim That They Were Sold Out Before Being Consulted.

DEFENCE OF ALL THE BROKERS.

New York, May 20.—Brokers of the Wall street sections are apt to be swamped with suits for the recovery of money as a result of the recent panic caused by the Northern Pacific corner. Many customers who were sold out by their brokers during the sudden slump in prices are about to bring actions for large amounts on the ground they were sold out without being consulted and before their margins were exhausted. The liability of the broker has therefore become an interesting question. When the break came scores of brokers sold out their customers right and left at any price they could get, so that when the market had recovered thousands of customers found they had been sold out at low figures and had lost thousands by the flurry. The fact they had given no orders and in many up to protect their accounts below the lowest points their stocks attained. In reply to this the brokers say they cannot hold stocks until the margins are exhausted or they would lose thousands, or course not knowing where the decline will end. In their defence, therefore, they say they must sell out a customer whenever the market looks dangerous and the customer is not ready with ample funds to protect his account against any sort of a drop. Many complaints have been received by officials of the Stock Exchange, and the Arbitration Board will have plenty to do in this respect even if many cases are not carried to the courts, as now threatened. Even the brokers themselves are divided on the question of liability in many cases.

NO HOPE OF AN HEIR FOR SERBIA'S THRONE

Confusion Reigns at Royal Palace
as a Result of The Announcement.

Vienna, May 20.—A despatch to the Neue Freie Presse from Belgrade, Serbia, says Prof. Sengieroff, of Moscow, visited Belgrade in order to attend Queen Draga during her convalescence. He left after formally declaring to the King, the Prime Minister, and the Russian Ambassador, that he did not believe normal childbirth was possible in her case. Dr. Coulet, the Queen's physician, maintained that her confinement was imminent. Confusion reigned at the palace.

The question of Queen Draga's baby is a puzzle to the Balkan States, and telegrams on the subject are pouring in every moment. There are rumors in Belgrade and Vienna that Queen Draga hoped to poison off her sister's child as her own, but the former was born dead. Belgrade, it is said, is greatly excited.

The Serbian government has announced officially that an heir to the throne was not expected.

The announcement in July last by King Alexander, of Serbia, of his betrothal to Mme. Maesin, formerly a lady-in-waiting to Queen Natalie, caused a sensation throughout Serbia and a commotion in Vienna. The lady was obscure, and her birth regarded as almost plebeian. She was 12 years older than King Alexander. The Serbian Ministry, upon learning of the fact, promptly resigned, and the King had great difficulty to find successors to them. The match was regarded in Belgrade as preposterous, and as a menace to the State.

QUEBEC'S WELCOME TO THE ROYAL PARTY

All the Troops in the Province to Be Mobilized at the Ancient Capital.

Quebec, May 20.—The announcement that the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York will make their first Canadian landing at Quebec has already caused much pleasure and satisfaction among the citizens of this ancient capital of Canada.

Much speculation has arisen also as to the nature of the reception that will be tendered to the Royal visitors. It was believed that the occasion would be seized by the Dominion Government for a brilliant pageant, and it is now known that this will be of an unprecedented character. Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick says that when the Royal party on board drops anchor in the harbor of Quebec there will be a military display here that will outshine anything this country has ever before attempted. It is the intention of the Government, according to the Secretary-General, that all the troops in the Province will be mobilized here, and take part in the reception.

O'BRIEN HAS SWEET REVENGE

Editor of Irish People Publishes Attack on Secretary Wyndham.

Dublin, May 20.—The Irish People, William O'Brien's paper, contains a nine-column attack on Mr. Wyndham, the Irish secretary, for the recent seizure of the paper because of its insulting references to King Edward. The general policy of Mr. Wyndham is also assailed.

Some of the subheads are the following: "Fools or Assassins or Both," "Better Castle Lawlessness Than Castle Cant," and "The Meanness of the Ramsdals."

"Villainy," "treachery," "hypocrisy" and "meanness" are frequently used in reference to Mr. Wyndham, who in conclusion is called "a liar, sneak and backbiter."

Nothing is said against the king.

WORLD OF SPORT.

The committee on sports have about completed arrangements for the 24th, and it is thought that when the day arrives, all that will be necessary for the enjoyment of all will be pleasant weather.

A reply from the Scots football club, of Toronto, states that they will bring down a very strong team and intend administering a defeat to the town team. They will also bring down some good men to compete in several events.

The following gentlemen were appointed to help run off the sports: Assistant Secretary—Mr. R. F. McWilliams.

Announcer—Mr. Compin.

Starter—Mr. J. W. McLeod.

Judges—Thos. Hay, Capt. Bennett.

Judges of layonet contest—Lieut. Col. Edwards, Mr. Walker.

Timer—Mr. Alex. Gibson.

Scorer—Mr. G. B. Cameron.

Clerks of the course—Messrs. Jas. Hamilton, E. S. Clarry, Frank Lakenham, R. A. W. Hay, C. B. Robertson, G. J. Tovey.

In order to facilitate the running off of the sports, it was decided to have entries closed on the evening of the 23rd. Post entries will be received on the grounds up to 2.30. All competitors are requested to put in their entries as soon as possible to the secretary, Mr. A. W. McPherson.

The managerie race will be arranged on Tuesday evening after drill. Each officer is asked to come prepared to enter an animal. The companies are asked to try and arrange the entries of their squads for Tuesday evening. Alarays Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 6 have signified their intention of being represented. This race is to consist of five men in uniform, and are to be connected by having a rope through their belts. This should be an exciting and interesting race.

These same companies, as well as the Y.M.C.A., will likely compete in the relay race. The committee would like entries from such organizations as the Edison's or the Hamilton works or any other organizations around the town. This is the last event of the evening. It will likely come last, and will take place on the track. Each relay will go once around.

One race is changed. Instead of having a regular wheelbarrow race the Committee thought it would be more interesting to have a human wheelbarrow race. A man acting as a wheelbarrow will be driven 25 yards, then the two change places and go back the 25 yards.

A programme of the sports will be gotten out. This will give the events in the proper order with the approximate at which they will be run. The prizes will be distributed as won.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

Her Refusal to Sign a Paper Intimating to the Nation.

London, May 20.—A little story has come to hand of Queen Victoria, which was not mentioned during her life. It bears the stamp of truth, as it was told by her youngest son, Prince Leopold, when he was studying at Oxford. A Harvard professor was spending the greater part of a year there, and he became intimately acquainted with Prince Leopold. When calling upon him to say "good-bye," Prince Leopold said, "I want to tell you a story to remember me by."

"It was a little boy, playing on the floor of the room where my mother was sitting. 'Lord Johnny,' as we affectionately called him (Lord Itsewell), came into the room where my mother was and landed her a paper, which she read carefully, and then said, 'I have read a word. He went out and came returned with the paper. She read it through again, and showed some displeasure, remarking, 'I do not like it, and I shall never sign a paper that would lead to war with the United States.'"

"I looked up from my play, as this was the first time I received any intimation that my mother was anything more than a further woman. The paper was still further changed. A week or two later my mother told me that my brother, the Prince of Wales, had visited the United States the year before. He had been so kindly received that he considered that it had established a bond of amity between the United States and England, and that she would never be one to do anything that could in any way disturb it."

A COMPROMISE IN ALBANY CAR STRIKE

Settlement Agreed Upon; Recognized; Wages Increased; Non-Union Men to be Retained.

Street Car System Car System in Operation at Noon Saturday—
Strikers Bind Themselves Not to Inaugurate Any Further Strike Without Six Days Notice to the Company.

Cost of Strike.

Two lives lost.
Many people injured.
Loss to Co. $17,423.03.
Loss to strikers, $17,820.
Loss to the country, $33,700.
Total money loss, $68,953.03.

Albany, May 20.—The car strike is over. One thousand men in five cities who have been idle for five days returned to their work at noon. Forty-five miles of track that have rested for a like period except where a guarded car sped over it, began to be polished by the schedule running cars. Three thousand members of the National Guard, in soggy clothes from a drizzling rain, began to parade to go home. The strike has been of twelve days' duration, and the total money cost of it in all ways to date is estimated at $68,953.03.

The agreement in full is as follows:

First—The road will continue to recognize and treat with any committee of its employees, representing organized or unorganized labor, when they desire to be heard in relation to any grievances.

Second—Any men who may be suspended or discharged by the superintendent shall be entitled to appeal to the Executive Committee of the company.

Third—Conductors and motormen who exhibit their badges by pinning them upon the lapels of their coat shall be permitted to ride without payment of fare on all cars operated on a division on which conductor and motormen belong.

Fourth—Inspectors riding on cars shall not be registered as passengers unless a pass is given.

Fifth—The road will pay all employees for the time lost when they have been suspended by the company and found not guilty.

Sixth—There will be no discrimination against any of the men on account of the strike of May 7, 1901, but this shall not apply to those under arrest, or who, within the next ten days, may be placed under arrest, charged with the commission of unlawful or riotous acts; until the Executive Committee, after a hearing given to such persons, shall be satisfied that their is reasonable doubt of their guilt.

Seventh—The road is free to employ union or non-union men and to discharge them for cause.

Eighth—The wages of all the motormen, conductors, linemen, and pitmen shall be 20 cents per hour, and of pitmen helpers 17 1/2 cents per hour.

Ninth—The strikers agree that in consideration of several agreements herein contained to be kept by the company that the members of the paid divisions will discharge their duties in an efficient, faithful and skilled manner.

Tenth—To reduce as much as possible inconvenience to the travelling public, it is agreed that no proposition for a strike shall be acted upon by any division at the same meeting at which it is introduced, but that at least 48 hours shall elapse before such proposition shall be voted upon. And if a strike shall be ordered, it shall not take effect until at least six days have elapsed after notice to the company, during which time the employees shall continue their work.

The non-union men brought here to fill the places of the strikers will unquestionably withdraw, although the formal agreement does not mention them. The company declined to agree to send them away, so a member of the directors says, but it is felt that service under the circumstances will be so unpleasant for them that they will voluntarily withdraw.

Terms of Settlement.

Union recognized; discharged men entitled to appeal to executive of company; conductors and motormen can ride free; employees to be paid for time lost by mistaken suspensions; wages 20c an hour, helpers 17 1/2c an hour; six days notice in case of a strike.

TRIED TO SHOOT.

Mrs. Ewart Tried to Collect Judgment With a Gun.

Denver, May 20.—Mrs. Martha Ewart, a widow, proprietress of a fashionable rooming house, fired two shots at Joseph E. Choate, manager of the Overland Cotton Mills and a nephew of United States Ambassador Choate, in the law office at Wolcott & Vaile, during a conference last night. Neither of the bullets took effect.

About a year ago Mrs. Ewart sued Choate for alleged breach of promise and secured a judgement. She says she attempted to shoot him because he had not settled the judgement. She was arrested.

On Feb. 14 last Mr. Choate was married in Brooklyn, N. Y., to Miss Alice Muller.

A Mining Boom in South Africa.

New York, May 18.—Evidence is not lacking, says the Tribune's correspondent, that there will be a South African mining boom before many weeks. Johannesburg is gradually filling, the mine sale re-opening, and arrangements are making for the reorganization of the government of the town. The reopening of the "Kaffir Circus" would have at least one good result—it would engross the attention of the capitalist class and allow it less leisure for meddling in the government of the new British colonies. Some of Sir Alfred Milner's recent appointments in the Transvaal have excited much criticism. The eight powerful groups of capitalists have been represented too conspicuously in those appointments, and feeling of distrust has been created, which tends to retard the pacification of South Africa. It is said that Gen. Botha, as soon as he learned that Sir Alfred Milner was about to leave South Africa sent a mounted messenger to Gen. Kitchener with a view to the reopening of peace negotiations. Gen. Botha wanted to communicate with Mr. Kruger, but Lord Kitchener said he could have no dealings with the ex-President.

GEN. CHAFFEE'S FAREWELL ORDER ISSUED.

Pekin May 19.—Gen. Chaffee at midnight last night issued his farewell order ending the American relief expedition. The American troops will board the transports next Wednesday at Taku and Thursday will leave direct for Manila. M'Sichon the French Minister left here for home this morning. A meeting of the Foreign Ministers will be held tomorrow but it is not likely that much will be accomplished as some of the ministers have not yet received instructions from their home governments. The ministers commenting upon the blame attached to them by the people for their slowness say that as a matter of fact they are powerless to act without orders from home. One of the foreign ministers told the correspondent of the Associated press yesterday that he had been instructed partly to cooperate with another minister. He found upon consultation with his colleagues that their instructions were absolutely different from his, consequently co-operation was practically impossible.

PRINCIPAL GRANT.

Principal Grant, in a recent University address, said that we in Ontario were alive to the necessity of developing our material resources, but that we were not alive to the value of truth for its own sake. Other distinguished men have given us similar opinions. Can it be that we think truth in other than a milder sense is merely virtue, and as such merely the adornment of supercilious affectation? In the older countries men of intellect—that is to say the brains of the nation, have learned that a search after anything but truth at once reveals the character and inclination of the searcher, and stamps him as a criminal. Then there is the jolliter, the jolliter jollies the honest man and the dishonest man alike, but as a rule winds up with the hatred of both. The dignity of manhood is really what the learned principal referred to. It has a higher tone which is not misleading. He assured that nothing but truth and virtue can live. For the rest it is a laudable disease. To such men as Dr. Grant—who are too honest to dispute the we owe more than we can ever give.

It should be intolerable that "political revelations" should be the order of the day. When men awake to their political responsibility in the sight of God! Opinions are but opinions after all, but the motive is either good or bad, and should be dealt with as such. A great good man is truly a fountain of wisdom. He is like unto a star wheeling in mighty glory. For the cool, calculating schemer or the man who makes measure our contempt. The preacher, not withstanding all their resources, are not bringing us to higher ideals; nor do they always by any means follow higher ideals themselves. Gingerbread platitudes, plainness and vulgar ideas, all go hand in hand. They are human but not scriptural.

Bronchitis sufferers.

Aet foolishly. If they improve over so little when the fine weather comes, they relax effort and drift back into the old condition, which if possible, becomes more chronic. Hit Bronchitis hard in the summer and you will get rid of it and drive it right out of the system. In winter it is almost impossible to do this. Inhabit Ontario—zone regularly, it's a dead sure thing on Bronchitis. It goes into the most minute air cells of the lungs, bathes all parts of the bronchial tubes with its healing, germ destroying vapor, and cures every time. A SATISFACTORY REVENGE

Governor Howard sat one morning in his handsome private office in the statehouse, and the number of important papers must be carefully examined and had given strict orders to his secretary to admit no one. But the papers lay neglected on his desk and the governor leaned back in his great chair indulging in a pleasant reverie. His thoughts were not of the successful battles he had fought so recently. He was not thinking of the hard fight he had had to gain the nomination in the bitter struggle for the election. He was thinking of something he had won that was more to him than the governorship.

In his college days he had loved a beautiful young girl, but she had passed him by and married his dearest friend. She was his first and his last love. His profession filled his life and he had risen rapidly, step by step, until he attained the highest position to be had in his state. After a few years of happy married life his old love became a widow. Time and travel smoothed her grief and at last, still young and beautiful, she had turned to her first love. They had just returned from their brief bridal tour and it was of this that the governor sat dreaming.

The heavy oaken door opened and a tall and very beautiful girl entered. The governor sprang to his feet in surprise.

"Why, Grace, my dear girl, where did you come from?"

"From home, of course, my dear brother-in-law, and I came to see you. I haven't even been up to see Edith yet."

"My dear, you flatter me. What can I do for you? Is there some wicked criminal you want pardoned? Name him and he's free."

"George," said the girl, "I have come to you for help. I want you to assist, not only as a brother, but as the governor."

He looked at her in amazement. Her lips were trembling and drawn with pain and there were blue hollows under her eyes.

"Dear little sister, I'll do anything in my power for you. What is your trouble? Tell me all about it."

She dropped into a large chair opposite him and after a moment's silence began:

"You remember that last year I was engaged to George Arnold?"

"Well, you also know that the family never learned just why the engagement was broken. The reason was too humiliating and I could not tell it. I loved George dearly and I thought he loved me. We had quarrels. He said I tried to play too many men at once. Gerald acted outrageously. He would make engagements and never keep them. For days he would not write to me and when he did he wrote hurried notes. Naturally, I objected and so it grew worse and worse. Finally one day he wrote me that he no longer cared for me, that I had worn out his love, and he thought it best that we should part. I knew that I was partially to blame, so I wrote and told him that I realized this and that I still loved him and I thought it would be best for him to come to Hammond once more and we'd talk the matter over, and if we must part, well, we'd part as friends. He never answered the letter and in a little while I returned the ring. That was in April. During the summer he was in Hammond several times, but never came to see me."

"One evening a week ago he walked in, to my utterable amazement. He told me he loved me better than ever and had been thoroughly miserable without me, and asked me if I would forgive him and take him back again. Being a fool and very much in love, I said 'Yes.' I was idiotically happy for a day or two and then the blow fell."

"Jack Firdling—he lives here, you know—was in Hammond and came to see me. He told me that there was going to be lots of excitement over your appointments. He said that both Gerald and Judge Smith were anxious to secure the attorneyship of the insurance department and were bending all their energies toward it. Judge Smith is the older man and has more influence behind him, and the odds were in his favor until the story went around that Gerald and I were engaged again. Jack said that everyone thought that, of course, the place would go to Gerald."

"The was a hideous suspicion in my mind and I went upstairs and thought it all over. Gerald had deliberately broken our engagement and now he was making me a fool to get the place. He had told me no longer cared for me, and when I humbled my pride and asked him to come to see me once more he simply ignored me. He was in Hammond often, but never came to see me or made the slightest effort toward a reconciliation until after you married Edith and he wanted this appointment. When he broke our engagement he did not know of your prospective marriage. Edith was in Europe until just before the wedding and, as only our most intimate friends knew of the engagement, it was a surprise."

"He did not even wait until your honeymoon was over to commence his little game. I have thought and thought and thought and can only come to one conclusion. Oh, George, would you be kind enough to lend me your faith in Gerald and in this way?"

Her head dropped on the desk before her. The governor rose and walked the floor for several moments. Then he came and stood beside her.

"My poor child, it is a bitter experience and it is hard to have it come through those we love and trust."

She raised her head.

"George, I have told you this as my brother. Now I want your help as the governor."

"Well, I want you to give Gerald this appointment."

"Yes, George, I do. I want you to give it to him at once, and I shall tell him he got it and I shall never again speak to him."

"But George, the scamp ought to be—"

"Oh, George, can't you see—won't you—"

The governor was silent for a moment. Then he spoke and his voice trembled.

"Yes, dear, I see. You are a noble girl. How would you like for me to give him the attorneyship for the New Georgia commission? It's twice as good and will make him rich."

"Oh, George, that to a young man I can never thank you enough for it. You have lightened my burden more than I can ever tell you."

He took her in his arms and kissed the lips like those of another.

"Dear little sister, I'd do more than that to comfort you in this trouble."

A few days later the governor, and Gerald Arnold sat in the former's private office. The usual preliminary courtesies had been exchanged and the governor proceeded to business.

"I have told you to ask you if you will do me the favor of accepting the attorneyship of the new Georgia commission?"

The young man was silent with His Wife's Weak Heart.

It is a singular thing that in the popular view of disease the interdependence of the several organs of the body is lost sight of. The heart, for example, is diseased and it is treated as if it were entirely separated from, and independent of, every other organ. The fallacy of this opinion is shown by the cures of heart "trouble," liver "trouble," kidney "trouble," and other so-called "troubles," effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Primarily the "Discovery" is a medicine for the cure of diseases of the stomach and blood. But it cures diseases of organs seemingly remote from their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition.

"I doctored with three different doctors for weak heart, but they did me no good," writes Mrs. Julia A. Wood, Wood Co., Ohio. "I was so tired and discouraged if I had had my choice to live or die I would have preferred to die. My husband heard of Golden Medical Discovery and he bought a bottle. I took that and the first half seemed to help me. I took six bottles before I stopped. I am perfectly well, and am cooking for six boarders. It has been a God send to me."

antonishment. The governor was watching him keenly.

"Governor, this is a great surprise to me. I am not in the habit of being so much of myself to go to her until I found I could atone for my miserable conduct of last spring. I can give her money now as well as love and I feel less like a brute. I don't make an awful lot of a man sometimes."

The governor sprang to his feet and wrung Arnold's hand.

"Gerald, I congratulate you with my heart and I'm going to have you for a brother-in-law. Go and tell Grace I said so."

ATTACK OF ROYAL CANADIANS
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has been the splendid of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, each on heavy, superfine, calendared paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian. It is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians. There are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the hundreds of figures stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the fiercest fighting. It was on the battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of the gallant hearted men who died so high when the cheering thousands bade them Good-bye as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie side by side in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart is every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible force of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders, the Battle of Belmont, charging the Boer Guns at Elandsburg and the charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreat from Ladysmith. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will send them to their friends. SEND FOR THEM! Agents coin money. Big profits. Thousands of sales. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25c (one free); four for $1.00; ten for $2.50; twenty for $5.00; fifty for $12.50. Write today for a free dozen and make money. Home Novelty Mfg. The Aristos GOLD MINING CO.
Owning Big Horn Mountain Tunnel and Veneta Vein, 200 acres situated on the Western Slope of Pikes Peak, in the famous Cripple Creek Gold Mining District.

THE SAFEST OFFER EVER MADE TO INVESTORS
100,000 Shares Preferred Stock at 25c. Per Share.

It is printed on each certificate that subscribers to the above Preferred Shares will be entitled to receive in Dividends the full amount of money invested, before other stockholders receive any returns, signed by the President of the Company.

This district produced more Gold in 1900 than any other in the United States

This property consists of 3000 by 3000 feet, or 250 acres, of gold land. The mine has been worked. The feature of this mine is the Veneta Vein, 30 to 40 feet in width, and is certainly one of the strongest veins in this famous district. There are some fifteen openings on this vein, the ore is from which assays in gold from $12 to $100 per ton. The property is advantageously located for development by tunnel, which will make it possible to produce an enormous amount of ore daily, the quantity varying from 200 to 800 tons per day.

At a distance of 800 feet the Tunnel will intersect the Veneta Vein at a depth of about 680 feet, and will also intersect several other veins. The tunnel will cut the Big Horn Mountain 2100 feet deep, and will give this company 2,000,000 tons of ore, worth over $20 per ton.

The new railroad, now practically completed from Colorado Springs, called the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek road, passes within 2000 feet of this Tunnel Adjoining this property is the Colorado Springs TUNNEL Company. In this property at a depth of 400 feet, the Veneta Vein was cut. At this point the vein was fully 30 feet in width, and its value from $20 to $100 per ton.

There are already in operation "mills and smelters sufficient to treat the output of this property, which gives at once cash returns.

Capital Stock $1,000,000. Par Value $1.00 Per Share. 100,000 Shares Preferred Stock at 25c. Per Share.

In buying this stock the purchaser owns a direct title in the Company's property. This Company offers you no watered stock, but a legitimate high-grade gold-mining investment in the Cripple Creek District.

The above offer of Preferred Dividends is an assurance of early returns. After additional machinery is erected, this property will be earning dividends at a rate equal to its Capital Stock.

HISTORICAL.

Bunker Hill monument was built during the years 1826-1832. LaFayette attended the laying of the corner stone and President Tyler the official dedication, while Webb furnished the oration for both occasions. In the lodge at the base is Drake's marble statue of General Warren, and in 1831 a bronze statue of Colonel Prescott was raised, showing the brave soldier in a seersucker coat and a broad farmer's hat with drawn sword, as when warning his eager men, "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

Longfellow's house in Brattle street, Cambridge, is the most famous private house in America (the version being public). It is a comfortable mansion and was built in 1759, but deserted by Colonel Vassall, its master, in 1775, and occupied by Washington as headquarters during the eight months of the siege of Boston. Longfellow came here as a boarder in 1837. He once possessed of the house later and died there in 1882. Washington's office and Longfellow's study were in the room of the first floor to the right of the door, the officers' room and library being back of it, and the drawing-room on the other side of the front door.

The First Parish Church, Roxbury, situated in Elliot square, is an excellent and well-preserved specimen of Puritan architecture, dating from 1601. The society originated in 1625, and for many years had for its pastor the gentle John Eliot, who gave most of his time to preaching to the Indians and translating the Bible into their language. After nearly two centuries of Orthodoxy, the parish became Unitarian, and Dr. George Putnam led it from 1830 to 1876. In 1775-76 the steeple on this site served as a signal station for the American army, and the church became the target for cannon shot from the British lines.

THE FINGER NAILS.

Long nails never indicate such great physical strength as short, broad ones. Very long finger-nailed persons are apt to have delicate chests and lungs. Long nails very wide at the top and bluish in appearance denote bad circulation. Long-naild men and women are less critical and more impressionable than those with short nails.

Long nails indicate idealism and artistic temperament.

Long-naild people are very apt to be visionary and hate to face disagreeable facts.

They judge even themselves severely.

Short-naild women never give up on argument.

A keen sense of humor accompanies short nails.

Short-naild persons make good critics; they are sharper and more logical than long-naild individuals.

Short nails, thin and flat at the base, indicate a weak action of the heart.

Short nails very flat and sunken, as it were, into the flesh at the base are a sign of diseased nerves.

Short nails very flat and inclined to curve out or lift up at the edges are the forerunners of paralysis.

Don't scoff at the idea that pressing the ends of the fingers gently will make them assume the shape of the nails, for it is a fact.

Don't use nail bleaches too generously, and don't fall to be stingy of rouge and powder. Let your nails be beautiful, with no visible signs of the manicuring that keeps them pink and lovely.

Don't fancy that the tiny white specks that come on the nails can be easily removed. The improper use of steel manicure instruments generally causes them, although they are sometimes the result of an over-supply of lime in the system.

LIVE ONE HUNDRED YEAR.

These are Sir John Sawyer's nine rules for living 100 years:

1. Eight hours' sleep.
2. Sleep on your right side.
3. Keep your bedroom window open all night.
4. Have a mat to your bedroom door.
5. Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
6. No cold water in the morning but a bath at the temperature of the body.
7. Exercise before breakfast.
8. Eat little meat and see that it is well cooked.
9. (For adults) Drink no milk.
10. Eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
11. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy those cells.
12. Daily exercise in the open air.
13. Allow no pet animals in your living-rooms.
14. Live in the country if you can.
15. Watch the three D's—drinking, water, damp, draughts.
16. Have change of occupation.
17. Take frequent and short walks.
18. Limit your ambition.
19. Keep your temper.

BACHELOR REFLECTIONS.

Determination is obstinacy that gets tired.

It is only a very foolish woman that can make a smart man a fool.

If you can once wake a woman's curiosity you can make her do anything for you that you want.

When a woman has the same hired girl a year the other women say she has "bare executive ability."

Women will never take much real interest in politics, as long as the campaign comes at the same time the magazines are all printing pictures of the styles that are going to be worn next winter.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss, and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379, Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. —A new granite sidewalk is being built on the south side of MacDonald street, between George and Water streets.

—An accident to the engine pulling the midday express to Belleville delayed the train, and nearly caused a catastrophe.

—A couple of small-pox cases are reported a few miles east of Hawke. The origin of the disease is traced to a shipwreck.

—A special train will leave Peterborough on May 24th, 1901, at 10:30 p.m. for the accommodation of passengers to Keene, Hastings and Campbellford.

—All the members and ex-members of the National Home Reading Union are requested to meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

—The regular monthly meeting of the St. John's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to Missions will be held this afternoon at halfpast three o'clock in the Guild room. All women are invited to be present.

—Lindsay Post.—Mr. A. W. Campbell, Provincial Commissioner of Highways, arrived in town this morning, and spent the afternoon looking over our streets. He will superintend the construction of the block on Lindsay st. already under way. The council should send its engineer up for lessons.

—At the nomination meeting held Wednesday in South Monaghan there was a good attendance. The following gentlemen were nominated for councillors in place of D. Baxter, resigned: James Jackson nominated by Samuel White; James Jackson nominated by H. Barnard; J. Jackson and J. L. Ing resigned when W. White was declared elected by acclamation.

—Members of the 67th Regiment, except those belonging to the band, requested to return all helmets to the armory. It is expected that a new issue will shortly be made, but it is first necessary to secure all badges now out. Attention is also called to the order directing all persons not actually drilling to return all regimental arms, clothing and equipment. Action will be taken against parties neglecting to obey such order.

—The statement that Mr. Percy Watson, of Norwood, had returned to South Africa is incorrect. Mr. Watson received a very tempting offer to return to the Transvaal and take charge of a large farm there, and had not fully decided to accept the position, but the alarming reports about the spread of the plague, together with the unsettled condition of affairs led him to re-consider his decision, and he intends for the present, at least, to remain here.

FOR KILLING A CLERGYMAN.

Hard Work to Get a Jury to Try S. D. Stokes

—Quarrelled Over Anti-Banishing Terms.

Williamson, W. Va., May 18.—Great difficulty is being experienced in getting a jury to try the case of S. D. Stokes of this city, charged with the murder of the Rev. J. J. Woolh, at his home here, on December 6 last.

The trial opened yesterday and already the regular panel has been exhausted without securing more than one juror. Stokes is so well known and the killing caused such deep feeling that it is hard to find any one without a fixed opinion.

The tragedy was remarkable. Woolh was a Presbyterian preacher of great force and in a sermon last winter violently denounced the society people of the town for dancing. Stokes took offense at the sermon and the next Sunday the remarks were repeated.

The following evening Stokes and Woolh met at the threshold of Woolh's residence. Hot words passed. Mrs. La Noire, the minister's housekeeper, to whom Stokes was talking and who is the only witness, says Woolh slapped Stokes in the face and shot him in the hip before Stokes drew his pistol and fired twice, killing Woolh instantly.

Stokes is popular and a prominent politician. He has been out on bail all the time and the case is attracting great attention.

DENIES RUSSIAN LOAN RUMOR

Bank of England Says French Have no Withdrawal Deposits.

London, May 20.—Inquiries made at the Bank of England, to-day show there is no truth in the story circulated by a news agency in the United States that the Bank of Paris and the Credit Lyonnais of Paris Tuesday and Wednesday withdrew £6,000,000 from the London market and that it was thought probable that £3,000,000 additional will be withdrawn tomorrow. No gold has been withdrawn from France, and the officials of the Bank of England have not even heard of any intended withdrawals of gold from London for the Russian loan, which was alleged to have been the cause of the action of the Bank of Paris and the Credit Lyonnais.

How to Get an Appetite.

Diatase for food often follows Grippe, and fever, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food, and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Perzone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Perzone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. THE BIG CELEBRATION.

Much Interest is Being Taken in the Extensive Program.

The committee runs of the Victoria Day Celebration Committee are working every night, and everything is now assuming shape. The procession is to be a monstrous affair. A telephone has been placed in the committee room for the use of secretary Barrett and others.

The Indian braves, under Chief Harry Winch, will be an important feature. Already about 20 have been secured from Aspley, Villiers, Warsaw, Buckhorn and 4th line of Smith, who will appear in full aboriginal costume.

The mammoth programmes have been issued, and may be obtained at the committee rooms.

Peterborough Ben Arrives.

Saturday there arrived by express from Montreal, a distinguished visitor, in the shape of the celebrated dog, Peterborough Ben, who is a guest at the residence of Mr. H. J. Davis.

Ben is looking well, and in company with Messrs. Alf. Brown and W. Finning, gave The Times a friendly call.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church, met on Friday night, and completed arrangements for the annual excursion of the Society, which will take place on June 27th from Chatham to Lakeland, per steamer Empress. This will be one of the most popular excursions of the season.

No Concern of Ours.

The Times received a letter for publication, in which an evening contemporary is taken to task for alleged statements reflecting on the financial standing of Mr. W. J. Bailey, the Toronto contractor. Our correspondent also refers in rather uncomplimentary terms to Ex-Alderman William Langford, who is alleged to have "aided" our contemporary for purposes of his own. The trouble does not concern us, and as the matter is not of public interest, the article cannot therefore appear in these columns.

Cost Of The War.

The British public have shown their willingness of the war by declining to send any more gifts to the soldiers in South Africa. The end approaches with exasperating slowness. It is impossible to withhold admiration for the desperate and despairing courage of the Boers. They have lost all, but they still fight. They are harassed, they are starved, they are hunted from post to pillar, but they are still in the field. A large army find it extremely difficult to subdue a handful of desperate men, hiding among rocks and hills. Sir Alfred Milner is pessimistic; the British newspapers have long since expended all their enthusiasm, and even the government has become apologetic. The war—its war it may be called—costs a million dollars per day. The country is poor; an enormous dislocation has taken place—a cost which makes the phlegmatic British taxpayer wince. The denuding the country of its means of defence; the difficulty of governing when once active resistance has been put down; the inability of the country to bear the expense of the war—all these considerations are involved. The subject has become a painful one. The cost must go on. The last floor in the field must be fought down. But the terrible cost of the war both in blood and treasure illustrates how desirable it is that diplomacy should be given every chance, that time should not be considered, and patience should be allowed to devise a way, before resort be had to the dread arbitrament of war, ruinous.

A NON-SLAVONIC UNION GREECE AND ROUMANIA

A Close Friendship Existing Between The Little Kingdoms.

Which Would Mean a Great Deal in Case of Russian Encroachment.

Athens, May 21.—Charles of Roumania and King George of Greece met here this afternoon on board the Greek warship Peara. The object of the meeting was to draw Roumania and Greece into closer friendship, unofficially various reasons are ascribed to this encounter and notable among them is the need for the two non-Slavonic Balkan states, Roumania and Greece, to come to an understanding in opposition to the pan-Slavonic states of Serbia and Bulgaria on the Macedonian and other questions. King Charles and King George have hitherto never met. The conference which had been arranged to take place

In 1888 failed because of the death of Queen Louise of Denmark. Although the Greek and Roumanian press both indulge in great expectations as to the result of the royal interchange of courtesies, it is probable that nothing more definite will result than an exchange of views and the strengthening of the friendly relations existing to-day between the two countries.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

Non-Urgy Sittings Open Before Justice Robertson

Three Cases Docketed of Which are of More or Less Local Interest

The non-urgency sittings of the High Court of Justice opened in the Court House yesterday, before Mr. Justice Robertson. The local bar was represented by Messrs. A. P. Fournelle, K.C., W. A. Stratton, K.C., R. M. Dennison, D. W. Dumble, John Green, H. F. McWilliams, E. A. Peck, G. W. Hutton, W. H. Moore, E. H. D. Hall, and others.

There are three cases on the docket, namely: Dover vs. Haliburton Lumber Co.; Gage vs. Dunsterville; and the Standard Co. of Montreal vs. the Dickson Co. The latter case was in part previously heard at Cobourg before the late Justice Hume, hearing having been adjourned, was transferred by consent to Peterborough. Brief summaries of the statement of claims of each case is as follows:

Dover vs. Haliburton Lumber Co.—The plaintiff, Fred Dover, resides in Peterborough and the defendants are engaged in lumbering in the township of Dysart. The plaintiff's statement sets out that he is and was at the time of the doing of the acts complained of, the owner of lots 18 and 19 in the second concession of the township of Dysart, in the provincial county of Haliburton. The defendants and their servants and workmen during the winter of 1899-1900 wrongfully broke and entered the plaintiff's said lands and cut down and carried away and destroyed 500 pine trees and one hundred cedar and black ash and other trees standing and being on said lands, loads and openings through the woods were cut by defendants, and large quantities of brush and slash left behind, exposing the remaining timber to the danger of forest fires. The plaintiff claimed damages for wrongs complained of, an injunction restraining defendants from their repetition and the costs of the action. The defendant's deny plaintiff's allegations, and as an alternative bring into court $175 and say that the sum is sufficient to satisfy plaintiff's claim.

E. B. Edwards, K.C., solicitor for the plaintiff; Blake, Lamb & Casella, Toronto, for the defendants.

GAGE vs. DUNSTON.

The plaintiff, Georgina M. Gage, is a widow, residing in the township of Ottonabee, and the defendant, Clarence Josephine Dunsterville, is a widow residing in Lindsay. The plaintiff and defendant are sisters. According to the plaintiff's statement of claim, on or about April 1st, 1899, the defendant informed the plaintiff that lot 4, on the north side of Glenzie street, Lindsay, was for sale for $1,200, and requested the plaintiff to purchase the same, further stating that with an additional $700 the property would be made very desirable and valuable. The plaintiff finally agreed and advanced to defendant $2,000 to purchase the said property, upon which defendant was residing. On April 24th defendant purchased the lands from one Edward Murphy, the owner, and by falsely representing herself to be the purchaser, procured a conveyance to be made to her of the said lands in fee simple. The plaintiff claims that she may be declared owner of said lands, and that the defendant holds the same in trust for her, and that the defendant may be ordered to convey the same to the plaintiff. That the defendant may be ordered to account to the plaintiff for the expenditure of the money given her, as aforesaid, and such other relief as the Court may see fit.

The defendant denies having requested the plaintiff to purchase the property, and states that the plaintiff voluntarily offered $2,000 to her, remarking "You can make yourself a nice home." The defendant received the deed of the property, and immediately executed a mortgage to the plaintiff for $2,000, according to terms agreed on, and the plaintiff has since held the mortgage. The plaintiff, the defendant alleges, understood and was agreeable to all transactions. The defendant had expended in various of $1,000, advanced by plaintiff, upon the property.

E. B. Stone, plaintiff's solicitor; Donald K. Anderson, Lindsay, defendant's solicitor.

STANDARD CO. vs. DICKSON CO.

The plaintiffs are a company carrying on business in Montreal and elsewhere in buying timber and selling the same, and the defendants are manufacturers of lumber. The plaintiffs state that on or about April, 1891, the defendants agreed to sell the plaintiffs 3,000,000 square feet of merchantable lumber at $15 per thousand feet, and also 2,000,000 square feet of common lumber at $9.50 per thousand feet, said lumber to be delivered to the plaintiffs at Peterborough, Harwood and Cobourg. The defendants during April, May, June, July and August delivered a quantity of said lumber, about 1,500,000 feet, and received therefor in payment $23,946.74. The defendants also delivered a quantity of common lumber and some culls and other unmerchantable lumber, for common lumber, which plaintiffs had to sell at a loss. The defendants have not delivered the remainder of the lumber and repudiated the contract, thereby rendering plaintiffs unable to carry out their contracts for re-sale of the lumber. The plaintiffs claim $20,000 damages.

The defendants say that the plaintiffs, having examined the lumber, offered to purchase 2,000,000 feet, board measure, "mill run, mill culls out," and to remove same from the yards at the rate of 1,000,000 feet per month at the price of $15 per thousand feet. The plaintiffs, the defendants claim, did not carry out their agreement as to shipping, and notified defendants that no further shipments would be made until the plaintiffs had adjusted a discrepancy complained of by payment of the difference between the value of lumber shipped and the amount paid for by the plaintiffs. The defendants, by way of counter claim, say that contrary to contract, the plaintiffs claimed larger quantities of lumber of greater value than they were entitled to. The defendants claim having done all things necessary to entitle them to the performance of the contract by plaintiffs, but the latter having failed to do so, the defendants had suffered damage, and put in a counter claim of $10,000 damages.

E. B. Edwards, plaintiffs' solicitor; Hall & Fries, defendants' solicitors. It is understood that in this case the plaintiffs have been ordered to put up security for costs, and in the meantime proceedings have been stayed. In the event of compliance with this order, it is understood, the case will be adjourned to be heard in Lindsay in June.

The first case taken up was that of Fred Dover vs. the Haliburton Lumber Co. E. B. Edwards, K.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Gow, of Blake & Co., for defendant.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

A Little Two Year Old Son of Mr. David Fowler Scalded to Death.

A sad accident occurred on Saturday night, which resulted in the death of Walter Burritt, a little two-year old son of Mr. David H. Fowler, who resides at 333 Water street.

It appears that Mrs. Fowler had left a large pan of hot water in her kitchen, which she intended using for washing, and while she went for an instant into another room, the little one, un-noticed, crept into the room where the scalding water was, and fell into the pan. The poor little sufferer lingered until yesterday morning, when death came to its relief.

The stricken parents have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends, in their irreparable sorrow. The funeral will leave the family residence at 1:30 p.m., and proceed to the cemetery at Bridgman for interment.

PROGRESS OF BOER WAR

Major Paris Has Trouble in Escorting Convoy.

Colonial Troops Who Were Released by Boers Endure Terrible Hardships—General Plumer Returns to Pretoria.

Cape Town, May 21.—A column under Major Paris has returned to Kimberley from Bechuanaland, whither it escorted a convoy. It met with opposition as it neared its destination, but the Boers were dispersed. Their loss is unknown. On returning, the column was opposed by fifty Boers, but they scattered when a pom-pom opened fire on them. The British had a few casualties on the latter occasion. A sergeant and six colonial troops, who were released by the rebels and cast adrift in Khamukama country, north-west of the Transvaal, on May 13, have reached Vanrhynsdorp, 160 miles from the Paqueter railway station, Cape Colony, after making their way on foot 370 miles through Bushman land. They endured terrible hardships.

Pretoria, May 21.—General Plumer's force arrived here yesterday afternoon, having finished its operation, which were distinctly successful. Holding the drifts, General Plumer imprisoned a large number of Boers in a densely wooded semi-circle, where water was scarce, forcing many of them into the hands of General Kitchen and the Middleburg columns. Raiding parties from Plumer's force secured the semi-circle, capturing numbers of cattle and many prisoners.

General Plumer then moved south, concentrating his force without opposition. Near Kameel Poort, a Boer force, estimated at 300, was discovered moving south. Major Vaila, who captured DeWet's convoys and gun, was despatched in pursuit with 200 men on picked horses with no transport. Major Vaila captured 27 prisoners, 1,000 cattle and 300 waggon.

General Plumer's trek and his dispositions have resulted as follows: Major Vaila lost 143—nearly 400 refugees of both sexes, including many able-bodied men, have also surrendered, and he has captured 3,000 cattle.

FORTY DIVORCES GRANTED IN ONE DAY

Business is Brisk in the New York Divorce Court.

A LARGE BOOM ON IN YACHTS.

New York, May 19.—Justice Giegrich, of the Supreme Court, holds the record for the trial of divorce cases. With a calendar containing 119 actions for the severance of the ties that bind, when he opened court on one day this week, the justice heard 42 cases before he adjourned court for the day, and rendered decisions in thirty-seven of them. The other five must needs have further testimony before a decision will be given. Of course all these cases were undefended, but nevertheless the law requires corroborated testimony in each case of the misdeeds of the man or woman from whom freedom is sought by the onebearing the other side of the yoke. This necessitated keeping court in session until after eleven o'clock at night, while case after case, each as alike as two peas with the exception of the names of plaintiffs, defendants and correspondents, was rolled off to the attentive, or seemingly attentive ear of the justice. Then he gave the welcome decisions to thirty-seven plaintiffs who were waiting the word to contract further matrimonial alliances.

In spite of the fact there are several preedy and waiting ministers to tie other knots, the remainder of the 119 cases were sent over to October. BOOM IN YACHTING.

As is usual in a year when the international trophy is at stake, there is a big boom among the designers and builders of pleasure craft. The shipbuilding yards are so busy turning out yachts and pleasure craft that workmen are rushed to the utmost in their efforts to complete work on time. Many a launching will be delayed for weeks and months after the date first set, because of the inability of master mechanics to get labor and material on time, but the general congestion in the trade is responsible for this. A remarkable thing about the present building of yachts is their great size as compared with those of former years. An expert marine architect is responsible for the statement that not counting the half-tarps, knockabouts, small sloops and catboats, upwards of twenty millions of dollars worth of new yacht work was contracted for last fall, and of this the larger portion is due for delivery between now and the middle of June. Although the contest for the America's Cup is responsible for much of this activity in the ship-building line this year, there are other unusual conditions that also stimulate the desire for pleasure craft. The construction of the independence, in addition to the interest to the contest, and many men want their own craft for the trip to Newport for the trials, and for the purpose of following the races when the great contest comes off. One of the handsomest yachts now building is the Orizaba for Henry Clay, of St. Louis. The yacht is a stonemaster, 258 feet long, and is building at Elizabethport.

OWNED A LAND FULL OF GOLD

James C. Pratt's Loyalty to England Cost Him Johannesburg.

HE DIED IN AN OLD ALMSHOUSE

London, May 20.—Once owner of the land upon which now stands Johannesburg, the gold reefed city, with its untold millions, James Outerson Pratt has just died in a British almshouse, this being the world ending of a career full of strange vicissitudes and freaks of fortune, of which one was the man's registration as deceased thirty years before death actually came to him.

According to the details given by The London Daily Graphic, Pratt purchased the site on which Johannesburg stands for the sum of £30 (£1,750). The tract of ground of which he became owner comprised about 15,000 acres, and included several of the gold mines which have been worked most profitably since the date, twenty-five years ago, when it was known as Pratt's farm.

On the outbreak of the Zulu war Pratt served as a volunteer under Lord Chelmsford, and later on the Boer revolt of 1881, he raised a corps of 600 volunteers and joined the British forces in Pretoria.

When, at the conclusion of operations, the Transvaal Republic was proclaimed, Mr. Kruger offered Pratt service under the republic, but the latter declined, saying he meant to die an Englishman. He was escorted across the border, and his farm, on which gold was discovered many years later, confiscated.

He then spent a long period in adventures of various kinds. During this period someone reported him as dead to the East India Company's affairs were taken over by the British Government, his name was struck off the list of persons entitled to pensions, and notwithstanding frequent representations afterward, his claims were never acknowledged.

It was only on his return to England after his expulsion from the Transvaal that Pratt discovered that the War and India offices refused to recognize him holding that the registration of his death was final. The shock brought on a stroke of paralysis, from which Pratt never recovered, and shortly afterward, such money as he had been exhausted, he was forced to enter the almshouse at Guildford, near London.

Quite recently Mr. Chamberlain, the British Colonial Secretary, was induced to take up Pratt's case, and he forwarded the papers connected with it to Sir Alfred Milner. Before the latter's reply was received the old man passed away, proving the old adage that truth is stranger than fiction.

WORLD OF SPORT.

BASEBALL.

The Peterborough Baseball Club have made arrangements with the Senior Crawford Team of Toronto, for a game of baseball here on the 24th May, game commencing at 3.30 p.m. sharp. This undoubtedly will please the local fans, as they were certainly anxious to see a game of ball on that day, without wishing, in any way to interfere with any other sports on that day. The late hour calling the game will give the public an opportunity to see the other sports on the oval.

The Young Nationals, of Peterborough, organized last night. The boys would like to arrange a match with a club from the West End. Average age 18. Address—W. Theobald, Peterborough.

Sullivan, Harrow's latest pitching find, twirled for Berlin against Galt on Saturday, Berlin won 13 to 12. Jim Fitzgerald, the clever local catcher, was the receiver for Sullivan's shots.

Toronto beat Providence on Saturday in a ten innings game by 5 to 5. Providence lost the leadership by their defeat.

The Woodstock Baseball team defeated the Watford team in a Canadian League game Saturday by 11 to 7.

London defeated Tuppah in a Canadian League game Saturday by 13 to 7.

THE MACHINISTS ARE WINNING THE STRIKE

Great Numbers of Employers are Acceding to the Demands Made by the Unionists.

Nine Hours a day with Increase of Wages Asked For—Many Establishments That Have Hitherto Resisted are Yielding—Reports so Far are of an Encouraging Nature.

Washington, May 20.—The general strike of the employees in the machinery and allied metal trades throughout the country to enforce the nine-hour day with an increase of wages to meet the reduction in the hours of labor took effect to-day. Reports were received early to-day by President O'Connell of the National Association of Machinists and other officials, who are in this city indicating that a large number of establishments heretofore holding out against the demands of the men were making the necessary concessions. Mr. O'Connell said the reports so far received were of a very encouraging nature.

In New England the first reports showed that many men were out, but the number in the aggregate would not be estimated as yet. The states mostly affected in New England are Connecticut and Vermont. From the former State telegraphic reports to the headquarters here show all the machinists in the towns of Andover and Derby are out. The men in the principal towns in Vermont also have struck. These include St. Johnsbury, Rutland, and St. Albans. Massachusetts and New York were late in making reports. From Cincinnati the indications are that all men are out. This is one of the points where the most difficulty in settlement has been apprehended.

BIG WINS IN CLEVELAND.

In Cleveland the situation has improved. While the number of men out is not stated, the report from there to-day announces that the Automatic Refrigerating Company, the Grant Tool Company, the Danielson Tool Company and Bellinger and Reilly have signed with the men, and work in these establishments continues. In Washington, Delaware, several of the concerns are reported as having agreed to the terms this morning.

The report from Denver showed that no trouble is expected there. About three-quarters of the concerns employing machinists in that city have signed, and negotiations are in progress for a settlement with others, which look hopeful. The advice from Chicago indicated that arrangements had been made with a great majority of the firms.

ONLY ONE-FOURTH OUT IN NEW YORK.

New York, May 20.—At the local headquarters of the Central Executive Board of the International Association of Machinists it was said this morning that not more than 3,000 out of 12,000 machinists in the New York district were on strike. Many of the employers in New York had agreed to the workmen's request for a nine-hour day. In Jersey City the only men on strike were about forty men employed in the small repair shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

SIXTY PER CENT. OUT IN BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., May 20.—About 60 per cent. of the machinists employed in Boston struck to-day to enforce the

ARMORED TRAIN WAS DYNAMITED

Lord Kitchener Reports That Maj. Heath of the South Lancashires Were Killed.

London, May 20.—Lord Kitchener reports to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, May 18, as follows: "An armored train has been dynamited south of American Biding, Major Heath, of the South Lancashires, killed."

MORE BOERS ROUNDED UP.

London, May 19.—Gen. Bindon Blood has just concluded a successful concerted movement against the Boers in the Northern Transvaal. The British columns engaged in the operations covered a wide area routing all the commandoes that opposed them and capturing 1,000 Boers and great quantities of supplies, stock and waggon in various districts. Gen. Blood conducted the operations in the centre, with Col. Plumer on his left flank, and Gen. Kitchener on his right. The Boer commander, Gen. Ben. Viljoen, abandoned everything, but succeeded in making his escape with a few mounted men. The Boers did not make a stand at any point.

KRUGER STILL CONFIDENT.

A man who recently succeeded in interviewing Mr. Kruger reports that he is fantastically confident that the Boers will win in the end. He is not bitter against England, as he considers that

SPECIAL C.P.R. DESPATCH

Eight hundred Boers have crossed the Orange River from the north west and have reinforced the commandoes in the eastern districts. The latest reliable report locates De Wet near Philippolis in Orange River Colony and not far from the cape line with 40 horsemen. All the commandoes in the Orange River Colony, have instructions to cross the Orange River. Several British patrols have been ambushed.

[Notes and Comments.]

Poor Oom Faal believes that Heaven has not yet forsaken him. He must be still smoking his pipe.

The man who writes to a morning paper complaining that smokers have not enough privileges nor good enough accommodation on street cars, railway trains and steamboats, should swing off smoking and take to chewing gum or strong drink.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 21, 1901

THE BANK OF MONTREAL

With its customary and commendable promptitude the Bank of Montreal has published its annual statement for the past year. The profits are announced to be $1,537,542, which exceeds those of 1900 by $13,134. This amount provides for two half yearly 5 per cent. dividends, and leaves $37,532 to be added to profit and loss, the balance at credit of which account is now, $764,703, or about 12 per cent. of the stock, which stands at $7,000,000. A very heavy increase of over 20 millions took place last year in the amount of deposits, the enlargement being from $2,446,586 in 1900 to $2,666,271 at close of April. The current loans were only increased $5,420,118, their total now being $18,850,550, so that $14,200,900, out of the new deposits, had to find employment in call loans, and other business. The profits consequently were not increased in proportion to the enlarged business, indeed there is a point beyond which deposits, cease to have any value as sources of profit and some of the banks are doubtless very indifferent about having any more of these funds added to their ample supply. The statement is gratifying to the shareholders.

SEDITION MUST BE STOPPED

The New York Post, usually a pretty sensible paper, considers that a tactical blunder was made in the seizure of William O'Brien's paper, the Irish People, for its gross and scandalous attack upon the Sovereign. Our contemporary is of opinion that the English government have furnished the wind to fly this new Irish kite, which if they had left it alone, would have fallen helplessly to the ground. As it is, the Post adds, they have taken the infallible means of sending the atrocious attack upon King Edward reverberating around the world, while they have given the Irish people an advertisement of the highest value. Admitting the force of this argument, there is yet a limit to which license and sedition can be permitted to go unchecked. There is no country in the world, not even the United States, where so great a degree of political toleration and freedom of speech is permitted, but when it comes to a newspaper referring to the sovereign as "King of the blasphemous cath," or a "tail-headed old rone," we submit that it is time to put on the screws. The same issue of the paper also contained scurrilous allusions to Cardinal Vaughan. The matter was the subject of a brief debate in the British Parliament, but the sympathizers with Wm. O'Brien, were electorally shut out.

BOERS WELL PREPARED

Kitchener's reports from day to day are precious messages for the British people. They are pleasing because they show a steady progress in the task of running the Boer to earth and bringing nearer the day of peace. They are also gratifying from the fact that they show that the Boers were more numerous than at first anticipated.

The Boer liars at the beginning of the campaign gloried in the fact that the British troops were being checked by forces which all told did not number more than 10,000 men.

But at the present time there are in St. Helena and Ceylon, 16,000 hostages of war. There are in Cape Colony and the South African republic some thousands of prisoners. Besides these a large number of Boer farmers laid down their arms and returned to their farms. A number of Cape Dutch at the beginning of the war, were in arms with the enemy and deserted to their homes when reverses came to the Dutch cause. There are now a few thousand soldiers under the banners of Botha, De la Rey and Dewet.

These facts should dispose at once and for all time the falsehood so freely circulated, not only abroad but at home, that it was a case of ten armed men fighting a poor wretch caught in his shirt. Not only were the Boers singularly well prepared for war as regards the most modern weapons, but they were numerous, and constituted a mighty army.

The Toronto Globe made the profound and palpably biased observation the other day that if a dispute between nations and men could not be settled without bloodshed, civilization is a failure. This fact has been staring people in the face these many months. But what of wars between nations? What of parties to the strife who swear that they will accept of no arbitration and yet dare to call themselves Christians? The fact is that the number of people who want to do the decent thing is so small that it is not worth considering. The narrow path will accommodate them all. The difference between the profusion and the practice of the people who call themselves Christians is about the plainest thing before the public gaze. When a man has a logical brain well developed and a conscience as well, there is some hope of him, but how many are there such amongst the pushing, scheming, lying crowds of to-day? How many?

The Canadian Order of Foresters will attend divine service on Sunday, June 2nd in Murray Street Baptist Church.

DEAR OLD BOY.

"You are particular tonight," said Second Lieutenant Dill, "your tie-knot is right, and what does it matter, anyway? It's only a little hop, and you don't dance."

Major Sayres, retired, rather bald, his mustache iron gray, grinned grimly at Dill's reflection on the looking glass. Then he glanced downward at a waistband of comfortable dimensions and a pair of neatly shod feet. Finally he piqued with great agility and kicked high at the electric light. The lieutenant laughed loudly and clapped his hands.

"Hav and four," he said, with boyish impetuosity. "Rather good for a has been."

The toe of the major's right shoe wiggled guiltily, as though it were tempted. The major said simply:

"Which would you rather be called, Dill, by Miss Bain—uncle or brother?"

"That's not fair, major," he said.

"When asked your counsel, I did not think you would turn me."

"Pshaw, my lad," said the major paternally. "You once told me yourself that I was old enough to take the place of your father. Accept the fact finally, I don't believe Miss Bain really cares for Prince Pacadini."

"Of course she doesn't!" cried Dill. "But she is, and she's ridiculous!"

"I was suffering from female trouble of the worst kind; I couldn't eat anything without suffering great distress, throat hurt me by spells, was nervous and weak. Had numb hands and arms, heart trouble pains all through my body and aching head and back. I learned that I could not work at all. I got Dr. Pierce's medicine and took it as directed, and the first week it began to help me. Took three more boxes and am glad to say that it did me more good than all the other medicine ever took. I feel better than I have for years."

OVERBURDENED.

The Egyptian woman looks greatly overburdened, and yet the physical burdens she carries will not compare with the burdens borne by many an American woman. There is no burden like the burden of disease.

The woman who suffers from indigestion, or ulceration, bearing-down pains, weak back and nervousness, bears a burden which crushes her very life.

Every woman should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures the womanly diseases which cause weakness and feebleness. It quiets the nerves, cures the aching back and throbbing head, gives strength for wisely caring and maternal duties.

"When I first wrote from I was in a bad condition, and had almost given up," says Mrs. Belle Salder, of Wilkesville, Vinton Co., Ohio. "I was suffering from female trouble of the worst kind; I couldn't eat anything without suffering great distress, throat hurt me by spells, was nervous and weak. Had numb hands and arms, heart trouble pains all through my body and aching head and back. I learned that I could not work at all. DEAR OLD BOY.

and to you," whispered Dill enthusiastically, and again the toe of Sayres' right boot wiggled instinctively. It was toward the end of the supper that the daring eloquent became known toward the end of a supper during which Prince Paccadini had been congratulated until his graceful smile seemed fixed on his face. Mrs. Bain's sudden sickness and absence in her room for awhile had been ascribed to her modest desire to postpone her share of these congratulations. Dill's departure had been attributed to fatigue. Therefore, when a maid whispered in the hostess' ear, started people saw Mrs. Bain fling in a faint. She recovered quickly, Paccadini stood out, dignified, but disappointed.

"She is mad!" cried madam. "That second, Dill, has taken her by force! Prince, I myself shall restore her to your arms. Will you, Major Sayres? He will help me. He loved her like a daughter."

"The old boy slipped off before supper," some one said. "He's probably tucked in bed at last."

"Send for him!" cried Mrs. Bain.

"Prince, I don't know how to apologize to you! I won't wait for Sayres. I'll go myself! Prince, stay here, please, and it will all be explained. That young villain, Dill! Emily must have known he cared more for her money than for her. Prince, I am humiliated dreadfully. Pray forgive me! I shall horsewhip him myself! I shall horsewhip him myself! I shall horsewhip him myself! I shall horsewhip him myself! Oh, that wicked young man! Prince, embrace me! I am beside myself! My darling Emily! My dear prince!"

Once more she was unconscious in her haste. With luck, they might catch the fugitives before the western express stopped at St. 12 miles away. They had luck. They caught the train and they caught the fugitives. Dill had a dramatic time of it between scowls and looks and pushes and malapropos and the dodging of Mrs. Bain's horsewhip.

"I don't know where she is!" he yelled at last from behind a chair in a corner of the hotel room. I've been fooled and trapped! It's a ghastly fraud. Where's Sayres?"

"Sayres?"

"Here to me!"

"Yes, Sayres! He was to bring her 'Sayres'."

Mrs. Bain screamed and fainted again.

A groom galloped up.

"Major Sayres and Miss Emily, they drove off an hour ago at a gallop, mum, in the opposite direction, mum, you went, and I did my best to catch up and tell you, but you travelled hard!"

"Major Sayres! That dear old boy impossible!" the crowd gasped.

It was quite possible, as Emily's letter explained a week afterward.

"I was worried to desperation, mother, by your determination to marry me off. I could not bear it! You always told me to listen to the major's advice, and I have. Among all the men about my mother, of whom were running after my money, I believe he was the only honest one. So I gave him some advice. At last, which may have been unadvisedly, but, as I say, I was desperate. I'm sorry for Lieutenant Dill. The part he played seemed rather hard on him, but the major said it would serve him jolly well right and teach him to be respectful to his seniors. The major always was for the best, and I know I shall be very, very happy with him, for he is such a dear, dear old boy!"

AFTER 15 YEARS.

Rescued After Many Years of Terrible Suffering

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T. B., Bradford.

PROSPECTUS OF THE PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY (LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Ponsette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

THE LATE CAPT. METCALFE.

One of Ontario's Oldest and Most Esteemed Citizens Passes Away.

The death of the late Captain Metcalfe, of Keene, who was buried in the Keene cemetery on April 27th, removes a familiar figure from the streets of the village, of which he has been a resident for the past 53 years.

The deceased was born in the city of Lincoln, Lincolnshire, Eng., at years ago, and at the age of 13 years, with his father and other members of the family emigrated to Canada in the year 1848. The long time occupied in crossing the ocean in those days, instead of wearying the lad as it did so many others, begot in his young mind a love for "A Life on the Ocean Wave." Soon after taking up his residence in Keene on the banks of the Indian River, he began the profession of a sailor, as his life's work. His promotion was very rapid, and early in life he was selected to take command of the "St. George," the first sailing vessel on our inland waters. This boat was replaced by the "Queen," also under command of Capt. Metcalfe. The third and last sailing vessel of any size, the "Josephine," was built by Capt. Metcalfe and his father, the latter being a ship carpenter.

These boats made regular trips between Peterborough and Hecley Falls, calling at Gore's Landing, Hartwood, Keene, Hastings and other points. The traffic was very large in those days, both in passengers and freight. A great many immigrants were coming into the country, and as there were no railways, the boats had not only the immigrants and their effects to handle, but all the freight to the different points as well.

Capt. Metcalfe had always and profitably traded for many years, but the introduction of steamboats and railways finally cut out the slower, and Capt. Metcalfe was forced to retire.

The deceased was one of the oldest residents of Keene—kind hearted, generous to a fault—he was highly respected and his genial smile and hearty greeting, often given in sailor phraseology, will long be remembered by a large circle of friends.

An only sister—Miss Sarah Metcalfe—who has lived with her brother for many years, is the last and sole survivor of a family which once numbered 8 persons. Miss Metcalfe formerly resided with her residence with a niece in the West-Com.

TWO WEEKS WITH- OUT ANY FOOD

The Pittiable Condition of a Woman Who had lost Her way in the Forest.

She Could Not Stand up When discovered.—Water Was her Only Salvation, Otherwise She Would have Succumbed.—Mind in a Wandering Condition.

Bonheur, Ont., May 21.—Mrs. Dew, who was reported lost in the woods in the vicinity of Saw Bill Lake, was found by Provincial Constable Gerard yesterday afternoon. The woman was in a pitiable condition, having wandered through the bush for two weeks without any food. Her clothing was almost entirely worn or torn away by coming in contact with dense underbrush. How she could live through two weeks without food is incomprehensible. Her mind was in a wandering condition when found, but after some light food had been given her, she told her rescuer her experience in a rational manner. She left the road and lay down for rest the night of the 18th instant, and when she awoke she found she was unable to retrace her steps. She looked around for the road day and night until exhausted, and she would sit against a tree and fall asleep. Water was her salvation.

A FUNNY INCIDENT OF THE AFRICAN WAR

A Document That Was Sent to the Commander-in-Chief

AND RECEIVED DUE ATTENTION

How a Clever Writer Got Mark at Home of the Imperial Troops.

Mr. Alf. Brown, who belonged to the 1st Battalion, has many souvenirs of the war in his possession. There is none, however, that he cherishes more fondly than the manuscript of a "parable" written by a comrade, a copy of which was delivered into the hands of Lord Roberts. Through Mr. Brown's kindness we are enabled to present it to the readers of the Times.

A PARABLE.

There was a certain man whose name was John Bull, and he had a son and 3 of these went into a far country, where they prospered exceedingly and they begat children.

So that their seed was as the sand on the sea shore, for multitude.

And the fancies of those three sons were Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

But the other two sons abode in their father's house, and they were as the apple of his eye, and their names were C. I. V. and I. Y. (City Imperial Volunteers and Imperial Yeomanry).

And it came to pass that there was much work to be done in the fields of John Bull.

And he was vexed exceedingly, yea, even in sore straits, because the work was great and the laborers were few.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, when they heard of this, took counsel together, and said, Behold, now John Bull, our father's father, is in sore straits, because of the work which he has to do.

And he hath only one hired servant—Tommy, to accomplish the work, where withal shall we not therefore go to him and say,

Lo, we are of the seed of thy loins, and verily blood is thicker than water, let us therefore work in thy fields for a season, until such time as thy labor may be so far accomplished that this rest may be done by Tommy, thine hired servant.

And they went messengers to John Bull and told him.

And when he heard their tidings was glad exceedingly and waited with gladness among his neighbors, saying unto them,

Behold my children's children, now, when they hear that I am in sore straits they come out and work in my fields. Yea, they make themselves even as my hired servant Tommy, that my work may be accomplished.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, when they heard of this, they were exceedingly glad, and they went and told their fathers, and their fathers, and all that they possessed and went into the fields of John Bull.

And John Bull set over them an overseer, one Roberts, a just man, and of good report, so that the fame of his uprightness had reached unto the countries of Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand rejoiced and were exceedingly glad that such an one had been set over them.

And the striplings C. I. V. and I. Y. did John Bull also send out that they might labor in the fields with Canada, Australia and New Zealand and with Tommy, the hired servant.

But they did come into the field clad in purple and fine linen, yea, in splendid raiment, for they understood not of the manner of work where unto they were called, and they skipped about like swans, yea, even as the young of the wild ass, and they despised the labor.

Nevertheless did Roberts, the overseer, continually send tidings to the house of John Bull, saying unto him,

Behold the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y., whom thou didst send out to labor in thy fields, the work which they do,

AMERICA LEADS IN JAPAN

Consular Report of Foreign Trade Shows Decrease for Britain.

London, May 22.—The consular report on the foreign trade of Japan for 1900 shows a slight effect upon the trade of the country as a whole, and a decrease in the value of exports and imports, leading to an excess of imports over exports amounting to £5,000,000 and a consequent drain on specie, which foreign loans could only temporarily relieve.

The United States, says the report, continues to encroach on spheres of trade formerly considered under the exclusive control of the United Kingdom and other nations. American importation of raw cotton doubled in 1900, giving America the lead, while British India imports diminished one-half.

The report refers to the increase of imports of American kerosene and the great development of the oil fields in the United States, which is greatly under the auspices of the Standard Oil Company.

The consular attributes the success of America to their willingness to extend their plants and trade relations to meet Japanese demands.

The report says that, though there is considerable talk of trusts, only a few combinations have been formed, and the conditions for trust formation being unfavorable and promoters lacking credit and capital.

HONORS FOR SIR ALFRED.

The King to Meet Him and Extend a Cordial Welcome.

London, May 22.—But will Sir Alfred Milner return? That is the question agitating London political circles now. The King makes it known that he will specially honor Sir Alfred by receiving him at Waterloo Station on his arrival in London. Mr. Chamberlain already has issued invitations to a state luncheon in his honor, but all this means nothing more than that Sir Alfred Milner is a highly honored, whether he returns to South Africa or not, remains primarily with himself to say. He will go back if he so wishes will the full concurrence of the Government here. It is on the other hand, considerations of his health, which undoubtedly has suffered from the strain of the past two years, and the oppression of the difficulties before the British administrator of the new colonies lead him to ask for release, the Ministry probably will acquiesce, sending a new man to take the settlement.

BOY KING SEES MANEUVERS.

Alfonso of Spain Saw His Troops Fire Barrage Battery.

Madrid, May 22.—King Alfonso yesterday for the first time accompanied a part in the grand maneuvers of the Madrid garrison. He appeared on horseback, surrounded by General Weyler, the minister of war; General Mollo, the captain general of Madrid; the marshall resident at the capital and a numerous and brilliant suite.

The young ruler was in excellent health. He remained in the saddle for five hours and took the keepest interest in the operations. Queen Regent Christina and others of the royal family were present in open carriages.

All the elite of society and thousands of other inhabitants of Madrid attended the camp to witness the brilliant military display. Both the troops and spectators gave the king an enthusiastic reception. His majesty subsequently gave a luncheon to the cadets of four academies.

SMALLPOX AT BRANTFORD.

Danger of the Disease Spreading in a Factory and a Boarding.

Brantford, Ont., May 22.—A case of smallpox has been located in Brantford. The man is a recent arrival here, and has been working in a manufacturing establishment and boarding in the flats. The patient has been removed to the isolated hospital, and those working in the same department have been quarantined as well as all the people in the patient's boarding-house.

UP GOES THE INDEMNITY.

Both Parties and Both Houses Agree That Their Pay Should be Increased.

Ottawa, May 22.—The members of the House of Commons and the Senate are to have their indemnity increased from $1,000 to $1,500, beginning with the present session. This step has been determined upon as a result of communications between both parties. There is practical unanimity of opinion in favor of the increase.

London, May 22.—The Exchange Telegraph's Paris correspondent is informed that J. P. Morgan has been tendered the decoration of Knight of the Legion of Honor.

MARCHING IN AFRICA

Plenty of Dust 'but Scarcity of Drinking Water.

EFFECTS OF DYSENTERY

British Soldiers Often Without Boots or Trousers.

Algebraic Story of the Veldt, as told by an Australian Medical Man.

Durban, May 22.—The day's march begins while the stars are still twinkling in a cold, keen sky, and with a wide-faced moon doing sentry-go in the cloud gaps.

Clatter, clatter, clatter, and the Yeomen are moving through the camp to the front to take up their position as advance guard. Arway over the Basuto mountains, there are a faint streaks of light in the sky and then the blood-red sun swings up and the day dawns like the ripening of apples. With the dawn the advance guard breaks up like a swarm of ants when the precious kholobuy beavers a stone among them. Away they go, dotting the yellow veldt, skirting kopjes and swathing dongas, at any moment liable to be swept into eternity by the spiteful bullet of the sniper. In the front the going is comparatively pleasant, for there you miss the convoy dust, and you have in addition the musical tss, tss, of the guns to cheer you on your way. Down in the rear it is awful. It is hades all the way to the rearward; dust and the stench of dead bullocks. The heat is terrible.

The little ragged yellow men from Manchester look no longer to heaven for help; they hang their heads and drag their lagging feet across the dusty leagues of veldt. It is like following a funeral in Inferno. Not one of these haggard men utters a word; each is a machiavo, a poor, worn-out, broken-down affair, trailing in the dust of 600 wagon and countless trek oxen. They are creeping along at the rate of two miles an hour, and hoping to catch De Wet. Yesterday the mail arrived. It was full of legends about tons of clothing for the troops and countless comfortable boots. The day's march reveals the truth. Half the Manchesters have no shoes; dozens have no boots at all, and are limping along bare-footed, or with a pattee wrapped round the bleeding sole. Clothing! Go and ask the Staffords about the clothing. Ask that man with the hole in his trousers, large enough for a church window. There are seven devils in that man's stomach, and they will answer for him and make his tongue red-hot with oath. Ask that man with the tattered sack round his loins. Clothing, forsooth! Ask yet another! That poor devil trailing along in the dust and the blinding glare of a noonday sun. He is good enough. He wears a thick army cloak all the way, because he has got trousers at all. Kind, gentle, pious, civilized British public! Your sons are down in Africa tramping the red deserts with bleeding feet, and clothed like an Italian organ grinder's monkey in pre-historic times. Well might a great man sneer at your unctuous rectitude. But the little ragged yellow men are dumb and silent through it all.

The men have had nothing to drink so far. Four hours' marching and no water! Six hours, and still no water! Not because there was none in the land. Oh, no! Two hours ago the convoy crossed a clear, limpid stream, but the commanding officer, crop full with a good breakfast, did not think it wise to halt. No one was allowed to fall out. The officer's private tongue was dry and cracked, his lips cracked, too cracked for speech. And so he still tramps on, dumb and silent through it all. Here is a yeoman struggling to keep in his saddle. The day's march has its troubles and trials for him also. He has lost a lot of blood lately; he suffers from dysentery. Yesterday he went to the yeomanry medical, who advised the yeoman to take brandy and milk. The doctor knew very well that there was a drop of neither in the land; save in the officer's mess. And so the yeoman went back with his lines to lose more blood—a flesh offering to the great British public. But he, too, has learnt to be dumb and silent. Poor Tommy Atkins has taught him how to suffer, and Tommy has no horse. They are going to catch De Wet, slim De Wet, who can travel eight miles an hour if he wishes to. Here a bullock has fallen out; he is dragged to the side of the trek; to die. The last of the convoy passes; his poor glassy eyes look pitifully after the wagons; his mouth is half open, as if asking for help. Those glassy eyes follow you! But the poor bullock must lie there, and die of thirst, his hide scarred with a thousand lashes. That beast has toiled in the yoke for six months, dragging the white man's burden, over

KILLED BY MAD BULL.

William Hope of Otanabee, Meets a Horrible Death.

He is Attacked by the Infuriated Animal and Gored and Trampled to Death.

A shocking fatality occurred yesterday morning by which Mr. William Hope, an old and esteemed resident of Otonabee, met a horrible death.

It appears that Mr. Hope was working amongst his cattle in the barnyard, about a mile from Villiers, when a large bull turned on him, being unable to get out of the way, the infuriated animal knocked the unfortunate man down, and gored and trampled upon him in a most brutal manner. Robert Steele, a lad 12 years of age, who was near at hand, ran to Mr. Hope's assistance, and pluckily attacked the animal with a pitchfork, and succeeded in driving him off. Mr. Hope had, however, received serious injuries. His head was badly cut, and he was otherwise bruised, a wound six inches long being made in his side.

He was tenderly removed to the house, and Drs. Shaw and McAllister, of Kenebec, were summoned. They did everything they could for him, but he passed away at noon.

The deceased was born at the home-land, near Villiers, in 1822, and was one of the most familiar figures through out the country. He was the son of the late John Hope, and was of a large family. He was a widower, and his many warm friends in Peterborough will sincerely regret his demise. Mrs. Jas. Turner, London street, is a sister-in-law.

THE TOWN WIMS.

The Original Order in Favour of the Town Signalling Railway Gets Heads.

Mayor Denne and Ald. Rogan were in Ottawa yesterday in attendance on the Railway Committee, regarding the railway gate question.

A telegram was received by Town Clerk Armstrong from Mayor Denne, stating that the application for a hearing of the case had been withdrawn and the original order stands. This, then, means that before long the more dangerous crossings will be equipped with railway gates.

countless leagues of dusty veldt and dongas. He has struggled along in the rear of a hundred other wagons, the dust half blinding his blood-shot eyes. His life has been spent in trailing along with the white man's burden and flogged and cursed all the way by a black imp. Before all life has gone, and while his eyes can see, great, ungainly, uncouth grey ratures, circling round the noonday sun, will sight his carcass lying helpless by the trek. But many more bullocks and many more men must yet be offered up on the shrine of war before the Boer leader will be trapped.

Then comes the halt, and the little ragged men drop down on the burning veldt like weary cattle. By and bye, fifty yards from the camp, the halting place is dotted with bare bent over blue shirats. Continuous inspection of one's garments on active service is the only way to keep them on your back. Bicuit and water is the midday feast on the march, the regular sacrament to the war god.

SPECIAL NEWS BY CABLE AND LETTER

Incidents of a District in Switzerland Fear a Ter- rible War-Difficulty of Guarding Kaiser.

New Ingredients Discovered in Tobacco—Election Riots in Spain —Cannibalism in the Congo.

London, May 21.—In the Emmenthal district of Switzerland is a race of people whose creed prohibits them from carrying arms and who try by all means to escape military service.

One of these pious farmers was studying his Bible lately when his eyes fell on a text which seemed to him of tremendous significance. Do what he would he could not rid his mind of the conviction that it foretold in unmistakable language the outbreak of a terrible fire in Europe in the near future. He told his neighbors of the extraordinary prediction, and a wave of terror ran through the community. The elders of the church held council and finally the advice was given that all those who could possibly do so should emigrate to America. This counsel was generally approved. Already several wealthy farmers have sold their property and have started for this country. Their fertile farms did not fetch a quarter of what they were worth, but their owners preferred to sacrifice them rather than remain and see, perhaps suffer in, the threatened conflagration. Others are following their example. It is regarded as certain that most of these Swiss Mennonites will soon have found new homes in some flourishing agricultural district in this country.

ELECTION RIOTS IN SPAIN

Madrid, May 21.—As a result of the elections Sunday for the Chamber of Deputies, disturbances occurred at Jerez de Los Caballeros, in Province of Badajoz, where the populace burned the Cretol papers and the gendarmes fired upon the crowd, killing one person and wounding several. Serious riots occurred at Carmona, in the Province of Seville, and also at Lorca, in the Madrid Province. In the last named place one person was killed and two were injured.

HORRIBLE CANNIBAL TALES.

Brussels, May 21.—A sensation has been caused by a book entitled "In the Congo," just published, the author of which is M. Mandet-Grancy. It contains a vivid exposure of the cannibalism which is still tolerated in that part of Africa which is under either French or Belgian rule.

"This morning about 7 o'clock," says the author, "a man was executed. A rope was placed around his neck, and with it he was hung from a tree at a height of about thirty feet. At 10 o'clock the chief of his village appeared, carrying in a basket a benumbed egg, and a bottle of brandy, and requested us to let him that the body of the victim, since it was that of his own brother."

Then without the slightest hesitation, he explained that he desired to eat the body. The necessary permission being granted, the chief told one of his wives, one of them accompanied him, to cut down the body, and at once she climbed up the tree and severed the rope. The chief then cut a log from the body, and after his wife had cooked it they all sat down and ate it. Soon afterwards they went home, taking with them the remainder of the body, with the intention of eating it that evening.

"In market places many very often seen a man holding by a rope a slave, who is generally a boy about fourteen or fifteen years old, and whose body is covered with oil, so that it has a fine glossy appearance. For weeks the boy has been carefully fattened, and now his master has brought him to market to sell him, just as he would bring any other animal. That the boy knows the fact which is in store for him is certain, yet no one could be more indifferent or stolid than he.

HARSH TERMS TO STRIKERS.

Russian Police Order Cotton Strikers to Work or be Deported

St. Petersburg, May 22.—The strike riots which occurred in the cotton mills on the Miborg or Finnish side of the Neva, during which it was reported that many had been killed, were a result of a strike of workmen from four of textile factories for an increase of wages. The strikers held several noisy meetings and threw stones at the windows of the factories. The authorities surrounded the locality of the cotton mills with Cossacks, mounted gendarmes and strong details of infantry, who arrested many of the strikers. Many of the police and strikers were wounded in the conflict. The prefect of police posted a proclamation calling on the workmen to resume work if they did not wish to render themselves liable to dismissal from the mills and deportation to distant districts.

OIL TO SUPERSEDE COAL.

London Shippers May Use Texas Product for Their Vessels.

London, May 22.—Several of London's leading owners of steamships are sending representatives to Texas to study the quality and probable quantity of the oil that had been discovered there recently. They say that if it proves to be what the reports reach, this country indicate it will supersede coal as a fuel for ocean-going vessels. Sir Westman D. Pearson, M. P., who has recently returned from Texas, said this morning that if this oil exists in practically inexhaustible quantities it will unquestionably revolutionize steam-producing methods on the ocean.

SIMPLE-MINDED JIM.

brought together they fought on sight, but a day later, because Jim was wasn't there day before. "Fool Jim" actions proved that he had some secret on his mind, and at the end of a week it was revealed. The two fools had spent most of their time ogling and grinning at each other and chattering nonsense. They had exchanged old pocket knives, buttons, pieces of string and apples, and had become great admirers of each other. This was what had been hoped for, and the detectives set themselves to watch the latest arrival alone. One afternoon, after the pair had been in close contact for an hour, they separated and strolled in different directions, but after walking for a mile or two the new arrival joined Jim, and the pair walked across the country for four miles to an abandoned old flour mill. The detectives had a hard task to follow and escape observation, but they succeeded.

Soon after reaching the mill Jim brought to light the missing watch, and the two fools sat down to gaze upon and admire the jewels. Most of the stones had been taken from their settings, but none were missing. In his goodness of heart Jim made a full division of the spoils, and the pair had stuffed their pockets with the jewels when the detectives rushed in. A fool is not liable to law, and even when guilty of murder can only be restrained by the sword. The hired idiot was restored to his parents, "Fool Jim" was placed in an asylum, and "Old Mary," whose cleverness had brought about the recovery of the jewels, received such a share of the reward that she was enabled to live in comfort for the rest of her days. Jim had been puttering about the waiting room and had hidden up the small satchel and hidden it under his coat, and thought all had been his own, no one had remembered him when the two and cry was raised.

It was only the other day, in a mysterious case in Paris, that a fool was set to catch a foot and a murder was discovered and a lot of valuable papers recovered—the latter from a church steeples—and it is but fair to presume that the French sleuths remembered the clapham junction affair of years ago and worked it over to fit.

LOCAL NEWS LETTER

BENEFIT
—Farmers are all through with their spring seeding.
—The council of South Monaghan ought to rebuild the wharf at Smithson's Landing as that is where the most traffic to town goes from.
—The cheese factory is booming again.
—Fruit promises to be a good crop this year.
—The fish have taken to deep water again, but, alas, some of them have been taken from their natural element never to return.
—The Benefact church sheds are undergoing repairs which are badly needed.
—The crops look splendid and the farmers are consequently feeling and looking happy.

There is some talk of the Council of South Monaghan and the Council of Ontario asking the Ontario Government for assistance to keep Otonabee and Peterborough road in somewhat decent repair for the spring and fall weather. Otonabee people are much interested in this as are South Monaghan farmers.
—The farmers of Otonabee can bring from Riddell's Hill to Port Hope as much grain on one load with one team as two teams will bring over the Otonabee roads so much for good roads.
—The Municipal Council met on Monday. The meeting is said to have been called to accept the resignation of Councilor Baxter, who has resigned on account of ill health. Mr. Joseph Whit, of South Monaghan, has been elected to succeed Mr. Baxter. The assessor has completed his duties and the Court of Revision will shortly be held.
—The claimants for high water damages have not as yet received their cheques. It is said several of our residents are again going to call on the Minister of Railways.

Mr. Thompson Higgins had a barn burning on Monday last. Progress is the worst.

AFTER 15 YEARS.

Became Cured After Many Years of Terrible Suffering.

After 15 years of suffering from the effects of the late Dr. Charles Little and Pills I did for me. They cured me when every known remedy failed. J. A. Brittain, G. T. B. Brantford.

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION, BUFFALO

PROSPECTUS OF THE PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY (LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Pousette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. Mr. G. E. Whiten's studio will be open for business on Victoria Day, so that any who require superior photo may procure them.

The committee rooms of the Victoria Day celebration, were crowded last night. Everything is nearly perfect for the great event.

Down in Montreal they are forbidding the use of firecrackers on Victoria Day. So we at Peterborough are glad to have our own without firecrackers would be a false alarm.

The annual R. C. picnic under the auspices of St. Joseph's church, Hoboken, will be held in that village on Tuesday, June 4th. A good programme of sports is being prepared.

People who intend visiting the Pan American at Buffalo, should consult the advertising columns of The Times for hotel accommodation.

Mr. George Stevens, of Ashburnham, wants 600 boys to play mouth organs in connection with his part of the 24th of May procession. Apply at once.

The artistic lighting and posing to be seen in Mr. Whiten's photos are the admiration of the people. His customers are of the best families in town.

The resignation of Rev. Dr. Symonds was formally received by the congregation of St. Luke's Church on Monday night, and referred to a committee to deal with. Another committee was appointed, consisting of representatives of the congregation, for the purpose of making arrangements to secure an incumbent for the position which Dr. Symonds is vacating.

PAYING THE ENUMERATORS.

It is said that they have been offered the 5 Cent Rate and 50 Extra.

The census enumerators are still unpaid and many of them are very indignant at the manner in which they are being treated. The latest information they have received is that they will be paid at the rate of 5 cents a name and $3 a day for the three days they spent in being drilled in their work.

If the spirit shown by some of the men is indicative of the whole it is probable that the offer will be refused. They continue to state that they were clearly given to understand that they would be given the $3 rate. Manager the men say that they were to take their time and do work thoroughly, so they fail to see any reason for the statement that they wasted their time.

New a Sprain Does Hurt.

But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nervine well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nervine on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nervine. Large bottle 25 cents.

OLD SOAKERS.

Get Saturated With Coffee.

When a person has used coffee for a number of years and gradually declined in health, it is time the coffee should be left off in order to see whether or not this has been the cause of the trouble.

A lady in Huntsville, Ala., Mrs. S. M. Brazier, says she used coffee for about 40 years, and for the past 14 years was troubled with stomach trouble. "I have been treated by many physicians but all in vain. Everything failed to perfect a cure. Was prostrated for some time, and came near dying. When I recovered sufficiently to partake of food and drink I tried coffee again and it soured on my stomach."

I finally concluded coffee was the cause of my troubles and stopped using it. I tried tea and then milk in its place, but neither agreed with me, then I commenced using Postum Food Coffee. I had it properly made and it was very pleasing to the taste.

I have now used it four months, and my health is so greatly improved that I can eat almost anything I want and can sleep well, whereas, before, I suffered for years with insomnia.

I have found the cause of my troubles and a way to get rid of them. You can depend upon it I appreciate Postum.

MR. EMERSON HONOURED.

An Old Employee of the Lock Works Presented With a Purse.

The employees of the Lock Works presented Mr. J. E. Emmerson, an employee who has been 16 years in the institution, with an address and purse of money on Monday evening, on the occasion of his departure to Western Ontario. The presentation was made by Mr. E. Morency, and the address read by Mr. C. Tabor. The address was as follows:

Dear Sir.—We have learned that you are about to sever your connection with the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co., Ltd., with which you have been connected as an employee, in a responsible position, for sixteen years.

We cannot permit you to take your departure without giving expression to the kindly feelings we entertain towards you, and our appreciation of your many good qualities of heart and hand. During the many years you have been associated with us, our relations have been most cordial and friendly, and we cherish your many charitable acts, sympathetic words, and kind deeds.

We beg of you to accept this purse as a slight token of our good will towards you, and we, one and all, earnestly hope and pray that good health and prosperity may attend you wherever in the future you may be located.

Signed on behalf of the employees of the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co., Ltd., M. Reilly, A. C. Corcoran, E. G. Taylor, E. Morency, W. McAllister, W. Shelton, M. Weatherhead.

Peterborough, Ontario, 20th May, 1901.

Mr. Emmerson replied in suitable terms expressing the deep thanks he felt for the purse, and assuring them that he would ever look back with pleasant recollections of his associations with them.

Dover v. Haliburton Lumber Co.—This is an action brought by Mr. Fred Dover against the Haliburton Lumber Co. damages for cutting lumber on lots 18 and 19 on the second concession of Dysart, in the Provisional County of Haliburton.

Mr. Dover has owned these lots for about nineteen years, and in the summer of 1900, bearing that the Lumber Company were about to commence operations in that neighbourhood, he sent them notice to the effect that he owned these lots and have them warned against trespassing. Notwithstanding these notices, the defendants cut the pine, cedar, etc.

The case occupied all Monday afternoon, with a short resting until ten o'clock, and was closed at 11:30 this morning. A large number of witnesses, chiefly from the village of Haliburton, were examined. At the conclusion of the case the Judge delivered judgement, finding that a trespass had been committed, and awarded damages to plaintiff for $800 and full costs.

E. Edwards for plaintiff, Walter Gow, Blake, Lash & Cassels, for defendants.

A meeting of the Veterans Association was held in the Town Council Chamber on Monday night, there being about twenty of the members present. The chair was occupied by the President, A. F. Pousette, K.C.

The auditor's report was on motion received and adopted.

The committee reported and recommended that the local association do not accept the office of a certain mining and developing company to take stock in the same.

The executive committee recommended that the anniversary of the battle of Ridgway be celebrated by the association attending divine service at St. John's Church in a body on Sunday, June 2nd, and by a social reunion on the Monday evening following.

The Asthmatic's Agency

Wakeful nights, suffocating sensations, difficult breathing. Who can describe it? This disease, partly nervous, partly congestive, partly the result of microbic irritation, is no longer treated by nauseous stomach destroying drugs, but by Catarrhazone, that destroys the microbe, relieves congestion and relaxes the nervous irritability that renders breathing so difficult. The medication is carried by the air you breathe to the very seat of the disease, and removes at once the cause. The great discovery is known as Catarrhazone. Its influence upon Asthma is simply marvellous. Catarrhazone prevents as well as cures, and is the only remedy guaranteed to cure. Your money back if it fails. Two sizes at all dealers, 25c. and $1.00.

ORDERED TO VACATE.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Ordered to Make Room for the Shovel Company.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, the well known stock man, has been ordered by the Town Trust Commissioners to vacate the premises occupied by him as a stock yard.

The proposed Shovel Company has arranged to build on the southern part of the lot, and the town has agreed to give them a portion of Mr. Kennedy's lot also.

Mr. Kennedy naturally feels over his treatment. He has only, you may say, got his stock yard into good running shape, and to be obliged to move now, he considers a hardship.

There is plenty of room for both the Shovel Company and the Stock Yard, and it would be well for the Commissioners to arrange it between the parties, so that there will be no friction.

KING EDWARD NEARLY KILLED ON SHAMROCK

Falling Spars on Board Shamrock II Narrow-ly Escapes His Majesty Wednesday.

CUP CHALLENGER WAS BADLY WRECKED DURING A TRIAL

London, May 22.—King Edward had a miraculous escape from death today while aboard the challenger, Shamrock II, in the race with Shamrock I. The yacht was totally dismantled by a sudden squall. The King, who was on deck at the time, narrowly escaped being struck by the heavy masts. The topmast, mainmast and bowsprit were broken off short, and came down with a crash almost at his Majesty's feet.

The interest shown in the event by King Edward added special zest to today's trial of the Shamrocks. His Majesty who was accompanied only by his personal attendants, was met at the pier by Sir Thomas Lipton and W. G. Jameson. They entered a launch and proceeded at once to the challenger. The visit was quite informal, a few additional policemen on the pier being the only evidence of anything unusual.

It was suggested that his Majesty should sail on board the challenger, as there was a considerable element of danger when a lightly-built racer was hard driven. The King was, therefore, mentioned as a suitable boat for him. The original plan was adhered to, however, and his Majesty went aboard Shamrock II.

The topsail of Shamrock I was also carried away in the squall which struck the yachts broadside on, just as preparations were being made for the start off the Brambles buoy.

BOTHA'S LAAGER TAKEN BY STORM

Boers Made a Good Defence, But Were Rtsbed From Position.

BOERS GATHER IN THE ZURBERG.

London, May 22.—A despatch from Pretoria says:—A considerable commando of Boers is in the neighborhood of Nigel Reef, Transvaal. Last week Col. Colville's men attacked Gen. Hans Botha's laager, and after hand fighting, captured and burned it. The British troops impetuously rushed the position and the burghers fled. A despatch from Cape Town says Commandant Krizinger, with 200 men, has passed through Colesburg. It is also said that Gen. Hertzog's commando has been without bread for five months.

BETHULIE BRIDGE REOPENED.

The railway bridge at Bethulie, in the Orange River Colony, on the borders of Cape Colony, which was destroyed by the Boers fourteen months ago, was reopened yesterday. The bridge which crosses the Orange river at this point is 1,480 feet in length.

ROBERT HEALTH ALARMING.

The Morning Leader says that the health of Earl Roberts, Commander-in-Chief of the British army, is giving his friends concern. The work in his department of the War Office is greatly in arrears.

CONCENTRATING IN ZURBERG.

A despatch from Middleburg, Cape Colony, says an important concentration of the Boers is proceeding in the Zurberg. Many fresh invaders are crossing the Orange river into Cape Colony, and Commandant Fouché has also joined the burghers in that district. The total strength of the Boers in that district is estimated at between 1,000 and 1,500. There is an unconfirmed rumor that Gen. Christian Dewet is again in command of the Boer invaders. The British military officials are cognizant of the movements of the Boers, and are prepared for them.

BELGIUM WON'T INTERFERE.

A despatch from Brussels says: The Senate today, by 37 to 22 votes, rejected a resolution, introduced by M. J. Foulx, Socialist, declaring in favor of the Transvaal, and regretting that Belgium was powerless to do anything in the matter. The Foreign Minister, M. de Favereux, replying to the accusations made during the debate, that British soldiers had massacred Boer women and children, and had otherwise ill-treated the Boers, said Great Britain had carried civilization to all the countries of the world, and had everywhere defended liberty of the person and of conscience.

NO RELIEF FOR GERMANS.

A despatch from Berlin says: The report of the Petition Committee of the Reichstag asserts, which reference to the Transvaal, that the number of claimants has been greatly reduced through Germany's refusal to support the claims of persons who fought on the Boer side, and who accepted free transport from the British home as equivalent for their claims. It also appears that the efforts of Germany to get Great Britain to advance $24,000 for the relief of the other claimants have failed.

DE WETS WHEREABOUTS.

Army officers in Pretoria claim to have information that Gen. De Wet is not in Cape Colony. They say that, with 4,000 armed Boers and three field guns, he is in the difficult country near Botha's pass. This place is located between Orange Colony and Natal, and not far from Majuba Hill. In this country the Boers have scored their greatest success. De Wet is said to have plenty of food and forage.

OFFICERS IN FAVOR OF THE ARMY CANTEN.

Intemperance Has Increased Since Canteen Was Abolished.

New York, May 22.—The Times says General Brooke has sent out an order to all commanders of posts in the Department of the East to send him on September 1 a complete report of the results which have ensued upon the abolition of the army canteen. Officers say that those reports will show beyond cavil that intemperance has largely increased under the new regime, and it is predicted that the next Congress will give serious consideration to the private saloons.

Seven privates absent without leave from Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, have just been locked up in military prison at Governor's Island, which is the headquarters of the department. They disappeared from their post immediately after pay day of this month, and their troubles are attributed by officers to the abolition of canteens.

A report interviewed a number of the officers at Governor's Island and every one of them was saying, "I told you so" when the cases of Fort Sheridan, Fort Snelling and Fort Ethan Allen were called to mind. The officers there regard it as a matter of a short time when the public sentiment of the nation will demand the re-establishment of the canteen.

WORLD OF SPORT.

ROUTE OF PROFESSION.

There has been a change made in the route of the Kallitumpan procession on May 24th. The procession will start from Bridge Works go to Aymer street, north to Hunter, east to George, north to McDonald, east to Water, south to Hunter, east to Ashburnham, up Elizabeth to Driscoll terrace, north to Doura, east to Brown and Mark, south to Robinson, west to Lake, north to Elizabeth, west to George, south to place of beginning.

BASEBALL.

The Park Nine of the West End will play the Young Nationals of the South End on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 at the Central Park.

The local nine are out to win on the 24th, as evidenced by their practice last night. They had 15 men in the game. The Toronto nine are a strong aggregation but the boys are quite confident with Dan McCabe in the box who can always be relied upon, and Kothie who will likely take Andy Scott's place. Andy is on the team to battle against the Scots in the football match. The game is called for 3.30.

Toronto won from Providence again on Tuesday, thereby winning 2 out of 3 games.

Pop Williams pitched for the Toronto nine and allowed but 8 hits. Friendly pitched for Providence and was hit freely.

Montreal won from Syracuse Tuesday by 6 to 4.

Rochester won from Hartford Tuesday by 10 to 9.

Worcester won from Buffalo Tuesday by 3 to 1.

AT THE BALL GAME.

Spent an hour trying to get a hearing with prominent business men. Each one disappearing before I could even start to unwind my line.

Each one was singing the same old tune, "Business engagements this afternoon."

Gave up! Decided to kill time by taking in the Ball game.

Rich man, Poor man, Beggar man, Thief, Hoker, Banker, Merchant, Chief!

Yes, they were all there. Every busy Minnie. Who? Hadn't Time to talk Business. Shouting, "Look 'em!" "Kill the umpire!" "Robber!" "Slide!" Each one yelling like a loon. Busy men that afternoon!

Guilph lost to London by 13 to 7. Guilph had a baseball team once.

The game was slow. On the diamond green. Guilph scored seven.

London thirteen.

"Why do the fans love Bonner so?" Quoth Rosie, with a smile, "Because," replied her dimpled friend, "He hits the ball a mile."

—If they are coming our way, The umpire is a Jew!

But if they are against us, He's a lobster and a mule!

ODDS AND ENDS.

John Philip Sousa rushed up to the Ball Grounds after the Massey Hall concert to see the finish between Toronto and Providence. John Philip rooted to peak the band.

Umpire Sid O'Loughlin got lost early on Saturday afternoon. He jumped aboard a car going west on King street at an early hour and kept his eye open for the Ball Grounds. "Sid" was on a Belt Line car, though, and it was not until half the circuit had been made that he got wise to the fact. That's the reason there was delay in starting the ball game.

St. Mary's team of the Toronto Senior League have arranged a game in Hamilton on the 24th with St. Patrick's Athletic Club team, which defeated them some weeks ago. The boys are practicing hard, and if they play up to the form shown on Saturday they undoubtedly will win their previous defeat. St. Patrick's have easily the best team in the Ambitious City. A large crowd of supporters are going up with St. Mary's.

The baseball contract which binds a ball player for one or more years, but does not bind the club for more than ten days has been declared valueless by the courts of Pennsylvania in a suit brought in connection with a player named Lajoie. No legal tribunal, said the court, would recognize the validity of so unequal a contract. If you wish to know how to pronounce Lajoie's name, read the following from the Philadelphia Record:

From the National League fold did stroke.

Colonel Rogers was nettled. But the courts have now settled. The question of where he may play.

THE BOND-BLAINE TREATY IS A DANGER

Mr. Kaulback Points Out to the House How Concessions will Damage Canada.

Fishing Fleet May be Practically Destroyed—Hardy Fishermen of Canada May be Driven into the U. S. Navy—Newfoundland and Nova Scotia Hold Together.

Ottawa, May 22.—In the House of Commons this morning Mr. Kaulback, on motion to go into supply, called the attention of the House to the reported visit of Mr. Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, and conferences with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues with respect to the so-called Bond-Blaine treaty between Newfoundland and the United States. He considered such a treaty would be most inimical to the interests of Canada. He hoped to receive an assurance from the Premier that he would make proper representations to the Imperial Government Newfoundland was not alone interested in the fisheries. Canada had had vested rights in these waters from time immemorial, and these rights should be defended by the Government. The privileges the Newfoundland Government proposed to grant to the United States were a direct interference with Canadian rights.

He went into the details of the intended treaty to show how greatly the concessions on both sides would damage Canadian trade and more especially that of Nova Scotia, and declared it would be a most serious blow to the fishing fleets of the maritime provinces. The whole matter appeared to him to be unnatural, and uncalled for. Newfoundland and Nova Scotia should work together and could and should be entirely independent of the United States. Let Canada and Newfoundland occupy the fishing waters as a common possession, and work them for mutual benefit.

It would be a serious thing to stand aside and allow our fishing fleets to be practically destroyed and drive the hardy fishermen of Canada in the United States Navy, and the United States fishing vessels. He contended that if Nova Scotia and Newfoundland held together in withholding back from the Americans, Canada would be to a great extent master of the situation in negotiations relating to the hostile tariff of the United States. He was surprised at Mr. Bond showing so hostile an attitude towards Canada after Canada's considerate treatment of Newfoundland. He protested against such a treaty being ratified by Great Britain.

THE CONTINGENTS COST $2,000,000.

Every Cent of This Will be Required to Pay all Expenses.

Ottawa, May 22.—Lieut.-Col. Pinault, in his report to Parliament on the South African contingent, says that only those who have read the correspondence that has come to the Militia Department since September, 1899, have any adequate idea of the loyalty and patriotism prevailing to every section of Canada.

J. W. Borden, Accountant of the Department says it will take every cent of the $2,000,000 voted by Parliament to meet all claims and pay all expenses. Up to March 31st last the expenditure was $1,953,827. Of this expenditure $707,900, over one-third, went for transport of troops, horses and supplies in the four troops shipped and fitted out for that purpose.

Transport to ports of embarkation required over $108,000, bringing the total of transport up to $816,900, over two-fifths of the total expenditure. Pay of the troops and separation allowances to families of married men used to $44,000, and with equipment $10,000 more before all claims are settled. Clothing, under which head is included every article of dress worn by the soldiers, costs $200,000, or about $105 per man. For the 1,139 horses purchased, it required $131,000. The telegraph and cable service cost the Government $9,382.

Welsh Quarrymen for Ste. Marie.

London, Eng., May 22.—The long-standing dispute between the employers and employees in a large Welsh quarry is further from settlement than ever. Much interest is now being taken by those who have at heart the interests of the Penrhyn quarrymen in an extensive emigration scheme has been placed before them.

The determination of the men not to return to the quarries under similar conditions to the past and the firm attitude of Lord Penrhyn makes it evident that the resumption of operations will be indefinitely delayed.

Efforts are therefore being made to induce the men to emigrate to Sault Ste. Marie, in this Province of Ontario, where Mr. Clergue, a rich American, has discovered and developed large deposits of iron ore and nickel.

Harry Lindley Opera Co.

Last night's performance of Little Lord Fauntleroy was a dramatic treat. Little Mystic outshining any of her predecessors in the role. To-night is a special ladies night, when "The Diamond Queen" will be produced, in which toilettes are a feature. For tonight every gentleman or lady with one paid ticket will be entitled to a second one free to reserved seats. There will be a holiday matinee on Friday and the company will also remain for the balance of the week.

Special Dispatches.

Pekin, May 22. The Foreign Ministers meeting to-day was very unsatisfactory. No power was willing to accede to the American ideas of a reduction of Chinese indemnities to forty million pounds. All Great Britain recognizes the advisability of some reduction. There will be another meeting to-morrow.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

First Sale of The Season Held Wednesday Morning.

Pres. Drummond's Remarks—Reference Made to the Death of Wm. Cluxton and W. J. Young.

The first meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board for the season, was held yesterday morning with a large attendance of salesmen. The following buyers were present: Messrs. Wrighton, Whitton, Fitzgerald, Kerr, Squire, Moore, Rollins and Bailey. Eight and a half cents was the ruling price.

Before the bidding began Mr. Drummond, President of the Board, welcomed the members back to the winter months, and regretted the absence of two familiar faces, viz., Messrs. Wm. Cluxton and W. J. Young. Mr. Cluxton had been one of the best members of the Board ever, and one of its best friends. He was always anxious to keep the members in the right path. Peterborough had the name of having one of the best cheese in the country, and Mr. Cluxton was anxious to see the good reputation sustained. Mr. Cluxton had been one of the best salesmen in the country, and he was always anxious to see the members of the Board in the right path. He was always anxious to see the members of the Board in the right path.

Turning his attention to the business before the Board, the President mentioned the fact that at Cowanville, the Board had passed a resolution calling upon all buyers to furnish letters of credit for the amount of their purchases. This was a business way of doing business, and it was for the salesmen to say whether the Peterborough Board should pass a similar resolution. Another matter which he wished to bring to the attention of the Board was the fact that the Town Council had kindly ordered a new set of scales for the weighing of cheese, when it was the present ones were inaccurate.

In conclusion Mr. Drummond, on behalf of the buyers, heartily thanked the Ontario Bank for furnishing the sales book containing a list of the factories, to be used at the meetings of the Board for recording the sales.

GRAND TRUNK'S BROCHURE.

Company's Latest Publication Shows Art in Advertising.

Art in advertising is a feature that the Grand Trunk Railway Company, does not lose sight of when issuing any of its advertising matter, and it can be safely said that the booklet on printing material that goes to make up a handsome tout-ensemble is used, and every particular as regards the execution of the work is carefully looked after. This is practically demonstrated in the new publication, issued by the advertising department, relative to the unrivaled service from the West to Portland, Me., in connection with the transatlantic service given by the Dominion line of steamships to Europe. The brochure is entitled, "Across the Atlantic via Portland, Maine." It is printed in five colors on enameled coated paper, and gives a beautiful and accurate description of the trip from Chicago and other western points over the Grand Trunk to its eastern terminus at Portland.

The cover is a very fine piece of half-tone engraving depicting a scene in the harbor of Portland, reproduced from a view taken from the shore of South Portland and showing one of the Dominion line steamers leaving port. The large elevators belonging to the Grand Trunk show up prominently in the design, and with Mountjoy Hill looming up on the left, a realistic picture is presented. The text is printed in two colors and profusely illustrated with scenes along the route. The illustrations are printed in the halftone process, a unique style of printing introduced by the Grand Trunk, and which has been found most effective in enhancing the lights and shadows of the half-tones. An engraving in colors of the funnel marks and house flags of the principal transatlantic steam lines is also shown.

MISSION OF MR. ROSS
The people of Ontario are looking with curious interest upon the approaching visit of Hon. G. W. Ross to Great Britain. The liberal press has thrown up its arms, either in relief, joy or dissimulation and announces that this means no election until the summer of 1902 and no appeal to the people until after another session.

But the visit of Mr. Ross to the old land means no such thing. If it points in any direction, it is towards an early appeal to the people. No one who has been following provincial politics closely has ever anticipated an election this summer. There cannot be an election without some difficulty before next January. Before that time Mr. Ross will have been in England, succeeded or failed in his mission, which success or failure will determine the date of the dissolution of parliament.

The press intimates that Mr. Ross has gone to England to look about him, and while there will press upon the colonial secretary the wisdom of the remount station to be established in Ontario.

But Mr. Ross is not going to England for the sole purpose of investigating the remount system, and he is going on some other mission, and one of unusual importance.

Mr. Ross is more energetic than any of his predecessors in the premiership. He studies out a new policy, and has the nerve to pursue it to the very end, even if it is fraught with all manner of difficulties. He has turned aside from the old traditions of the party, and does not persist in harping on the vast surplus, but asks support for his government, not on account of what they have saved, but for what they have done.

Mr. Ross evidently has a new scheme, a new branch of an extensive line of policy, in sight, and it is of such importance that he is pushing it over to Great Britain to hasten it to a successful completion.

If he succeeds he will, without doubt, go to the country at once, with his new policy forming the chief plank in the platform.

Mr. Ross has given no hint of his mission, nor of the new policy in sight, but a "shrewd guesser" might pick upon a plan to bring out of New Ontario a stalwart class of English, Scotch and Irish immigrants.

EDITORIAL NOTES
Speculation is not confined to finance. It has wandered into the domain of religion. A local clergyman is said to have remarked that it was possible that God had allowed Daniel to take part in the work of making the Book of Revelation with John. One would think that John and Daniel were two men from Babel, so thoroughly conversant are we evidently with them and their doings. If God has revealed Himself to man, what further revelation do we need, especially of the queer work type? Such remarks as these set all thinking people laughing instead of imbibing them with a desire to seek and find.

Parliament has done well in throwing out the bill to incorporate nurses. Any nurse who graduates from a Canadian training school has a sufficient guarantee of her capability in the certificate she holds, if it is only a matter of raising the professional standard, and that the promoters were after the object lesson of the Ontario Medical society extending 700 qualified doctors because they did not put up a $2 annual fee is still fresh in the minds of the public, but we do not think the action raised the standard of the medical profession to any noticeable extent.

CHANDOS.
A very pretty wedding took place at the Presbyterian Church 8th, when Miss Mary McPherson, youngest daughter of John McPherson, of Clydeville, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick Haldie, of Aspley.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Garbett, of Cor Hill Mine, the bride being given away by her father. Her bridesmaid was Miss M. N. Campbell, of Rochester, N.Y.
The groom was supported by Mr. Thomas Eastland, of Aspley.

As the wedding couple entered the church Mrs. Remington played a wedding march.
After the ceremony was performed the trustees of the church, represented by Mr. Shearer, a Presbyterian student, read a beautiful address and presented the bride with a handsome arm chair as a token of esteem and appreciation of her services rendered as organist of the church.

Afterwards the wedding party and a host of friends from Clydeville and surrounding country repaired to the residence of the bride's father where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served.
The guests from out of town were Miss Agnes McPherson and Mr. Duncan McPherson, Miss Mary, Miss Munsey, Toronto; Miss I. and Madge Campbell, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. H. McCauley, Belleville.

The bride was the recipient of a number of valuable presents.

READY TO TRY ROYALISTS.
French Senate Will Soon Arrive the Marquis De La Rochelle.

Paris, May 22.—The initiatory steps for the trial of Marquis De La Rochelle, who recently returned to France after having been banished, were taken to-day, when a police officer visited the marquis and drew up a verbal process. M. Fallieres, president of the senate, is expected to shortly convene that body as a high court for the trial of the marquis.

ROW IN BELGIAN CHAMBERS.
Socialists Attack the Liberal and President Leaves the House.

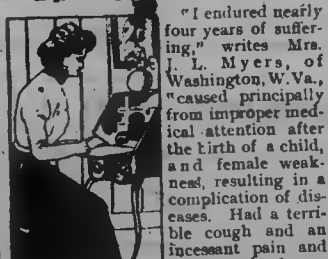

Brussels, May 22.—There were stormy scenes in the chamber of deputies today during the debate on foreign affairs. M. Dubet protested against the suppression of the temporal power of the pope. M. Fauriant, a socialist, retorted with shouting "Down with the priests." He then called on the socialists, who immediately started with a song and the rightists responded with shouts of "Long live the king." The president of the house put on his hat and left the chamber. Lively altercations between members of the different parties ensued.

"I wrote Dr. Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free."

"I endured nearly four years of suffering," writes Mrs. L. Myers, of Washington, W. Va., "caused principally from improper medical attention after the birth of a child, and female weakness, resulting in a complication of diseases. Had a terrible cough and an incessant pain and soreness in lungs. Was reduced in flesh from 184 pounds to about 100 pounds in eighteen months. I had no appetite, and became so weak and nervous I could scarcely sit up. I doctored with our home physicians for two years with no benefit, I was finally induced to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I wrote to Doctor Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free, advising the proper medicine for my case. After taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three doses each day, also taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and some of his 'Pellea,' I ceased coughing, and am now enjoying splendid health and have gained thirty-five pounds in weight. I again feel like my former self, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his great medicines."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter FREE. All correspondence strictly confidential and all women's confidences guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefields has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 3 1/2 x 5 1/2, on heavy, superior calculated paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg. There are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the men are all in action, the smoke of the distance is swirling with men, while here and there a figure is seen, speaking only too well of the Boer riflemen. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Armstrong met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant Boers had them dead speeded as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the battle-side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian soldier, the deeds of their brave soldiers speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Camp at Standardeburg, the Boer Cavalry on the Retreating Boer Camp's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Here is a chance to make money. The pictures are sold at 50 cents each. One agent sold 68 in two days. Samples of the pictures are sent free. Four for 50 cts. $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.75; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. A FUNNY INCIDENT OF THE AFRICAN WAR

A Document That Was Sent to the Commander-in-Chief

AND RECEIVED DUE ATTENTION

Men a Clever Writer Got Back at Some of the Imperial Troops.

(Republished by Request.)

Mr. Alf. Brown, who belonged to the Strathcona, has many souvenirs of the war in his possession. There is none however, that he cherishes more fondly than the manuscript of a "parable," written by a comrade, a copy of which was delivered into the hands of Lord Roberts. Through Mr. Brown's kindness we are enabled to present it to the readers of the Times.

A PARABLE.

There was a certain man whose name was John Bull, and he had 5 sons; and 3 of these went into a far country, where they prospered exceedingly and they begat children.

So that their seed was as the sand on the sea shore, for multitude.

And the names of those three sons were Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

But the other two sons abode in their father's house and they were as the apple of his eye, and their names were C. I. V. and I. Y., (City Imperial Volunteers and Imperial Yeomanry).

And it came to pass that there was much work to be done in the fields of John Bull.

And he was vexed exceedingly, yea, even in sore straits, because the work was great and the laborers were few.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, when they heard of this, took counsel together, and said, Behold, now John Bull, our father's father, is in sore straits because of the work which he has to do.

And he hath only one hired servant—Tommy, to accomplish the work. Where withal shall we not therefore go to him and say,

Lo, we are of the seed of thy loins, and verily blood is thicker than water, let us therefore work in thy fields for a season, until such time as thy labor is so far accomplished that the rest may be done by Tommy, thine hired servant;

And they sent messengers to John Bull and told him.

And when he heard their tidings was glad exceedingly and waxed vainglorious among his neighbors, saying unto them,

Behold my children's children. Now, when they hear that I am in sore straits they come out and work in my fields.

Yea, they make themselves even as my hired servant Tommy, that my work may be accomplished.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand tarried not, for the need was pressing, but left their homes, their wives, and their children, their flocks and their herds and all that they possessed and went into the fields of John Bull.

And John Bull did over them an over-seer, one Roberts, a just man, and of good report, so that the fame of his uprightness had reached unto the countries of Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

And the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand rejoiced and were exceedingly glad that such an one had been set over them.

And the striplings C. I. V. and I. Y. did John Bull also send out that they might labor in the fields with Canada, Australia and New Zealand and with Tommy, the hired servant.

But they did come into the field clad in purple and fine linen, yea, in splendid raiment, for they understood not of the manner of work where unto they were called, and they skipped about like fawns, yea, even as the young of the wild ass disported themselves.

Nevertheless did Roberts, the overseer, continually send tidings to the house of John Bull, saying unto him, Behold the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y., whom thou didst send out to labor in thy fields, the work which they do.

The young men, the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand and also Tommy, thine hired servant, they do labor exceedingly and faithfully, but the work which they do is as naught compared with the work of the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y.

Verily, they will not be denied.

And when the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand and Tommy, the hired servant, heard these things, they murmured among themselves, saying,

Have we not borne the burden and heat of the day, while the young men, the C. I. V. and I. Y., have disported themselves. Is it therefore well and seemly that this Roberts should send these tidings unto John Bull.

But having bethought them they took counsel together concerning the matter, and said,

Lo, are not the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y., as the apple of his eye unto John Bull, and shall not the tidings of this Roberts concerning them be pleasing to the old man, let us therefore have no bitterness in our hearts, but let us rather labor the more faithfully so that when all is accomplished John Bull himself shall see what manner of work we have done; and they said with one accord,

So be it, and did murmur no more, but did labor exceedingly hard.

But when the day was far spent, and the evening drew nigh and the work was well nigh done, John Bull did send messengers unto Roberts, even unto the overseer, saying unto him,

Send now to my house the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y., that I may make merry with them and reward them accordingly for the great work they have done for me.

For I have prepared a feast for them—meat and wine—yea, the fatted calf of the people and the wine of the country, which is called champagne, which foameth when poured into the vessel.

But the young men, the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand—let them remain in the field with Tommy, the hired servant, that they may finish the labor even unto the last jot and tittle.

And Roberts did unto the young men even as John Bull had commanded him.

Now, when the children of Canada, Australia and New Zealand heard those things they were exceedingly wroth, and their hearts were filled with bitterness.

And they said one to another, Why has John Bull treated us thus shamefully?

Have we not left our wives, and our children, our flocks and our herds, that we might hasten to labor in the fields of John Bull?

In the fullness of time it may well come to pass that John Bull may, again be in sore straits by reason of the work which is to do in the fields.

How then shall we answer him when, peradventure, he may say unto us,

Come over and help me that I may accomplish the labor whereunto I have set my hand.

Shall not the bitterness of the dirt which we have eaten abide in our mouths?

How then shall we answer him?

And they all cried out with one voice, Thus shall we make answer unto him.

—Aftertime, when thou wast in sore straits and troubled exceedingly, did we not leave all that we had and labor for thee, and thou didst shamefully treat us;

Now, therefore, do thine own work as best thou mayest, even thou and the young men, C. I. V. and I. Y., who abide with thee, for we have work of our own to do, to fields to till and flocks to guard, and we leave them not lightly any more.

To understand the above it is necessary to explain that the City Imperial Volunteers and the Imperial Yeomanry were regarded as fops. They had more fantagories in the shape of baggage than any ten regiments in South Africa. And they did no fighting work speaking of, being too "refined" to rough it.

When these regiments reached England they were fops and dandies and the whole war had been settled by them.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION, BUFFALO

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

PETERBOROUGH PURE MILK COMPANY

(LIMITED)

CAPITAL $40,000

IN 1600 SHARES OF $25 EACH.

This company has been formed for the purpose of carrying out the suggestion of the committee recently appointed to enquire into the question of pure milk supply.

It is proposed to enter into a contract for the supply to this Company of the quantity of milk required under the conditions referred to in the committee's report.

The Company will erect proper buildings and plant for treating the milk and delivering it free from impurities; the herd of cows, stables, employees, etc., being subject to strict regulations and rigid inspection.

A careful estimate has been made of the cost of buildings and plant, including Refrigerating apparatus, and it has been decided that subscriptions to the necessary extent should be obtained in order to carry on the projected scheme successfully. It may reasonably be anticipated that within a short period the delivery will be sufficient to ensure the Company against loss and that as the quantity increases the return will produce a fair dividend upon the capital, after providing for depreciation.

Subscriptions to the extent of two shares and upwards are invited.

As soon as a sufficient number of shares have been taken to warrant the commencement of operations, a meeting of the subscribers will be called for the purpose of naming Provisional Directors.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. A. P. Poussette, 379 Water St., or Mr. H. P. Kennedy, 340 George St., or Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at the Review office.

The following gentlemen have already subscribed:—Dr. Halliday, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Greer, Dr. Scott, Messrs. A. H. Stratton, B. Shortly, W. D. Parker, A. W. Cressman, R. A. REMINISCENCES OF QUEEN VICTORIA

Her Majesty Announces Her "Intended Alliance"
--A Cinderella Coach--An Aldermanic Appreciation of Turtle Soup.

Interesting paragraphs about the Queen by the President of the Women's Historical Society.

"My late aunt, Mrs. James Strachan has often told me that she was present on the auspicious occasion of Her Majesty's announcing to her people her 'intention of allying myself with Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.' Anyone who has read the Life of Queen Victoria, by Sir Theodore Martin, will remember the plain and beautiful English in which that announcement was made, and a faithful day it must have been in the Sovereign's life, when in her youth (that fact seems to have impressed my aunt), she read out those words in clear, unflattering tones."

"During a visit to London in my mother's (the late Mrs. John Beverly Robinson) girlhood, she had the keenest remembrance of going in one of those wonderful gilt Cinderella coaches, which are so familiar to one's eyes in Lord Mayor's shows, to witness the opening of the first Parliament after Her Majesty's marriage."

"The Queen looked fair and young, with a crimson glow diffused all round her from the magnificent folds of the State mantle of velvet and ermine. The Queen read her speech from the throne, and my mother said she never could forget the clear silvery tone of the words, 'My Lords and Gentlemen,' every syllable almost being pronounced. She remembered the Queen lifting her left hand after her speech, and a lavender kerchief was at once handed Her Majesty passed it lightly across her lips, and handed it back over her shoulder, without a movement of her head; the whole action, small as it was, showing such complete composure and self-control. The Prince Consort my mother described as the handsomest man she ever saw, as he stood in full court dress beside the throne."

It was at this time that a curious thing, laughable in itself, was witnessed at a Lord Mayor's dinner at the Guildhall. Turtle soup was served; the green fat, so dear to the gourmet, was not inviting to the young lady's appetite, and it was not more than fastidious, the dear old alderman with her could not understand such a waste of good things, and with a bow he said, 'May I ask, Madam, if you are not going to eat your soup?' 'I thank you, Sir, I did not care for it.' 'Then, Madam, allow me to finish it,' and without ado substituted his empty plate for his neighbor's untouched one, and enjoyed the second supply with the greatest relish."

WEDDED AT HASTINGS.

Mr. L. F. Clarry and Miss Winifred Johnson Married on Wednesday.

A very interesting event took place at the Methodist parsonage in Hastings when Mr. Lewis F. Clarry, barrister, was united in marriage to Miss Winifred A. only daughter of Rev. E. F. Johnson. The ceremony was performed by a select number of invited guests.

The bride was charmingly attired in white duchesse, made on train, with point lace bodice and acordon plectat, chiffon trimming. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Florence Mabel Clarry, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and was dressed in a gown of white tulle and mousseline-de-soie with a bonnet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was supported by Mr. Percy R. Johnson, of Boston, Mass., brother of the bride.

A sumptuous wedding dinner was served in the dining room and library which were decorated in pink and white. Guests were present from New York, Peterborough, Lindsay, Brockville, Boston, Mass., Millbrook, Fort Hope and Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarry drove to Norwood, and left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for New York, and other American cities. They will on their return take up their residence in Hastings.

Singers get a week and which do you think would be best to do Operatic business or act as a Trained Nurse or both? I wish you would look around here in Peterborough and see what kind of an opening there would be for me, provided I adopt a profession. I have a beau, a real country boy who never saw a city—and who, Ma says, is as green as a gourd. He has got a farm which is his and I kinder like him, but Ma says a girl in my position should marry a Toiled Gentleman and be an ornament to Society. As I see you sometimes give advice, I would like to know what you think about it.

I think that if your mother is in her right mind she is in need of enlightenment. There is no demand for "Operatic Girls" and the life of a trained nurse is not all sunshine and the salary is not enough to disturb a bank. The chances are that the "green" country lad, if you can get him, is worth his weight in gold—worth a hundred glittering ducats, you would run against a big city, and if you will make him a good wife you will be a much happier woman than your mother. Ever was. Generally speaking, I treat these things lightly, but as you have spoken so seriously to me, I proffer this advice solemnly and candidly and hope you will accept it and act upon it.

A NOBLE CORPS WHO FED THE GUNS

A GREAT STRAIN ON THE MEN

How the Royal Arsenal Does Its Work—A Chapter on the History of the War Never Printed Before.

London, May 24.—With the end of the South African campaign apparently within sight, the country has already commenced the bestowal of its honours and rewards. It has been a hard and anxious struggle, and the men who have been at the hand-grips with the foe deserve full recognition of their valor at the hands of a grateful nation.

But the supreme attraction of the battlefield is not unlikely to contribute to an injustice against which we should be on our guard. For a long time now our strained attention has been fixed upon the South African field, where so many of our friends have fallen. We have watched with eager interest and admiration the achievements of our special heroes—Rundle, Hunter, French, the valiant men of the English empire, and of the great colonial Empire over seas, and many another gallant name, revealed when the happy day arrived they should not lack their reward.

But there is one corps of which the country has never heard the name. It has never been named in despatches or held up to public applause and approbation by ubiquitous special, but, nevertheless, it has fought on against heavy odds unknown and unrecognized, doing work in default of which Great Britain could not have maintained herself against her foes, and must have lost her place among the nations.

This corps is Sir Henry Brackenbury's, which has fought the war from the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich. They have worn no uniform or insignia but their shirt-sleeves, and their only weapons have been their hard, toil-stained hands, with which they have done a service to the country which it would be very difficult to overestimate. Few people, indeed, realized the peril of our position at the outbreak of this miscalculated war. Short of ammunition, stores and equipment of nearly every kind when the struggle was actually upon us, had it not been for the heroism and almost superhuman exertions of the Royal Arsenal disaster and defeat could have been our only portion.

THE ARSENAL NEVER FAILED.

It was asked or nothing. An unprecedented effort was called for, and, as Sir Henry Brackenbury said with all solemnity at the recent Arsenal dinner in London, "Thank God, gentlemen, the Arsenal never failed!"

The men were exhorted by their chiefs to rise to a great occasion, and work like slaves upon the individual exertions of each one depended the safety of the great army in South Africa. Right nobly the workers responded to the call. Not a man or boy but felt that his labors would contribute in a material degree to the success of the struggle in which the country and his "pals" at the front were engaged. They put their backs into it as never before, and toiled with a devoted and anxious enthusiasm which is known only to those who knew the Arsenal during that critical time.

Form morning till night the work went on, and through the night till morning came again. There was no cessation on holiday or Sunday. The beginning of 1900 saw these laboring for all they were worth, and the greater part of the year came and went and they were still putting their backs into it.

Like the army at the front, they had their casualties, their dead and wounded, victims of the stern strain of the contest that was being maintained at all costs. One of the principal managers, though warned by the doctor that he would kill himself if he did not take a rest, preferred to die at his post rather than leave it at the time of peril.

These are only instances of the spirit that was abroad. Time passed on and still the firing line at the front were hard at work with rifle and gun, but still behind, in never-failing support, the great machine shops of the Arsenal stamped and thundered and roared with unflinching energy and iron determination, sending forth an unbroken stream of supplies to maintain the fight 7,000 miles away.

LORD CRANBORNE'S GENERAL STATEMENT.

Says Government Should Demand an Indemnity and see that They Get It.

London, May 24.—Lord Cranborne, the under foreign secretary, made a general statement on China in the house of Commons yesterday. The government was questioned on the subject of the British tug Ewo incident at Tien Tsin, when two Chinese on board that vessel were fatally shot by Germans guarding a bridge after the tug had fouled it. Lord Cranborne in reply said Field Marshall Von Waldersee had expressed his regret and had promised to take measures to prevent the recurrence of similar incidents.

Lord Cranborne elaborated on the China question, saying the government's chief concern at present was to moderate so far as possible the demands for indemnity and see they did not infringe on commercial interests. The government, therefore, was unalterably opposed to raising the import duties to 10 per cent, as security for the payment of the indemnity.

In reply to all such suggestions he said that Great Britain would only consent to such rise of duties in connection with commercial improvements in the Chinese fiscal system. The abolition of the opium tax.

As to moderating the total indemnity there were more ways than one of achieving that object, and China's burden might be perceptibly lightened by the method of exacting payment. In regard to the proposal that the indemnity be defrayed by a loan guaranteed by a concert of the powers, undoubtedly China's obligation to pay the indemnity was a joint obligation, and though he hoped it would not be necessary if such a loan was guaranteed it would have to be by the joint force of all the powers.

The objection to a joint guaranty, however, was no obvious that the government would have nothing to do with it. Considering that British credit stood higher than that of any other power, while Great Britain only claimed a small portion of the indemnity, it would be nothing short of insane to agree to jointly guarantee the loan.

After mentioning that three high-placed delinquents had been executed, that three had been permitted to commit suicide, that four had been banished and that the powers had demanded the punishment of 170 provincial culprits, Lord Cranborne concluded by saying that on the whole the affairs of China were entering on a more peaceful phase and that the government hoped to soon withdraw a large portion of the British troops from that country.

Lord Lansdowne, the foreign secretary, made a statement in the house of lords similar to the one made by Lord Cranborne in the house of commons.

In regard to the withdrawal of troops the foreign secretary said 3,500 British troops would leave immediately.

The house of commons to-day by 300 to 123 votes rejected the motion of Sir Henry Fowler, liberal, which was supported by the liberal leaders disapproving the budget proposals. Mr. Balfour, the government leader, announced that the government would regard the adoption of the motion as a vote of non-confidence. The Irish abstained from voting.

Pekin, May 24.—Li Hung Chang has declared himself in favor of reformation of imperial and native customs under the direction of Sir Robert Hart, imperial commander of maritime customs, in such a way that the revenue from these sources will be increased to 10,000,000 taels annually. This money, with 4,000,000 of the 10,000,000 taels now collected from the salt tax, is to be devoted to the payment of the indemnity demanded by the ministers. The latter will hold another meeting on Wednesday to discuss the question of how the indemnity shall be paid. It is not expected that any definite action will be taken.

The officers of Tung-Chow yesterday landed over 10,000 taels to the American board of foreign missions in part payment of the indemnity for the destruction of the college and mission property at that place. Rev. Dr. Richards says that owing to the fact that the Germans are about to send an expedition into Shansi it is important to collect indemnities in the

BRESCI, THE ASSASSIN SIN, HANGS HIMSELF

Slayer of King Umberto, of Italy, Makes a Rope
From Bed Clothes and Takes His Life.

"Vengeance" Scratched on the Wall in Blood.—Last Week He Was Placed in a Straight Jacket, But Feigned Docility in Order to Obtain an Opportunity.

Rome, May 23.—Bresci, the assassin of the late King Umberto, has committed suicide at the penitentiary of Santo Stefano. Bresci recently had been suffering from extreme excitement, declared to be from remorse. On Tuesday night he made a rope from his blankets and hanged himself. On the walls of Bresci's cell the word "Vengeance" was scratched with his bloody thumb nail. Bresci's violence last week culminated in his attacking a jailer, in consequence of which he was placed in a straight jacket. Later the prisoner feigned docility, in order to secure an opportunity to commit suicide, which he accomplished by hanging himself to the ceiling. In the earlier days of his imprisonment, Bresci resented orders to keep silent, and threatened to kill himself.

Bresci shot King Umberto on the 29th of July last, while he was driving through the streets of Monza, after distributing the prizes in the gymnastic competitions there. There was good ground for believing that the assassination had been deliberately planned by the anarchists, and that Bresci was simply the instrument they used, though he disclaimed having any complicity in the plot. He was intimately connected, however, with the anarchist group at Paterson, N.J., where he had worked at his trade of weaving for the five years preceding years, and where he had married an American girl, and apparently settled down as a citizen of the country, though not naturalized. He was a friend of Spallito, the anarchist, who a few weeks before had murdered the foreman of Wideman's dye works, with whom he had some labor trouble, and it came out in the course of the trial that he had relations with the European group of anarchists, and belonged to a special section, known as the International group, the members of which were supposed to be first class shots, and who kept their skill by constant practice with the revolver and rifle. Bresci's defence for the crime which he had committed was the wrongs suffered by his countrymen under monarchical government. He professed to consider himself a national avenger, and the apparent lack of personal motive for the deed, led many people to believe that his mind was affected. He was a native of Milan, and seemed to have been greatly excited by the riots which have taken place in that city, and in Sicily a short time before, and which had been rigorously repressed by the authorities. During the trial he declared that it was after those events that he had decided on the death of the king, in return for the sufferings inflicted on his fellow-townsmen. He was defended by two of the ablest lawyers of Italy, but it was a foregone conclusion that he should be sentenced to life imprisonment, capital punishment not being permitted by the Italian laws. The solitary confinement to which the worst class of prisoners is subjected, is in effect, however, a living death, and most of them lose reason in a few months, which, no doubt is the fate which fell to Bresci too.

The assassin belonged to a good family, and his brother is an officer of some distinction in the Italian army. It speaks well for the liberality of the Government that Bresci's crime was not visited upon his innocent relatives, and this brother, who expressed the utmost horror of the assassination, met with the deepest sympathy on every hand, and not long after the perpetration of the murder was promoted for merit.

Paterson, N.J., May 23.—The news caused great excitement among the anarchists group in this city. That the assassin actually took his life the anarchists will not for a moment admit. They say that Bresci was murdered at the instigation of the Italian officials. Pedro Esteve, editor of the Italian paper, La Quention Sociale, and one of the leaders of the anarchists here, said there was no doubt in his mind that Bresci had been murdered. A number of the strikers at the Lagoon silk mills, who are members of the anarchist group, held a meeting to-day to discuss Bresci's death.

provinces at present. The French have withdrawn from the Shansi expedition and the English have refused to take any part in it. It is probable, therefore, that the Germans will be compelled to go alone.

Washington, May 21.—The state department has been made fully acquainted by Mr. Rockhill with the character of the propositions relative to the floating of the indemnity loan unfolded at Peking. While grave objections are perceived by the Russian project for a joint guarantee of the loan, because of the immense difficulty of securing the assent of congress to an agreement which would entangle the United States with foreign nations for more than a quarter of a century at least, there is nothing in Mr. Rockhill's instructions that would cause him to antagonize the British proposition, provided it is fully developed so as to secure the safety of the loan while securing the integrity of China. It is suggested that these objections can be best secured by causing China to deliver to each nation bonds bearing 4 per cent interest to the face value of the nation's indemnity claim. The nation holding the bonds could dispose of them at its pleasure. It could affix its own guarantee and sell the bonds in the open market.

KILLED TWO AND SELF.

Conway Shot at Everyone and Everything in Sight.

Evansville, Ind., May 24.—A quarrel over a property lease between Everett Conway, a locomotive fireman, and his neighbor, W. C. Garrison, a dairyman, resulted this morning in Conway killing Garrison and Mrs. Garrison. Then, after wounding four men who tried to seize him, his own father being one of the four, he sought his chamber and killed himself. Even Garrison's ten cows were marked for the infuriated men. When he had approached the dairyman, who was milking in a stall and killed him, he turned his magazine rifle upon each animal and fired a shot into its head. Then from a street near the cow barn Conway leveled his rifle at Mrs. Garrison, who was running from the porch to the stable. On the second shot she fell dead. Her seven-year-old daughter beside her was unharmed.

Fleeing to an upstairs room at Garrison's house, the murderer barricaded himself against attack and shot from a window at every person coming toward the house. Policeman Ben Wallie, who was going from the stable where Garrison lay to his home to obtain a revolver, came into range of Conway's rifle and was shot at five times, two of the bullets taking effect in his face and back.

HOW PETER KING DIED.

Greater Precautions Would Have Prevented the Fatality

The adjourned inquest on the body of Peter King, formerly of town, who was killed at the Police Iron Works on the 14th inst., was concluded at the Emergency Hospital in Toronto Tuesday night. A wagon had been backed into the shed where King was working, by Michael Dwyer, and loaded by a crane, with a casting weighing two tons. The horses, which were united, started forward, the projecting casting coming in contact with an engine in course of construction, weighing between four and five tons, and causing it to topple over on King, who was working with his back to the wagon. Death returned twenty minutes later. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death. They thought the fatality would not have occurred had greater precaution been taken in loading the wagon.

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK.

Snakes Were and There by a Man Without Occupation.

Pray tell me what this great man did, or tell me what he didn't do, And how it happened that he did No sudden into Public View.

Did he battle for the rights of men, Or turn the golden corporate greed; Refuse to sell his sword or pen, Nor to the Tempter's voice give heed?

How did he achieve such fame So that his name's a household word?

"A cheap cigar now bears his name— His bones and virtues were intertwined."

That is the way a great many people become Famous nowadays. They sit around the house and let their wives do the chores, and pretty soon some cigar man comes along and makes a cigar after 'em, or a patent medicine man gets 'em to write a testimonial, setting forth that Tired Feeling was eradicated, and they become Famous. While we Poets, we Soldiers of Poetry and Song labor on until the Moon is old and the Sun grows cold, panting for Fame and can't get it. Thus we see inequality before the Law—and after it.

In a tragic account of a Domestic Tangle in Toronto, I read of a mixed-up marriage, where a man married twin sisters without a divorce, and where his brother married the mother of the girls, and the article reads: "Thus the mother became the sister-in-law of her own daughters, the brother brothers maintain the relation of father-in-law and son-in-law to each other, and Edward Barrett becomes the stepson of his brother John."

Let joy be unconfined! I don't care how much of a mix-up they bring about in the married estate, just so they don't get the business down to where a man can be his Own Mother-in-law.

Own Mother-in-law.

I see where there is a church Trust proposed among the evangelical churches out in Toledo, Ohio. I always thought that the churches would finally come over to the idea of Centralization. If in union there is strength—and I guess that in pretty generally conceded—I should think if all the evangelical brethren would array themselves in a solid front against the evils they fight, they would accomplish more good than by wasting ammunition at long range target practice. It seems to be generally understood in this world that all the agencies of Evil band together. The Devil concentrates his forces but up to the time of this announcement while all the Parsons have proclaimed that their mission was to do good, I notice that they generally were trying to see which one could deliver the strongest sermon more against some other creed than against His Nibs Satan. If the Toledo evangelists succeed in putting the Devil on the run, I have an idea that lots of people will join in throwing stones at him as he passes.

I should not mind heaving a bowlder or two myself, were I satisfied he was running for good.

This letter was received by me a few days ago, and I have been trying to get to it to answer it in the spirit in which it was written. But I can't get down to the task. Mental strains like these are what are shattering Mr. Morgan's health, and they are going to tell on me. I feel that it is only a matter of Time, but duty says Go On.

PRINCESS CHIMAY HELD A PRODIGAL

The American Princess Has Now
to Live on a Miserable Pittance
of $35,000 a Year.

Clara Ward's Wonderful Life Leads
Like a Romance.

Chicago, May 27.
The extravagance and prodigality of Clara de Riquet, Princess de Chimay, were recorded officially in the Probate court yesterday when her uncle, Thomas H. Lyon, made application to Judge Cutting to be appointed conservator of the depleted estate of the eccentric spendthrift.

After a jury had listened to Mr. Lyon's recital of the way in which the Princess was squandering money the application was granted, and hereafter the income of the eponymous wife of the Belgian Prince will be limited to $35,000 a year. If she spends more than that, her income for the next year will be cut proportionately. W. H. Gurley, of the law firm of Gurley, Moore & Wood appeared in court on behalf of Mr. Lyon, and with Graceme Stewart signed the bond of $100,000 required from the conservator.

It was shown by Mr. Lyon that Clara de Chimay had spent $100,000 in addition to her income of $100,000 to $200,000 a year. The plan for a settlement of the debts and the management in future of all her financial affairs was concurred in by the Princess. A signed agreement from her was placed on file in the case. The arrangement was made last month in London, where Mr. Lyon spent in haste when he learned that bits of more than $50,000 had been piled up by the Princess. Mr. Lyon testified that when he met his niece he read her petition.

PRINCESS ADMITS CHARGES.
"I've said some hard things about you, Clara, but not more than you know, to be fact," he told her.

Then she read the document and finally said:

"It's all true enough. I guess it's the only way and I'll sign it."

When Mr. Lyon left her he had a petition in his pocket that confessed the Princess was a spendthrift and incapable of conducting her own affairs. The last debt, for the sum of $51,000, accumulated in Egypt, was the largest sum ever given to Mr. Lyon to settle. Previously he had sent to Paris $25,000, for six weeks' pay-off by the Princess of the Ward estate. In court yesterday the uncle told of some of the charges of prodigality of his niece.

"Once in Paris she spent $25,000 for a pair of diamond earrings. Later, when she needed more money, she pawned them for a small sum and never redeemed them. Her mania for clothing was extraordinary. She bought hats by the score. Her gowns were made a dozen at a time and as for her gloves and shoes they were purchased by the case. She bought royally, wore the garments once and then presented them to her maids. She was not averse to buying houses and country villas in the same liberal way and afterwards in disposing of them for a song."

ALWAYS USED TO WEALTH.
This woman, who has been so constantly in the glare of publicity, was born in Detroit Feb. 17, 1873, in the midst of luxury, and all her childhood dreams were based on unbounded wealth and no restrictions in spending. Her father was Eber B. Ward, and her mother Catherine Lyon, sister of Thomas H. Lyon, the new conservator. Mr. Ward dropped dead at the door of his bank building in Detroit in 1875, when Clara was 2 years old. The widow brought the girl and her elder brother to Chicago, but later went to Europe, where the children were educated, a portion of the girlhood of the future Princess being spent in a French convent. The property left by Mr. Ward was mostly lake land near Ludington, Mich., and in the course of time it became exceedingly valuable. The management of the estate was put in the hands of Thomas H. Lyon, an trustee. In 1891 it was partitioned equally between the widow, the son, Eber B. Ward, Jr., and Clara, who had married Joseph de Riquet, Prince de Chimay, in 1890. In 1898 the Princess de Chimay made application for divorce, with the custody of the two children, Marie, born in 1891, and Joseph, born in 1894. The divorce was granted in 1897, and in the settlement the sum of $300,000 was taken out of the Princess' share in the Ward estate in account of the children, who are living with her father in Belgium, and who will receive equal shares of the money upon reaching their majority, and, when their mother dies, will come in for nearly $1,000,000 more.

LIFE ONE OF GAYETY.
After the elopement the Princess gave her self up to a life of gayety and extravagance that gave joy to the shopkeepers of the big cities on the continent. While not entitled to retain the name of the de Chimays she did so in spite of the protests of her former husband and his relatives.

"Clara isn't really half as bad as she is painted," said her uncle, Mr. Lyon, yesterday. "You would find her work meeting a girl who is more attractive or has a kinder heart. When she is under the influence of her relatives she is the last girl you would suspect of going through the escapades which have made her famous. But away from their control she becomes flighty, and nobody can tell what she is going to do."

"I would like to deny one oft-repeated story," continued Mr. Lyon. "The story that Captain Streeter's wife is the real mother of Clara Ward is absolutely without foundation. Her mother was my sister, and I was in the house the day she was born. Nobody in the family ever heard of Captain Streeter or his wife until they made the ridiculous claim. The wife of O. W. Potter is a first-cousin of Clara's mother."

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK.

The following letter has been received by this Department for the Dissemination of Knowledge, and as the young girl writing does not want her letter printed, I omit the real postoffice, and would omit all of it, except that it is a matter of Grave Importance, and I have a Valise Full of Horoscopes and things like that. The letter is from Otonabee and reads:

May 26, 1901.—Mr. Idler: I have been reading your note book and as you said you would help anybody, I ask some help. I would like for you to tell my fortune. I am a girl, I was born in August. Came to Otonabee after. I live with my parents on a farm. I would like you to tell me if I will ever be married and if so how soon, and what kind of a fellow will he be. Please tell me as much as possible and answer this in your note book in the Times. Please do not publish this letter.

It is my opinion, Sweet Maid, that the chances are that you will get married some day. If you are desperate the chances are that you will get some ordinary plug-ugly who will continue to live with your parents. The thing for you to do is to dismiss the marriage idea and help your mother churn and darn the socks, and do the chores. Get a move on yourself and try to get the idea into your noggin that an Independent Old Maid is worth a dozen helpless wives. Brace up, and let the years as they come and go reveal your fortune or misfortune. Try Dumb Bells and a Lung Tester and wash dishes and get the man and marriage out of your head. This is straight talk that I'm giving you—but it's what you need.

Lakefield, May 25.—Mr. Idler: Do you know as to whether or not flowers is the language of Love? We girls have been breeding of where it is stated that they are the Language of Love, and I have now some Ferns and Flag Grass, and I'd like to know what the reading of a bowsey like that would be. Please to answer this in your Idler's Column, where I see you answer some questions, such as this one.

It has always been held that flowers and love grow in the same garden. But evil weeds also flourish there. It is thought by some that the Red, Red Rose, and the Forget-me-not, and the violets and the honey-suckle, and the Morning Glory and the oleander, and the tongue and the poppy are emblems of Love—because they are beautiful and tender, and because they fade and wither. It is all right to send people flowers if they need 'em, or if they don't need anything else, but the habit has been run into the ground in some instances, and I have seen flowers sent to sick people when a little Corned Beef and Cabbage and Asparagus and Potatoes and Beets and Onions would have been nearer the Language of Love, and would have made more sunshine in the home at that particular juncture.

However, I shall not profane sentiment. Flowers are beautiful, and may they forever bud in beauty and bloom for Thee!

Some time, when I feel like it—that day may never come—I am going to prepare an article in Defense of Mothers-in-law. The article will be the outpouring of a Full heart, it will be backed up with Facts and Figures which may appear in defiance of all accepted theories—but I'm going to do it. Or course, I'm not going to publish this article to the world. I'm merely to a certain degree, I hope the Noble Impulse which inspires me will be received in the Spirit that it is intended that it should be received, and that all Mothers-in-law whose Sons-in-Law think them Holy Terrors will come to my rescue and.

Subscribe Liberally.
I want to get up this defense in Tract form, and to do this successfully I propose to organize a Continental Society of Misunderstood Mothers-in-Law (unlimited), and make each one, upon the merit of a

A life member, but not with Power to Act. I take it that a million mothers-in-law in Canada and the neighboring States who have ungenerous sons-in-law will become members, and each one will subscribe for fifty tracts containing this Abie Defense of Mine—thus making 500,000 plans for reconsideration. I am aware that in taking up this question I am liable to forfeit the good opinion of many companions. I expect to be pointed out as the Man who did it. But I don't care.

It is itching on my mind. I feel like a great weight has gone off my neck, and I shall show it off. When I get those million mothers-in-law all members of my Continental Society, and have the First Annual Meeting, of course it will be a great Mental Strain, but I'm going ahead, and if I perish, I will feel that historians will at least say of me that I was a Noble, but Misguided Man.

THE LAKEFIELD PIC-NIC

It Was a Success Not Withstanding the Heavy Rain

The Pic Nic Held in the Large Skating Rink in the Village—A Big Crowd and a Jolly Time.

The annual picnic held under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church at Lakefield, is one of the events which is looked forward to by the people generally with most pleasing anticipations. Hearty as the welcome given those who attended by Rev. Father Fitzgerald, whose delight it is to see everyone enjoy the outing.

The picnic is usually held in the grove at Lakefield, but on account of the great downpour of rain on the 24th, it took place in the skating rink.

Although naturally the crowd was not as large as usual, there was a good attendance, and all who were there enjoyed themselves thoroughly. There was a dancing pavilion at one end of the rink, which was well patronized throughout the entire day.

After dinner Mr. J. H. McClellan, of Peterborough, was voted to the chair, and in a few well chosen words, called the meeting to order. On the platform were Ven. Archbishop Casey, Rev. Father Sullivan, Seanon, O'Brien, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Hon. F. R. Latchford, and Messrs. Daniel O'Connell, J. J. Gough, R. C. Strickland, W. Rudkins, Geo. R. Elliott and others.

Mr. Wm. Rudkins opened the speech-making by congratulating Father Fitzgerald on the success of the picnic. Mr. Geo. R. Elliott and Mr. R. C. Strickland spoke in the same strain. Ven. Archbishop Casey referred to the splendid work which was being done by Father Fitzgerald.

Hon. J. R. Stratton made a felicitous speech, dealing with matters of moment. Hon. F. R. Latchford had been a college chum of the popular priest, and told several incidents which kept the audience in good humor.

The morning was closed by the chairman in a witty and humorous speech. At the conclusion of the speaking, Miss Gertrude McClellan, by request, danced the Highland fling and sword dance. It was a hit, and brought down the house. She was obliged to repeat them both after a row, and did it well. The music was furnished by Miss Kearney.

Although the picnic was a great success, as Father Fitzgerald's outgoings always are.

CHILDREN EATEN BY A BEAR.

Horrible Fate of Two Boys and a Girl in West Virginia.

Job, W. Va., May 27.—To be crushed to death in the embrace of a monstrous black bear and their little bodies afterwards mangled and partly devoured was the frightful fate that befell the three young children of E. J. Porterfield, a mountaineer residing about twelve miles southwest of this place. The remains were found yesterday by a searching party which had been out since Sunday evening.

The party included John Weldon, a Maryland hunter, who within a few minutes after the discovery of the bodies shot and killed the bear in a neighboring thicket.

The children were Mary, aged 3 years; Willie, aged 6 years, and Henry, aged 7 years. Shortly after noon on Sunday they left home to gather flowers in a clearing near their home. Nothing more is known, but it is supposed that they wandered into the woods and becoming lost continued on their way until they were overtaken by the bear in the dense forest three miles from their parents' home. The bear feasted off all three of the bodies. The bones of the children had been crushed like straw, and the flesh stripped off with teeth and claws.

Returned With His Man.
County Constable Cochrane, who left for British Columbia two weeks ago, returned home last week, bringing with him as prisoner, W. T. Abbott, who is wanted here on a charge of forgery. The particulars of which have already been published in these columns. He will appear before County Police Magistrate Edmondson to-morrow.

WILHELM DEFIES CAZAR

Inspires Statement of Ministers on Relations to Russia.

THE ENTENTE WITH FRANCE

Policy of the Fatherland to be Independent of Powers.

Will insist upon Relying in China Equal Rights With Allies—The Friction Between Russia and Germany Growing Acute.

Berlin, May 27.—Kaiser Wilhelm has inspired a prominent member of his cabinet to give publicity in interviews and in the press of the German views of the present relations between Russia and Germany. This move on the part of the Kaiser has been invoked by the hue and cry made over the growing entente between Russia, France and Italy and the lethargy shown by Germany on the Manchuria and Balkan controversies.

The statement breathes much independence in the Kaiser's foreign policy and a defiance to the czar, it says.

"The relations between Russia and Germany to-day are precisely the same as ever. German policy is as independent of Russian policy as it is of the policy of Great Britain and Germany is in the same degree friendly with the one country as with the other. The presence of the Russian ambassador at the Metz banquet was only from politeness which is sanctioned by tradition. The emperor's toast at this banquet is nothing more than an expression of the normal necessary prelude intimate Russo-German relations of Germany to Russia."

"Close ties between Russia and France necessarily preclude intimate Russo-German relations. However, Germany will not undertake anything, either in China or in the Balkans, with a view to frustrate Russian plans. This is particularly true regarding Manchuria, in which country Germany, as repeatedly stated with authority, is not interested. As Germany plainly pointed out to Great Britain before the conclusion of the Yangtze agreement, Germany leaves the settlement of the Manchurian question to the powers deeply interested in that question."

"But in any case Germany will insist upon enjoying equal rights with the other powers in all parts of China."

The German force in China, after the withdrawal of troops, will amount to 3,000 or 4,000 men, exclusive of the guard for German legation and the detachments between Peking and the sea. The purpose of this small corps is to watch the enforcement of the stipulations between China and the powers.

RIVAL EXPLORERS IN ROW.

William Ziegler Gives out a Warning in Behalf of Baldwin.

New York, May 26.—William Ziegler, the millionaire who is backing the Baldwin polar expedition, said in an interview a few days ago that his party contained a crew of sharpshooters and that the first man who laid hands on anything of theirs would be a dead man. When asked to-day to be more explicit he said: "I have purchased ample supplies for my own expedition for three years. I do not expect that we will be forced to exhaust this supply, but if it comes to extremes it will be a question of life and death with the explorers. I do not intend to have any other expedition live from my supplies. I have been credibly informed that there is another polar expedition which will start over the route which we have mapped out at about the same time we are to start. In the hope of using our supplies, I do not know who or what this expedition is, but any such plan will fail. I wish to say emphatically that I purpose to protect my men and the supplies for my men at all hazards and I do not intend to let any man or any body of men deprive them of food which may mean life and death to them. There are many ways to go north in search of the pole and I cannot see why another expedition need choose the Franz Josef land route the same season for which we announced our plans two years ago."

The only other expedition which has announced a plan to make Franz Josef land its base is the Wellman expedition. It was learned to-day that since the publication of the first interview with Mr. Ziegler Walter Wellman, who is now in Washington, has communicated with Mr. Ziegler and taken exception to the statement which he was reported to have made.

"Anyone whom the shoe fits," said Mr. Ziegler, "may put it on. It doesn't fit many."

BRITISH GUNS OF GERMAN MAKE

Important Decision Pending as to Rearming British Artillery.

ALL THE FOREIGNERS COMPIING

London, May 25.—The investigation by the War Office of the best type of field artillery for adoption in the British army is being followed with the closest interest in artillery manufacturing circles both in this country and abroad. As it is now known that the choice will be decided absolutely on the merits of the gun, whether of home or foreign production, a determined effort is being made by German firms to secure the adoption of their weapons. In this matter, as in so many others, Lord Roberts and his military advisers have a perfectly fair hand, and while the experience of the South African war will prove of the utmost value, it will be necessary to recollect that these were made under some conditions which are regarded as exceptional.

In all probability the choice of the new gun will only be made after some delay, due, naturally to the need for careful selection, since thereon depends the huge cost of rearming our field artillery.

It is in connection with this matter that the report has arisen that the gunmaking firm of Ehrhardt, of Düsseldorf, on the Rhine, from whom the Government have already purchased eighteen batteries, contemplate the erection, mostly with British capital, of a large factory at Woolwich. Much depends, if not all, on the decision of the War Office, and for that reason the positive statements published on the subject in this country are, we are informed from an official source, incorrect. Negotiations, so to speak, are in progress on the matter. Of course if the establishment of such a factory, close to the Ordnance Department at Woolwich, became an accomplished fact it might, from the point of view of the manufacturers, and to a certain if lesser extent of the War Office, prove useful to have the guns made under British supervision.

We understand that the question of the supply to and efficiency of the German guns supplied to the British and Indian armies is likely to occupy further attention in Parliament. Messrs. Ehrhardt are keen competitors for the order which sooner or later will have to be given for the complete rearming of the field artillery. Other foreign firms are also in the field, and the struggle is likely to tax the British manufacturer in this effort to hold his own.

REPEL INVASION OF ALMIGHTY DOLLAR.

Protest Against Carnegie's Gifts to Scotch Universities.

London, May 26.—We trust in Scotch pride to rise in its wrath against this invasion of the almighty dollar. Says the Review of the Week, commenting on Andrew Carnegie's munificence to Scotland's universities: "Many of the oldest and best families in Scotland," continues the periodical, "send their sons to Scottish universities, where they pay the fees like the sons of their humblest neighbors, neither more nor less. Is it to be believed that this will continue if the fees are paid for them by Mr. Carnegie? Imagine the Duke of Hamilton, Cameron of Lochiel, or MacDonald of the Isles allowing his heir to get education at the cost of an American ironmonger. We shall next hear of some Chicago porkpacker proposing to buy up Oxford and Cambridge and dictating terms of admission and the subjects to be taught; or of the Crocker forming a lobby to control the London University, with the object of inculcating Tammany principles in the minds of the rising generation of Cockneys."

NEW DANGER TO BRITISH EMPIRE

Russia's Ship Canal, From Finland Gulf to White Sea Opens John Bull's Eyes.

NAVAL PORT OPEN TO VESSELS ALL YEAR ROUND

In Three Days After Leaving Ekaterina, Russia, The Russian Fleet
Could be Belching Fire on British Coast.

London, Eng., May 25.—The latest item in the expansion of Russia is the great ship canal which she is about to build from the Gulf of Finland, through the swamps and lakes of North-West Russia, to the White Sea. The peculiar importance of this canal, which is being raised in England, is that Archangel—one of the most important ports in the whole of Russia, and doing an ever-increasing trade with England—is now in direct communication with the heart of Siberia and that, through it, and by means of this railway, we shall be, and, indeed, already are, in regular receipt of Siberian products. As a matter of fact, the dirty produce of Siberia, principally at present in the form of butter, has already invaded us by this route. As with grain now, so will it be with the grain of the vast corn fields of Southern and Western Siberia; and it is directly due to the weakening of Northern Russia (that these goods can be most cheaply brought to us by sea from Archangel to London, and from Ekaterina to-morrow few Englishmen have ever heard of Ekaterina, yet it is Russia's latest port and is unique in being a Russian port which is ice-free all the year round, and peculiarly adapted as a naval port for the Empire.

WINTER NAVAL PORT.

Russia in Europe has always been paralyzed by winter. Peter the Great opened a window on Europe in Petersburg, but that window is glazed with frost during four months of the year. To-day another window on Europe has been found in Ekaterina, and it is an open window all the year round. In its quiet waters, sheltered by the high granite cliffs of Lapland, a Russian fleet may safely lie; and at any moment of the whole year that fleet may suddenly issue and on the third day be belching fire and destruction on the British coast. This is a new factor in the balance of naval power, and one to be weighed.

NUMEROUS RECRUITS FOR BRITISH ARMY.

The Number Who Enlisted Between January and March Last Was 50,526.

London, May 26.—A Parliamentary return has been issued showing the number of recruits who joined the regular army and the militia during the last three months of each year from 1897 to 1900 inclusive. Taking the regular army first, it appears that in January, February and March of 1897, 8,381 men enlisted; in 1898 there were 9,881; in 1899, 12,642; in 1900, 16,091; and in the same period of the present year, 12,810. In addition to this latter number there were during the same period 25,843 recruits raised for the Imperial Yeomanry, the South African Constabulary, and other special corps raised at home, and 10,873 men enlisted in the militia, making a total of 50,526 men taking up arms between January to March last. The figures for the militia during the same period of each year were: 1897, 12,642; 1898, 15,842; 1899, 12,167; 1900, 12,679; 1901, 12,810. The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire's distinguished guests at this week's end party in Compton place, Eastbourne, as William Waldorf Astor. This is his first appearance in such company since the Hockley-Milne affair, and it is generally supposed to indicate his restoration to favor. The new steamer Alert is fast approaching completion. She is a daisy serving as I do what is going on at the present day I am afraid Spain may become like Italy of the middle ages.

The railways have brought, and will continue to bring, the products of industry, and, when needed, the munitions of war, to the great and growing ports on the White Sea and to Ekaterina on the Lapland coast. But—asks your naval critic—how about the ships of war themselves, and the maintaining of a continuous supply of them during a winter or even a summer war with the Baltic and the Black Sea blocked with ice or hostile fleets? Where is her bolt-hole? And to-day, Russia comes with her answer. A great ship canal shall pierce the low-lying areas—mostly composed of lakes and swamps. This sudden awakening of Northern Russia and this great ship canal from the Baltic to the White Sea begin to have a meaning. The railroad from the strategic and political heart of the empire has been carried through a thousand miles of swamp and forest for more than a commercial purpose. It has been joined by an even larger railroad from the great Siberian trunk line; and this railway is to carry more than sacks of grain and tubs of butter. In fact, they are political lines, constructed as feeders of the new northern port. They are the agents of commerce and the channels of wealth in the piping times of peace; but they are also to be the ways and means of power when the clock shall strike the hour of war.

Anyone who knows this part of Russia—as I happen to know it, says A. M. Bruce, in conclusion—will see at once that there is no real physical difficulty in the undertaking, and that, in consequence, a very short and safe cut indeed is to be made from the Baltic to the new naval port on the Lapland coast. Here, then, are her ways and her means of supplying ships continuously during a winter war. And here is the latest example of her unswerving policy when once her mind is made up.

OLD LONDON IS GAY AGAIN

The Queen's Return to the Metropolis Has Awakened Society.

THE KING TO VISIT HIS SUBJECTS

London, May 25.—Queen Alexandra's return from the country to London and the advent of summer weather overcame a marvellous fillop to society. The season, which was dragging along uninterestingly, has burst out into full exuberant swing. Dinner and luncheon parties of all sorts are now enlivening mansions that for months have been gloomy under the spell of universal mourning.

The Queen's first appearance in the Park on Wednesday drew large and happy crowds, and whole rows of carriages, four deep, were arranged along the sides to let her pass. With relief the onlookers noticed that Queen Alexandra, though dressed in deep black, had discarded the long cape veil which had become such a frequent sight since Queen Victoria died. Later, society flocked to Marlborough House, to write their names in the Queen's visiting book.

A question of royal etiquette over which society has been greatly exercised has been satisfactorily settled by the King. It was thought that King Edward, when he came to the throne, might not consider it advisable to accept invitations of his subjects, following Queen Victoria's almost unbroken precedent, confining himself to entertaining them. This, however, proves not to be the case. For the King has accepted invitations, and has met large parties at the houses of Georgina, Countess of Londesborough, the Marquis of Londonderry, Lady De Grey, and others.

CERVIA FEARS DISINTEGRATION.

Spanish Admiral Thinks His Country May Become Disintegrated.

Madrid, May 25.—Speaking before the Naval Congress yesterday, on the subject whether or not Spain should be a naval power, Admiral Cervera, the vanquished admiral of Santiago, expressed fears of the disintegration of Spain into a number of small states. "I do not wish," he said, "that the interests of the navy should predominate at the expense of the other interests of the country. But observing as I do what is going on at the present day I am afraid Spain may become like Italy of the middle ages."

PRINCESS CHIMAY HELD A PRODIGAL

The American Princess Has Now
to Live on a Miserable Pittance
of $35,000 a Year.

Clara Ward's Wonderful Life Leads
Like a Romance.

Chicago, May 27.—The extravagance and prodigality of Clara de Riquet, Princess de Chimay, were recorded officially in the Probate court yesterday when her uncle, Thomas R. Lyon, made application to Judge Cutting to be appointed conservator of the depleted estate of the eccentric spendthrift.

After a jury had listened to Mr. Lyon's recital of the way in which the Princess was squandering money the application was granted, and hereafter the income of the clinging wife of the Belgian Prince will be limited to $35,000 a year. If she spends more than that, her income for the next year will be cut proportionately. W. H. Curley, of the law firm of Curley, Stone & Wood appeared in court on behalf of Mr. Lyon, and with Grace Stewart signed the bond of $100,000 required from the conservator.

It was shown by Mr. Lyon that Clara de Chimay had spent $100,000 in addition to her income of $100,000 to $150,000 a year. The plan for a settlement of the debts and the management in future of all her financial affairs was concurred in by the Princess. A signed agreement from her was placed on file in the case. The arrangement was made last month in London, where Mr. Lyon went in haste when he learned that she had more than $35,000 had been piled up by the Princess in Egypt. Mr. Lyon testified that when he met his niece he read her the petition.

PRINCESS ADMITS CHARGES.

"I've made some hard things about you, Clara, but not more than you know, to be facts," he told her.

Then she read the document and finally said:

"It's all true, enough. I guess it's the only way and I'll sign it."

When Mr. Lyon left her he had a petition in his pocket that confessed the Princess was a spendthrift and incapable of conducting her own affairs. The last debt, for the sum of $1,000, accumulated in Egypt, was the largest item ever given to Mr. Lyon to settle. Previously he had sent to Paris $12,000, for six weeks' gayety by the heiress of the Ward estate. In court yesterday the uncle told of some of the cases of prodigality of his niece.

"Once in Paris she spent $25,000 for a pair of diamond earrings. Later, when she needed some money, she pawned them for a small sum and never redeemed them. Her mania for clothing was extraordinary. She bought hats by the score. Her gowns were made a dozen at a time and as for her gloves and shoes they were purchased by the case. She bought royally, wore the garments once and then presented them to her maids. She was not averse to buying houses and country villas in the same liberal way and afterwards in disposing of them for a song."

ALWAYS USED TO WEALTH.

This woman, who has been so constantly in the glare of publicity, was born in Deft, Feb. 17, 1873, in the midst of luxury, and all her childhood and adolescence were passed in the same surroundings.

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK.

The following letter has been received by this Department for the Discontinuation of Knowledge, and as the young girl writing does not want her letter printed, I omit the real postoffice, and would omit all of it, except that it is a matter of Grave Importance, and I have a Valuable Full of Horoscopes and things like that. The letter is from Otonabee and reads:

May 26, 1901.—Mr. Idler: I have been reading your note book and as you said you would help anybody, I ask some help. I would like for you to tell my fortune. I am a girl, I was born in August. Came to Otonabee after. I live with my parents on a farm. I would like you to tell me if I will ever be married, and if so how soon, and what kind of a fellow will he be. Please tell me as much as possible and answer this in your note book in the Times. Please do not publish this letter.

It is my opinion, Sweet Maud, that the chances are that you will get married some day. If you are desperate the chances are that you will get some ordinary plug-ugly who will continue to live with your parents. The thing for you to do is to dismiss the marriage idea and help your mother churn and darn the socks, and do the chores. Get a move on yourself and try to get the idea into your noggin that an independent Old Maid is worth a dozen helpless wives. Brace up, and let the years as they come and go reveal your fortune or misfortune. Try Dumb Bells and a Lung Tester and wash dishes and get the man and marriage out of your head. This is straight talk that I'm giving you—but it's what you need.

Lakefield, May 26.—Mr. Idler: Do you know as to whether or not flowers in the language of Love? No girls have been prévisions were based on unbounded wealth and no restrictions in spending it. Her father was Eber B. Ward, and her mother Catherine Lyon, sister of Thomas R. Lyon, the now conservator. Mr. Ward dropped dead at the door of his bank building in Detroit in 1875, when Clara was 2 years old. The widow brought the girl and her elder brother to Chicago, but later went to Europe, where the children were educated, a portion of the girlhood of the future Princess being spent in a French convent.

The property left by Mr. Ward was mostly pine land near Ludington, Mich., and in the course of time, it became exceedingly valuable. The management of the estate was put in the hands of Thomas R. Lyon as trustee. In 1894 it was partitioned equally between the widow, the son, Eber B. Ward, Jr., and Clara, who had married Joseph de Riquet, Prince de Chimay, in 1890. In 1896 the Princess de Chimay made application for divorce, with the custody of the two children, Marie, born in 1891, and Joseph, born in 1894. The divorce was granted in 1897, and in the settlement the sum of $300,000 was taken out of the Princess' share in the Ward estate on account of the children, who are living with her father in Belgium, and who will receive equal shares of the money upon reaching their majority, and when their mother dies, will come in for nearly $1,000,000 more.

LIFE ONE OF GAYETY.

After the elopement the Princess gave her self up to a life of gayety and extravagance that gave joy to the shopkeepers of the big cities on the continent. While not entitled to retain the name of the de Chimays she did so in spite of the protests of her former husband and his relatives.

"Clara isn't really half as bad as she is painted," said her uncle, Mr. Lyon, yesterday. "You would find hard work meeting a girl who is more attractive or has a kinder heart. When she is under the influence of her relatives she is the last girl you would suspect of going through the escapades which have made her famous. But away from their control she becomes flighty, and nobody can tell what she is going to do."

"I would like to deny one oft-repeated statement," continued Mr. Lyon. "The story that Captain Skreeter's wife is the real mother of Clara Ward is absolutely without foundation. Her mother was my sister, and I was in the house the day she was born. Nobody in the family ever heard of Captain Skreeter or his wife until he died the ridiculous claim. The wife of O. W. Putter is a first-cousin of Clara's mother."

arading of where it is stated that they be the Language of Love, and I have a Bow who send a lot of flowers, including some Ferns and Flag Grass, and I'd like to know what the reader's of a bowlike that would be. Please to answer this in your Idler's Column, where I see you answer some questions, such as this one.

MAY.

It has always been held that flowers and love grow in the same garden. But evil weeds also flourish there. It is thought by some that the Red, Red Rose, and the For-get-me-not, and the violet and the honey-suckle, and the Morning Glory and the oleander, and the tongue and the poppy are emblems of Love—because they are beautiful and tender, and because they fade and wither. It is all right to send people flowers if they need 'em, or if they don't need anything else, but the Habit has been run into the ground in some instances, and I have seen flowers sent to sick people when a little Corned Beef and Cabbage and Asparagus and Potatoes and Beans and Onions would have been nearer the Language of Love and have made more sunshine in the home at that particular juncture.

However, I shall not profane sentiment. Flowers "is" beautiful, and may they forever bud in beauty and bloom for Thee!

Some time, when I feel like it—that day may never come—I am going to prepare an article in Defence of Mothers-in-law. The Article will be the outpouring of a Full heart, it will be backed up with Facts and Figures which may appear in defiance of all accepted Theories—but I'm going to do it. Of course, I'm not going to publish this article to the world, I'm merely to a certain degree, I hope the Noble impulse which inspires me will be received in the Spirit that it is intended that it should be received, and that all Mothers-in-law whose Sons-in-law think them Holy Terrois will come to my Rescue and.

Subscribe Liberally. I want to get up this defense in Tract form, and to do this successfully I propose to organize a Continental Society of Mothers-in-law Modifiers (unlimited), and make each one, upon the merit of a Small Fee

A life member, but not with Power to Act. I take it that a million mothers-in-law in Canada and the neighboring States who have unregenerate sons-in-law will become members, and each one will subscribe for fifty tracts containing this Abie Defense of Mine—thus making 50,000,000 pleas for reconsideration. I am aware that in taking up this question I am liable to forfeit the good opinion of many companions, I expect to be pointed out as the Man who did it. But I don't care.

I'm trying on my mind. I feel like a Great Weight was on me, and at all hazards I shall shove it off. When I get these million mothers-in-law all members of my Continental Society, and have the First Annual Meeting, of course it will be a great Mental Strain, but I'm going ahead, and if I perish, I will feel that historians will at least say that I was a Noble, but Misguided Man.

THE LAKEFIELD PIC-NIC

It Was a Success Not With-

standing the Heavy Rain

The Pic Nic Held in the Large Skating Rink in the Village—A Big

Crowd and a Jolly Time.

The annual picnic held under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church at Lakefield, is one of the events which is looked forward to by the people generally with most pleasing anticipation. Hearty is the welcome given those who attended by Rev. Father Fitzgerald, whose delight is to see everyone enjoy the outing.

The picnic is usually held in the grove at Lakefield, but on account of the great downpour of rain on the 24th, it took place in the skating rink.

Although naturally the crowd was not as large as usual, there was a good attendance, and all who were there enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

There was a dancing pavilion at one end of the rink, which was well patronized throughout the entire day.

After dinner Mr. J. H. McClellan, of Peterborough, was voted to the chair, and in a few well chosen words, called the meeting to order. On the platform were Ven. Archbishop Casey, Rev. Father Sullivan, Seanlon, O'Brien, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Hon. F. R. Latchford, and Messrs. Daniel O'Connell, A. J. Gough, R. C. Strickland, W. Rutledge, Geo. E. Elliott and others.

Mr. Wm. Ludkins opened the speech-making by congratulating Father Fitzgerald on the success of the picnic, notwithstanding the rain. It showed that he had a warm place in the hearts of the people.

Mr. Geo. E. Elliott and Mr. R. C. Strickland spoke in the same strain. Ven. Archbishop Casey referred to the splendid work which was being done by Father Fitzgerald.

Hon. J. R. Stratton made a felicitous speech, dealing with matters of moment. Hon. F. R. Latchford had been a college chum of the popular priest, and told several incidents which kept the audience in good humor.

The meeting was closed by the chairman in a witty and humorous speech. At the conclusion of the speaking, Miss Gertrude McClellan, by request, danced the Highland fling and sword dance. It was a hit, and brought down the house. She was obliged to repeat them both after a rest, and did it well. The music was furnished by Miss Kearney.

Altogether the picnic was a great success, as Father Fitzgerald's guests all ways are.

CHILDREN EATEN BY A BEAR.

Frightful Fate of Two Boys and a Girl in West Virginia.

Job, W. Va., May 27.—To be crushed to death in the embrace of a monstrous black bear and their little bodies afterwards mangled and partly devoured was the frightful fate that befell the three young children of E. J. Puryear, a mountaineer residing about twelve miles southwest of this place. The remains were found yesterday by a searching party which had been out since Sunday evening.

The party included John Weldon, a Maryland hunter, who within a few minutes after the discovery of the bodies shot and killed the bear in a neighboring thicket.

The children were Mary, aged 3 years; Willie, aged 6 years; and Henry, aged 7 years. Shortly after noon on Sunday they left home for a flower show in a clearing near their home. Nothing more is known, but it is supposed that they wandered into the woods and becoming lost continued on their way until they were overtaken by the bear in the dense forest three miles from their parents' home.

The bear feasted off all three of the bodies. The bones of the children had been crushed like straw, and the flesh stripped off with teeth and claws.

Returned With His Man.

County Constable Cochrane, who left for British Columbia two weeks ago, returned home last week, bringing with him as prisoner, W. T. Abbott, who is wanted here on a charge of forgery, the particulars of which have already been published in these columns. He will appear before County Police Magistrate Edmondson to-morrow.

WILHELM DEFIES CZAR

Inspires Statement of Ministers on Relations to Russia.

THE ENTENTE WITH FRANCE

Policy of the Fatherland to be Independent of Powers.

Will Insist Upon Enjoying in China Equal Rights With Allies—The Frictions Between Russia and Germany Growing Acute.

Berlin, May 27.—Kaiser Wilhelm has inspired a prominent member of his cabinet to give publicity in interviews and in the press of the German views of the present relations between Russia and Germany. This move on the part of the Kaiser has been invoked by the hue and cry made over the growing entente between Russia, France and Italy and the lethargy shown by Germany on the Manchuria and Balkan controversies.

The statement breathes much independence in the Kaiser's foreign policy and a defiance to the czar, it says.

"The relations between Russia and Germany to-day are precisely the same as ever. German policy is as independent of Russian policy as it is of the policy of Great Britain and Germany is in the same degree friendly with the one country as with the other. The presence of the Russian ambassador at the Metz banquet was only from politeness which is sanctioned by tradition. The emperor's toast at this banquet is nothing more than an expression of the normal necessary prelude intimate Russo-German relations of Germany to Russia."

"Close ties between Russia and France necessarily preclude intimate Russo-German relations. However, Germany will not undertake anything, either in China or in the Balkans, with a view to frustrate Russian plans. This is particularly true regarding Manchuria, in which country Germany, as repeatedly stated with authority, is not interested. As Germany plainly pointed out to Great Britain before the conclusion of the Tangier agreement, Germany leaves the settlement of the Manchurian question to the powers deeply interested in that question."

"But in any case Germany will insist upon enjoying equal rights with the other powers in all parts of China."

The German forces in China, after the withdrawal of troops, will amount to 3,000 or 4,000 men, exclusive of the guard for German legation and the detachments between Peking and the sea. The purpose of this small corps is to watch the enforcement of the stipulations between China and the powers.

RIVAL EXPLORERS IN ROW.

William Ziegler Gives Out a Warning in Behalf of Explorer.

New York, May 26.—William Ziegler, the millionaire who is backing the Baldwin polar expedition, said in an interview a few days ago that his party contained a crew of sharpshooters and that the first man who laid hands on anything of theirs would be a dead man. When asked to-day to be more explicit he said: "I have purchased arms supplies for my own expedition for three years. I do not expect that we will be forced to exhaust this supply, but if it comes to extremes it will be a question of life and death with the explorers. I do not intend to have any other expedition live from our supplies. I have been credibly informed that there is another polar expedition which will start over the route which we have mapped out at about the same time we are to start. In the hope of using our supplies, I do not know who or what this expedition is, but any such plan will fail. I wish to say emphatically that I purpose to protect my men and the supplies for my men at all hazards and I do not intend to let any man or any body of men deprive them of food which may mean life and death to them. There are many ways to go north in search of the pole and I cannot see why another expedition need choose the Franz Josef land route the same season for which we announced our plans two years ago."

The only other expedition which has announced a plan to make Franz Josef land its base is the Wellman expedition. It was learned to-day that since the publication of the first interview with Mr. Ziegler, Walter Wellman, who is now in Washington, has communicated with Mr. Ziegler and takes exception to the statement which he was reported to have made.

"Anyone whom the shoe fits," said Mr. Ziegler, "may put it on. It doesn't fit many."

THE BELLEVILLE INTELLIGENCER refers to the death of Mrs. Roy, of that city, mother of Mr. R. M. Roy, of Peterborough. After an illness extending over a year, Mrs. R. M. Roy died this morning at her late residence on George street, from heart trouble. Deceased was born in London, Eng., in the year 1817, being thus in her 84th year. Some 55 years ago Mrs. Roy came to Belleville, and has since resided here. She was a devoted member of St. Thomas' Church and a generous hearted lady. A family of one son and two daughters survive. The son is Mr. R. M. Roy, of Peterborough, and the daughters are Mrs. A. Hanford, of Montreal, and Mrs. H. May, of this city.

BRITISH GUNS OF GERMAN MAKE

Important Decision Pending as to Rearing British Artillery

ALL THE FOREIGNERS COMPETING

London, May 26.—The investigation by the War Office of the best type of field artillery for adoption in the British army is being followed with the closest interest in artillery manufacturing circles both in this country and abroad. As it is now known that the choice will be decided absolutely on the merits of the gun, whether of home or foreign production, a determined effort is being made by German firms to secure the adoption of their weapons. In this matter, as in some others, Lord Roberts and his military advisers have a perfectly free hand, and while the experience of the South African war will prove of the utmost value, it will be necessary to recollect that these were made under some conditions which are regarded as exceptional.

In all probability the choice of the new gun will only be attained after some delay, due, naturally to the need for careful selection, since thereupon depends the huge cost of rearming our field artillery.

It is in connection with this matter that the report has arisen that the gunmaking firm of Ehrhardt, of Düsseldorf, on the Rhine, from whom the Government have already purchased eighteen batteries, contemplate the erection, mostly with British capital, of a large factory at Woolwich. Much depends, if not all, on the decision of the War Office, and for that reason the positive statements published on the subject in this country are, we are informed from an official source, inaccurate. Negotiations, so to speak, are in progress on the matter. Of course if the establishment of such a factory, close to the Ordnance Department at Woolwich, becomes an accomplished fact it might, from the point of view of the manufacturers, and to a certain if lesser extent of the War Office, prove useful to have the guns made under British supervision.

We understand that the question of the supply to and efficiency of the German guns supplied to the British and Indian armys is likely to occupy further attention in Parliament. Messrs. Ehrhardt are keen competitors for the order which sooner or later will have to be given for the complete rearming of the field artillery. Other foreign firms are also in the field, and the struggle is likely to tax the British manufacturer in his efforts to hold his own.

REPEL INSANION OF ALMIGHTY DOLLAR.

Protest Against Carnegie's Gifts to Scotch Universities.

London, May 26.—We trust in Scotland there is no one who would sympathize with this invasion of the almighty dollar," says the Review of the Week, commenting on Andrew Carnegie's munificence to Scotland's universities. "Many of the oldest and best families in Scotland," continues the periodical, "send their sons to Scotch universities, where they pay the fees like the sons of their humblest neighbors, neither more nor less. It is to be believed that this will continue if the fees are paid for them by Mr. Carnegie. Imagine the Duke of Hamilton, Cameron of Lochiel, or Macdonald of the Isles allowing his heir to get education at the cost of an American ironmonger. We shall next hear of some Chicago porkpacker proposing to buy up Oxford and Cambridge and dictating terms of admission and the subjects to be taught; or of those Croker forming a lobby to control the London University, with the object of inculcating Tammany principles in the minds of the rising generation of Cockneys."

NEW DANGER TO BRITISH EMPIRE

Russia's Ship Canal, From Finland Gulf to White Sea Opens John Bull's Eyes.

NAVAL PORT OPEN TO VESSELS ALL YEAR ROUND

In Three Days After Leaving Ekaterina, Russia, The Russian Fleet Could Be Belching Fire on British Coast.

London, Eng., May 25.—The latest item in the expansion of Russia is the great ship canal which she is about to build from the Gulf of Finland, through the swamps and lakes of North-West Russia, to the White Sea. The peculiar importance of this canal, which is being missed in England, is that Archangel—one of the most important ports in the whole of Russia, and doing an ever-increasing trade with England—is now in direct communication with the heart of Siberia and that, through it, and by means of this railway, we shall be, and, indeed, already are, in regular receipt of Siberian products. As a matter of fact, the duty produce of Siberia, principally at present in the form of butter, has already invaded us by this route. As with utter now, so will it be with the grain of the vast corn fields of Southern and Western Siberia; and it is directly due to the weakening of Northern Russia that these goods, can be most cheaply brought to us by sea from Archangel to-day and from Ekaterina to-morrow. Few Englishmen have ever heard of Ekaterina, yet it is Russia's latest port, and is unique in being a Russian port, which is ice-free all the year round, and peculiarly adapted as a naval port for the Empire.

WINTER NAVAL PORT.

Russia in Europe has always been paralyzed by winter. Peter the Great opened a window on Europe in Petersburg; but that window is glazed with frost during four months of the year. To-day another window on Europe has been found in Ekaterina, and it is an open window all the year round. In its quiet waters, sheltered by the high granite cliffs of Lapland, a Russian fleet may safely lie; and at any moment of the whole year that fleet may suddenly issue and on the third day be belching fire and destruction on the British coast. This is a new factor in the balance of naval power, and one to be weighed.

Anyone who knows this part of Russia—as I happen to know it, says A. M. Brice, in conclusion—will see at once that there is no real physical difficulty in the undertaking, and that, in consequence, a very short and safe cut indeed is to be made from the Baltic to the new naval port on the Lapland coast. Here, then, are her ways and her means of supplying ships continuously during a winter war. And here is the latest example of her unswerving policy when once her mind is made up.

NUMEROUS RECRUITS FOR BRITISH ARMY.

The Number Who Enlisted Between January and March Last Was 56,576.

London, May 26.—A Parliamentary return has been issued showing the number of recruits who joined the regular army and the militia during the last three months of each year from 1897 to 1901 inclusive. Taking the regular army first, it appears that in January, February and March of 1897, 8,383 men enlisted; in 1898 there were 9,881; in 1899, 9,003; in 1900, 10,911; and in the same period of the present year, 12,810. In addition to this latter number there were during the same period 28,943 recruits (caused for the Imperial Yeomanry, the South African Constabulary, and other special corps raised at home, and 16,873 men enlisted in the militia, making a total of 56,576 men taking up arms between January to March last. The figures for the militia during the same period of each year were: 1897, 12,641; 1898, 12,647; 1899, 12,679; 1900, 12,642; 1901, 12,679.

Among the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire's distinguished guests at this week's end party in Compton place, Eastbourne, was William Waldorf Astor. This is his first appearance in such company since the Dicksie-Milne affair, and it is generally supposed to indicate his restoration to favor. Mr. and Mrs. John Drexel have been entertaining the Duke and Duchess of Newcastle and other distinguished persons. Prominent among the several parties which took place at the Duchess of Marlborough and Mrs. George Cornwallis West.

OLD LONDON IS GAY AGAIN

The Queen's Return to the Metropolis Has Awakened Society.

THE KING TO VISIT HIS SUBJECTS

London, May 25.—Queen Alexandra's return from the country to London and the advent of summer weather have given a marvelous fillip to society. The season, which was dragging along uninterestingly, has burst out into full exhilarating swing. Dinner and luncheon parties of all sorts are now enlivening mansions that for months have been gloomy under the spell of universal mourning.

The Queen's first appearance in the Park on Wednesday drew large and happy crowds, and whole rows of carriages, four deep, were arranged along the sides to let her pass. With relief the onlookers noticed that Queen Alexandra, though dressed in deep black, had discarded the long ecreux veil which had become such a frequent sight since Queen Victoria died. Later, society flocked to Marlborough House, to write their names in the Queen's visiting book.

A question of royal etiquette over which society has been greatly exercised has been satisfactorily settled by the King. It was thought that King Edward, when he came to the throne, might not consider it advisable to accept invitations of his subjects, following Queen Victoria's almost unbroken precedent, confining himself to entertaining them. This, however, proves not to be the case. For the King has accepted invitations, and has met large parties at the houses of Georgina, Countess of Dudley, the Marquis of Londonderry, Lady De Grey, and others.

CERVIA FEARS DISINTEGRATION.

Spanish Admiral Thinks His Country May Become Starved.

Madrid, May 25.—Speaking before the Naval Congress yesterday, on the subject whether or not Spain should be a naval power, Admiral Cervera, the vanquished admiral of Santiago, expressed fears of the disintegration of Spain into a number of small States. "I do not wish," he said, "that the interests of the navy should predominate at the expense of the other interests of the country. But observing as I do what is going on at the present day I am afraid Spain may become like Italy of the middle ages."

TALMAGE'S SERMON

THE CITY CHURCHES AND THEIR MUSIC.

In Many of the Churches of Christ in Our Day the Music is Simply a Mockery—It is Not Music to the Soul Against Aesthetic Music.

It is often the case that churches are envious of each other, and denunciations collide with each other, and even ministers of Christ sometimes forget the bond of brotherhood. But in the time of which I speak, while there will be just as many differences of opinion as there are now, there will be no acerbity, no hypercriticism, no exclusiveness.

In our great cities the churches are not to-day large enough to hold more than a fourth of the population. The churches that are built—comparatively few of them are fully occupied. The average attendance in the churches of the United States to-day is not 300. Now, in the glorious time of which I speak, there are going to be vast churches, and they are going to be thronged with worshippers. Oh, what rousing songs they will sing! Oh, what earnest sermons they will preach! Oh, what fervent prayers they will offer!

Now, in our time, what is called a fashionable church is a place where a few people, having attended very care, fully to their toilet, come and sit down—they do not want to be crowd-

If they like a whole seat to themselves—and then, if they have any time left from thinking of their store, and from examining the style of the hat in front of them, they sit and listen to a sermon warranted to hit, no man's sin, and listen to music which is rendered by a choir warranted to sing tunes that nobody knows! And then after an hour and a half of indolent yawning they go home refreshed. Every man feels better after he has had a sleep!

In many of the churches of Christ in our day the music is simply a mockery. I have nothing to say against artistic music. The two or five dollars I pay to hear one of the great queens of song is a good investment. But when the people assemble in religious convocation, and the hymn is read, and the angels of God step from their thrones to catch the music on their wings, do not let us drive them away by our indifference. I have preached in churches where vast numbers of money were employed to keep up the music, and it was as exquisite as any heard on earth, but I thought at the same time, for all matters practical, I would prefer the library out-breaking song of a back-woods camp-meeting.

Let one of these strolling fancy songs sung in church get up before the throne of God, how would it look standing amid the great exultations of the redeemed? Let the finest operatic air that ever went up from the church of Christ get many hours the start, it will be caught and passed by the hosanna of the Sabbath school children. I know a church where the choir did all the singing, save one Christian man who, through perseverance of the saints, went right on, and afterward a committee was appointed to wait on him and ask him if he would not please stop singing as he bothered the choir.

"Let those refuse to sing Who never knew our God; But children of the Heavenly King Should speak their joys abroad." Praise ye the Lord; let everything with breath praise the Lord. In the glorious time coming in our cities and in the world, hosanna will meet hosanna, and hallelujah, hallelujah. In that time also of which I speak all the haunts of iniquity and crime and squalor will be cleansed and will be illumined. How is it to be done? You may perhaps by one influence. Perhaps I say by another. I will tell you what is my idea, and I know I am right in it. The Gospel of the Son of God is the only agency that will ever accomplish this.—T. De Witt Talmage

"The future wage-earning girl should have in her mind during the latter part of her school life the selection of her profession," writes Margaret F. Sangster in the Ladies' Home Journal. "I think it well for her, too, very quietly, but with intention, to cast about among her friends for suggestions, to ask the kind offices of one and another, and to make known her need of immediate employment so soon as she leaves school. Many good positions are lost because of indecision, or false pride, or unwise reticence on the part of those who seek them. The mental attitude of the girl in search of employment should be neither indifferent nor patronizing; she should see in motion every legitimate means, and let those who may be able to assist her know something of her situation. They can help, and she can seek with much greater hope of success if the goal in view be something definite."

A writer in the "Nebraska Farmer" says: "We always find turnips put in the cellar become pithy and worthless. If you need to store them, and I do, do it in this way: When I pull my turnips I cut off the top way down into the turnip, cut deep enough to cut all the eye out; then cut the root off smooth and nice, and you have them in a condition to place in a cool part of the cellar, or to bury out in open ground, and you need have no fear of pithy turnips. Beets should be buried out of doors, with manure over the top, so the ground will not freeze. In this way you can get at them any time in the winter. A part of the parsnip crop should be in the fall; they may be put in the cellar no matter if they do wilt, they are so much the sweeter."

Esse ma Cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture
Editor Morning Times.
Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clark's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T.R., Brantford.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It is written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor. If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Scott & Jerry, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their march. There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long treacherous marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes and this wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and rubs the soles of the feet so sore which is its inevitable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Scott and Jerry, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed), T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all druggists, or by mail, Scott and Jerry, Bowmanville, Ont.

THE GREAT RAIN

STOPS CELEBRATION

But The Show Will be Held on Dominion Day.

WILL BE A GREAT EVENT.

Everything Practically in Readiness and Many New Features Added.

The rain on Victoria Day made it impossible to carry out the extensive programme that had been arranged by the Committee, and it was resolved to have a bag day in Peterborough on July 1st, the natal day of our Dominion.

It is quite unnecessary to tell our readers of the extensive preparations which had been made, and of the fact that liberal sums of money had been given by the Council of Peterborough and Ashburnham, as well as from private citizens. This money had all been expended in fireworks and in other ways, all of which will be available for Dominion Day.

At a meeting of the Committee held on Friday night, it was decided to call a public meeting for this evening, when the matter of holding the celebration on Dominion Day will be discussed. It is hoped that the owners of the floats will be agreeable, and that harmony will prevail. The following resolution was passed:

Moved by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, seconded by Mr. Miles Henry, That in the opinion of this committee, the celebration should be held on Dominion Day next, and that a public meeting be called on Monday evening in the Market Hall for the consideration of this proposition by those having floats, and the approval in general of those interested.

would be a justifiable cry directed against the countless humbugs that offer a cure for Otitis. There is only one scientific method of treatment for Otitis. Make the air you breathe the carrier of healing, balsamic, curative agents. It bathes every inch of mucous membrane with its healing, soothing properties. This Catarrhage, Year & Day, or doctor will tell you it's the only effective method of treatment and that it is sure—prompt—permanent. Remember the name Catarrhage. All dealers, 25c and 50c.

Getting Uncomfortably Close.

A case of smallpox has been discovered at the house of Mr. J. A. Morrow, Percy street, west of Haddon street, on Monday evening. Dr. Berry received a call from that gentleman to proceed at once to his house to vaccinate his family. On arriving he found that a member of the family, the eldest daughter, was already affected, and he believes very badly. Dr. Berry at once advised the Percy Health Board and wired Dr. Bryce. This case has originated from the same source as those in Havelock. The young man, Morrow, of Havelock, was in this district last week visiting friends, and called at the house of his cousin, Mr. James Morrow, and had dinner. If Dr. Bryce pronounces it smallpox, the case will be taken to the hospital, and at present no one is allowed in or out of Mr. Morrow's house.

L. O. F. Notes.

Under the new constitution, the election of officers, representatives to the Grand Lodge, members of the District Committee, takes place at the last meeting in May, instead of in June. The object is to allow the new officers to prepare their work before being installed, in reference to Grand Lodge representatives, the object is to have some of them attend the Committee Meetings the day before the Grand Lodge opens, and thus reduce the Grand Lodge session to two days instead of three.

Hence, Ottonabee Lodge, No. 13, will hold their election this evening, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, on Thursday evening, May 31. It is hoped there will be a good attendance.

DIED IN OTTAWA.

Aged Mother of Ven. Arch. Deacon Casey Passed Away, Tuesday.

Ven. Arch. Deacon Casey was called to Ottawa a short time ago by the serious illness of his mother. She showed some improvement, however, and he returned to Peterborough. Yesterday morning he received a telegram that she had suffered a relapse and in the afternoon a second telegram announced that she had passed away. Father Casey left for Ottawa last night, carrying with him the deepest sympathy of the entire community in his bereavement.

An Early Start.

Mr. Dennis McMartin, who has charge of the Rathbun Co's saw mill at Deseronto, was in town yesterday on business, and gave the Times a friendly call. Mr. McMartin has charge of the large saw mill of the Company at Deseronto, and reports business good. The mill started up on April 1st, and have been running steadily without a break ever since. Mr. McMartin returned yesterday.

Recent Photographs.

A prominent lady from Ottawa told Mr. Whitten the photos he took for her were far ahead of what she could get at the capital. Good for Peterborough.

The Church Parade.

The local regiment paraded yesterday afternoon to St. Paul's Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Tule, the assistant pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hallow, who delivered a brief and impressive address. There was a large turnout, the regiment being headed by the band of the regiment.

THE ONTARIO BANK.

Favorable Reports Tell of Its Success—Liberal Policy Followed.

Toronto Star:—The head office of the Ontario Bank is at the corner of Scott and Wellington streets. There are three local branches, viz., at Scott and Wellington streets, Queen and Portland streets, and Yonge and Richmond streets. Outside branches are located at Bowmanville, Montreal, Lindsay, Ottawa, Peterboro, Fort Arthur, Cornwall, Newmarket, Fort William, Tweed, Mount Forest, Kingston, Aurora, Sudbury, Buckingham and Alliston.

The bank's directors are: President, G. R. J. Cockburn; Vice-President, Donald Mackay; Hon. J. O. Atkins, R. D. Perry, A. S. Irving, and D. Ulyott. C. McGill is general manager.

The Ontario Bank was incorporated in 1887, and since its incorporation was the first president. The head office was situated at Bowmanville until about ten years ago, when it moved to its present location. During the past year the capital stock of the bank had been increased from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. The last annual report showed a net profit of $125,870 for the year.

These figures speak of the constant and steady progress of this banking corporation, which has borne the name of this grand Province with honor for the past forty-four years. They reveal to the least enquiring mind the energy and ability of its management, and the growth of the business of the country, during this period, by giving in its stock a safe and lucrative means of investment, by providing a safe depository for surplus money by lending with a liberal hand of its resources to the various business enterprises which have placed our country in its present prosperous condition, and to which sure loans were as their very life-blood, and by the furnishing of a safe and convenient circulating medium for the endless transactions of trade.

It is an institution to be proud of and a credit to our land, and with its present judicious management should still continue to augment its business and extend its career of usefulness.

A True Brain Food.

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that we foolishly believe, but the food must be carried by the blood, and the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvelous brain strength and power that Ferrozene has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozene does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of revitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozene is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Hammered by a Hoodlum.

While Joseph Curtin was driving a rig out of Wolfenbutelms livery yesterday morning he was attacked by a gang of hoodlums, who took offense for some unexplained reason at his car. One of the boys struck him on the head with a stick and inflicted quite a severe scalp wound. Two of the attacking party are under arrest, and the names of the others have been obtained. They will have an opportunity to explain themselves before the Police Magistrate.

Where Turners Flag Fly.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons received an order last week from Mr. W. J. Robinson, Deputy Sheriff, Hamilton, B.C., for two large British Ensigns 12x24. These flags will fly from the highest point in the Dominion of Canada, where a flag floats. They will be hoisted on Mount Roberts, 4,500 feet above the sea. Accompanying the order was a photograph of the peak on which the flags will be placed, and on which, at the time the photo was taken, the snow was 15 feet deep.

A Former Resident.

The Lindsay Post has the following notice, which will be read with interest in Peterborough, where Miss Kemp had resided for some years, and was so well known: "It is always pleasing to hear of the success of Lindsay young people. We understand Miss Helina, daughter of Mr. (Dr.) Kemp, who has been a resident of New York for some time with her mother and family, is now head nurse at the Executive Mansion at Albany, of Governor O'Dell, whose young daughter is very ill. Miss Kemp is a clever young woman, and is to be congratulated on her success in her profession."

SHE QUIT.

Not It Was a Hard Pull.

It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did Mrs. E. S. Brown, of Apple Creek, O. She tells her own story: "I did not believe coffee caused my trouble, and frequently said I liked it so well I would not, nor could not quit drinking it, even if it took my life, but I was a miserable sufferer from heart trouble and nervous prostration for four years. I was scarcely able to be around at all. Had no energy and did not care for anything. Was emaciated and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it. For months I never went to bed without getting up in the morning. I felt as though I was liable to die any time during the night. Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive me away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one time it came over me and I asked myself what in the name of being sick all the time and having medicine so that I could indulge myself in coffee? So I thought I would see if I could quit drinking coffee and get some Postum Food Coffee to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had so Postum which I like better than I like the old coffee. One by one the old troubles left, until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right and the pain all gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my housework and have done a great deal besides. I am a sister-in-law, who visited me this summer, had been an invalid for some time when I was ill. I got her to quit coffee and drink Postum. She gained five pounds in three weeks, and I never saw such a change in anyone's health. Anyone by writing me can receive verification of these statements."

Pain in the Back.

makes life miserable. Can it be cured? Yes! In one night, Postum's Nervine gives a complete knowledge to pain in the back, for it penetrates through the tissues, takes out the soreness and pain, invigorates tired muscles, and makes you feel like a new man. Nervine cures quickly because it is stronger, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing than any other remedy. Don't suffer another minute, get Nervine quick, and rub it in, for sure as you were born it will cure you, Sir.

Sir,—It will be a long (it is to be hoped a very long) time till Peterborough shall witness again the wondrous drunkenness, fighting and general disorderliness of Friday. There was neither fun nor decency in it, merely hoodlumism and cruelty. How a sane people can expect children to profit by such exhibitions it would be hard to say. What wonder that our prisons are full? Let us have no attempt at a repetition of it. Yours, etc.,

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY TO REMAIN LOYAL TO THE DOMINION

A Decided Statement by Mr.
T. G. Shaughnessy, the President.

The Story of an Amalgamation
With the Grand Trunk
Also a Fake.

Montreal, May 28.—Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy, who arrived on Saturday from England, was seen to-day, and made an important statement. He said that the reported amalgamation with the Grand Trunk was untrue. "In fact all this talk is without foundation," said the President. "My visit to the other side was in the nature of a holiday. It was true my departure was somewhat hurried, and the fact probably gave rise to these idle conjectures." Mr. Shaughnessy said he had a most pleasant trip. He had visited London and Paris, and had combined pleasure with some business.

The President stated that it would take at least $50,000,000 to obtain control of the Canadian Pacific, and he knew of no one disposed to undertake such a feat, and had seen a great many of the largest holders, and one and all were perfectly satisfied with their investment. This he added, especially applied to the Germans who had held nearly all their stocks during the recent rise, and would continue to do so. The shareholders, he added, numbered well into 20,000, and this proved that security had gone largely into investment. Speaking of the fact line, he said: "The present period of high-priced material was not an opportune time to launch such a project. In fact, the decided intention of the C.P.R. to build another 'Empire' for the China trade would likely be delayed for the same reason."

T. G. SHAUGHNESSY, PRESIDENT C. P. R.

The President concluded with the following statement: "I told members of the iron trade that I thought the time was not far distant when the Dominion of Canada would become the British Empire that prominence in the manufacture of iron and steel which she has long enjoyed."

When asked if it were likely that the C.P.R. would, as reported, take any steps toward the establishment of a silver-lead refinery in Canada, Mr. Shaughnessy said the matter had not been discussed, but he was much pleased to see that the Government had decided to grant a bounty.

A Canadian refinery was an absolute necessity, and would have a most beneficial effect. Regarding the contemplated opening of a Russian market for Canadian produce and manufactures, Mr. Shaughnessy said that Mr. Whyte would leave for a trip through Russia about the beginning of June, proceeding first to St. Petersburg, and the Moscow Russia to the Pacific. The C.P.R. believed that a good market could be opened up for Canadian goods, and they were going to do everything in their power to assist in promoting this trade.

THE CENSUS ENUMERATORS.
The Trouble Seems to Increase Rather Diminish.
There does not seem to be any end to the troubles of the poor census enumerators, and by the time they finally get their money they will doubtless find they have earned it in waiting. Copies of the circulars issued by Hon. Mr. Fisher have been issued. According to the scale decided upon by the Government, the bills of the enumerators must be based on the number of names they have taken, and the Globe says that in Toronto, at least, that is going to cause no little trouble, if the accounts are to be made out from this end. Most of the enumerators kept no record of the number of names they had taken down, and the sheets have been sent to Ottawa. Unless the sheets are returned to Toronto, and that work will fall upon the census department in Ottawa. No doubt this same is true of every city in the Dominion.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.
Well-Known Business Man Charged with Killing His Partner.
Lewiston, Idaho, May 28.—A sensation has been caused here by the arrest of John N. King, a well-known business-man charged with the murder of Charles E. Thatcher. The latter, who was a partner of King, was murdered in the firm's store at Lapwai, twelve miles from Lewiston, on the night of July 16, 1898. King's statement at the corner's inquest was to the effect that two masked men entered the store and shot Thatcher. Two bullets of different caliber were found in his body.

United States Senate Clerk on Futility Quest in London.
London, May 28.—H. H. Gilfrey, a legislative clerk of the United States senate, is now here endeavoring to trace the estate of William Baskett, supposed to have been a London banker and said to have recently died, leaving $5,000,000, the principal heirs being the Basketts of Polka county, Oregon. A story purporting to have originated in London and giving details of the death was printed in a Salem paper. Gilfrey is unable to find the slightest trace of Baskett and the death of a man answering the description has not been recorded at Somerset house, the office of the registrar general of births, deaths and marriages.

LESSONS FROM THE BOER WAR

Remarkable Speech by England's Prime Minister.

NO HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

The Action of Ireland's Representatives in the House of Commons Referred to.

And Forever Put an End to the Chances of Home Rule—Mrs. g. Statement by the Minister.

London, May 28.—At the Mayor's banquet, held at London, Lord Salisbury amongst other things said:

I can understand, not very easily, but I can understand a man believing that the nation of Boers had violated the frontier of the English Empire, and poured down upon the colonies when we had committed not a single act, which, under international law, was liable to reprehension, and they were innocent in so doing. But when, month after month, year after year passed, and it appeared that these very innocent persons had laid up the most appalling accumulation of military weapons in order to accomplish this unintended attack. I think it will require more than ordinary charity to make us believe that it was not the result of a long conspiracy. It is now quite an ordinary thing when you open the paper in the morning to see that so many hundreds of thousands of rounds of ammunition have been dug up. It did not grow there. They have been accumulated by long forethought with the intention of attacking the colonies and the subjects of our Sovereign. But there is more to be said. It is not only the past you must look at; but when you consider the care and deliberation, and the effort, and the steady determination, starting from a long time back, such as these vast preparations indicate, you must remember that this points to a disposition which affects the future as much as it affects the past, and that, if by an conceivable concatenation of events those who made these preparations and planned these attacks should again have an opportunity of giving vent to their hatred of this country, you may be sure that the vigor with which the blows have been struck will be, if possible, exceeded by the determination with which they will renew the contest at a future time. (Hear, hear.) Remember those words—those stirring words—of Sir Alfred Milner, "Never again." (Cheers.) One precaution—no result of the war will be, whatever else you do, you have to insist that the danger to which by a long-prepared conspiracy we have been exposed, shall not be a danger to which our children shall be exposed. (Hear, hear.)

ANOTHER LESSON.

I confess it sometimes crosses my mind that it has been another lesson for us. We have met in this room more than with a view to preventing home rule being imposed upon this country. (Cheers.) But did not know what sort of a fight could be maintained by a hostile Government against the overwhelming power of that exuberant power might be. Supposing that instead of throwing out the bill in 1893 home rule had been passed, and that you had an Irish Government in Dublin. I presume, from the exhibitions which we see in the House of Commons and elsewhere, we may, without very extravagant exercises of imagination, assume that it would have been a very hostile Government. Hostile, I say—a Government in possession of all the internal powers of a Government, able to make all the preparations which such a Government would make. What would our position have been if we had not only to meet the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, but also an equally hostile Ireland, and that by ourselves? (Hear, hear.) There was good reason before for relating home rule, but since our South African experience has taught us the power and the capacity of modern instruments of war, we know now that if we allow the hostility of those who are to the front in the Irish community to have unlimited power of making preparations against us, whenever we have to fight any other power, we should have to begin by conquering Ireland. (Hear, hear.) Therefore, those two great strains upon the resources of the empire are closely allied, and you will learn from what has taken place how important it is that your efforts should not be relaxed in maintaining the union. (Hear, hear.) I say that, of course, of our Irish opponents, who point that the time will come when, by the operation of what is known as the action of the pendulum, their opportunity will come round again, and that they will be able to offer a majority to a Parliamentary party as the price for the concession of Irish independence.

VERY SLOWLY
BUT SURELY

Lord Milner, of Cape Town Talks
About the South African War

CHAMBERLAIN ALSO GREETED HIM

London, May 27.—The speeches made by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Lord Milner, of Capetown, at the luncheon at which the former entertained the latter Saturday, finally disposed of the rumors, finally disposed of the rumors that Lord Milner had been recalled from South Africa, and a title conferred on him to cover his disgrace. Mr. Chamberlain assuring Lord Milner of the confidence of the King and the people, referred to the work before him as being more arduous than any that hitherto confronted him, while Lord Milner alluded apologetically to his taking a holiday while a big, unfinished job was awaiting him. He referred to the rumors concerning him, and complained that it was judicious that some of the busiest men in the world were compelled to occupy time to prove to persons with an ingrained habit of self-deception that Great Britain did not give up her agents in face of the enemy, and that the British did not allow themselves to be bored into abandoning what they had spent millions of treasure and many precious lives to obtain.

Lord Milner made a brief reference to the situation, not committing himself further than saying: "It seems to me that we are slowly progressing towards the predestined end. It has appeared latterly as if the pace was somewhat quickening, but I do not wish to make too much of that or to speak with too great confidence." Lord Milner declared his unshakable conviction that the road the British had taken was the only one possible. "If we were obliged to act on these terms, but we could not have held our own by any other methods than those we were obliged to adopt. I do not know whether I am more inclined to laugh or cry when I listen for the hundredth time to those 'dear delusions and Utopian dogmatizations' that only required little more time, patience, tact, and meekness to conciliate—what I penophed hatred, insensate ambitions, and invincible ignorance."

A REGULAR GUERRILLA FIGHT.

London, May 27.—Lord Kitchener's bulletins are now infrequent, and few side lights are thrown by press dispatches upon the guerrilla warfare which is still flickering in South Africa. A second combined movement of six columns is in progress for the clearance of the Eastern Transvaal and South Delagoa railway, but the results are not yet known apart from large captures of horses and cattle. Two Boer forces are reported in this district—one under Botha, near Carletonville, and the other the Orange River near Majuba. The western and northern districts of the Transvaal are quiet, but remnants of Delarey's and Beyers' commandos are still lurking among the hills. The Orange River Colony is tolerably free from raiders, but there is a fresh concentration of guerrillas in the Zuurberg district of Zululand. Eight or more small commandos under as many Boer chiefs, are operating in Cape Colony, and are successful chiefly in eluding pursuit by mounted British columns. A British patrol is snatched up once in a while, but otherwise the Boers accomplish little. While the warfare is tedious, it is conducted without signs of exasperation on the British side. Endurance matches endurance.

BOERS CAPTURED AND KILLED.

London, May 27.—A despatch from Kenhardt, Cape Colony, says a commando of Boers under the Free State commandant, Conroy, were marching to attack Kenhardt, when they encountered a patrol of Border Scouts who were entrenched at Farmstead. The Boers attempted to storm Farmstead, and the engagement lasted five hours. The Boers had 15 killed and left 17 wounded, including field Cornet Janlouwer, on the field. The British had one wounded. General Ruddle has captured Theron's Mill, a strong position near Fouriesburg. The Boers made an attack on the Cape Mounted Rifles at a point near Middleburg. The engine driver was killed and the fireman injured. In another skirmish a brother of Commandant Ben Viljoen was captured. BOERS FOR BERMUDA.

Bermuda, May 27.—The steamship Hawarden Castle sailed from Darben on Friday for Bermuda with three hundred Boer prisoners.

HE WAS MARRIED
EIGHTEEN TIMES

Remarkable Experience of George W. Anderson, West Virginia.

ELOPED FROM THE POOR HOUSE

St. Mary's, W. Va., May 27.—After being sent to the poorhouse by his 17th wife, George Washington Anderson, 68 years old, has eloped with one of the inmates of the institution, and now has married for the eighteenth time. About two months ago he came to this place, a tramp. Meeting Mrs. Martha Wells, he induced her, after an acquaintance of two days, to elope with him. She was not one of the entire bliss, and when the wife discovered that Anderson had not only deceived her as to property which he said he possessed, but had carried 16 women before her, she had him sent to the poorhouse and applied for a divorce. In the poorhouse he met and fell in love with Minnie Martin, a fair but feeble-minded girl of 20 years old. The girl returned his affection and the pair agreed to wed. This marriage was even more romantic than the 17th. Building a platform to the window of the room in which the girl slept, he got her safely to the ground and the two made their way across the river into Ohio and to Marietta, where they were wedded by a justice of the peace.

Anderson, according to his own statement, has been married eighteen times. He says that his first wife was Martha Tibbe, of St. Mary's, Penn., and that they separated. He then took for a companion Annie Miller, soon after this marriage entering the union army. When the war was over he again married Martha Tibbe, as her husband had died. After that he refused to give the names of his other wives.

The greatest part of his life, he says, has been passed in western Pennsylvania. The bliss of wife No. 17 was shattered by finding a diary in his pocket, a part of which read as follows: "Life of G. W. Anderson, and full history from birth to death. I do not wish to live through truth. A daring reckless and unlawful life up to 60 years of age. A husband of sixteen wives, all living but one." Anderson and his eighteen wives are passing their honeymoon in the poorhouse in Belmont, this county.

WON'T REDUCE INDEMNITY.

Claim of $330,000,000 against China Likely to Be Enforced.
Washington, D. C., May 28.—The State Department has received information from Special Commissioner Rockhill which is regarded as conclusive that the indemnity to be demanded of China by the powers will not be reduced to $200,000,000, the amount which the United States has insisted is all that China will be able to pay. There is no hope felt here that there will be any reduction from the aggregate amount of the claims, $337,000,000.

Tientsin, May 28.—The destruction of the Taku forts, according to the agreement among the powers, is proceeding slowly on account of the danger that would be caused to adjacent property by the use of high explosives in large quantities. Several weeks will be required to complete the work. Many valuable guns have been blown up with dynamite.

The Russians today embarked 1,000 coolies for Port Arthur.

Russian Rulers Growing Nervous.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—The prohibition of the publication of the Novoye Vremya for a week because of its editorial article on the labor troubles is causing an immense sensation, as indicating extraordinary nervousness on the part of the Government.

The Novoye Vremya is second only to the Moscow Vedomosti in conservatism and is usually allowed greater latitude than the other papers. The editorial in question was mild as compared with many Governmental publications on the labor situation in more quiet times. It merely said the operators were poorly paid for excessively hard work, and were beginning to be influenced by Western literature, and suggested that the Government carry on the work begun for emancipation and enforce social reforms.

SHOT AND KILLED HIS YOUNG SISTER

Thomas Ryan, 16 Years Old Charged With Murder.

SAYS GIRL WAS TEASING HIM

Continued to Pull the Trigger Forgetting the 5th Chamber Was Loaded.

Toronto, May 27.—At St. Andrew's Market police station, Thomas Ryan, Jr., the sixteen-year-old son of Thomas Ryan, boot and shoe dealer at 738 1/2 Queen street west, is under arrest, nominally charged with murdering his sister, Olive, ten years of age.

The deed was done with a three-caliber Smith and Wesson self-loading revolver yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 26 Leonard avenue. After dinner yesterday the little girl sat down to play at "jacks," while her brother looked on and talked and played with her. Shortly before four o'clock the boy left the room, and went up to his bedroom to lie down for a sleep.

GIRL GOT THE REVOLVER.

Little Olive followed him a few minutes later, and began teasing him, he says. Finally she took from the bureau drawer a revolver belonging to another brother, Harry, who was out. Olive in her hand, she went back to the bed and pointed it at her brother Tom. Jumping up, he quickly took it from her and placed it under the pillow on the bed. Hardly had he lain down again when the mischievous fingers of the little girl once more gained possession of the weapon.

LOADED IT TO FRIGHTEN HER.

Again he took it from her, and, as he now states, merely to frighten her, he drew a box from under the bed in which were some cartridges, both blank and loaded. One of the loaded ones he placed in the last of the five chambers. During this proceeding Olive had run out of the room and was just looking in with her head inside. Pointing the revolver at her, the brother, who is now grief-stricken, pulled the trigger four times, which brought the loaded chamber to the hammer.

THE DEADLY BULLET.

Quite forgetting that the next one contained a death-dealing bullet, he again pulled the trigger. The bullet sped with death-dealing accuracy, and entered the little girl's head immediately between the eyes.

With a shriek that was heard by Mr. Alex. Downey, the stenographer, who lives next door, she fell in a heap on the floor, and died in fifteen minutes, just after Dr. Moore, who was summoned, reached the house.

Dr. Temple arrived some minutes later, as did also Coroner McConnell. An examination was made, and the bullet was found imbedded in the spinal column, having completely severed the spinal cord. While this examination was being made, Coroner Greig was notified by telephone, and after filing a warrant for an inquest at Court street police station, he went to the home to investigate.

SMALLPOX ON THE SPREAD.

Alarming Increase of the Disease Admitted by Health Officials.

New York, May 28.—The last public health report issued by the United States marine hospital service makes it appear that the percentage of mortality from smallpox is greater in this city than in any single state in the country. According to the figures contained in the government report, there were between Dec. 28 last and May 18 850 cases of smallpox in the five boroughs of New York, of which forty-three proved fatal. During the same period the report reveals a startling contrast between the death rate in this city and in other cities.

Figures gathered by the marine hospital service indicate, therefore, that the percentage of deaths to cases of smallpox is far in excess of that shown in any other state. According to Dr. O. F. Roberts, sanitary superintendent of the health department, there have been 1,104 cases of smallpox reported up to date and 135 deaths from that disease. Up to April 1730 cases and 103 deaths had been reported. That the disease has been increasing since April is not denied by Dr. Roberts. As a matter of fact he was extremely frank to-day in declaring that the disease is spreading in a more alarming manner.

TRANSVAAL LEAGUE.

Has Sent the sum of $304 to Hunger to Finance the Boer Army.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 28.—The American Transvaal League held its annual meeting last night and re-elected their officers. The treasurer's report showed that $729 had been disbursed by the National Secretary for the benefit of widows and orphans of Boer soldiers and $304 sent direct to Kruger. In his annual address President Walker said: "The situation is not so desperate for the two Republics as it seems in September of last year. Time fights with the Boers. Every day's continuance of the present situation will help to cure England's war fever and sober her judgement and clarify her reason and her conscience. Chamberlain has already gone into an eclipse."

He urged a continuance of the work for the success of the Boers and for the relief of the widows and orphans.

TOM MAYO'S PRIZE STORY

public matter, he desired, as far as possible, to make public his confession and resignation. When the letter was finished, there were loud and prolonged calls for Barbara, who, trembling with emotion, refused to respond. Alice leaned over and whispered a few words. Then Tom lifted his sister in his arms and carried her before the now immensely clamorous throng. As he stood before the footlights, with Barbara's fair head upon his shoulder, he tenderly smoothed back her curls that they might see the lovely face of her whose laurels he had stolen.

The audience had not thrown off all restraint. It seemed as if pandemonium had broken loose, and amid the bravos, smiles and tears and a shower of roses, Tom carried Barbara back to her chair. "Three cheers for Tom Mayo!" cried a boy in the gallery. They were given with a will.

As Mayo was carrying Barbara to his carriage he felt a light touch upon his shoulder. It was Alice. "I dare not hope for your forgiveness," he whispered.

"What you have done tonight," she said, smiling through her tears, "is more to me than if you had written the 'Great American Novel.' As she leaned over his shoulder to kiss Barbara good-night her face was dangerously near his, and Tom—well, lovers are pretty much the same the world over, after all.

Essema Cured After Many Years of Terrible Suffering.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T.R., Brantford.

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. If you are afflicted with cancer, you should have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Stott & Jurg, Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long treks as the Canadians. The reason for this is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents aching, blistering, and chafing, and rubs the foot of the soldier as it is the inevitable accompaniment of marching. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R.C.R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Stott and Jurg, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents aching and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed, T. Buckart.)

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all drug stores, or by mail, Stott and Jurg, Bowmanville, Ont.

COMMON WEAL SOCIETY.

Interesting Discussion at the Public Meeting Last Night.

The public meeting of the Common Weal Society last night was fairly well attended and the proceedings were interesting. Letters of regret, were read from Rev. Father O'Brien, Rev. Mr. Haskow, President of the Ministerial Association, and Rev. J. C. Davidson, who were unable to be present. They each heartily commended the Society.

Rev. Dr. Symonds, President of the Society, opened the meeting, and briefly set forth its aims for the information of those who were not present when the Society was organized. Referring to one object, the discouragement of drinking, he said it was a deadly and pernicious habit that does not prevail in any other country, except perhaps the United States, as it does in Canada. The Society is likely to be assisted from two opposite directions—first by those who regard any attempt to influence personal habits as an interference with liberty; second by those who regard total abstinence as the only solution of the liquor problem. Dr. Symonds pointed out on the one hand that the Common Weal Society is a purely voluntary association, on the other hand that it is a civic association and does not pretend to be a temperance movement. Total abstinence would be welcomed as members; such influence as the Society may exert on the drinking habit is in the direction of total abstinence. Dr. Symonds said he would perhaps not again address the Society as a citizen, but he hoped it would not be his last appearance as a member of the Association.

Mr. R. M. Denison delivered a very interesting address on the use of profane and blasphemous language. He contended that the habit of swearing took common hold during the reaction against Puritanism after the Stuart era. Then coarseness in language was permissible in high places. He could remember, as perhaps could others in the audience, when it was the habit of military officers to use blasphemous language on parade. This habit had disappeared, and he believed it was because the spirit of the age was changing. Perhaps the far more serious danger to the Empire had lagged behind. Drinking and swearing were frowned upon by that man of pure and exalted life, the late Prince Consort, no less than by her Majesty, Queen Victoria. We have the testimony of W. T. Stirling, a proper example in these particulars. In London clubs it is bad form to use oaths. In London crowds, while you hear all sorts of coarse language, you do not hear blasphemy. As you do in Canada. Rudyard Kipling, when asked in "Cape Town" by one of our officers if he had seen the Royal Canadians, made the following reply: "I heard you cursing considerably—that was our prominent characteristic that struck perhaps the most observant man in the British Empire. Parents should correct their children in this matter; the habit of swearing interferes with a boy's chances of success in life. In concluding Mr. Denison paid a tribute to Dr. Symonds and predicted that the Society would flourish even though his strong influence were withdrawn.

Mr. J. H. Burnham was asked to address the meeting, and after commending the Society, referred to an evil that he considered worse than drinking or swearing—the dissemination of scandal. When the day comes that men have the chivalry and generosity to never speak lightly of woman or girl, these other evils will disappear. He approved of the suggestion that eminent lecturers should be brought to Peterborough by the Society.

Col. Edwards and Mr. J. H. Roper spoke on profanity and cigarette smoking among small boys, and each member will be supplied with several and empowered to issue them to others who may become members of the Society.

NEW THE WAY OUT.

Made a Study of His Food.

It is not always that the user of food understands about that food, but a gentleman in Cincinnati writing about Grape-Nuts expresses himself perfectly. He says: "A business man, devoting himself to hard mental labor, requires different food than a man doing muscular work. I became weary of a dull, heavy feeling in my head day by day which did me untold damage to my work. Verdict, intestinal indigestion; punishment, a severe diet list, leaving out starchy foods, sugar and fat.

Up to this time, with the most precise care in cooking, the ordinary breakfast food came to the table a paste, starchy mass. Added to that was sugar and more or less white bread, which gave an excess of starchy food that could not be digested. This indigestible mass passed into the intestines, creating gas and all of the distressing symptoms both of body and brain.

I was put on Grape-Nuts Food for the reason that it is made of selected parts of wheat and barley, thoroughly cooked at the factory, giving to the body the starchy part of the food (which is necessary), predigested, that is, turned into dextrose or grape sugar. This furnished the sweet needed, without the use of cane sugar and gave me the starchy principle of food already passed into the second condition, exactly in the same manner as a healthy body digests it.

After eating Grape-Nuts for a short time, I found a most remarkable improvement in my health, and I also discovered the reason why the claim made on the package is true; that one pound of Grape-Nuts, which is perfectly absorbed by the body, will afford more nutrition than ten pounds of meat, wheat or bread, imperfectly digested. I can name anyone that a week or ten days' consumption of Grape-Nuts will prove far more convincing testimony than any written words. I subscribe myself a grateful consumer. Please do not publish my name." Anyone who will write to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and enclose stamp, can be supplied with the name and address.

CONCERT AND PLE SOCIAL.

A Social and Enjoyable Evening At George Street Methodist Church Last Night.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at George Street Methodist Church last night, when the members of the Epworth League gave a social and program in the parlors of the church. Mr. Jeffries performed the duties of chairman. After a short address, he proceeded with the programme, calling upon Mr. Tholus for an instrumental solo, which was well rendered and received loud applause. Little Miss Billington gave a recitation which was very acceptable. Miss Clara Bellegren followed with a solo, "The Star of the Desert." Mr. Clark favored the audience with a beautiful trombone solo, "The Magnolia Serenade," and gave an encore "On the Old Missouri Shore." Miss G. Kendry followed with a vocal solo and Miss E. Russell with a recitation. Miss Sanderson gave an instrumental solo and received loud applause for an encore which was requested by Mr. Jas. Brown rendered a very pleasing and acceptable vocal solo, "My Wild Irish Rose," and was called upon for an encore. This ended the musical part of the programme and the refreshments were then served, consisting of pie and coffee, to which everybody seemed to do ample justice.

Claiming Damages.

Mr. John Pogue, Murray street, has entered an action for $1,000 damages against F. J. Pell, owner of the merry-go-round, at the corner of George and McDowell streets. It will be remembered that on the evening of Victoria Day Charlie Pogue, son of the plaintiff, fell from the merry-go-round while it was in motion and sustained a fracture of the left leg. Negligence on the part of the operator of the machine is claimed to have been the cause of the accident.

A few minutes later a report was heard, and Mrs. Walters going to the barn, found her husband lying dead with a bullet wound in his head. It is believed the shooting was accidental.

A FOOD THAT PROMOTES HEALTH IS WORTHY OF A TRIAL

Malt Breakfast Food Is a True Health Food.

Bodily and mental vigor and general good health depend largely upon the food used at the opening of the day—breakfast.

Thousands of people, young and old, use some form of grain food each morning. The large majority of these grain foods or cereals are positively injurious to digestion, and therefore, cannot promote health and strength.

Food experts and all who desire to see the masses supplied with pure and wholesome foods, very strongly recommend Malt Breakfast Food for the first meal of the day. All practical food analysts who have analyzed Malt Breakfast Food, hold it up as the world's ideal health food.

Malt Breakfast Food is predigested; it is concentrated, therefore the most economical to use; it is a flesh, bone and muscle builder. One 15 cent package will make a dish for twenty-five people. Your Grocer sells it.

RISE THREATENED IN POSEN.

Anti German Agitation in Province Avenue Alarming Aspect.

Berlin, May 28.—The anti-German agitation in the province of Posen has assumed alarming proportions and the Prussian government has forbidden all Polish indoor or outdoor meetings for the Pentecostal holidays.

Dr. Studt, Prussian minister of education in a reply to Archbishop von Stalinski, who had complained that Polish Catholics were greatly incensed because of the order directing that religious instruction be imparted in German, said that the Polish Catholic clergy had instigated the whole movement and he expressed a hope that the archbishop would advise the clergy to desist from such agitation. On receipt of this communication the archbishop left Posen on a month's leave of absence.

JULY FIRST IT IS.

Public Meeting Last Night Endorses The Committee's Motion to Hold Celebration on Dominion Day

The public meeting held in the Market Hall last night was well attended. After discussion it was unanimously resolved to hold a mammoth celebration on Dominion Day.

The meeting adjourned for two weeks, when active preparations for the event will commence.

RIFLE PRACTICE A PUBLIC DUTY.

Swiss Have to Attend to it in Marksmanship Course of War.

London, Eng., May 24.—An interesting account of rifle ranges and marksmanship training in Switzerland is given by Major the Hon. Z. F. Fremantle, 1st Bucks V.R.O., and Captain E. C. H. Graaf, Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders, in a report which was issued as a Parliamentary paper yesterday.

In Switzerland every one is familiar with the rifle and its use, and the existence of a range here, we are told, no terror for local residents. The attainment of skill in shooting is considered a public duty; and anyone who attempts selfishly to make difficulties about ranges becomes a public enemy.

The Swiss army is purely a militia force. The recruits training lasts forty-five days, and "in that time he has to learn everything about his business as a soldier." It is significant that bayonet exercise is not part of the training. (But great pains are taken to secure marksmanship; "the amount of individual attention each man receives being particularly noticeable.") Only that which is essential to efficiency in the field is included in the training, which is made as practical as possible. Towards the end of the term, a three or four days' march in full marching order is carried out, the companies either bivouacking or going into billet for the night. In the field firing the targets are screens about thirty yards long, twenty inches high, with heads and shoulders painted on them. To complete the verisimilitude, in the intervals between the screens are a few separate head and shoulder targets which fall down when hit. Good results are generally attained.

BADGES OF HONOR.

After this training, the citizen only comes up afterwards, for eighteen days every other year, but he has to fire a course of marksmanship every year. No money prizes are given for shooting in the annual course, but application and skill are encouraged by badges of honor worn on the arm. Their whole system of fire discipline is much less rigorous and centralized than ours; but while much is left to the common sense and initiative of the private soldier, the firing is absolutely controlled.

The number of ranges in Switzerland was officially reported in 1896 to be 2,736, a number giving not quite one to each of the 3,200 communes. Ranges of all kinds are in use. Those used by the troops have the firing points and targets entirely in the open. Some of the club ranges, "set against a steep mountain side," are very elaborate. The range accommodation in the smallest villages and hamlets, is of the simplest, and dispenses with all fixed plant. The system of balanced canvas targets has been put in use for many years, and indeed was introduced from Switzerland into the country. There does not seem to be in Switzerland any modern screened range providing the same complete degree of safety as that at Wornumscrub.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

We regret to hear that our Medical Health Officer is ill at present. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Smallpox is reported at Havelock. The disease is nearing this locality. The Board of Health of this township will require to be on the alert and ready to stamp out this dreaded disease should it be found in our township.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Bobert Vance is recovering from her illness.

Dr. Deyell, of Millbrook, passed through town to the residence of Mrs. Joseph Lowe, who had a sick animal. Mr. Lowe has been rather unfortunate with cattle lately.

The Rev. Mr. Coon intimated some time ago that a charge was likely to be made in the circuit that would give a regular service in Cavanville, Fairmont and Mount Pleasant on each Sabbath during the year. The matter of change is to be decided by the Conference at its next meeting. His text was taken from the gospel by John, chap 12 verse 24.

look each other in the eyes for a long minute, and then the weapon in the colonel's hands was gradually lowered. "It was the soul of Juma, and I am a lost man!" they heard him whisper. And in telling the story they added: "We were almost paralyzed with fear, and yet we saw everything. That tiger was a queer-looking beast. He did not mind us at all, but not for the fraction of a second did he take his eyes off the colonel. The Sahib went white as death, and we could hear him breathing hoarsely in his throat. It seemed as if the tiger stood there for five minutes before he moved a paw, and all this time the beaters were making a great racket and the hunters were shouting to each other."

The tiger did not spring. He simply advanced on the colonel and seized him by the thigh and trotted off with him, and according to the beaters the man did not even cry out. It was a quarter of an hour before the alarm was given, as the hunters had become widely scattered. This was not the tiger hiding in the ravine. That one was driven out and shot. A search was begun as soon as the terror-stricken natives could make themselves understood, but nothing came of it. The tiger had carried his victim to the hills.

Next morning the officers had the natives climbing trees in all directions, and before noon one of them had marked down a gathering of vultures. The party pushed for the spot with all speed, and they reached it in time to secure the remains from mutilation. By his grip on the thigh the tiger had carried his victim over two miles. He had not bitten him elsewhere, and yet the man was dead at the end of the run. No trace of the presence of the beast could be found. He had been summoned by the insulted fakir out of the depths of the jungle to come and do his work, and when the work was finished he had returned to the lair, which no hunter could discover. When old Juma heard of the colonel's fate he simply said: "I said it should be so. It is so. It is well."

THE LONG PARLIAMENT

The Ontario Government must have been ill advised when they passed an Act at the recent session to lengthen parliament beyond the usual time. The excuse that they had important business which this parliament ought to finish of course made everybody feel that they were not very certain of getting back again. They felt probably that they needed more time to get ready for the fight, and they were right in that idea, but it was unwise to let the people see it from a tactical point of view. The Ross Government, like the Tupper Government, has pretty much worn out its welcome. There are no evidences of works of genius on their part. Direct taxation is an evidence of provincial prosperity. It may be said that the rich alone suffer, but the statement is not correct. The proper way to look at it is from the business man's point of view. It was done to rescue the finances of the government. The Tupper Government has done many good things in its day, but Ross is not Mowat, and now that Whitney is strengthened by men of known value, the people will be inclined to open the government coffers for inspection. In England, where they do things pretty well as a rule, no government is given an unlimited lease of life, and the principle is sound. The people of this province are tired of politics. What they want is a judicious, impartial and economical administration of their property, with something of the moral arrayed with it to give it the proper flavour. Party lines will not divert the attention of the people from their own interests, no matter how many of the faithful are held in bondage by official duties and official salaries. The recent act about the license law and the uncompromising intention of the Provincial Secretary and his friends to see it carried out at all costs is all very well in its way, but these gentlemen must be judged by their past record—not by their future one. The government is not well entrenched for a hard fight.

SWEDEN FEARS THE CZAR.

Dr. Victor B. Wickstrom Tells Countrymen in America to Beware.

Chicago, May 29.—Sweden and Sweden beware of Russia was the burden of an address delivered by Dr. Victor Wickstrom, author and editor, now making a tour of the world. He is from Osterund, Sweden. He talked to a meeting of his former countrymen at Chicago last night.

"This is a dangerous time in Europe, and Sweden appears to be in the most danger," he said. "Russia has deprived Finland of all its rights. It is but another step to our fatherland. The czar's men are building fortifications along the Baltic, and railroads, probably for the easy transportation of troops. So alarmed at these questions has Sweden become that there is great activity in military circles. The Russian attention taken up by other affairs—in Manchuria, in Serbia and in Turkey—she would make an aggressive move toward Sweden. So greatly has the prospect of trouble with Russia stirred up the people of our peninsula that disagreements between Sweden and Norway have temporarily been forgotten and a united front will be presented to the enemy when the time arrives. A total of 8,000,000 people will be united to resist any invasion."

Dr. Wickstrom said Sweden in America could be depended upon to give substantial aid to their native land in case of war. He predicted that Russia and the United States will be the great rivals for control of the world half a century hence.

THE EVENTS OF A DAY.

"By George! but I wish I had a chance to know her! She's about the prettiest girl I ever saw!"

Joe Martin ended with a sigh, for, although he was not aware of it, he had already taken the first step toward falling desperately in love with Susan Meade.

He had seen her for the first time while walking slowly along a trail that led across the cattle range of western Texas. Hearing a woman's screams he had turned off to the east a few yards where he had found Miss Meade in great distress.

In reaching out over a little slough, trying to get a choice water lily, she had lost her balance and tumbled into the water, she had quickly regained her footing, but the bank was so high and steep that she could not ascend it. So, drenched from head to foot, and standing in water waist deep, she was compelled to wait for someone to come to her rescue.

When two long hours had passed and she had called time and again without attracting notice she lost hope and began to wonder if she would have to spend the night there, or whether it was not possible that she might remain there until she died of starvation. Just as she had succeeded in conquering up the very gloomiest of prospects and was having a hard struggle to keep back her tears Joe Martin appeared on the bank above her.

She looked up at him with mingled feelings of joy, shame and anger. It was joyful to know that a rescuer was at hand, but she was too womanly to forget for an instant the and spectacle she presented in her drenched condition, and the faint trace of a smile she saw on his lips angered her. Reaching down toward her, he commanded her to give him her hands, and she hesitatingly obeyed, and the next moment he drew her up to his own level.

"I hope you are not hurt," he said, looking at her anxiously.

"Not in the least," she replied, shrinking before his gaze. "I am very well now and need not trouble you further. I am very grateful to you for your kindness."

"Which means," he said, "that I may go as soon as I like."

"Don't feel that I am ungrateful and unappreciative," she answered, "but you—"

"I know," he said. "It is your appearance. I am not cruel enough to take any notice of that. I don't there some other service I could render you. Can't I see you to your home?"

"I thank you, but I prefer to go alone."

"Then I'll bid you good day,"

"Good day,"

As Joe continued on his way he recalled her features and the more he thought of her the more eagerly he wished that he might know her. She too, thought of him and wished she might know him.

"But it can never be," he said to himself, "for tomorrow I leave for my home back east."

"Perhaps I shall meet him again," he said to himself, "for one can never tell what may happen."

She was right. One can never tell the truth of those words sooner than might have been expected. And he discovered it in a way not to be readily forgotten.

He had gone but a short distance when he met a man on horseback. The man had been riding hard, for his horse was wet with sweat and was well blown.

"Are you going to town, stranger?" he called eagerly, bringing his horse to a stop.

"I am," Joe replied.

"Why?"

"I thought you might be willing to do me a favor," the other answered quickly.

"Certainly. What is it?"

"My brother has just been severely hurt and must have the attention of a doctor at once. There is no one with him and I hate to leave him alone, so I thought if you would just take my horse and ride to town you could send the doctor out."

It all seemed reasonable enough to Joe, so he consented to the arrangement.

"Just leave the horse at a stable there," the man said, "and tell the doctor that it's at Hi Blanks's place."

"All right," Joe replied, swinging himself into the saddle as soon as the other had vacated it.

"And remember that there's no time to waste," the man said, "for it is a matter of life and death."

It was a matter of life and death, and in a different way to that which Joe suspected. He understood something of this, however, when ten minutes later he rode full tilt into a gang of cowboys and found himself stopped with a dozen pistols pointed at his head.

While he sat staring amazedly at the cowboys, wondering what their conduct meant, one of their number remarked dryly:

"This is a 'commutation' of you to come right to us, young fellow, and we have us chase you all over the prairie. Save us a heap of trouble. Don't fear. It shows much good judgment on your part, though."

"What do you mean?" Martin managed to gasp. "What are you talking about?"

"Oh, nothing particular. You just go along with us to the bank with us and we'll explain matters there."

"But I can't go to the bank. I'm in a great hurry. I am going to get a doctor for a man who is badly hurt."

The cowboy grinned dryly.

"Oh, the man ain't hurt yet," he said, "but he will be pretty soon, and when he is he won't need no doctor. Doctors ain't no use to him. He's a thief when once we get our hands on 'em."

"Horse thieves! What are you—why are you mad?"

"Talkin' 'bout you. That happens to be our horse you are riding, and as you didn't buy him it stands to reason you stole him."

"But I did nothing of the kind. At least I lie."

And then Martin told how he came to have the horse in his possession, how the cowboys only shook their heads and smiled incredulously. "You can tell that to the boss when we get to the ranch," one of them said. "Mebby he'll believe it, mebby so."

For performance accompanied the cowboys to the ranch. There they were met by the owner, a young man of good appearance, and to him Joe told his story, saying it would be believed. However, when he had finished the other shook his head and replied:

"You tell a very plausible story, but I am a little afraid to believe it. I am afraid I can't do anything for you, but I will think it over. In the meantime will hold you. Go into that room there."

Martin went into the room indicated and sat down in a dejected attitude. It was bad enough for a young man of irreproachable character to be suspected of such a crime as horse-stealing, but that was nothing compared to the prospect of being hung to the nearest tree. He had not been in Texas long, being only there for an outing, but he knew that a horse thief.

Doctors not seldom give up a case, but a mother never does. While life lasts, while there is a spark of vitality which the labor may fan into a flame, she will untiringly for the child she brought into the world. And sometimes where the doctors fail the mother succeeds. She has no prejudices. Any means she will use which will save her child.

The mother's prescription given below is a case in point. Her daughter was given up by physicians as suffering from an incurable disease, called "wasting of the digestive organs." The mother prescribed, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Favorite Prescription," and had the happiness of seeing her daughter restored to perfect health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a nerve-nourishing, flesh-forming medicine—making new blood and new life. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is a true temperance medicine.

My dear (of Arlington, Washington Co., Neb.) was taken very sick and had several doctors write Mrs. C. L. Harrison of this city, Douglas Co., Neb. They could not do her any good, and told my mother they would not come any more, as no doctor could help her, that she could not get well. She had "wasting of the digestive organs." My mother said to my sister: "Well, I almost know that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure her." So she bought six bottles—three of "Golden Medical Discovery" and three of "Favorite Prescription," and some of the "Pellies," and now my sister is a well woman.

We thank you for your medicine.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 10¢ one-cent stamps to pay expense of postage and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

and sometimes those who were merely suspected of the crime, were summarily dealt with there.

He had been sitting for a long time when suddenly a woman's voice broke a deathlike stillness, and he raised his head to listen.

"Oh, Bob," she cried, "I have just had the greatest experience. It would have been perfectly lovely under other circumstances."

It must have been lovely anyway, judging by your appearance. You look as though you had been wallowing in a pond."

"I have. Not wallowing, exactly, but I fell in and the handsomest, sweetest young man came along and pulled me out. Oh, dear! I wish I could know him."

"Would you know the man, sister, if you were to see him again?"

"Of course. But I shall never see him. More the pity."

"Did he have a horse?"

"Not then. But I saw a man give him one, or sell it to him, or something, directly after he left me. But why do you ask that?"

Robert Meade, the owner of the ranch, took his sister to Martin, and, of course, also recognized him at a glance. Then Meade understood the whole situation. The horse thief, finding himself too hard pressed by the cowboys, put Martin in possession of the horse to throw the suspicion on him.

Martin not only established his innocence and regained his liberty, but he became a guest at the ranch and finally bought an interest in the business and stopped permanently.

He never forgot his experience of that day, but he never regretted it, either, for otherwise he would likely never have won Susan for his wife.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their march.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and robs marching of the foot-sore, which is its inevitable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R.C.R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Scott and Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed) T. Buckart.

WARSA SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

The second of a series was well attended and proved an unequalled success.

The second of the series of Sunday school rallies took place on Tuesday afternoon and evening at Warsaw, when a large number representing the various schools throughout Dummer townships assembled, and was an unequalled success.

The chair was taken by Mr. Nathan Payne, president, and with him were the Messrs. Fucose and Hyde. After devotional exercises the election of officers took place, when the Rev. H. Hyde was elected President and Mr. S. N. Payne Secretary-Treasurer.

Very interesting reports were presented from the different schools in the Association, and revealed a healthy and prosperous work. A desire was expressed that the schools not reported might be brought into fellowship.

Mr. Thos. Yellowlees, Associate Secretary of the Ontario Sabbath School Association, conducted the round table conference, which proved intensely interesting, and elicited from otherwise a quiet people enthusiastic responses and commendations. Miss White, primary teacher in Lakefield, then read an interesting paper on Primary Work. Miss White's paper was most thoughtful and timely, and merited the hearty applause of the convention.

After the presentation of the work of the Ontario Association for the financial sympathy of the people by the Rev. J. G. Potter, Mr. Yellowlees gave what proved to be a most unique and profitable address to a mass meeting of children on "Ship's Signals." It was listened to with rapid attention. The address was interspersed with appropriate songs, sung by Mr. Yellowlees, which, being well known, made the "talk" all the more effective.

Notwithstanding the very threatening weather, a very large congregation assembled at night. Mr. Yellowlees gave a highly practical address on "Hypnotism," 1. in the parents; 2. in the teachers. The lessons will not soon be forgotten with a suitable address on "The Model House," and made special reference to the great need of Bible reading and study with the children. The Rev. Dr. Symonds, with usual pleasing style, treated the audience to a most profitable spiritual and intellectual treat on "The Importance and Place of Normal Work."

In closing, the Rev. Mr. Fucose moved a cordial vote of thanks to all who had contributed in making this convention the best he had ever attended in his ministry. The Dummer township people have also made a big stride in their financial sympathy and will doubtless have been contributed in former years. May this be so all along the line.

G. T. R. PROGRESSIVENESS.

Working in conjunction with Ontario Government, Respecting Ontario Lakes.

Owing to the thousands of tourists and anglers who each year make the lakes in Northern Ontario their summer headquarters, the fish in several of the lakes have suffered to some extent; and to obviate any depletion or extermination the Ontario Government in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway, has formulated a scheme for restocking many of the waters in the Highlands of Ontario, not by depositing eggs, fry or fingerlings, but by transplanting the parent fish early in the spring, in time to take advantage of their capture to the different lakes which are being stocked.

Heretofore the stocking of lakes has been hampered for the want of a proper means for the transportation of fish. Young fish, fry and fingerlings, were carried by messengers in baggage cars on regular passenger trains. This method was impracticable, as the Grand Trunk recognized the fact that a fish car would have to be put in service to transport fish in large numbers. A car was therefore constructed specially adapted for the distribution of the fish, the requirements of such a car being compartments for carrying fish in which an even temperature could be maintained, proper circulation of water and air, the lake fish, the fish and sleeping and living accommodations for the attendants. The interior of the car is arranged with the fish in wooden tanks to hold from 1,000 to 1,500 fish, and of the car is a Pullman car, and like those in a Pullman car, to accommodate two men. The fee for the use of the car is a certain temperature is carried in two compartments built for this purpose and holding about one ton each. Arrangements have been made for replenishing the fish from the Grand Trunk. The same will be done by attaching a hose, provided with a coupling, to any of the hydrants at stations on the Grand Trunk.

The Ontario Government has already contracted for 10,000 parent bass. The first shipment has been planted in the waters known as the "Lake of Ilaya," situated in Northern Ontario, about 145 miles from Toronto. The fish now being transplanted are what are known as the small mouthed bass, one of the gamiest species of the finny kingdom, and very popular with anglers. The fish have been caught at St. Williams on Lake Erie. Those which have been captured and transplanted are considered by experts as an exceptionally fine lot of fish, not out of all that were loaded on a first shipment being less than a foot in length and many weighing three to four pounds. Another car load has been forwarded to the Muskoka Lakes, and the fish have been deposited in Lake Rosseau. This work will be continued until the lakes in the northern districts are thoroughly stocked.

The other lakes which will be restocked are Lake Joseph, Muskoka, Couchiching, Simcoe, and the Kawartha lakes. Though the fishing in all these waters has been good in the past, the lover of the rod and the amateur angler, will be assured now of unlimited sport in any of these districts.

BELEMONT CALAMITY TWO BURNED TO DEATH

Full Particulars of the Holocaust at Oak Lake in Methuen Township.

HOW A MAN AND BOY PERISHED BY FIRE.

Mrs. Post Tells the Story of the Horrible Affair--She is Badly Burned and may not Recover.

Full particulars of the horrible death by fire on Saturday last of two residents of Belmont, are at hand, a brief notice of which have already appeared in The Times.

Oak Lake Settlement is 16 miles north of Havelock. The house which was burned was a two-story building of heavy logs and frame kitchen, situated nearly half a mile from the residence of Mr. Robert McCutcheon, the nearest neighbor.

The family consisted of four persons, viz., Mrs. Richard Post, a woman of 78 years, her son, Mr. Jas. Post, an unmarried man of 62 years, her grandson, Sherwood Jerow, a young man of 22 years, and another grandson, Herbert Kelsh, aged 12 years, son of Mr. Wesley Kelsh, of the Oak Lake settlement. Sherwood Jerow went to Havelock in the morning, and the other three members of the family retired at night at the usual hour, when everything seemed safe about the premises.

About 11 o'clock, according to the Campbellford Herald, Mrs. Post was awakened from her sleep by a noise in the kitchen which she supposed was made by her grandson entering the house. She rose from her bed, and on opening the door which led to the kitchen, was terrified at the sight of the place in flames, and a great volume of fire and smoke burst into the sitting room which was two bedrooms, one occupied by herself and the little boy Kelsh, and the other by her son James.

According to her account of the terrible affair, which was told while she was in a frightened and dazed condition from excitement and the burns from which she was suffering, she called to her son as soon as she discovered the fire, and heard him reply. She rushed out of the house by a door in the sitting room, and going to the north side of the house, she smashed in the window of her bedroom, and threw water into it from two barrels of water which stood near the outside entrance to the kitchen, in a vain endeavor to save the little boy. While doing so she was badly burned in the face, on the back of her head, and on her hip, arm and leg, and in this condition, clad only in a night-dress which

THE TIME'S PHILOSOPHER TALKS

A Few Words on the Way Our Lives are Wasted--Other Matters and Things.

Such were the sentiments of the Times philosopher when asked to deliver "Darling, I Am Growing Old," at the band concert to-night with Billy Lusk has such accompaniment.

It is curious to observe how some people regard the action of the Council in granting $5000 to the Physio-Prevention on Victoria Day, and (which has been postponed to Dominion Day). One man will tell you it is a crime to waste the People's God Money in such a manner, while another will tell you the opposite view, and favor a Big Blow Out. As for me, I am quite content to make the amount $1000 instead of $5000. There is just so much to spend, and if the Boodle does not go in this way, it will probably be wasted on the streets, which is after all the great sink hole for our taxes. What is the use in kicking over a small mound like this when money is being squandered and wasted in thousands on our roads? For instance, look at the granolithic pavement at the old post office corner, that had to be covered with a board walk, which will cost, it is said, $700 to rebuild; and look at Murray Street, where at least $2000 was wasted. Better far better spend the money in Ritz Living than in wilful waste.

I met a young man the other day--he was full of self-assurance as an anarchist, and he was telling me what he thought the government should do in regard to several things. He had not long been out of knee pants, but he imagined he was a philosopher with all the degrees obtainable. I looked at him and watched him--and said to myself, as the preacher had said before me--verily, all is vanity.

The Kid some day will grow to be a man--and while he is a queer-corned card to-day, he will be round-corned to-morrow--he will land up against the Real Thing many times between now and then--but the Self-Assurance which he possesses will help him over many a slippery place. And so it is in life--all the way up and down the rugged steep--a man wants his Nervous System with him, and he wants first and worst of all to believe in himself.

Take an old Owl and let him get up in a tree and he'll hoot and hoot and hoot, and in his soul, if owls in their wisdom have souls and I guess they do, he will imagine that he is singing. The Mocking Bird and Bob-o-link may pipe their carols in his massive ear, but

SUNDAY DRINKING.

Stop Should be Put to Sunday Liquor Sell.

Complaints have reached The Times of the open way in which one or two of the leading hotel men persistently violate the law by selling liquor on Sunday. There is a difference between giving liquor to boarders, or a personal acquaintance, no matter who they may be, so long as they have the price. The former possibly never would be noticed, but the latter is too flagrant to be overlooked even by our local license inspectors, and our not over-worked police force.

The Times interviewed a couple of hotel men yesterday in regard to closing on Sunday. They both admitted that they sold liquor on Sunday, but they said that as long as a certain law kept practically wide open, they were in a way forced to sell. They would cheerfully be a party to agree to enforce the law, and, on other places the hotel men have united in order to enforce the law against Sunday selling. On Friday night the liquor license holders of Colborne met and organized an association for the purpose of mutual benefit and protection. Mr. Albert Wood, senior member in the business, was elected president and Mr. Bruce O'Brien secretary.

Each of the ten fellow-troopers signed by all the members by which they bind themselves under a penalty of $100 payable to the association not to violate the Liquor License Law.

Something of this kind might work in Peterborough. It is probably the only way that relief can be obtained.

INFANTS' BODIES ARE FOUND IN A CELLAR

Thirty-One Corpses Discovered Beneath Undertakers Shop.

London, May 30.—A sensation has been caused at Birmingham, by the discovery of thirty-one bodies of infants in a cellar beneath an undertaker's establishment. The bodies were in various stages of decomposition, and buddled together in soap boxes. The establishment was conducted by a widow, who today was charged with causing the infants' deaths. The prisoner was remanded.

WILL RUN PROTESTANT AND FRENCH CATHOLIC

Ottawa, May 30.—There is some talk in Conservative circles in Ottawa that at the next provincial elections the Conservatives will run a Protestant and a French Catholic Conservative, the latter to replace the Irish Catholic Conservatives claim that they give the party more support than do the Irish, and therefore they are entitled to a representative in the Local Legislature. There is an agreement by which a Protestant and a French Catholic run for the House of Commons, and a Protestant and an Irish Catholic run for the Local Legislature. This may be changed next year. It is taken as an indication of the growing strength of the French-Canadians.

THE VICTORIA CROSS TO A CANADIAN

The First of the Insignia Presented by King Edward

WORN BY SEGT. RICHARDSON

Particulars of the Presentation which was made by the King in Person.

Thrilling Account of Richardson's Brave Act--Sergeant Richardson Speaks of His Forwardness.

Cross to be presented to a member of the British Imperial Army, by His Majesty the King, is at present in this city. It is worn by Sgt. Richardson, of the Strathcona Horse, who reached Montreal yesterday after an eventful transatlantic voyage, at the end of which he and his fellow passengers were detained at Grosale by the Dominion Health authorities, for a period of three weeks, owing to an outbreak of small-pox on board the steamer.

Sgt. Richardson is staying at the Queen's Hotel, and will leave for his home in the Canadian Northwest to-day. He accompanied the Strathcona Horse to England, on its return from South Africa, but was prevented from continuing the journey to Canada with the rest of the regiment, by the express command of the King, who wanted to present the Cross in person to the gallant trooper.

THE PRESENTATION.

The presentation took place at St. James Palace, London, about eight weeks ago, and was the first ceremony of its kind that had occurred since the King's accession. His Majesty was accompanied on the occasion by a brilliant staff, including Lord Roberts, V. C., Commander-in-Chief of the British army, a number of officers who had taken prominent parts in the war. The occasion was also graced by the presence of Her Majesty, the Queen, Lady Roberts, Lord Strathcona, and certain of the ladies connected with the Royal family.

In presenting the cross to Sgt. Richardson, the King laid especial emphasis on the good work done in South Africa by all the sections of his army from over the seas, and especially in the Strathcona Horse. He congratulated Sgt. Richardson on his success in winning a much coveted distinction as the cross and praised his heroism.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Lord Roberts offered Sgt. Richardson a commission in the Imperial army, but the latter declined the honour, as he preferred returning home.

HIS DEED OF BRAVERY.

In a conversation with a Star reporter yesterday afternoon, Sgt. Richardson gave a brief and unwilling description of the deed for which the cross was given. The incident, he said, happened at Wolverson on the 15th of July last year. On that occasion he was engaged with his regiment in an attack on the Boers, who were then occupying an ambushed position. When they opened fire at close range, the order was given to retire, but Sgt. Richardson wished to unload his magazine before complying with the order, and continued to pepper away. When the magazine was empty he turned to reload, but the Boers, who were making for a kopje in the distance, on rising from the ground he noticed a fellow-trooper named MacArthur lying on the ground near by, and on going over to him found that he had been wounded in the shoulder and hip, and that his injuries were such as to make it impossible for him to move. Although the fire from the Boer ambush was pretty hot and deadly at the time, Sgt. Richardson picked the injured man up and carried him across the fire zone to a place of safety.

WITNESSED BY COL. BIGGAR.

Meanwhile his troop had reached the kopje, from which position his action was witnessed by Col. Biggar, of the Imperial army, who at once reported the incident to Lord Roberts, with a recommendation that he be awarded the Victoria Cross.

Sgt. Richardson is justly proud of the Cross, although he is modest in speaking about the manner in which it was won. "Hundreds of Crosses," he said, "have been won in South Africa, and I am not the only one who has won it. I could not, however, cause the incidents have escaped the notice of the officers. Through pure luck, I suppose somebody noticed me, kept his eye on me as I carried MacArthur across the field, and then used his efforts to obtain for me the Cross. But I can assure you, anybody placed in the position I was in at that time, would have done the same thing. It was simply a duty that I felt had to be performed regardless of cost. There have been many incidents during the war, and my action was nothing out of the ordinary. Any Tommy would have gone to the rescue of MacArthur."

THE COWARDLY BOERS.

Sgt. Richardson, in speaking of the Boers, said they were downright cowards as a rule, and could easily have captured him on the occasion referred to if they had been a little braver. The interview with Sgt. Richardson brought out the interesting fact that a special permission of the King, Lady Roberts across the field, and then used his efforts to obtain for me the Cross. But I can assure you, anybody placed in the position I was in at that time, would have done the same thing. It was simply a duty that I felt had to be performed regardless of cost. There have been many incidents during the war, and my action was nothing out of the ordinary. Any Tommy would have gone to the rescue of MacArthur."

THAT GREAT SHOOT.

All the preliminaries for the Anglo-American match are satisfactorily settled, says the Field. "The match will be shot by teams of ten shooters, representing each country, and will commence in the second week in June on the grounds of the Middlesex Gun Club. Five test matches will be shot on five succeeding days, and each team will shoot at 100 birds per man each day. The aggregate score of the three best days of each team will determine the winner. The stake of £1000 a side. The conditions of shooting adopted by the two teams will be those used respectively in the two countries. The British team will use both barrels, carrying a maximum of one and one-half ounces of shot, while the Americans will be confined to the use of one barrel, with a maximum charge of one and one-fourth ounces of shot. The relative efficiency of these two methods of shooting is much canvassed by those discussing the prospects of the British team, but the advantage, if any, is apparent with the home team. The American scoring is, as a rule, good, but frequent use is made of the second barrel."

GOLF.

Owing to the inclement weather yesterday the Golf Club tea will be held to-day, weather permitting.

The weather having prevented the first round in the ladies' draw being completed by the appointed time, an extension until Saturday will be allowed to complete the round.

IF KING EDWARD VII. HAD LOST HIS LIFE.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, writing in The Weekly Sun, says:

The curious in constitutional problems have been asking what would have happened if the man of Sharnock Hill had fallen upon Edward VII. his heir being absent in Australia. At the death of Henry III, his heir, Edward I, was absent in the Holy Land, and put the Great Seal into the hands of the Archbishop of York as the first Lord of the Council, the Archbishop of Canterbury, being vacant, who, assisted by a Baron and a Royal Clerk, acted as Regent (ill the King came home). The arrangement was confirmed, and the oath of allegiance to the new King was taken by an assembly of prelates, barons, knights from each shire, and burgesses from each city. But in the time of Edward I, there was no Act of Succession. He came to the throne not by act of Parliament but by hereditary right, and election. No inaugural oath had to be taken. Could the oath have been administered in Australia? Suppose the King had been crowned in Australia? Could the royal power have been exercised by a regency in the King's name? These, happily, are speculative questions, but their occurrence reminds us that the dynasty is Parliamentary, and does not reign by divine right.

CREMATED WHILE THEY SLEPT.

Mother, Daughter, and Grandson Met Death in Burning Home.

Watkins, Ill., May 30.—Mrs. Mary Herberger, a widow; Mrs. Bert Magge, her daughter, and a six year-old son of the latter woman were cremated in the burning of Mrs. Herberger's farmhouse, five miles northeast of here, this morning. Mrs. Herberger and her little grandchild slept upstairs, and Bert Magge, her wife and daughter downstairs.

The Magges were awakened early this morning by smoke and heat, and rushed out of the house, Magge carrying his sleeping daughter to a place of safety. Mrs. Magge, hearing her son crying, returned to the house and attempted to go upstairs. Reaching the inner hall, it is supposed she was overcome by the heat. Magge heard cries of distress and started for the house. He was crossing the lawn when the roof fell, the flames bursting from the door his wife had entered a moment before.

TWENTY-ONE MEN KILLED IN A PIT

Explosion at Dayton Colliery Blew a Score of Men Into Fragments and Bury Others.

MOST OF THE VICTIMS ARE MEN OF FAMILIES

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 30.—A later special from Dayton, Tenn., says that the mine explosion at the Richmond mine resulted in the death of 21 men, all families.

The explosion was caused by what is known among miners as a "blown blast." The Richmond mine is destitute of water and hence great volumes of fine particles of fine coal dust accumulate at the roof of the mine, forming a highly inflammable gas.

A dynamite cartridge was placed in position in one of the rooms for a blast. The miners had just started for the mouth of the mine. The blast did not explode as intended, but instead a long flame shot out of the blast hole and ignited the accumulation of dust.

Instantly a terrific explosion occurred, and a seething mass of flame shot to the mouth of the mine and extended 300 feet into the open air, scorching the leaves of the nearby trees.

There were 34 men in the mine at the time. Four of these escaped with slight injuries, twenty-one were killed and 9 were terribly burned.

AN EARLIER ACCOUNT.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 30.—A special from Dayton says that an explosion of mine dust occurred in the new Richmond coal mine of the Dayton Coal and Iron company at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and that the dead bodies of 12 white miners have already been taken out of the outer drift and that five more are known to be dead.

It is stated that 15 men, all white, were at work in the mine and it is feared all have perished. Relief gangs are at work, but on account of the immense amount of debris in the shaft, the work has been slow and cautious.

The mine is a new one, and extends about 2000 feet. The explosion is thought to have been caused by an open lamp carried by one of the miners. The mine is a rock and several pieces from Dayton and details are difficult to obtain.

An explosion similar to this occurred at the old Richmond mine of the same company by which 25 miners lost their lives.

BOERS MASSING IN CAPE COLONY

Commandant Krutzinger Meditates Attack Upon Bailey.

TROOPS ON GUARD AT NIGHT.

Queenstown, Cape Colony, May 29.—Wednesday.—The Boers are massing under Commandant Krutzinger to the northward of Bailey. There is much apprehension, and the town guard remains all night in the trenches. Passenger traffic to the north is suspended and freight is proceeding under an armed escort. The banks close at noon. Bailey is about twenty miles north of Queenstown on the line from Port Elizabeth to the Orange River. It is about forty miles south of Stormberg, in the district which General Gatacre held.

THEIR LAST HAZARD.

London, May 30.—A despatch to The Times from Cradock, dated May 28, reports under reserve that General De la Rey crossed the Mafeking line west of Kimberley, moving south. It hints that there is a likelihood that he and General De Wet have decided upon a winter campaign in the Midland districts of the Cape Colony, and adds that if it is so the movement should prove the last throw on the boche.

KNOX'S TRAIN DERAILED.

A despatch from Kronsstad says the Boers derailed an armored train on which Gen. William Knox was traveling. The front truck was blown up with dynamite, and the Boers fired a volley into the cars. A British relief column, with a Maxim gun, arrived, and the Boers dispersed.

RHODES FOR PREMIER.

Certain South African newspapers, taking their cue from Cecil Rhodes' journal, printed at Kimberley, are urging the appointment of Mr. Rhodes as Premier of Cape Colony in place of Sir Gordon Sprigg.

HEAVY CASUALTIES.

An unusually heavy list of casualties in South Africa was issued this evening. It refers to a number of engagements hitherto unreported. There was fighting on May 22, 23, 24 and 25 between Standerton and Bethel, the British losing an officer and five men killed and 24 men wounded. Other fights on a small scale are reported, but they extend over a wide area in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony.

KRUGER'S LATEST STEP.

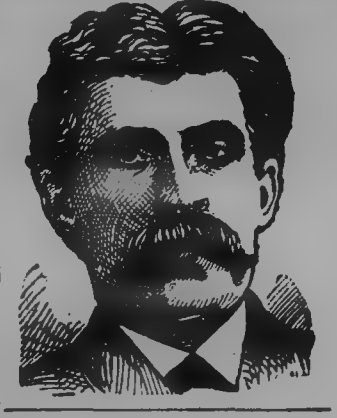

A despatch to the Standard from Brussels says that Mr. Kruger has formally petitioned the International Arbitration Court to intervene to settle the South African question. The court will shortly be convened, but will certainly proclaim that it is incompetent to deal with the matter.

THINKS THAT HE IS JOHN II.

Brooklyn Lawyer Who Claims to be England's Rightful Sovereign

Says He Can Prove His Claims are Beyond Dispute, and Means to do so.

New York, May 31.—Prom out the quiet slumber of Brooklyn there wakes a man who swears that by all the right of heredity he is John II. King of England. He is John Pope Hodnett, a lawyer, residing at No. 4 Willow street and with offices in the Real Estate Exchange Montague street. He says he is the direct descendant of the House of York and Lancaster, and therefore the rightful and historical heir to the throne. In ten large volumes entitled the "Antiquities of Rhopshire, England," a work which Queen Victoria helped with her own pocket to establish, the Hodnetts and Oudnets are mentioned in many places. There is even a "Hodnett Hall" in England. Hodnett says he is going to deliver an oration before the Chamber of Commerce, asking the aid of that body in the establishment of his rights.

He is a man of superior learning and intelligence, and says he has unbounded proof to substantiate his right to the throne.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Potato seed," says an agricultural exchange, "has become an almost unheard of curiosity. Yet fifty or sixty years ago potato fields were white and purple with blossoms in July, and in August the vines were heavy with bair full of seeds, like bunches of currants or grapes. By planting these seeds season after season, new varieties of potatoes were produced; and it was the design of nature that by such plantings the potato should be propagated and preserved. This has not been done, and hence the potato has become sickly, worn out, and its extinction is threatened. Every farmer who can find seeds in his potato fields next fall should preserve and plant them, for by this means he may secure a vigorous and healthy potato at small cost."

"Plant a castor oil bean in every yard and about every building in New Jersey," says Consul Plumacher, of Maracibo. He says he knows from personal experience that where the castor oil bean grows no mosquito or other blood-sucking insect will abide, and he has sent this recipe for destroying the mosquito to Jerseyites. Another Consul, at Frankfurt, Germany, declares that a sovereign remedy for mosquito bites is naphthalene. It is said to completely and at once neutralize the poison from mosquito bites.

A DANGEROUS DISCOVERY.

It all came about because I was too inquisitive—and too honest. I was employed in the counting-room of Lemuel Ripley, the wealthy broker. A very successful man was Lemuel Ripley. His signature was good for fabulous sums and the "street" shook when he went in to influence the market. He used his wealth well and was a shining pillar of the church, while every appeal for purposes of charity or civic reform found his ears open and his check-book at hand.

I had been in his employ for some five years and had acquired a very responsible position, when one day I ran against a most peculiar thing in the books. Of itself it was not of great significance, but it suggested that the books had been tampered with. The discovery frightened me, as I had had charge of the books, and I resolved to investigate. The further I delved the more puzzling the matter became, and the amount involved rose to figures which made me gasp.

I found that customers of the house had been cheated out of hundreds of thousands of dollars, but try as I would I could not see how anybody had profited by it. I decided to take it to Mr. Ripley.

"Ah, yes, you have discovered that series of errors, have you?" he responded bluntly. "They gave me the most serious annoyance and I spent many nights over the books straightening the affair out. You are vigilant, Charles. I am more than pleased that you found this matter because it gives me confidence that I can depend on you. Have you discussed the matter with any of the other clerks?"

I hastened to tell him that I had spoken of the matter to no living being.

"Quite right, quite right," he replied. "It has all been straightened out, but it would be unwise to have it talked about. By the way, Charles, I have been watching your work with a great deal of interest and I have come to the conclusion that you are worth more to the house than I am paying you. Hereafter you will draw $100 a month more than you have been getting."

Oh, too that I was not to see the whole thing then when he nearly doubled my salary. If I had known anything about the world I should have seen through the scheme. Instead I leaped to my feet with extravagant exclamations of gratitude.

I thought of one entry in the books which had so puzzled me and I went to the office after dinner that night to make one more trial to clear up the mystery. Sure enough the entry did give me a clue and following it up I received a shock that nearly took away my senses. There was the evidence in black and white that Ripley himself had tampered with the books and had literally robbed his customers of great fortunes. While sitting stupefied at the discovery a key turned in the door and in walked Mr. Ripley. Glancing at the open books he saw what I had found.

"Still at work, Charles? I desire to use the books tonight. You need not wait. I will see that they are put away."

All the next day I thought it over as I tumbled through my work. Ripley called me into his office and asked me a lot of questions about the errors in the presence of other employees. There were discussions going on in his private room. In the afternoon a deputy sheriff appeared and to my surprise said that I was wanted at the courthouse.

What was my horror when I found I was called before the court to have my sanity inquired into! Ripley was there, as was his manager and several employees of the house. Ripley went on the stand and testified that I was unquestionably insane.

I saw through the whole affair in a minute. I was to be buried alive in a madhouse. All the clerks followed Ripley's lead and each spoke of my peculiar delusion to the effect that Mr. Ripley's books had been tampered with. In despair and anger I told the story of Ripley's guilt. In a moment I saw my fatal mistake. The face of the judge showed that he was convinced that I was mad. How could he think otherwise when it is considered

Look Ahead, Girls.

If young girls would look ahead it would sometimes save them from serious collision with the men they marry. It is here that ignorance is almost a crime. The young husband cannot understand it when the wife changes to a peevish, nervous, querulous woman. And the young wife does not understand it herself. She only knows that she is very miserable.

If ever there is a time when nature needs help it is when the young girl is adjusting herself to the new conditions of wifehood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It promotes regularity, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All women's confidences are guarded with strict professional privacy. Write without fear or fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I will drop you a few lines today to let you know that I am feeling well now," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belleville, Wood Co., West Va. "I feel like a new woman. I took several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have no headache now, no backache, and no pain in my side any more. No bearing-down pain any more. I think your medicine like Dr. Pierce's medicine. I thank you very much for what you have done for me—your medicine has done me so much good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times—Sir—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. As a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering indigestion and stomach troubles. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a lively, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. Jones, Lockport, N.Y. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

ATTACK OF ROYAL CANADIAN

The present is a time when war pictures are in vogue. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been the recipients of a great deal of attention. A picture of a mounted soldier on a horse, with a rifle, is a common sight. A picture of a mounted soldier on a horse, with a rifle, is a common sight. It is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that lead so high when the cheering throngs of the world greet them, are here in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are a body of men who are not only brave and loyal, but also are men of high character and high ability. They are men who are not only brave and loyal, but also are men of high character and high ability.

These supplies, as well as 10 tons of hay, 300 bushels of oats, and 25 bushels of corn for the horses, have to be secured daily in the city where the show is exhibiting.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John A. Cameron took place yesterday, and was largely attended. The service was held at the family residence, Stewart Street, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Rev. Mr. Yule. The remains were surrounded by banks of floral offerings. Among those who were beautiful designs from the Thistle Curling Club, Messrs. Perkins, Lee & Co., Toronto, Ontario Lodge, I.O.O.F., and from many personal friends.

The pall bearers were Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, Robert Fair, W. H. McDermott, James Edgumbe, Robert Innis and Alex Gibson.

The remains were conveyed to the Little Lake Cemetery, followed by a large number of truly sorrowing friends.

Another Packing Company.

A meeting was held in Hastings to organize a company to build a pork packing factory in that village. The scheme is, we understand, being promoted by one or two parties who have been in the drying business, and who are hardly aware of the difficulties to be overcome or of the financial strength required to carry on a successful pork packing business.

The meeting was not unanimous in the matter, and an adjournment was made after some discussion.

Stock books will be opened, and those who have faith in the scheme will be asked to invest.

Valuable Advice to Rheumatics.

Get most sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on as simple as possible, and most powerful, lever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle today, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerve-line always cures rheumatism.

THE SERPENT MOUND

Report That the Historic Spot is Being Ploughed Up.

The Toronto Star says: The Minister of Education is in receipt of a letter from Miss Maud Miller Wilcox, secretary of the Peterboro' Historical Society. The communication directed Mr. Harcourt's attention to a rumor that the serpent mound on the Otonabee River is being ploughed up. Mr. David Boyle, curator of the Ontario Archaeological Museum, will make an effort to have the earthwork preserved. It is 250 feet long and the only one of its kind in Canada. In regard to the above, Prof. Boyle and County Engineer Hecher drove down yesterday and inspected the mounds, which they found to have been considerably disfigured. It is understood the government will try to purchase the property.

What Catarrhosis is and is not.

Catarrhosis is not a wash. You cannot force liquids into the lungs. It is not an ailment to be snuffed up the nostrils. Ointments are useless and disgusting. But it is a germ that is blown up the nostrils and still further irritates the already congested and irritated membrane. It is simply a bacterial and healing substance brought into the lungs and throat. Cures of course. That is nature's way of curing, and nature's way is the only true way. If you suffer from disease of the throat, lungs, nasal passages, do not neglect to test Catarrhosis. Two sizes at all druggists, 25c and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure Catarrhosis, Bronchitis and Hay Fever, or your money back.

Out of the show

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace your weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lusterless eyes, by the roses bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferruzone, you will make rich blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferruzone. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

ATISLEY.

—It has rained more or less every day for the past few weeks, so that the swamps and marshes are as full as in spring.

—The Atisley cheese factory, under the management of Mr. Patterson, is doing a rushing business, turning out over 1,000 pounds weekly.

—Beats seem to be numerous in this district. Mr. W. H. Hales got one last week, and Mr. Ben Windsor another.

—The Hand of Hope had a very successful meeting last Monday evening, over 100 being present, who enjoyed the capital programme presented.

—The Court of Revision of the Burleigh and Amherstburg roll will be held in the Town Hall next Monday.

—As there are a large number of appeals filed, a lively time may be expected.

—Mr. Chas. V. Bell, of Lakefield, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents in Atisley, and on Sunday the Dr. and he paid a visit to Jack Lake, and were the guests of Mr. E. Wigg.

—Mr. Green, the Peterborough pump man, was in the village Wednesday on business, as also was Mr. John Stewart, Lakefield, the popular agent of the Singer Sewing Machine Co.

—There was a macaroni out at Jack's Lake last week, well known gentleman, who resides there most of his time, was paddling down the lake, when he spotted a large bear coming down to a point running into the lake. Paddling quickly he gained the point, and there sat "Ephraim" scratching himself and fighting the clouds of "skitters" and flies which boomed him. "Ned" was so ticked with beetle's maneuvers that he forgot to hold his gun, until, with a sudden jump, the game disappeared behind a clump of small alders and was seen no more, while the man in the canoe gave vent to some queer words, which are untranslatable.

—One of our young ministers delivered a strong temperance sermon last Sunday and among other points remarked that he had been informed that liquor was sold freely in Atisley, notwithstanding there is no license held here. That is where your correspondent thinks he made a mistake, as next morning an unusual number of rigs and people were to be noticed in the village, and on every hand was to be heard the whispering enquiry: "Where is the house sold?" "Where can I get a drop of the creature the parson advertised?" It is needless to say all went home dry, as any that comes to the village has been sent for private parties for their own use or to treat their friends.

EUROPEAN MONEY IN UNITED STATES

No International Balance in the American Treasury.

TROLLEY RUNS A MILE A MINUTE

New York, May 30.—From recent admission of extensive banking interests in this city it appears that the mission of extensive banking interest in the United States has a large international trade balance is entirely without foundation in fact. The United States, through recent operations of the foreign securities markets, is borrowing from Europe, though of course the debt will be liquidated as the season advances by the shipment of cotton and grain abroad. Since April first many of New York's largest banking institutions have drawn and are still drawing large numbers of sixty and ninety-day bills of exchange on their European connections. These bills are not usually drawn until some time in May, and an actual cash balance existed abroad the bills would be demanded and not loan bills of exchange. In determining the balance in favor of the United States, failure to take into account the large sums expended by rich Americans residing in Europe, and by Americans travelling abroad, is largely responsible for the prevalence of this erroneous idea. There are numbers of rich Americans living in London, Paris, Italy, and Germany, whose income is estimated that at least $100,000,000 is spent yearly on the Continent by Americans whose homes are on this side. In addition to this, allowance should be made for the payment of sums due on account of insurance and freight on large proportion of our export trade. Moreover, foreign holders of our dividend and interest-paying securities have disposed of them along with many non-dividend paying securities, such as Erie and Reading shares, on account of the advance in prices on the American market. Hence, if actual figures could be obtained, it could be easily demonstrated that the so-called international credit balance is, as a matter of fact, no balance at all.

RAID TROLLEY RATE.

Within thirty days work will begin on a third-rail trolley line that promises to transport passengers from City Hall to the Connecticut line in seventy minutes, or at the rate of about sixty miles an hour after the Harlem River is crossed. Though the road has been contemplated for fully two years, a certain amount of mystery surrounds the new corporation, which is known as the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company, and which has a nominal capitalization of only $250,000. The value of such a road is obvious. Connecticut is a perfect network of electric railways, and with them as feeders the new line will run through the most populous suburban districts of New York. From Port Chester to Willis avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-second street is only about twenty-five miles, and with four lines of track passing above or below all grade crossings, electric trains will make the trip in twenty-five minutes. Close connection will be made with the Third Avenue elevated at One Hundred and Thirty-second street, which will cut the time from the Connecticut line to the City Hall to less than seventy minutes. There will also be a feeder known as the Clapton Point branch, which will leave the main line at the junction of Westchester avenue and Bronx, running along East River to Clapton Point. Men of great capital and railroad experience are behind the enterprise, and the claim is made that the road will be constructed, equipped and in operation by January 1, 1903.

CONTROL OF UNION PACIFIC.

To all but the principals themselves the control of the Union Pacific is still enveloped in mystery. Though assured on the highest authority that the $50,000,000 of collateral trust bonds issued in order to finance the four hundred thousand shares of Northern Pacific stock have been sold to a syndicate, the names of the persons composing the syndicate have been withheld and the street is still left in darkness with reference to what is really going on. It is intimated, however, that the parties involved are associated in interest with the purchase of the stock in question, though even this information does not signify a great deal. A few of the men favored, who claim to have inside information, state that in any event the Union Pacific, as a corporation, will not acquire control of the stock of its competitor, from which the inference is that the banking interests in possession of the four hundred thousand share interest in the Northern Pacific will not only these shares, but the Union Pacific collateral trust bonds as well. Whatever may be the outcome, the deal is worse than a Chinese puzzle as it stands.

The Great Kidney Specialist.

The Famous Physician Who Has Made Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases a Life Long Study.

DR. ZINA PITCHER.

For many years in the hospitals of Detroit and Professor of Genito Urinary diseases in Michigan College of Medicine, Dr. Zina Pitcher devoted his time to the scientific study of diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary System.

By this exclusive devotion to one branch of medical investigation Dr. Pitcher was enabled to perfect a treatment for Kidney troubles that far surpasses any other remedy.

After testing it extensively in private and hospital practice and demonstrating its incomparable superiority to all other forms of treatment, Dr. Pitcher decided to give this great boon to suffering humanity at large and not confine it exclusively to the circles of his private and hospital patients.

CARDINAL GIBBONS IN ROME

The Pope and the American Cardinal Have Long Talk.

It is Supposed that the Visit has Something to do with Cuba.

Rome, June 1.—Cardinal Gibbons, has arrived in this city and expects to remain here for a fortnight and will then return home by way of Paris and London.

London, June 1.—"The pope had a long consultation with Cardinal Gibbons," says the Rome correspondent of the Daily News, "regarding the position of Catholics in Cuba and the Philippines. According to authoritative information the pope sees the necessity of compelling the monastic orders to adapt themselves to the situation created by American occupation. Cardinal Gibbons made it clear to the pope that unless they give way the American government may expel them altogether."

"Reports received at the Vatican from the Philippines are much more serious than those received from Cuba. The monks of the Philippines are ac-used of all kinds of atrocities. It is reported that the spread of concubinage is due to their refusal to perform the marriage service without large remuneration."

The cardinal was received to-day in audience by the pope and he nominated Rt. Rev. Monsignor John J. Kennedy to be rector of the American college in Rome.

SIXTY FAMOUS AERIALISTS

Kingling Brothers' Remarkable Company of Famous Mid-Air Artists.

Sixty artists will be seen with "Shining Brothers' World's Greatest Show," when this famous big combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome exhibits in Peterborough, Friday, June 14th. This is not only the greatest array of aerial performers ever associated with an American circus, but it also embraces one of the forty best of aerialists now before the public. Every nation in the world has contributed to this remarkable congress of mid-air artists. Every famous circus of Europe is represented, and the most renowned performers of Egypt, Africa, China and Japan are represented in the grand ensemble. Among the headliners is the great Holloway Trio of high-wire gymnasts. On a single stand of wire, stretched across the dome of the big canvas amphitheatre, these clever artists perform the most astounding feats, dancing, vaulting, leaping and tumbling. The most difficult somersaults, and doing it in a manner that would provoke astonishment and admiration even if performed upon the ground. The Feeley Trio, whose marvelous performance in mid-air known as "La Eschelle," has been the talk of England and the continent during the past two or three seasons, is one of Kingling Brothers' many special importations, and is one of the distinct attractions of the year. Their act is different from anything hitherto seen in this country. It is a combination of the flying trapeze and the aerial bar, and is sensational and thrilling to an unusual degree. Another importation of surpassing interest is the Alpine Sisters, whose performances have delighted wondering audiences all over the civilized world. The performance given by the far famed French Family DuComa is superior to anything of its kind ever seen in this country. Swinging in mid-air, under the great canvas dome, they perform, apart, Arthur and those who their sister Panchon across the intervening space, catching her with outstretched hands, and repeating the daring performance until the audience is fairly thrilled. Then there is the famous aerial bar trio, Alvo, Bome and Picard, the famous Fisher Family of acrobats, Mile. Turnour, the most noted, graceful and daring aerialist, and the complete troupe of Japanese acrobats and high-wire bicyclists ever brought to the United States. Kingling Brothers' circus is, however, not limited in its style of entertainment. Every department of the great show is equally complete and comprehensive. There are, in addition to the great company of aerialists, sixty famous acrobats, thirty herculean bareback riders, forty fun-making clowns, and scores of other high-class specialists, while the trained animal features embrace thirty marvelously trained elephants, twenty of which appear in one ring at one time; O'Brien's magnificent sixty-one horse act, and many other trained animal surprises. Circus day will be inaugurated with a magnificent free street parade, which in length, massiveness and colossal splendor surpasses anything ever before attempted in the line of spectacular display. This show exhibits the only giraffe now known to exist anywhere on earth.

HEALERS ARE IN TROUBLE.

Chicago Followers of Dowie Cause Death in Binghamton, N.Y.

Binghamton, N.Y., May 30.—Two of the Dowie faith healers from Chicago, Mrs. Bigley Dunn and Mrs. Orville Burrows, endeavored to cure Mrs. Charles Ockerman of disease by telling her she was not sick and Mrs. Ockerman is dead. When Coroner Smith was called he found death had resulted from acute pneumonia and he holds the faith healers responsible. The neighbors are indignant and threaten violence. The faith healers claim it was not their fault, but the will of God. Mrs. Ockerman had been ill about a week.

TERRIFIC CRASH OF TROLLEY CARS

One Man Killed in a Street Car Accident Friday.

AND TWENTY-FIVE WERE INJURED

Wilmington, Del., May 31. Three heavily loaded trolley cars on the New People's Railway ran away while going down a steep hill early this morning, killing one man, fatally injuring another, and hurting 25 others more or less seriously. Joshua Gillman, who jumped from a window of the car in which he was riding, fell under the wheels and his body was cut in two. Elmer Jones, a conductor of one of the cars, stuck to his post and when the rear crashed into the one he was in charge of, his legs were broken, one arm was broken, and internal injuries inflicted. His death is momentarily expected. Two of the cars were closed and the other was an open one. Each carried nearly 100 passengers returning to the city from Brandywine Park. The line is a new one opened yesterday, and it is presumed the motorists were not familiar with the heavy grade.

FOUR VAN LOADS OF WOUNDED MEN

Results of Conflict Between Russian Troops and Strikers.

40 WERE KILLED, 150 WOUNDED.

London, May 31.—According to a despatch received from St. Petersburg to-day, it appears that the conflict at Alexanderovsk, in the vicinity of St. Petersburg, between the strikers at the Obuchoff Iron Works, and the authorities, May 20, when about 3,500 rioters attacked the police, had more serious results than were contained in the police report of the affair issued May 21. It was then said that after twelve of the police had been injured they were reinforced by soldiers, who fired three volleys, killing two men and wounding seven. The relatives of the strikers declare that forty of the men were killed, and that 150 others were wounded. A reliable witness says he saw four van loads of wounded persons covered with blood, and another spectator declares that he saw two tug loads of wounded taken to the hospital.

FIVE MEN HANGED FOR HORSE-STEALING

Sussexville, Cal., May 31. At Lookout, Mendocino County, Calvin Hall, his three sons and a young man living with Hall were arrested for horse-stealing. Last night the five men were taken from custody by a mob of about fifty persons and all were hanged. The District Attorney of Mendocino County is on the way to the scene of the lynching. Hall was a man of considerable intelligence. His wife was a squaw.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Plan for Extending the Area of Its Usefulness.

The Boarding Home to be Retained—Additional Quarters for Reading Room, Parlor, Gymnasium and Class Room—The Liberal Offer of Hon. Senator Cox.

This is an age of organized activity. Individual efforts and independent action do not meet the requirements which our complex civilization and changed social conditions demand. Associations and organizations to answer the condition which the interests concerned create are the rule. The function which the Young Women's Christian Association performs in the social and moral economy is so apparently beneficent and so indispensable that it is impossible to imagine a town of the importance of Peterborough without a branch of it. The Young Women's Christian Association, though of more recent organization, is equally indicated and equally indispensable. This has been shown by the work the Peterborough branch has done since its establishment here, about ten years ago, though the lack of funds has prevented the demonstration of the full measure of its usefulness. It is not surprising, therefore, that an organized and concerted effort is on foot in Peterborough to place the Young Women's Christian Association upon a standing which will, approximately, at least, realize the full extent of its usefulness, or place it in a position to give grounds for reasonable hope of a realization of this ambition.

The present Boarding Home on Brock street is admirably adapted for the purposes of the Association so far as it goes, but it falls considerably short of what is desirable.

It does not, owing to restricted room, afford general educational, social, moral or physical advantages, such as are provided in a properly and adequately equipped Association building. There are required a reading room, gymnasium and hall or parlour for social or musical entertainments and classrooms for the imparting of instruction in various simple branches of knowledge.

ADDITIONAL PREMISES OFFERED.

Through the timely liberality of Hon. Senator Cox, the premises recently occupied as the temporary offices of the Examiner, No. 411 George street, have been placed at the disposal of the authorities of the Y.W.C.A. free of rent. This condition holds good for one year, by the end of which time it is felt that more effective results from the work of the Association may enlist the sympathy and practical co-operation of those interested to a degree which will insure its being placed on a basis more financially independent of individual generosity.

This building will be a very desirable annex to the Boarding Home on Brock Street, which will continue to be maintained and conducted as at present or, rather, it is hoped, more advantageously, in connection with the new George street premises. These will afford on the ground floor a large reading room in front, with the rear half devoted to a well-equipped gymnasium. Upon the second story in space for a parlour for social intercourse or for more ambitious entertainments of a musical and literary character. Space will also be found here for classrooms for instruction in choral singing, plain sewing, and the elements of ordinary English instruction, and possibly cookery.

It is the intention of the management to employ a permanent secretary efficiently trained and experienced to give a more permanent and useful character to the work of the Association. This is, of course, largely contingent upon the liberality of the public providing the necessary funds. Funds will be required for this purpose and also for furnishing the rooms, which through the terms of Hon. Mr. Cox's generous offer, will be put in first class repair, will need furnishing in a way to give them a home-like and attractive appearance.

PUBLIC CO-OPERATION INVITED.

Those actively interested in the promotion of the Association's success will at once begin a canvass of the town, and it is hoped that a liberal response will be made to their solicitations. The cause is one that appeals to all who have an interest in the welfare, moral safety, comfort and general well-being of our girls. It is, perhaps not generally known that there are in this town a thousand women and girls who are dependent upon their efforts for a livelihood. It needs a few words to show how much those who are deprived of the comforts and shelter of a comfortable and virtuous home and the love and care of relatives or friends, stand in need of the friendship comfort and protection which a properly equipped and conducted Young Women's Christian Association can give. The work of the Association, which is to provide a home or rather home influence, advantages and comforts to homeless young women, is one that appeals strongly to every philanthropist or rather, to every expressive word, to every philologist. And it should appeal more strongly to those who have daughters or sisters.

GENERAL DELAREY DEFEATED IN A SEVERE ENGAGEMENT

British Losses Killed and Wounded Were 174.

A Very Desperate Fight

In Which Many Boers Were Killed and Wounded.

London, June 1. On the anniversary of Lord Roberts' entry into Johannesburg comes the news of severe fighting and heavy losses within forty miles of the Gold Reef City. The battle at Vindfontein on the Durban Johannesburg Railroad, reported by Lord Kitchener to-day, is the most serious engagement since General Clements' reverse at Magersburg. The garrison at Vindfontein, apparently composed of Yeomanry, had 174 men put out of action. Their assailants came to close quarters and suffered heavily as shown by the number of dead left on the field. The despatch from Lord Kitchener dated Pretoria May 30, is as follows: "General Dixon's force at Vindfontein was attacked yesterday by Delarey's forces and there was severe fighting. The enemy was eventually driven off with heavy loss, leaving 35 dead. I regret that our casualties also were severe. The killed and wounded numbered one hundred and seventy-four. Four officers were killed."

MILNER BITTERLY ATTACKED.

London, June 1. Frederick Milner, the British author and historian, expresses his feelings in a column letter to the newspapers this morning regarding Lord Milner's reception in London. After speaking of the insane folly and degrading policy of a "farm burning" in South Africa he continues:—

"From the first the nation has been hoodwinked by an elaborate fabric of calumny and falsehood. The accounts of a Boer conspiracy to drive us out of Africa were merely promoters' tales, payable in gold."

"The myth that the war was inevitable was only true in the sense that the crucifixion was inevitable. These war promoters rigged the political market and gave commissions to the leading politicians. They hired the

WAS LEFT FOR DEAD.

Now comes the strange part of our story. This same John Bergin, whose grave is even now strewn with the lovely flowers of May, lives and is happy on a little farm about three miles out of Ravensburg. At the close of the battle in which he was so desperately wounded and left for dead, Bergin managed to crawl from the field, make his way to a kindly farmer, and after his wounds had healed somewhat, he made his way to the north. He was wounded in the leg, and part of his face was shot away, but he completely recovered his health in spite of all this. He never returned to Cleveland, but went to Ravensburg, where, shortly afterwards he married and settled down on the farm, where he now resides. He suffers an impediment in his speech on account of his

DECORATED GRAVE OF A LIVING MAN

Soldiers Killed at Antislom Did Not Include Bergin.

TABLET ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY

Cleveland, June 1.—Among the soldiers' graves in Woodland cemetery which are strewn with flowers each succeeding Decoration day is that of John Bergin. Bergin was a soldier in an Ohio regiment, and according to the army reports he was killed at the battle of Antislom. He was left desperately wounded on the field and was never seen or heard of thereafter by any of his companions.

His supposed remains were shipped to Cleveland at the close of the war and buried in Woodland cemetery, with the usual military ceremonies. He had no relatives in this city to mourn his loss, but the faithful survivors of the war, in their loving rounds of remembrance each 30th of May, strewed, with impartial hands, flowers on the grave of the friendless soldier.

When, in the course of time, the great Soldiers' and Sailors' monument was erected in the Public square, among the names of fallen heroes inscribed upon the slabs of honor, was that of John Bergin, giving his regiment and the date of his death. This name has been read by thousands who have admired the artistic beauty and architectural grandeur of the monument, where many a reverent head has been bowed before the names of the names of the country's honored dead.

Yesterday the monument was visited by crowds, the name of the fallen Bergin was read by many and his hum-press of Africa and England, and made Milner their creature. "This responsible Governor of a self-governing colony stooped to play the part which some noble chairman of a rotten company performs as the head of a board of guinea-pig directors."

"We are being humiliated and made the laughing-stock of the world," Harrison concludes by predicting the Boers' eventual victory.

TWO DETERMINED ATTACKS.

London, June 1. A despatch from Potchefstroom says the Boers made determined attacks on a British convoy in a drift near Ventersdorp. The wagons had been repulsed, leaving fourteen dead on the field. The British loss, which was severe, is not stated.

tion of "soft goods" into Johannesburg. Each permit will allow the importation of, not to exceed, ten tons of goods, fifty per cent. of which must be clothing suitable for cold weather, and thirty per cent. of clothing suitable for the poorer classes.

A ball to commemorate the entry of the British troops will be given at Johannesburg to-morrow night.

ANOTHER CANADIAN DEAD.

Our New Book on Cancer

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has given the subject a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumor. If you are afflicted with cancer you, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Scott & J. J. Bowmanville, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their marches.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tireless marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and rubs the foot of the foot-soreness which is its inevitable accompaniment. Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., C.R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Scott and J. J. Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm on route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine said he had a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed) T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all drugstores, or by mail, Scott and J. J. Bowmanville, Ont.

Unparalleled in the History of Medicine

THE DEMAND FOR

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

THROUGHOUT CANADA IS TRULY WONDERFUL

A great and unparalleled demand has arisen in Canada and the United States for Paine's Celery Compound, that marvelous medical prescription of Professor Phelps, M.D. Its success and present high standing can only be attributed to its virtues and wonderful cures, and its triumph in thousands of cases where other medicines have failed.

The young and old have found in Paine's Celery Compound new and lasting strength. Men and women, tired out, rundown, despondent, sick, sleepless, rheumatic, and those afflicted with blood disease and liver and kidney troubles, have regained health, strength and buoyancy of spirits through the use of the great medicine. Thousands of unsolicited letters of testimony have poured in from those who have been made well and strong. The wealthy and poor, the famous and those in humble circumstances have willingly testified in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. J. Ralston, of Nixon, Ont., writes as follows:

"It gives me great pleasure to add my testimony to the ever increasing popularity of your preparation known as Paine's Celery Compound. It is now a year past since I had a severe attack of nervous prostration caused by chronic dyspepsia, and for a year I could not sleep at night. This condition of sleeplessness brought on delirium. I was attended by four of the best doctors of the country, and took a great quantity of medicine, but all failed to do me any good. Having been persuaded to read your books, I thought I would try Paine's Celery Compound; and after I had used four bottles the nervousness and dyspepsia left me, and I have done more work since than for years past. I now enjoy excellent health and consider myself completely cured. I have highly recommended your Celery Compound to others, and I know of several persons who are now using it."

MISS M'FARLANE WINS.

Result of the Ticket Contest at Lakefield, Ont. on May 24th.

The ticket contest between Miss Verna McFarlane, of Young's Point, and Miss Jessie Keenly, of Keene, at Father Fitzpatrick's picnic at Lakefield, held on May 24th, resulted in a victory for the first named young lady. Both young ladies worked hard, and deserve much credit for the aid given to the church funds. Miss McFarlane, who won the prize, was presented with a beautiful gold watch. The other prizes were awarded as follows:

The five dollar gold piece was won by Clarence Hynes, Chatham. The silver cake fork, presented by Miss Gertrude Gordon, of Peterborough, was won by Mr. P. Doherty, of Hastings. The clock, the gift of Misses Buckley, of Lakefield, was won by Mrs. F. T. Tyle, of Lakefield. The umbrella, presented by Miss Rudkin, to Mr. Edmund Foley, of Keene, the winning ticket being sold by Miss Lottie Kearney. The cake, presented by Miss Harcourt, was won by Mr. T. Kennedy, of Lakefield.

Father Fitzpatrick desires through the press to thank all those who assisted in making the picnic a success. Had the day been favorable the picnic at Lakefield this year would have been a record breaker, as nothing had been left undone, and no expense saved that amusement might be provided for all.

THE BAND CONCERT.

The audience was delighted, and the applause was not half-hearted. It was a pity that the public did not turn out in larger numbers. Not only would it have shown more appreciation of the band, but those who stay away will never realize the treat they missed.

Tricked out of their eyes, cataracts and washed away. Said there was no cure. Knew there wasn't because he had tried them all. This is how prejudice acts. There is however a balm in Gilead, a sovereign remedy for cataracts, not dangerous because it acts quickly, not unpleasant because it is sure to cure. Its name is Cataractone. It destroys germs, it soothes, it heals. As certain as death to cure, as pleasant as sunshine to use. That's Cataractone. Your money back if it is not so. 25c and $1.00.

THE DOMINION BANK.

Gratifying Record of Thirtieth Year of its Existence.

We heartily congratulate the management of the Dominion Bank on the result of the year's operations, as shown by the annual statement, submitted at the thirtieth annual general meeting of the shareholders, held at the banking house of the institution, Toronto, on Wednesday last.

Reference was made to the great loss sustained by the bank through the death of the late President, Sir Frank Smith. The general manager, Mr. E. B. Oiler, M.P., is personally known to many of our readers, who all feel that every great success has its tribulations, and the loss of Sir Frank Smith is a great one to the bank.

After pointing out the aggregate of 101-1/2 per cent, and making a liberal allowance for bad debts, the balance to credit of profit and loss account carried forward to next year exceeds the amount brought forward from last year by $9,800. During the year the premium received on new capital stock issued, amounting to $940,291.83, was added to the reserve fund, which, according to the statement, now equals the total paid-up capital stock. The general statement also shows a liability to the public of $10,388,256.29, with assets of $25,623,245.51. Mr. Oiler was re-elected President, and Mr. W. D. Matthews Vice-President.

A perusal of the report, which appears elsewhere in this issue, will prove interesting reading, and shows that this progressive and popular financial institution is in capable hands.

THREE OLD MAIDS.

anti had announced that there were more red-headed men to the acre in New Hampshire than any other State in the Union, and both executors headed that way at once. They sent down four candidates within a month, but all were promptly rejected. In two cases the hair was not red enough to make a good match, and in the other two they couldn't grow whiskers. A Plymouth, after a discouraging search, they got track of a young man who eventually bore away the prize. Plymouth is in Grafton country, and a very large country it is, and yet there were only three single red-headed men to be found within its confines at that date. One of these was an old bachelor over 60 years of age, the second hardly more than a boy, and third couldn't grow a single hair on his face, though he had tried till his back ached.

However, the landlord of the Plymouth Hotel informed the husband-hunters that while he was visiting his sister at Dalton a year previously he had rescued a red-headed young man from drowning in the Connecticut river. He was not only certain of the red hair but of red whiskers as well, as he had clutched the young man by the hair to save him, and had afterwards wiped the wet from his whiskers. The hunters at once started for Dalton, and two hours after reaching the place they had run the red-headed victim to earth. They left town that same night, taking their man with them, and to their great joy Jane almost instantly accepted him, and he announced his own perfect satisfaction.

The executors were not through with their labors, however. The three marriages must come off at the same time, according to the will, and Mary's beau had dropped out of sight and failed to answer her letters. After a long search he was found and well kicked and re-conducted to the starting point. Then Sarah had a quarrel with her stutterer as to who stuttered the most gracefully and he skipped out and had to be brought back and carefully guarded. On two occasions the red-headed man sought to rise up and throw of the yoke but was promptly and vigorously suppressed. Nevertheless and however, on the 11th day before the two years expired the triple wedding came off in good shape, the husbands complied with all the stipulations, and the only reason I have not given you their names is because all are still living and enjoying a large amount of this world's happiness.

Excesses cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture

Sir—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.

Sir—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. At a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a lively, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. Jones, Lockport, N.Y.

The Great Kidney Specialist.

The Famous Physician Who Has Made Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases a Life Long Study.

DR. ZINA PITCHER.

For many years in the hospitals of Detroit and Professor of Genito Urinary diseases in Michigan College of Medicine, Dr. Zina Pitcher devoted his time to the scientific study of diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary System.

By this exclusive devotion to one branch of medical investigation Dr. Pitcher was enabled to perfect a treatment for Kidney troubles that far surpasses any other remedy.

After testing it extensively in private and hospital practice and demonstrating its incomparable superiority to all other forms of treatment, Dr. Pitcher decided to give this great boon to suffering humanity at large and not confine it exclusively to the circles of his private and hospital patients.

He has placed his remedy before the public under the name of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets and so confident is he of the positive curative qualities of these Tablets for backache, lame or weak back, dizziness, headaches, pain in the loins, brick dust deposits in the urine, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, scalding, irritation, frequent rising at night, dribbling, inflammation or ulceration of the bladder, gravel, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease and Diabetes (except in the last stages), bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, constipation, puffiness and pasty appearance of the face, dropsy, backache and weakness of women, urinary weakness of children and old people or any symptomatic indications of Kidney disease that to anyone suffering from any of the above troubles, who uses the Tablets faithfully, according to directions, and derives no benefit therefrom, their money will be cheerfully refunded.

CARDINAL GIBBONS IN ROME

The Pope and the American Cardinal Have Long Talk.

It is Supposed that the Visit has Something to do with Cuba.

Rome, June 1.—Cardinal Gibbons, has arrived in this city and expects to remain here for a fortnight and will then return home by way of Paris and London.

London, June 1.—"The pope had a long consultation with Cardinal Gibbons," says the Rome correspondent of the Daily News, "regarding the position of Catholics in Cuba and the Philippines. According to authoritative information the pope sees the necessity of compelling the monastic orders to adapt themselves to the situation created by American occupation. Cardinal Gibbons made it clear to the pope that unless they give way the American government may expel them altogether."

"Reports received at the vatican from the Philippines are much more serious than those received from Cuba. The monks of the Philippines are ac-caused of all kinds of atrocities. It is reported that the spread of concubinage is due to their refusal to perform the marriage service without large remuneration."

The cardinal was received to-day in audience by the pope and he nominated Rt. Rev. Monsignor John J. Kennedy to be rector of the American college in Rome.

SIXTY FAMOUS AERIALISTS

Ringling Brothers' Remarkable Company of Famous Mid-Air Artists.

Sixty aerialists will be seen with Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows, when this famous big combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome exhibits in Peterborough, Friday, June 1st. This is not only the greatest array of aerial performers ever associated with an American circus, but it also embraces every noted type of aerialist now before the public. Every nation in the world has contributed to this remarkable company of mid-air artists. Every famous circus of Europe is represented, and the most renowned performers of Egypt, Africa, China and Japan are represented in the grand ensemble. Among the headliners is the great Holloway Trio of high-wire gymnasts. On a single stand of wire, stretched across the dome of the big canvas amphitheatre, these clever artists perform the most astounding feats, dancing, vaulting, walking, and tumbling, and in a difficult manner that would provoke astonishment and admiration even if performed upon the ground. The Feeley Trio, whose marvelous performance in mid-air has been known as "La Eschelle," has been the talk of England and the continent during the past two or three seasons, is one of Ringling Brothers' many special importations, and is one of the distinct aerial hits of the year. Their act is different from anything hitherto seen in this country. It is a combination of the flying trapeze and the aerial bar, and is sensational and thrilling to an unusual degree. Another importation of surpassing interest is the Alpine Sisters, whose performances have delighted wondering audiences all over the civilized world. The performance given by the far famed French Family DuCous is superior to anything of its kind ever seen in this country. Swinging in mid-air, under the great canvas dome, forty feet apart, Arthur and Rose, two sister acrobats, catching her with outstretched hands, and repeating the daring performance until the audience is fairly thrilled. Then there is the famous aerial bar trio, Alvo, Boase and Picard; the famous Fisher Family of aerialists; Mile. Turanor, the most noted, graceful and daring of all aerial posers and equilibristas; Miss Minnie Fisher, the marvelous human aerial top; La Belle Carmen, Nettie Carroll, Miss Jessie Leon and many other remarkable mid-air performers, including the only complete troupe of Japanese aerialists and high-wire bicyclists ever brought to the United States. Ringling Brothers' circus is, however, not limited in its style of entertainment. Every department of the great show is equally complete and comprehensive. There are in addition to the great company of aerialists, sixty famous acrobats, thirty big bareback riders, forty fun-making clowns and scores of other high-class specialists, while the trained animal features embrace thirty marvelously trained elephants, twenty of which appear in one ring at one time; O'Brien's magnificent sixty-one horse act, and many other trained animal surprises. Circus day will be inaugurated with a magnificent free street parade, which in length, massiveness and colossal splendor surpasses anything ever before attempted in the line of spectacular display. This show exhibits the only giraffe now known to exist anywhere on earth.

HEALERS ARE IN TROUBLE.

Chicago Followers of Dowse Cause Death in Binghamton, N.Y.

Binghamton, N.Y., May 30.—Two of the Dowse faith healers from Chicago, Mrs. Bagley Dunn and Mrs. Orville Burrows, endeavored to cure Mrs. Charles Ockerman of disease by telling her she was not sick and Mrs. Ockerman is dead. When Coroner Smith was called he found death had resulted from acute pneumonia and he held the faith healers responsible. The neighbors are indignant and threaten violence. The faith healers claim it was not their fault, but the will of God. Mrs. Ockerman had been ill about a week.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Plan for Extending the Area of Its Usefulness.

The Boarding Home to be Retained—Addition of Quarters for Reading Room, Parlor, Gymnasium and Class Room. The Liberal Offer of Gen. Senator Fox.

This is an age of organized activity. Individual efforts and independent action do not meet the requirements which our complex civilization and changed social conditions demand. Associations and organizations to answer the condition which the interests concerned create are the rule. The function which the Young Women's Christian Association performs in the social and moral economy is so apparently beneficial and so indispensable that it is impossible to imagine a town of the importance of Peterborough without a branch of it. The Young Women's Christian Association, though of more recent origin, is equally indicated and equally indispensable. This has been shown by the work the Peterborough branch has done since its establishment here, about ten years ago, though the lack of funds has prevented the demonstration of the full measure of its usefulness. It is not surprising, therefore, that an organized and concerted effort is on foot in Peterborough to place the Young Women's Christian Association upon a standing which will, approximately, at least, realize the full extent of its usefulness, or place it in a position to give grounds for reasonable hope of a realization of this ambition.

The present Boarding Home on Brock street is admirably adapted for the purposes of the Association so far as it goes, but it falls considerably short of what is desirable.

It does not, owing to restricted room, afford general educational, social, moral or physical advantages, such as are provided in a properly and adequately equipped Association building. There are required a reading room, gymnasium and hall or parlour for social or musical entertainments and classrooms for the imparting of instruction in various simple branches of knowledge.

ADDITIONAL PREMISES OFFERED.

Through the timely liberality of Hon. Senator Cox, the premises recently occupied as the temporary offices of the Examiner, No. 411 George street, have been placed at the disposal of the authorities of the Y.W.C.A. free of rent. This condition holds good for one year, by the end of which time it is felt that more effective results from the work of the Association may enlist the sympathy and practical co-operation of those interested to a degree which will insure its being placed on a basis more financially independent of individual generosity.

This building will be a very desirable annex to the Boarding Home on Brock street, which will continue to be maintained and conducted as at present or, rather, it is hoped, more advantageously, in connection with the new George street premises. These will afford on the ground floor a large reading room in front, with the rear half devoted to a well-equipped gymnasium. Upon the second story is space for a parlour for social intercourse or for more ambitious entertainments of a musical and literary character. Space will also be found here for classrooms for instruction in choral singing, plain sewing, and the elements of ordinary English instruction, and possibly cookery.

It is the intention of the management to employ a permanent secretary efficiently trained and experienced to give a more permanent and useful character to the work of the Association. This is, of course, largely contingent upon the liberality of the public providing the necessary funds. Funds will be required for this purpose and also for furnishing the rooms, which through the terms of Hon. Mr. Cox's generous offer, will be put in first class repair, will need furnishing in a way to give them a homelike and attractive appearance.

PUBLIC CO-OPERATION INVITED.

Those actively interested in the promotion of the Association's success will at once begin a canvass of the Town, and it is hoped that a liberal response will be made to their solicitations. The cause is one that appeals to all who have an interest in the welfare, moral safety, comfort and general well-being of our girls. It is, perhaps, not generally known that there are in this very Town a thousand women and girls who are dependent upon their efforts for a livelihood. It needs a few words to show how much those who are deprived of the comforts and shelter of a comfortable and virtuous home and the love and care of relatives or friends, stand in need of the friendship comfort and protection which a properly equipped and conducted Young Women's Christian Association can give. The work of the Association, which is to provide a home or rather home influences, advantages and comforts to homeless young women, is one that appeals strongly to every philanthropist or rather, to coin a more expressive word, to every philoprosist. And it should appeal more strongly to those who have daughters or sisters.

GENERAL DELAREY DEFEATED IN A SEVERE ENGAGEMENT

British Losses Killed and Wounded Were 174.

A Very Desperate Fight

In Which Many Boers Were Killed and Wounded.

London, June 1.—On the anniversary of Lord Roberts' entry into Johannesburg comes the news of severe fighting and heavy losses within forty miles of the Gold Reef City. The battle at Vlodfontein on the Durban Johannesburg Railroad, reported by Lord Kitchener today, is the most serious engagement since General Clements' reverse at Magaliesburg. The garrison at Vlodfontein, apparently composed of Yeomanry, had 174 men put out of action. That their assailants came to close quarters and suffered heavily is shown by the number of dead left on the field. The despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria May 30, is as follows: "General Dixon's force at Vlodfontein was attacked yesterday by Delarey's forces and there was severe fighting. The enemy was eventually driven off with heavy loss, leaving 35 dead. I regret that our casualties also were severe. The killed and wounded numbered one hundred and seventy-four. Four officers were killed."

MILNER BITTERLY ATTACKED.

London, June 1.

Frederick Harrison, the British author and historian, expresses his feelings in a column letter to the newspapers this morning regarding Lord Milner's reception in London. After speaking of the insane folly and degrading policy of a farm burning in South Africa he continues:—

"From the first the nation has been hoodwinked by an elaborate fabric of calumny and falsehood. The accounts of a Boer conspiracy to drive us out of Africa were merely promoters' tales, payable in gold."

"The myth that the war was inevitable was only true in the sense that the crucifixion was inevitable. These war promoters rigged the political market and gave commissions to the leading politicians. They hired the press of Africa and England, and made Milner their creature. This responsible Governor of a self-governing colony stooped to play the part which some noble chairman of a rotten company performs as the head of a board of guinea-pig directors. "We are being humiliated and made the laughing-stock of the world," Harrison concludes by predicting the Boers' eventual victory.

TWO DETERMINED ATTACKS.

London, June 1.

A despatch from Potchefstroom says the Boers made determined attacks on a British convoy in a drift near Ventersdorp. The wagons had choked the drift. The Boers were finally repulsed, leaving fourteen dead on the field. The British loss, which was severe, is not stated.

MAY IMPORT SOFT GOODS.

A special despatch from Pretoria says: A limited number of permits will be granted next week for the importation of "soft goods" into Johannesburg.

Each permit will allow the importation of, not to exceed, ten tons of goods, fifty per cent. of which must be clothing suitable for cold weather, and thirty per cent. of clothing suitable for the poorer classes.

A ball to commemorate the entry of the British troops will be given at Johannesburg to-morrow night.

ANOTHER CANADIAN DEAD.

Ottawa, June 1.

James Brown, of the Canadian contingent, South African Constabulary, is reported to have died from dysentery at Bloemfontein on May 21.

MORE SOLDIERS COME HOME.

Ottawa, June 1.

Trooper Clark, Toronto; Sergt. Gilmore, Ottawa; Trooper Griffin, Orangeburg, N. C.; Sergt. Brigham, Nelson, B. C.; Sergt. Cumming, Wapella, N. W. T., arrived here last night from South Africa.

WAS LEFT FOR DEAD.

Now comes the strange part of our story. This same John Bergin, whose grave is even now strewn with the lovely flowers of May, lives and is happy on a little farm about three miles out of Ravensna. At the close of the battle in which he was so desperately wounded and left for dead, Bergin managed to crawl from the field, make his way to a kindly farmer, and after his wounds had healed somewhat, he made his way to the north.

He was wounded in the leg, and part of his face was shot away, but he completely recovered his health in spite of all this. He never returned to Cleveland, but went to Ravensna, where, shortly afterwards he married and settled down on the farm, where he now resides. He suffers an impediment in his speech on account of his

Soldiers Killed at Antislam Did Not Include Bergin.

TABLET ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY

Cleveland, June 1.—Among the soldiers' graves in Woodland cemetery which are strewn with flowers each succeeding Decoration day is that of John Bergin. Bergin was a soldier in an Ohio regiment, and according to the army reports he was killed at the battle of Antislam. He was left desperately wounded on the field and was never seen or heard of thereafter by any of his companions.

His supposed remains were shipped to Cleveland at the close of the war and buried in Woodland cemetery, with the usual military ceremonies. He had no relatives in this city to mourn his loss, but the faithful survivors of the war, in their loving remembrance of him, each 30th of May, strewed with impartial hands, flowers on the graves of the friendless soldier.

When, in the course of time, the great Soldiers' and Sailors' monument was erected in the Public square, among the names of fallen heroes inscribed upon the slabs of honor, was that of John Bergin, giving his regiment and the date of his death. This name has been read by thousands who have admired the artistic beauty and architectural grandeur of the monument, where many a reverent head has bowed before the names of the names of the country's honored dead.

Yesterday the monument was visited by crowds, the name of the fallen Bergin was read by many and his ham-ble grave in Woodland cemetery was covered with flowers as it had been for many years.

Now comes the strange part of our story. This same John Bergin, whose grave is even now strewn with the lovely flowers of May, lives and is happy on a little farm about three miles out of Ravensna. At the close of the battle in which he was so desperately wounded and left for dead, Bergin managed to crawl from the field, make his way to a kindly farmer, and after his wounds had healed somewhat, he made his way to the north.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 1, 1901

THE MEDICAL ROW.

Medical men, unlike legal men, seem unable to settle their differences quietly. To the public the membership fee of the medical men's association is a matter of indifference. It is said that without a fee there could be no association, and that without an association every Tom, Dick and Harry would be at liberty to prescribe. This question of prescribing in a jealously guarded, it is said, in the public interests. Materia medica is a system of poisons. It must be handled by "those who know." So far so good. But the association goes farther: It seeks to govern in matters of etiquette? What has the public to do with etiquette? The people pay and should do the choosing. Besides, the people distinguish all right between the granger practitioner and the rest of the profession. You can not make a professional man by act of parliament. If he is clever he will succeed; if he is not he will take half price and look happy. The poor should be allowed the privilege of dying cheaply, at least, if they cannot afford a man of independent professional standing they should be allowed the privilege of clubbing together to get a cheaper man. Factories, lodges, granges and other beneficiary societies are taking advantage of the surplus in the medical market, and if young doctors had took this right to break the rules of medical etiquette in being so employed they would probably starve. From both sides a great deal is to be said for a free profession.

FLAPDOODLE

A learned bishop of the Anglican communion recently brought in a report in which was set forth the complaint of the people at large against the clergy. People were crying out for the Gospel and against social themes and similar distractions. Many clergymen seem to think that the Gospel is by no means all sufficient, and that it must be supplemented from the pulpit by profound clerical observations upon other subjects. In other words, they wish to make their sermons "interesting," as they say. This is a curious teaching of Christ had of course struck the people in the pews, and they have been the first to resent it.

As it stands to-day the Gospel gets barely one sermon a fortnight at least in Protestant churches, the balance going to some form of sensation in order that sermons may be "interesting." This is a breach of trust, you are commanded to "preach the Gospel," gentlemen in the pulpit, and why do you not do it? Verily it will not be long (ill) you will find that "you have been quietly preaching yourselves out of your pulpits. Flap-doodle is the name usually given to a mild form of humbug, if you have a mission to preach fulfill it. The learned bishop saw the approaching storm.

PETERBOROUGH MARKET.

The local market has this week been slightly more brisk than usual, considerable live stock having come in. Monday was rather a heavy day for Market Clerk Hutchinson. Mr. Michael Argue, the well known live stock dealer, shipped two car loads of heavy cattle to Toronto, the price received by the sellers being invariably 1-1/2 cents.

Mr. R. E. McKee sold ten head and Mr. James Davidson sold two very fine export steers. Mr. H. McKee sold 6 steers weighing 5,900 pounds. Mr. John Stohart disposed of 3 head, one bull weighing 1,680 pounds; a heifer weighing 1,380 pounds, and another heifer weighing 1,000 pounds.

James Frankfort sold two well finished steers weighing 2,600 pounds, and in Mr. Argue's shipment to Toronto were ten head sold by Mr. George Weber. They averaged 1,200 pounds. Mr. David Johnston of Otonabee, sold 20 head, to tailing 22,580 pounds.

The hog market has been particularly lively. Mr. John Brandon of Fenelon Falls on Wednesday brought down a double deck car load of hogs, and on the same day Mr. Michael Argue of Lindsay, came down with two double decks. Mr. Gilbert Kingston of Manvers, sent in a double decker of hogs on Monday, and another on Tuesday. All of these hogs were brought by the George Matthews Co.

Mr. John A. Stabler has been doing considerable in the hog line this week. He has averaged about 170 hogs a day for this week, paying from 7 to 10 cents for select. Mr. Stabler anticipates a drop in hogs next week, stating that $6.75 will be the price. He quotes light hogs at 6 cents and says at 3 1/2. Year old steers are quoted by Mr. Stabler at 3 to 3 1/2 cents, and one year old steers at 2 3/4 to 3 cents.

Mr. William Torpy brought up 74 hogs for Kennedy on Wednesday, paying 7 and 8 cents.

MR. WRIGHTON'S REPORT.

Exposure

To cold and stormy weather opens the way to an attack of bronchitis. The man on the wagon, be he farmer, milkman or truckman, needs to pay special heed to the first symptoms of weakness or disease of the organs of respiration.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure bronchitis, deep-seated coughs, bleeding of the lungs, and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

"For seven years I had been troubled with what the doctors called bronchitis," writes Mr. Arthur Maile (general merchant, of Niles, Iowa, Middlesex Co., Ontario. "A year ago I had been taken sick with a severe attack, I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I rapidly recovered from the attack and felt no more of it that fall. This season I began taking the 'Discovery' in August, and have so far been perfectly well. I can go out in all kinds of weather and not feel the bronchial trouble at all. Let me say to all who are suffering from such complaints to give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a fair trial, and I am convinced that good results will be obtained."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper-bound, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only, or 50 stamps for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"A year ago I had been taken sick with a severe attack, I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I rapidly recovered from the attack and felt no more of it that fall. This season I began taking the 'Discovery' in August, and have so far been perfectly well. I can go out in all kinds of weather and not feel the bronchial trouble at all. Let me say to all who are suffering from such complaints to give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a fair trial, and I am convinced that good results will be obtained."

ATTACK OF ROYAL CANADIAN

The present is a time when war pictures are in vogue. The British soldier on the battlefield has been the theme of many a picture. We have at great expense published a large, beautiful picture, size 10x20, on heavy, superior, colored paper. A picture of the heart of every true Canadian soldier; the heart of every true Canadian. It is the one called "Attack of Royal Canadian." It is a picture of the gallant Major Arthur Maile, of Niles, Iowa, Middlesex Co., Ontario. He was a member of the 1st Battalion, 1st Canadian Infantry, and was killed in action at the Battle of Ypres, Belgium, on October 31, 1914. He was the only Canadian soldier to be killed in action at Ypres. His name is on the Roll of Honor at the Canadian War Museum, Ottawa. The picture is a full-length portrait of Major Maile, in uniform, standing with his hands on his hips. He is a young man, with a mustache, and is looking directly at the camera. The picture is a very fine example of the art of the painter, and is a fitting tribute to the gallant Major Maile.

THE ADVENTURES OF PETERBOROUGH BEN

Continuation of the Narrative of the South African War.

BEN'S MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

When Ben took up his accustomed position, the Times' printer's devil cast a glance of something akin to anxiety. Ben looked somewhat worried and the devil asked: "Anything wrong, Ben?" "No, I can't say that there is," replied Ben, but the truth is I have been put out a little on account of the slight indisposition of my master, Judge Davidson. However, my mind has been entirely put at ease, as a complete recovery has been announced. I have been going it a little strong lately, and may as well admit the soft impeachment expressed in your look of anxiety. Boys will be boys on occasions, and I don't pretend to be above the common—but of course in moderation. Well, I will, as promised, relate the little affair of the Colonel's goat.

I had no particular use for goats myself, but Alf was apparently set upon about the matter. He urged the necessity of a companion to relieve the monotony of my many somewhat lonely hours, and I came to look upon the question from Alf's standpoint. "You see, Ben," said Alf, "the boys have set their hearts on procuring if possible the companionship of that goat for your special benefit." Although Alf made this statement, apparently in all sincerity, I noticed a mischievous twinkle in his eye, and apart from the spice of danger attached to the undertaking, said Alf, "you will be looked upon as a second Hercules by the boys of the Strathmore Horse."

"Where does that fellow live?" I asked Alf. "I haven't his present address," he replied, "but he was a very big fellow in his days, and was the boss of some mighty big jobs. He lived a long time ago—yes long before the commencement of the Trent Valley Canal, and one of his difficult labors was, of a similar nature to that required from you at present."

I pressed Alf to let me know the particulars. After he had passed his hand over his mustache a few times, and having scratched his head, Alf gave me the following narrative: "Hercules was the son of Jupiter, by Alcmena, wife of Amphytrion, famous for his strength and his celebrated labors. Through the malignity of Juno and the fatality of his birth he was subjected to the power of Eurystheus, King of Argos, for twelve years. Having determined to bear with fortitude the hardships which his destiny imposed upon him, at the command of Eurystheus he performed about a dozen most difficult labors, one being the taking alive and bringing to Eurystheus, after a year's chase, the golden-brown and bronze-footed stag which frequented Mount Maenalus. This stag was of incredible swiftness and was sacred to Diana, whom he appeased by pleading necessity, and the will of the gods."

"And now," Ben said Alf, "should you succeed in capturing this Colonel's goat, look what a hero you will become. I made up my mind to get the goat, and that without pleading necessity. It was arranged that Alf should accompany me on the expedition, the camp to which the animal was attached was a matter of several miles distant from our own. We had to approach the camp in a direct line, but made what Alf called a detour. Our start was made very early in the morning and very little signs of life appeared in the camp of the 14th Light Horse. When at a proper distance Alf said, 'now, Ben, I will get into this bit of scrub, and you keep a sharp look out for your new chain to be—I will not be far off, but in case you may require either encouragement or assistance, I will, however,' said Alf, 'for the present be perdu.' 'Is that French or quiet?' I asked. 'No, indeed,' replied Alf, 'it is under the circumstances very proper English.' Getting nearer and nearer the objective point I could see the outline of a little animal, and I needed that quietly as I had crept, it had caught sight of me. Its little chin was moving rapidly, the bright little eyes steadily fixed upon me. All at once it gave a sharp bark, and I had stepped forward to await further chances of success. The noise made by Nan, as I found later was the name of the goat, attracted the attention of the Colonel, who was in early times, but soon made his appearance at the entrance of his tent. A fine soldierly looking gentleman of about sixty, perhaps not so old, and well preserved. He sported a heavy mustache, but was otherwise clean shaven. On his head he wore a handsome smoking cap, wore glasses and carried a stout walking-stick in his hand. For footwear he had an elegant pair of undrained slippers, not quite the thing when one is a general. He walked in the direction of N. B., and I could hear him say distinctly, 'What is the matter, Nan? Has anything disturbed you?' I kept pretty close to the ground, and although the Colonel looked slowly all around he failed to discover my presence. Here the devil asked Ben, what in thunder did the Colonel want with a goat? 'The Colonel,' replied Ben, 'had a very decided opinion of the merits of goats, milk especially, when used in coffee. Some of our boys hated that the refreshment used by the Colonel in conjunction with the goat's milk was stronger than coffee.'

"And now," declared Ben, "there was the biggest kind of a circus it had been, my good fortune to witness. Some of the band had apparently got into the Colonel's slippers. This was no doubt irritating, so the Colonel made preparations to remove it. Placing the walking cane under his arm, (at this time he had advanced few yards past Nan), and bending over into a convenient position for the purpose of removing the offending band from his slipper, his attitude had a powerful attraction for (Nan). It may appear strange, nevertheless it is an explained matter of natural history, that the goat family cherishes for the human animal, in the position just described, the most decided resentment, and invariably accepts as a challenge. Ben promptly transferred her attention from myself to the doubled-up Colonel. It would have turned Prof. Shedd green with envy to have seen the short exhibition of protruding tongue by Nan, for the purpose probably of getting up sufficient steam, and give an impetus to her attack. Not in this point, days ago, when Sullivan plant a more effective punch on any of his numerous opponents than that delivered by Nan on the defenceless body of the unsuspecting Colonel. The gallant Colonel bit the dust in a manner he had probably never expected. His smoking cap went sailing in the air, his glasses lost in the sand and his walking stick forced a few feet ahead of him, he must have thought that he had been operated upon by an armored train. Scrambling to his feet in a towering passion, and regaining possession of his cane, the Colonel discharged from his mouth about the full of a coal scuttle of sand and mud, seasoned with enough bad language to make a good foundation for a Billingsgate dictionary. At this part of the story the Times' devil was making faces, holding his sides and otherwise conducting himself in such a manner that Ben paused, thinking the devil had taken a bit. As soon as the devil got into something like normal condition, he asked Ben, 'did the Colonel kill the goat?' 'No he didn't,' Ben replied, and proceeded with his story. You see as soon as Nan recovered from the shock of the impact, she looked under her jaw, and walking backwards, at the same time keeping an eye on the human sand bag, and still that everlasting chew, chew, chewing going on—it was a sight to see her lit the under jaw, how industriously it was working. I am satisfied Nan was making preparations for another onset, no opportunity was, however, given for a second exhibition. Alf had been up to the time Nan had introduced herself with such violence to the Colonel, a silent though much interested spectator. At that moment he had either to roar, or burst, as he afterwards declared. I was delighted myself with Nan's performance, and after my own fashion joined Alf in his mirth. The Colonel soon discovered that he was not alone, and glad of an opportunity to vent his passion on something or somebody, in a moment drew his revolver and pointing directly at me let blaze. There was no time for dodging, on this occasion the bullet striking under my jaw, how industriously it was working. I am satisfied Nan was making preparations for another onset, no opportunity was, however, given for a second exhibition. Alf had been up to the time Nan had introduced herself with such violence to the Colonel, a silent though much interested spectator. At that moment he had either to roar, or burst, as he afterwards declared. I was delighted myself with Nan's performance, and after my own fashion joined Alf in his mirth. The Colonel soon discovered that he was not alone, and glad of an opportunity to vent his passion on something or somebody, in a moment drew his revolver and pointing directly at me let blaze. DUKE TO YOUNG BRITISHERS Stirring Address Given to Boys and Girls of the British Empire.

The Australians and the Crown Prince of England.

London, June 3.—One of the most interesting features of the present tour of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, was the gathering of school children in Melbourne, Australia, early in May, when their Royal Highnesses presented prizes to the lucky pupils. The words which the Duke addressed to these Australian children are as appropriate and applicable to Canadian boys and girls as to their Antipodean brothers and sisters. In the course of his speech he said:

THE DUKE OF CORNWALL.

"My young friends, on these occasions we are, I think, sometimes apt to forget the unsuccessful. Many of those who have no doubt seem equally anxious, thus meriting no less praise than their more fortunate competitors. They also have my best wishes. We cannot all be winners. I would say to them, 'Have courage,' and to all 'Do not relax your efforts.'"

"Let both success and failure serve to stimulate to new endeavors, for this is an age of keen competition, intellectual and physical, and we look to you, the rising generation, not only to hold and keep what your forefathers have bequeathed to you, but to push ahead, ever striving to promote what is good and what is beneficial to the cause of civilization and to moral and material progress."

"Public school life develops in many ways that characterize which conduce to national greatness. From it we learn discipline, whether in the classroom or in the playground. It generates manliness and that courage which begets truthfulness, esprit de corps, and the faculty of sticking together, the combination of which qualities, whether in men or nations, must tend towards pre-eminence. You whom I address will, please God, remember longest the stirring and historic events of the past days, and many of you may, by your lives and example, influence the growth and development of the Commonwealth, whose birth you have witnessed."

drapper-looking little duddet, and took him up to this Crack Room. Well, there it was, all confusion of course—but I wasn't supposed to know he was expecting Company, and Frank was very indignant. He took his friend down town for dinner, and he came back alone about 8 o'clock and he had on what they call a Jag. He was roaring mad, and seemed to be goin' for a fight. He came into my daughter's room, where we were talking about the Happy days Long Gone, and said some pretty trash things. I tried to reason with him, but couldn't do it. He was in no condition. Fearing that he might do me violence, I got a rope and tied him, and put him in the cellar, where I left him till morning, when Bertha went down and severed the cords that bound him. Then he left, and sent Bertha word that he would return as soon as that Old Wild Cat (meaning me, my daughter's own mother) had gone.

I tell you, Mr. Idler, I have never felt right since, and I am glad the Noble Impulse has seized you to organize your Association. Count me in.

Mrs. A.

I see the man with a Pull has not been touched. It is perfectly awful, when you come to think of it, that one man can keep his Hotel Bar practically day and night, and no one to interfere. What is the Inspector Doing? What are the Police Doing? What are the Churches Doing? What is the Press Doing, that such a condition of affairs can exist? Where is the Public Weal Society, that it does not get in its work in the interests of Morality? Is this a country where Justice is administered, or is it only a place where only those with a Pull can live and thrive?

WITH THE STRATHCONAS

How the Crack Regiment Made it go in South Africa.

THE HAD SOME HOT WORK.

Interesting Incidents of the War Related by a Member of the Strathcona Horse.

Mr. Alf Brown Tells of the Movement of the Regiment from the Time it Landed in South Africa Till it Reached the Front.

Before Mr. Alf Brown took his departure for the Pacific coast, he gave The Times a short outline of the work done by the Strathconas, of which he was a member. The regiment sailed from Halifax on March 17th, arriving in Cape Town on April 10th. While on board ship the soldiers and sailors had an exciting time, fire having broken out, but which was extinguished before any serious damage had been done. While on the voyage out of 245 horses 176 of them were lost through disease. On their arrival at Cape Town the Strathconas were marched forward until they met General Buller at Zand Spruit. Here they were brigaded with the "Third Mounted Brigade," under Lord Dundonald. While at Zand Spruit Mr. Wilkey had several opportunities to form opinions of Gen. Buller, whom he believes to have been the best officer in South Africa. Wherever the fighting was, Gen. Buller was in the thick of it, and he thought no more of speaking to his men than he did to his officers. While with General Buller the Strathconas patrolled the Lydenburg district, which took them eighty-four days, and during that time they were seventy-two days under fire.

At Mafeking they were dismissed from Dundonald's Brigade, and sent to Pretoria. All along the line of march they were "sniped" at by scattering Boers. At Pretoria they remained two days, during which time they had an opportunity of seeing "Bobs." Here they were remounted and detailed to Elandsfontein, where they were entrained and sent to the south-western part of the Transvaal to relieve General Buller, who was surrounded by Boers at Mafeking. After accomplishing this they opened a line of communication between Mafeking and Klerksdorp, which they patrolled for six weeks. Subsequently they were detached to the Orange River Colony, where they spent six weeks, under General Knox in chasing the wily De Wet. Their time of service having expired, the Strathconas were ordered to stand by the large number of officers who applied for service during the campaign.

—Miss Bertram, of Toronto, is in town, the guest of Miss Marion Hall.

—Mr. Jimmie Mulligan left yesterday to accept a situation in Toronto.

—Mr. George L. Gwynne leaves today on a trip to the Pan-American.

—Mr. George Lytle, of the Lindsay Watchman-Warrior, was in Peterborough yesterday.

—Rev. J. C. Wilson preached Sunday school anniversary sermons in Northwood Methodist church.

—Mr. Sam Reid, formerly local manager of the Rathbun Co., is in town in the interests of his firm.

—Miss Way, graduate of Toronto General Hospital Training School for Nurses, is a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Lytle, 205 Park street.

—Rev. George Warren, of Lakefield, has been appointed to preach the annual sermon before the Synod of Toronto at its annual meeting next week at Toronto.

—The many friends of Mr. W. A. Pile, of No. 37 Hunter street, will regret to learn that he has been called to his former home in Windermere, Muskoka, through the death of his father.

—The Times had a pleasant call yesterday from Mr. Dinny Simons, who returned yesterday from Buffalo, where he had been taking in the Buffalo American for a week. Mr. Simons will remain a couple of weeks, when he will return to Buffalo, where he has accepted an engagement for a few weeks before joining his company in August.

—At the examinations just closed of the School for Nurses in connection with the famous Lakeside hospital, of Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Gertrude Thompson, of Peterborough, took the first prize ($50 in gold), given for conduct, practical and theoretical work. Out of a possible 300 Miss Thompson took 280 marks. It is interesting to note that the second prize was also taken by a Canadian, Miss Cavers.

From Elandsfontein the regiment was directed to Cape Town, leaving that place on the 20th of January for Canada, and arriving in England on the 5th of February. In London each trooper was presented with a silver medal by the King. Out of the six hundred troopers who composed the regiment 391 returned.

Mr. Brown says the Strathconas were glad to get back to Canada again, but he believes that they have more than done their duty. He does not think there will be any more engagements in which great numbers of men will participate, as the Boers keep themselves well under cover, and only attack the rear guards of passing columns. All the Boers with whom he came in contact seem to have no bitter feelings against the British, but appear to firmly believe that their cause is just, and that they will defeat the English forces. Mr. Brown describes the country as being very beautiful, the district of Lydenburg, where considerable of the fighting was done, being of a particularly hilly and mountainous nature.

CEREAL COMPANY BUILDINGS.

Tenders from all Trades are Asked for This Week.

As will be seen by an advertisement, the American Cereal Co. are calling for tenders for the construction and completion of building for the establishment that they are to operate here.

The buildings will include an elevator for receiving grain, an oatmeal mill, pea mill, barley mill, and corn mill, and all of these will be equipped with the most up-to-date machinery. The last day for receiving tenders is Saturday June 8.

The fact that the company has contracted for some million brick gives some idea of the extent of the buildings.

ELOPING GIRL DESERTED.

'Hired Man' Lover Found Angry Father Too Close on Trail and Fled.

Sherbrooke, Que., June 4.—The excitement attendant upon the elopement of the hired man and the sixteen year old daughter of Mr. West, a farmer at Fitch Bay, on Wednesday, was too much for the lover, and after bravely and successfully overcoming many obstacles placed in the path of the fleeing pair, by the angry father of the girl, the prospective husband gave up the race, sought refuge in drink, and finally deserted Miss West, at Dixville. There her father found her penitent, and she was thoroughly disillusioned. She gladly accompanied him back home. The hired man had probably crossed into the United States.

It seems that some people will not understand. This letter I answer for the benefit of all concerned:

THE IDLER.

AN IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Dashes Here and There by a Man Without Occupation.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW QUESTION

Again comes a cheerful and comforting letter from a Mother-in-law, who has been entirely misunderstood and Unappreciated. She tells her Tale of Woe in a manner that would not only convince twelve good men and true—but he would weep Salt Tears at Sorrow, and the Judge, no matter how Stern, could not listen Unmoved. She says:

Lindsay, June 3.—Heroic Mr. Idler: How are you to thank you for your proposed National Society for the Better Understanding of Misunderstood Mothers-in-Law? My case, I take it, is not an isolated one—I cannot tell you all that has happened. But Bertha, that was my eldest daughter, married a man in good Circumstances—better circumstances than I had enjoyed—and she went to live with him in a far distant place, nearly 150 miles from the home of her Childhood. She left me and her Father and Sisters and Brothers, and went Alone with this man. They had been married about five months, while Bertha wrote to me about every two weeks, and told me how lovely her new home was, and how perfectly her Frank was—she said that in the Fall I must come and see them. But I didn't propose to leave my Daughter that long, so I packed up a lot of things, including some picked Chow Chow and Corned beef, and set about going to my Daughter's home.

When I got there the fool hoggish man threw the bundle containing the Chow Chow and Pickled Beef in the hall—like a dunce, and broke the jar and the vinegar took the coloring out of the hall Carpet, and Frank didn't like that. I heard him tell Bertha that maybe he could buy corned beef if he wanted any. But that was an incident. I had been there about a week, and I was looking at a Spare Room, and it struck me that it was not arranged just right. So I went at it with my Own Hapds and intended giving the room a proper Over Haul.

THE MACHINISTS STRIKE.

Different Opinions Regarding the Work of Organization in Montreal.

Montreal, June 4.—It is now officially stated by President O'Connell, of the International Machinists' Union, that the railway machinists of Montreal have been organizing for a demand on the big companies. An organizer, he says has been at work in Montreal for three months among the men, and that due notice will be given to the companies of any movement for an increase and change of hours. The demands to be made have not as yet been furnished, and will not be until the meeting of the Machinists' Convention on Monday, in Toronto. It was at this meeting that the union uniform conditions for the machinists all over the Canadian Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk systems. The organizer has been in touch with the men, and secret meetings have been held in the principal towns in Eastern Canada, but the results of the meeting, and the feelings of the men are only known to President O'Connell, of the International Union. He says that the Montreal men are only known to President O'Connell, of the International Union. He says that the Montreal men are only known to President O'Connell, of the International Union.

When seen to-day regarding the matter, the railway officials said that up to the present they had not had any communication from the machinists.

COCHIN ROOSTER ATTACKS COW

Fighting Cock Punctured Bovine for Wounding a Hen Between Two Palls.

Alameda, May 31.—A buff or cochin rooster fighting a cow was the peculiar contest witnessed this morning on Eagle avenue near Broadway. The rooster and cow are both the property of Mrs. Julia Frothingham, and the cause of the combat was a hen belonging to the flock over which the rooster is lord.

In an attempt to fly over the fence the hen had become wedged between two palls and her squawking for assistance either irritated the cow or caused her to hasten to the assistance of the hen. Be that as it may, the cow began to use her horns in a suggestive manner whereupon she was attacked by a big rooster, who flew at his big adversary, pecking, spurring, squawking, and uttering the manner of his kind. The cow continued her suspicious designs on the hen until the latter was released from her perilous position by a member of the Frothingham family, after which the rooster desisted from his attacks.

ENGLAND IS BEING SLOWLY WASHED AWAY

Propped Up With Timber and Stone to Keep Her from Crumbling Into the waves.

YORKSHIRE LOSING 30 ACRES OF LAND YEARLY.

Many Inhabitants Remember Standing on a Point Which is Now 800 Yards Out in the Sea.

London, Eng., June 3.—"Stands England where she did?" queries the poet. Geographically, a considerable part of England does not stand where it did a few years ago, or even one year ago. In fact, England is disappearing—being washed away by the sea. The "tight little island" is being propped up with timber and stone to save it from tumbling into the waves. This corrosion is assuming such serious proportions that in the opinion of various authorities, the time has arrived for Parliament to take steps to arrest it.

From Spurn Head to Whitby the sea is eating away the Yorkshire coast. Along the whole line the country of broad acres is disappearing at the rate of 5 feet every year, but between Bridlington and the Humber the coast has been worn back no less than ninety yards since the survey made forty-three years ago. The work of destruction continues unabated. Yorkshire is losing thirty acres of land annually.

Ravenpur was formerly a rival to the flourishing port of Hull. Every schoolboy knows that Ravenpur was the port where Henry IV. landed to effect the deposit of Richard III.; but that same schoolboy would search the map in vain for Ravenpur now.

PLACES DISAPPEARING.

Other places that have shared the same fate are Auburn, Harbourn, Hyde, Gorthorne, and Kilnsea; but the two last named have been rebuilt further inland.

But Yorkshire is not the only county injured by the sea. The Isle of Sheppey is being washed out. The church at Minster, now on the east, was at one time in the middle of the island.

Professor McKenny Hughes says that the most rapid waste has occurred near Warden Point. Within the recollection of the inhabitants the sea has eaten its way for a distance of 300 yards.

A similar story comes from Norfolk. One Cromer has gone under the German Ocean, the inhabitants have retreated inland to their present situation, whence the sea again threatens to dislodge them. On the same coast Shipden, Wimpwell, and Eccles have vanished entirely.

Reculver is another amazing example of the irrepressible onward march of the ocean. A certain church was not so very long ago a mile from the sea. It now stands on the edge of a cliff, from whose face human remains and coffins may occasionally be seen projecting. This, of course, was formerly the churchyard.

Dunwich was once a prosperous town with no fewer than two churches. Only one now remains; the other eleven are at the bottom of the sea.

The churchyard at Abergele, in Wales, contains a headstone to the memory of a man who lived a place "north of here," which is now far out under the sea. The land between the Duddon and Ribbles estuaries in Lancashire is being wiped out at the rate of about eight feet every year. Mathers, a village on the east coast of Scotland, has been obliterated. Not far from the coast of County Down, the pump was formerly situated at a low island, and was used for drawing water out of a quarry. This curious evidence of the inroads which the sea is making in Ireland was photographed by Miss Andrews, of Belfast, who presented the picture to the Museum of Practical Geology, Jernyn street, London, where it can be seen. The pump recently collapsed.

A PRUSSIAN MAJOR DEFENDS THE BRITISH

Destruction of Boer Farm Houses by British Was Justifiable.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN PUBLISHES A LETTER He Says Boer Women Were Treated Better by the British Than by Boer Government.

London, Eng., June 2.—V. Pieter-Schuytewagen, late Major in the Prussian army, now professor of philology and military sciences, has written a letter to The Daily Mail in defence of the British for burning Boer farm houses. He says:

"In your leader of the 15th instant, on the burning of Boer farms, you ask, 'What would the Prussians in 1870-71 have done if they had been fired upon from such farms under cover of the white flag?' May I volunteer to you my personal witness as a former officer of the Prussian army who fought in that war? It is not allowable to play, by change, now the part of peaceful burglar, and then suddenly again, in the hour of the enemy's force, take up arms and commit murder. Our Field Marshal, Count Von Moltke, has explained this question in a well-weighted speech at the German Reichstag. For safety of railways in a hostile country, the neighboring dwelling-places ought to be made answerable. It is a necessity of self-defence. We forced, in 1870-71, burgomasters and other persons of less consequence to travel with us on the locomotive engine some stations both ways. If, nevertheless, in the meantime while rails were taken up and trains were brought to harm by 'franciturs' in our rear, the bordering landowners were punished. The guilty mostly underwent death by being shot."

THE BOERS RESPONSIBLE.

Faithless attacks out of ambushes, or within the hiding-places of our soldiers, were avenged by putting the mistrusted neighboring villages under contribution, or by burning houses. He who will fight for his country ought to stand with an open, righteous mind in the warfare and on the field of honor. We restored order again in a short time through all the departments in the rear of our fighting armies—thanks to the Prussian energy (Schnell). The English, and their leaders in South Africa have mildly and nobly dealt with swarming crowds of murdering fellows who broke their oath, perhaps too weakly. The above facts are stubborn things, and well known here, but in the present perverted state of public opinion it is inconvenient to remember them. People prefer to strike their brains, saying, 'Thank God, we are not like those brutal Englishmen!'

J. as an earnest student of English history and English politics, unbiased by party considerations, keep pleading to my countrymen—unlucky with little success—the years is a just war, that the Boers alone are responsible for it. That the unfriendliness now prevailing throughout Germany towards England is simply an accident, and injurious to the true interests of Germany; and that last, not least, a union between England and Germany is the best-infant the only—bulwark against the 'Yellow Peril,' threatening us from China, but from Russia.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S LETTER.

Mr. Chamberlain has published a letter received by the postmaster of Newtown Butler, county Fermanagh, from Private James Doonan, of the 3rd Irish Royal Fusiliers, and an Irish Roman Catholic, at present serving in South Africa, containing certain observations as to the manner in which the Boer women are treated by the British authorities, and upon the burning of farms. The letter says:

"The Boer women are treated better by the British than they were by their own Government. When their husbands were away on command, they got nothing to eat, and they themselves, now they are in camp and a good deal better looked after than we are. As to the burning of houses, it was necessary and could not be helped. We were on march last November from Krugersdorp to a place called Streakfontein. We were about to halt for the day. There were three farms at it. The General was at the head of the column when he got fired at from one of the houses, the bullet only missing him by an inch. It was one of the women who fired at him. He got those farms burned. The Boers are burning more houses than the British."

It is only Congress has the power to take and administer colonies. It has not asserted, but on the contrary has flatly denied, that the President has any autocratic 'extra-constitutional' powers. And as it has held that the Constitution rules, how can it approve a dangerous and undisciplined unconstitutional sweeping abdication of its powers by Congress?

The upshot of the matter is that Congress has plenary power, but that power must be exercised in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution. Consequently, there is not so much danger of a relapse into 'Caesarism' as some persons would seem to fear.

The New York Herald thinks that the decision has thrown Colonial affairs INTO A HOPELESS MUDDLE, and says it doubts whether the decision settles anything or can stand. It says, for instance, that Secretary Gage's announcement that 'we will go right along collecting duties on imports from the Philippines' and the uncertainty prevailing in Washington as to whether exports from the United States to those islands, Puerto Rico or Hawaii can be constitutionally taxed are striking object lessons of the doubt and confusion into which the Supreme Court has thrown the government and the country by its muddling decisions in the insular cases decided and its failure to pass upon all of them.

These are but samples of the mischievous issues and disputes that are sure to flow from the remarkable judicial performance of this week. There will doubtless be a prolific crop of them relating to the general government of the new possessions, the status of their people, personal rights, and so on.

The code of procedure framed by the Philippine Commission denies the right of jury trial in both civil, and criminal cases. May this constitutional guarantee be thus swept aside by executive edict from Washington? On that vital question hangs the validity of the procedure set up in the Philippines. Yet it is but one of the many questions the remarkable decisions of the Supreme Court leave to speculation and dispute.

Another authority says that nothing save an express prohibition in the Constitution can prevent Congress from legislating as it may see fit for Porto Rico, the Philippines, China, Mexico, Venezuela or whatever territory the United States now owns or may hereafter buy or conquer. The way is paved for any such legislation.

For instance, there is the Spooner resolution, by which Congress abdicated in the Philippines, turning over to the Presidential military, civil and judicial powers necessary to govern in such manner as the President of the United States shall direct, 'until otherwise provided by Congress.'

The Supreme Court has declared

IS U. S. AN EMPIRE?

If So, American Congress Shall Act as Sovereign.

THIS IS HOW IT STANDS NOW

The Construction Put on the United States Supreme Court Decision in the Insular Cases—Certain It Is, the Making Abridge the Plenary Authority of the President

New York, June 4th.—The United States became a world power when they conquered Spain and took away all her colonies, but the formal announcement of the fact has just been made by the highest tribunal in the land. As a result, the American eagle is flapping his wings, soaring and doing all kinds of stunts. According to some interpretations of the Supreme Court's decision, the United States has been suddenly turned into an empire, with that heterogeneous body known as the American Congress acting as sovereign. According to warm supporters of the McKinley Administration at Washington, the President has been endorsed by the court, and has achieved a great victory. It is true that the court has set the seal of approval on the President's course in regard to the colonies, but at the same time it has taken away all his plenary powers and given them to Congress. President McKinley's contentions were, first, that the Government had 'extra-constitutional' powers, under which it could induce in expansion; second, that he himself had the right to rule without restraint in colonies until Congress should see fit to act. In the first contention only one Justice of the Supreme Court agreed with him. The other eight found in the Constitution itself the authorization for expansion. The second contention altogether. It denied unmistakable terms that the President had any powers in territories of the United States except such as Congress might lawfully grant to the Executive.

NEW YORK WORLD'S OPINION.

The New York World says that 'the full extent of these two signal defeats of the President has not yet been realized by the public. But Mr. McKinley is reported to be very uneasy over them. The cause of this anxiety is said to be the tariff which he is proposing for the Philippines, and no doubt he has reason to be anxious on that score. A presidential proclamation is not an act of Congress, and the Supreme Court has declared that it is not an act of Congress, and the President has a deeper matter in mind—the whole question of Executive usurpation and the penitents of the President when a weak Congress is willing to abdicate in favor of the Executive.'

should be in the hands of every sufferer from this dread disease.

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. It was written for us by a physician who has been the subject of a great deal of thought and study, and it will no doubt prove of considerable interest and be of great benefit to those suffering from cancer or tumors. If you are afflicted with cancer yourself, or have a friend or relative who is, send two stamps to Scott & Jewell, Toronto, Ont., and a copy will be mailed you promptly in plain wrapper.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Comes a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elm" helped the Canadian boys on their march.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long tireless marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elm" in their shoes, and this harmless and wonderful discovery prevents scalding, blistering, and chafing, and the marching of the foot is made as easy as the walking of the hand.

Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R.C.R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Scott & Jewell, Bloemfontein, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elm en route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents scalding and chafing. A friend of mine still has a portion of his box left, and he says it is one of the most treasured things his knapsack contains." (Signed) T. Buckart.

"Foot Elm" is 25 cents a box at all drug stores, or by mail, Scott & Jewell, Bloemfontein, Ont.

MORE SMALLPOX CASES

Bad State of Affairs at Kirkfield Through Carelessness

Four Cases Due to a Drunkenness of the Town.

The report has reached town of a case of smallpox having been discovered in Kirkfield, the victim being a resident of that village named MacNichol, a blacksmith. No little excitement has been caused there as a result, but the proper precautions have been taken as to isolation and treatment.

News comes from Kirkfield, of a very bad state of affairs. It appears that a Miss Munroe, a dressmaker of that place, contracted what was supposed to be smallpox, and her father undertook to treat the disease, nothing being said of the case outside the family. Thinking she had sufficiently recovered, Miss Munroe resumed work, with the result that four more cases are reported from Kirkfield.

JURY RETURNS ODD VERDICT.

Finds It Legal to Pass Spurious Coin in Jackpot Poker.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 3.—A jury in the United States court has decided that it is no violation of the law to use a counterfeit coin in opening a "jackpot" in a poker game.

The case was that of Jesse Page of Elmore, who was charged with passing a counterfeit dollar while he had his feet under a poker table. A "jackpot" was the object for which the players were striving. Page "opened the pot" for a dollar and tossed the coin on the table that were already there. The pot was ruled in by a man who was a witness for the government in the case.

Kervens Dyspepsia.

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Stomach nerves make the whole trouble. You need Kervens because it's a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the average state of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you're sure to be in health. Kervens quickly makes blood, strengthens the nervous system, strengthens the digestive organs and prevents the nervous disturbance, disappears. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

The Cause of Nervous Headache.

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is Polman's Nervine. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nervine. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large bottles.

Confirmations.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor was in Campbellford Sunday, where he went to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation. At the nine o'clock mass the children will receive their first Holy Communion and his lordship will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation.

The congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral will have a picnic Dominion Day on the separate school grounds. The proceeds will be presented to St. Joseph's Hospital.

DIED AT MOUNT FOREST.

Rev. A. R. Campbell, of Peterborough Passes Away.

Rev. A. R. Campbell, who has been a resident of Peterborough for a little over a year, and who was on a visit to his brother, Mr. E. B. Campbell, Mount Forest, was stricken with paralysis on Tuesday last and passed away, on Saturday.

The deceased gentleman had been in his usual health, and had no symptoms of approaching illness. He was unable to speak, but retained consciousness up to the end.

Mr. Campbell was for forty years minister engaged in the Methodist ministry, during which he resided about seven years ago, residing in Hastings until he moved to Peterborough. He was very popular as a pastor, and his death will be universally regretted.

The funeral will leave the family residence, corner of Union and Edinburgh streets, this afternoon at five o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment. Friends and acquaintances will kindly accept this intimation.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

Blocking of the By-Law to Extend Water Works.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ashburnham Village Council was held last night. Present, Reeve Adams and Councillors Sheridan, Pollock, Johnston and Smith.

A communication was received from Jacob Doube, asking to rent the west end of Maria street, from John street to the river, for a pasture. No action was taken, it being held that his Council had not the power to close the street.

Mr. Doube also submitted an offer to paint the thirteen hydrants black for $1. No action was taken.

A communication was received from Mr. R. B. Rogers calling attention to the disgraceful state of Elizabeth street on the south side from Stewart street to the railway track, caused by the overflow from the first protection tanks and the drain from the spring in front of the hospital. Referred to Street Committee.

J. May and P. Band asked for a sidewalk on Maria street to Concession street.

It was moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Pollock, that in view of the fact that the Government removed the sidewalk on Concession street for the building of the Trent Canal, and that the same was never replaced and that that portion of the Village is in great need of a walk, this Council request that Mr. Lang bring the same before the Engineer and have the walk replaced, and a copy of this be sent to Mr. Lang.—Carried.

Accounts were ordered paid as follows:

Martin Kyle $2.50
John Weir 2.50
J. C. Sullivan 2.50
Thos. Emerson 1.00

Pay Roll No. 4 50.00

In accordance with a resolution passed at a previous meeting, the Reeve proposed the draft of a by-law to borrow $2,000 for extension of the waterworks. The Reeve then read a petition, signed by 101 ratepayers, asking that the by-law be not submitted to the ratepayers, the ground taken being that inadequate revenue would be derived from the proposed extension, and that the expense of taking a poll might as well be avoided. A discussion ensued which threatened to become general but ended peacefully.

Mr. Pollock thought some of the signs of the petition did not understand that fire protection was the first consideration.

Mr. Smith thought the majority of the signs were already supplied with water and took a somewhat selfish position.

Mr. Johnston blamed the Reeve for his active opposition to the extension. Reeve Adams said he had expressed opposition when the by-law was first proposed.

Mr. Sheridan opposed the by-law and believed it would surely be defeated. The matter was dropped without formal action. The understanding is that a counter-petition will be circulated and if an equal number of signatures be obtained, and especially if some of those who signed the other petition change their mind, the by-law will be submitted.

Before adjourning the Council discussed the sidewalks at some length and the suggestion that granite walks be laid was received with some favor. Councillor Smith showed by figures that with lumber at $14 or more per thousand the permanent walks would be cheaper.

VETERANS OF 1866 MEET.

Present Portrait to Victorian Museum Last Night.

The Veterans of 1866 Association met at the Victoria Museum last night and presented a handsome portrait of the group of veterans to that institution. The portrait is to be kept in the Museum as a remembrance of the Veterans of 1866. Following is the list of the names of the Veterans present.

John Irvine, Wm. Logan, J. B. McWilliams, Fred McCoy, Mr. Miller, Peter Gifford, George Benson, Jessie Gray, E. Green, G. Brown, P. J. R. Mitchell, W. H. Armstrong, H. Rush, J. D. Collins, H. Newell, H. Holmes, G. S. (Kendall), Ed. Green, J. Davidson, J. McKinnon and A. P. Rossetti.

The President read an address and then the presentation followed, after which an address, which was to have been delivered by Dr. Burnham, who was unable to be present, was read by Mr. Haydon.

Col. Rogers then addressed the Veterans for a short time, requesting them and others present to look up old records which would be of much interest and place them in the Museum.

The meeting was adjourned by singing "God Save the King."

FRESH AT NIGHT.

If One Can Get Night Food.

If by proper selection of food one can feel strong and fresh at the end of day's work, it is worth while to know the kind of food that will produce this result.

A school teacher of Media, Kan., says in this connection, "I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts Food five months ago. At that time my health was so poor that I thought I would have to give up work altogether. I was rapidly losing in weight, had little appetite, was nervous and sleepless, and experienced, almost constantly, a feeling of exhaustion. I tried various remedies without good results, then I determined to give particular attention to my food, and have learned something of the properties of Grape-Nuts for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers.

I commenced using that food and have since made constant and rapid improvement in health in spite of the fact that all this time I have been engaged in the most strenuous and exacting work.

I have gained twelve pounds in weight and have a good appetite, my nerves are steady and I sleep sound. I have such strength and reserve force that I feel almost as strong and fresh at the close of a day's work as at the beginning.

Before using Grape-Nuts I was troubled much with weak eyes but as my vitality increased the eyes became stronger. I never heard of food as nutritious and economical as Grape-Nuts. Please omit my name from print." Name can be given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

BACK AFTER THREE DECADES.

Joseph McGrath Surprises His Wife After Long Absence.

New York, June 4.—After an absence from home for thirty years, during which time he met with many vicissitudes and traveled over a large part of the earth Joseph McGrath suddenly appeared before his wife in New York, Tuesday, and declared he would round no more.

"I've brought enough money to take care of us the rest of our days," he said to the astonished woman, "and I've had enough adventures. I'm ready to settle down to a quiet life."

At first his wife did not recognize McGrath, but when she knew it was the husband who had gone away so long before she threw herself into his arms and he had heard from him occasionally during his absence and had answered his letters. The last letter she received from him was three years ago.

The best Physicians Recommend

Malt Breakfast Food

As A True Health Food.

Many of the common and cheaply prepared grain foods use the term "Health Food" on their labels; this is misleading, as a proper analysis would prove. The term "Health Food" is truthfully applied to Malt Breakfast Food, and the ablest physicians recommended it as such. The pure health-giving Malt scientifically combined with the choicest wheat, gives to the world a health food unequalled for producing flesh, bone and muscle. Grocers everywhere.

SEE'S PERIL FOR AMERICA.

French Press Comments Adversely on Similar Cases Decision.

Paris, June 4.—The French papers only to-day discuss the decision of the United States supreme court in the similar cases. The Temps says: "If rumors are true the judges have not succeeded in maintaining themselves pure or true to austere principles, but have become accessible to the arguments and sophisms of politicians. Their decision is as act of the highest gravity and tantamount to a triumph for the McKinley school of manifest destiny, for the glances spread eagerness and the participation of a permanent army. On the other hand, citizens favoring progress and economic reforms who are faithful to the ideas of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln are filled with anxiety and sadness."

The Journal des Debats considers that the decision implies that the annexed territories cannot invoke the benefits of the United States constitution and that the Congress can impose on them any regime it likes, saying: "In short the American dependencies resemble the English crown colonies. We do not think the American idea of protecting the countries they save from so-called European tyranny is encouraging to the Latin states, of America, who call the pan-American congress, and we better understand why the movement of South Africa is toward Spain rather than the United States."

London, June 4.—The Spectator discussing the supreme court decisions, will say to-morrow: "We believe the fate of American dependencies will be a good one, but we cannot deny that the supreme court, in removing the great danger attending annexation, has made annexation easier. If we were Spanish Americans we should feel a new sensation of alarm if, for any reason in the future, near or distant, the statesmen of the union should desire to rule a Spanish American state. We do not see what would prevent. Suppose they buy or conquer Nicaragua, and so terminate all complications as to the control of the canal by cutting it through territory absolutely their own, what, except force, which would hardly be applied, is to prevent them? Or suppose, which is quite possible, that under a new and less violent president than Porfirio Diaz a furious quarrel arises with Mexico, what is to prevent the union acquiring it entire? Formerly they were restrained by the dread of including so many colored voters and of anarchy arising from so many new half-civilized states. But under the decision of Monday they can hold Mexico as we hold India."

The speaker and the Saturday Review consider that the supreme court has upheld imperial policy.

The Good Feeling Between Britain and United States Greatly Strengthened

London, June 5.—"The world at large stands to gain something by this momentous decision by which Congress may devise for the dependencies a form of government outside the American constitution," says the Westminster Gazette, discussing the United States Supreme Court's judgment.

"Without the decision," continues the Westminster Gazette, "the United States government would have been unable to adopt a more liberal trade policy outside of America than within disarranging the whole of their continental fiscal system."

BRITISH GUNS TAKEN AND THEN RETAKEN

Over 1400 Troops and Seven Guns Engaged on the British Side in Battle at Vlakfontein.

Boers Rushed Rearguard Under Cover of Smoke.—Dixon's Force Lost 6 Officers and 21 Men Killed, 5 Officers and 115 Men Wounded and One Officer and 7 Men Missing.

London June 4.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Pretoria, dated June 4, gives details of the recent severe battle at Vlakfontein, indicating the increasing boldness of the Boers, who did not hesitate to come to close quarters with Dixon's rearguard, which was evidently decimated. He says: "Dixon's report of the fighting at Vlakfontein, May 29, just received. On our side 1,450 men with seven guns were engaged. The force was returning to camp at Vlakfontein when the enemy, under cover of a violent fire, rushed the rear guard, consisting of two guns of the 28th Battery and 330 men of the Derbyshire and Yeomanry. They temporarily captured the two guns. When the remainder of the force came into action the Boers were driven off, and the guns were recaptured. Our casualties were six officers and 61 men killed, 6 officers and 115 men wounded, and one officer and seven men missing. One officer and four men have since died of wounds. Forty-one Boers were killed on the ground. The further Boer casualties are not known. Reinforcements are being sent."

order to strip the dead. Ammunition and slaughter cattle are abundant, and the mealie harvest was bountiful while the British were powerless to destroy it.

Dr. Pameyer, who quite recently left Botha's army, declared emphatically that the Boers were well fed and confident. The Transvaalers alone numbered 8,000, besides the Free State forces.

SECRET HOARDS IN THE NORTH.

Mr. Kruger, speaking to a deputation of German sympathizers with the Boers, declared that the Transvaal Government had at its disposal a prodigious quantity of ammunition and provisions stored in the country north of the Zoutpansberg, and inaccessible to the British army.

BOERS BUY HORSES ABROAD.

A despatch from the Hague states that it is firmly believed there that Gen. Botha is in communication with Mr. Kruger through the medium of the Dutch Consul at Cape Town. So little do the Dutch believe that the Boers are ready to surrender that there is a report current that Boer agents are in Holland buying horses, though it is not stated where or how the animals are to be landed in South Africa.

BOERS MAKE MANY ATTACKS.

Despatches from Cape Town show great activity on the part of the Boers. Commandant Scheepers, with 700 men, attacked Willmore Saturday, but was beaten off after nine hours' fighting.

ANOTHER EMPEROR WILLIAM

Bryan Considers McKinley has now Imperial Powers

Lincoln, Neb., June 5.—William Jennings Bryan has published a long manifesto dealing with the Supreme Court's decision in the matter of the lately acquired American insular possessions. He takes the ground that the decision gives the President imperial powers, and reads his statement "Emperor McKinley."

Mr. Bryan declares the Supreme Court has joined with the present Congress in an effort to change the form of government, and he calls on the people to repudiate the verdict. Mr. Bryan says in part:

"By a vote of 5 to 4, the Supreme Court had declared President McKinley emperor of Porto Rico, and according to the press despatches the Emperor has gladly and gratefully accepted the title conferred on him by the highest judicial tribunal of the land. 'Those who are encouraged to believe that the constitution had caught up with the flag, were doomed to disappointment. The decision declares that the people are not the source of power, it defends the taxation without representation, and denies that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed. 'It assaults the foundation of the republic and does so on the ground of expediency. The dissenting opinion is a protest with precedents and burn with patriotism.'"

CHINESE RULE IN PEKIN

Native Officials Will Now Resume Administration

Pekin, June 5.—Pekin is again to come under the administration of the Chinese. That was the decision come to at a meeting of the generals of the allied troops on Saturday. The control of the city will be gradually handed over to Chinese officials during this month. Count von Waldersee, accompanied by his staff, will leave Peking tomorrow. Two special trains will run all the week, taking troops to Taku. The Germans are moving an extraordinary amount of baggage, including Chinese carts, rickshaws, tables and chairs. The Baluchi Regiment left this morning, and all the other British troops, with their hands and guns, were United States officers in Peking were present, the latter being particularly anxious to show their appreciation of the manner in which the British had fared well to the United States troops.

MAXIMITE'S TERRIBLE POWER

The New Explosive More Deadly Than Lydite, But Safer to Handle

New York, June 5.—The Press says Maximite, the new explosive invented by Hudson Maxim, has been adopted by this country after a series of successful tests at the Sandy Hook proving grounds. The secret of the explosive has been sold to the Government by the inventor, and the explosive, it is thought, may revolutionize warfare. It is said to be more deadly in its character than lydite, yet so safely can it be handled that the danger attending its use is less than that incurred in transporting ordinary black powder. The tests indicate that the explosive will pierce a 12-inch heavy armor plate and explode on the other side with sufficient power to destroy everything with which it comes in contact.

Mon. Frank Lucelle Fires at Mills at Chinese Cook

Golden, B.C., June 5.—Hon. Frank Lucelle, of Thunder Hill, on the morning of Wednesday, May 29, while laboring under the delusion that some one was outside his house wanting to force an entrance, shot instantly killed his Chinese cook. Mr. Lucelle has been brooding over the mysterious and inexplicable death of his wife, who died in connection with his being called to give evidence in Magistrate Scott's court in a dispute over a horse. As a result he has been much unsettled. This action of his after the tragedy and placed him under arrest. On his arrival at Golden an examination of Mr. Lucelle was made by two physicians, with the result that they signed a certificate of insanity, on the strength of which Mr. Lucelle was committed to the asylum at New Westminster.

SPAIN IS CUTTING EXPENSES

Military Attacks are Withdrawn from Basques and Legations

Madrid, June 5.—The Spanish military attacks at the various embassies and legations have been withdrawn for reasons of economy. This action on the part of the Spanish government is in line with the general policy of the present ministry, which seeks to reduce the expense of domestic institutions as well as in the colonies. This it is believed, will help the country to a great extent to rally from the depression resulting from the recent war with the United States.

SERIOUS RIOT IN BRITAIN

Two men of the guard were seriously injured by bayonet thrusts. The riot lasted for two hours.

FEARS AN OUTBREAK FROM THE CUBANS

President McKinley of the United States Fears a Rebellion.

ISLAND HELD BY THE MILITIA

Which Means That Uncle Sam Means to Keep a Strong Grip on the Possession—Congress to be Called.

Washington, June 5.—There is every indication that trouble will follow the refusal of Cuba to swallow the platt amendment, and President McKinley is preparing for the worst. If the president decides to issue a call for congress he will submit the Cuban problem that have been created by the constitutional convention for solution. He fears, however, that the Cubans may create other conditions that will be more difficult to solve, and he would like to have congress on hand if there should be an outbreak. He would like the fullest authority for any act he may have to order in the event of the Cubans causing an outbreak that will bring the army into play. The president is determined that he will not yield a point to the Cubans in his future negotiations with the constitutional convention, and General Corbin has proclaimed what the administration's policy is going to be by stating that the army will never be withdrawn until the convention accepts the Platt amendments in the exact form they were passed by congress. This means that this country is to remain in military control of the island, perhaps, for an indefinite period.

THE DEFENCES OF GIBRALTAR

Forecast of the Report Which the Commission is Likely to Make

NO SAFETY FROM THE GUN FIRE

London, June 4.—The Daily Chronicle publishes what is likely to be the report of the Gibraltar Commission, showing why the professional members of it could not agree with Mr. Gibson Bowles.

In the first place, assuming guns to be of Alcazar (none appear to be there actually), it is maintained that a basin and dockyard would be very little more protected if it were on the opposite side than it is in its present position. The present mole reaches out nearly half a mile. Were that space enclosed on the other side by a drop shell from high-angle fire guns or howitzers on most of the enclosed area as on the exposed side. Ships would have no shelter unless close under the Rock, and comparatively little could be thus sheltered.

There is no reason, moreover, why the Spaniards should select Alcazar at all. Any intelligent gunner would naturally select the Queen of Spain's Chair, whence both sides of the rock can be shelled with impunity, so that one side is no safer than the other. This, our correspondent says, the Commission will point out.

It is probable that they will further draw attention to the fact that no safety from gun-fire is to be obtained, save by making an enormous cave, a stupendous and well-nigh impossible feat. Failing that, Gibraltar must rely on its superior return fire, and the fact that to do any serious damage would entail the expenditure of a vast amount of ammunition—more probably than Spain could afford.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN

General Booth and his son Ballington to be Reconciled

Cleveland, Ohio, June 5.—The breach between General William Booth, founder and head of the Salvation Army, and his son Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, is to be healed, after existing five years. F. D. Hazard, financial secretary of the Colonization and Social Settlement department of the Salvation Army in America, announces that secret negotiations are being carried on with a view of effecting a reconciliation between General Booth and his son.

Mr. Hazard says: "Ballington Booth will return to the Salvation Army. I know Ballington Booth has never been satisfied since he left the Salvation Army, and I know he is anxious to return. The Volunteers of America have never been successful. They only have one corps in New York and they have not one shelter in the country. Ballington Booth's sympathies are in the Salvation Army and his heart is not in any independent movement."

FIVE INJURED IN A FIGHT

Salvoes Used With Terrible Effect in Affray Near Pullman

Chicago, June 5.—As the result of a street fight near Stephen Salpo's saloon, 1024 West One Hundred and Ninth street, Saturday night, five men were injured, two seriously. They are: Laporte, Stephen, 1024 West One Hundred and Ninth street, wound on head and knife stab in neck; condition serious; removed to county jail hospital.

Stark, Andrew, 11817 Sangamon street, four wounds in back, one severing left ninth rib and cutting two muscles on left arm; condition serious; removed to county jail hospital.

Horvath, Joseph, 11707 Morgan street, two slight wounds in back.

Dare, Joseph, 11771 Sangamon street, slight scalp wound.

Kovach, Louis, 11707 Morgan street injured internally.

All the participants in the fight are Hungarians employed at Pullman and been drinking in Salpo's saloon when a dispute arose and they went outside to settle the matter. In the affray knives, clubs and bricks were used freely and Laporte was rendered unconscious by a blow on the head.

The noise of the fight aroused neighbors, and a riot call was sent to the Kensington police station. When the police arrived Laporte was lying on the ground unconscious and bleeding from a wound in the side. For a time he was thought to be dead. After having his wounds dressed all were placed under arrest and taken to the station. Laporte and Stark, whose wounds were serious, were taken to the County Jail hospital. The others were detained.

FIFTEEN MEN LOST AT SEA

Fishermen are Caught in a Squall and Probably Perish

Charleston, S.C., June 5.—Fifteen fishermen are supposed to have been drowned in a wild squall Friday afternoon while the "mosquito fleet" of fishing-boats was anchored off the "eastern patches." The eight boats at the time were scattered to the four winds and all save three were accounted for to-night. The missing boats were the Anna Julia, Messenger, Boy and Knave. There were fifteen on the three boats.

When the supposed disaster was reported the revenue cutter Edward went to sea and skirted for thirty miles around the lightship, but came back with the report that not a sign of life or a disabled boat could be seen. All hope for the safety of the fishermen was abandoned at dark to-day when the cutter got into port. Captain Joe Watkins of the Messenger Boy was the only white skipper supposed to have perished.

BUTTE CRACKING TO PIECES

Montana City Alarmed by Increasing Civilian in the North

Butte, Mont., June 5.—The strange sliding movement of the city of Butte, which has been noticeable at intervals for several years has again manifested itself by five large cracks in the earth in different sections of the city and the citizens are becoming alarmed. The largest crevice is noticed on West Galena street, where a crack twelve inches wide and of considerable length and depth has appeared. Three of the openings occur on the west side of the town and two on the east side.

There is no caving, but a distinct parting of the earth and the granite walls can easily be seen in them. The gas and water companies have much trouble on account of the strange movement, which frequently breaks their underground pipes. City Engineer Bickenback says the engineering department of the city encounters the same trouble, as elevations and bench marks in certain parts of the city are constantly changing.

BOOTH FEUD AT AN END

The Head of the Salvation Army Will Forgive His Son and End the Feud

This will Mean a United Army Movement Throughout the Civilized World

General Booth, Head of the Salvation Army

After five years of rivalry between the leaders of the two great religious movements the famous breach between General William Booth, the founder and head of the Salvation Army of the world, and his son, Ballington Booth, who is at the head of the Volunteers of America, will soon be healed.

I. D. Hazard of New York, financial secretary of the colonization and social settlement department of the Salvation Army of America, who is now in Cleveland, is authority for the statement, according to dispatches from the Ohio city, that secret negotiations are now being carried on with the view to effect a reconciliation between General William Booth and his son.

General William Booth planted the seed from which the Salvation Army has grown and he has lived to see it the greatest religious organization of modern times. For twelve years Ballington Booth was the commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army and about five years ago, when he disagreed with his father, he severed his connection with the Salvation Army, and organized what is known as the volunteers of America. The rupture between the father and the son caused widespread discussion.

REFUSED TO OBEY HIS FATHER.

The primary cause of the rupture was the refusal of Ballington Booth to obey his father when the latter issued an order transferring him from the head of the Salvation Army in the United States to the head of the army in Canada. The word "obey" means the same in the Salvation Army as it does in the regular army and when Ballington Booth refused to obey the orders to go to Canada he was obliged to relinquish his position. He then formed the rival organization—the Volunteers of America.

Commander Booth-Tucker, the son-in-law of General William Booth, was called from his post in India and placed at the head of the Salvation Army in America to succeed Ballington Booth. NEGOTIATIONS ARE SECRET.

Cleveland, O., June 5.—Secretary Hazard when pressed for details as to his statement concerning the reconciliation between the two army heads said:

"All I can say about the matter at present is that secret negotiations are being carried on to effect a reconciliation between General William Booth and his son, Ballington Booth, and the indications are that the unfortunate breach will be healed. Ballington Booth will then return to the Salvation Army. I know that Ballington Booth has never been satisfied since he left the Salvation Army."

As Ballington Booth returns to the Salvation Army," concluded Secretary Hazard, "he must first do that which he has been or may be ordered to do and he will be welcome home."

It is believed that the reconciliation between General Booth and his son will be effected during the visit of the former to this country in September. The reconciliation will mean the disruption of the volunteers of America.

Army and I know that he is anxious to return. The Volunteers of America have never been successful. They have only one corps in New York and they have not one shelter in the country. Ballington Booth's sympathies are with the Salvation Army; his friends are in the Salvation Army and his heart is not in the independent movement.

"While at the head of the Salvation Army in the United States his heart was in the work. He was a good and efficient officer and was loved by all. It was his great attachment for the United States and for the Salvation Army of this country that caused him to refuse the position at the head of the army in Canada.

"The rules of the Salvation Army apply to one and all alike. The greatest officer must obey orders as well as the smallest officer. If the colonel of any division is ordered from one post to another he is expected to obey the order. The term at one post is four years. An efficient officer may be retained at one post for eight years and possibly for twelve years, but seldom, if ever, longer than three years. Ballington Booth had held his position at the head of the army in the United States for twelve years. At the end of the third term General William Booth thought it right that the most desirable post in the world should be distributed among the heads of the Salvation Army. He had a daughter and a son-in-law at the head of the work. In India, an undesirable post. It was decided that Commander Booth-Tucker and his wife should be placed at the head of the army in the United States and that his son, Ballington Booth, should take charge of the army in Canada."

"If a reconciliation is effected, what position will Ballington Booth be given when he returns to the Salvation Army?"

"If Ballington Booth returns to the Salvation Army," concluded Secretary Hazard, "he must first do that which he has been or may be ordered to do and he will be welcome home."

It is believed that the reconciliation between General Booth and his son will be effected during the visit of the former to this country in September. The reconciliation will mean the disruption of the volunteers of America.

NEW ERA FOR CHINA IS NOW ACCOMPLISHED

The Chinese Court Will Return to Peking the Capital—Allies Leave the City.

End of a Long and Anxious Period of International Strife and Jealousy—Russia Renews Guaranty of Manchuria's Restoration.

Pekin, June 5.—Everything is being put in readiness here for the return of the Chinese court to Peking and for the restoration of the Chinese regime. The allied powers will still be in control during the month of June, while the government will gradually be turned over to the Chinese officials. At a meeting of the generals of the allied troops to-day it was decided to transfer the administration of the city of Peking to the Chinese officials gradually during June.

The evacuation of China by the foreign troops is progressing apace now that the court has ordered by decree the payment of the indemnity agreed upon by the allies. Peace negotiations were hastened by an imperative demand of the Emperor, who insisted on the early return of the court to Peking. She stated that the famine and distress in Shan-Si were serious and the country around Singanfu was unsettled and on the verge of rebellion, thus rendering it impossible for the court to remain at that place.

of Manchuria to China as soon as a normal state of affairs is re-established and a government instituted which would afford Russia a guarantee against a renewal of the "Boxer" disturbances. The withdrawal of troops is conducted according to a uniform systematic scheme in proportion to the number of soldiers of each nation. Count von Waldersee, accompanied by his staff, will leave Peking to-morrow. Two special trains will run all the week taking troops to Taku. The Germans are removing an extraordinary quantity of baggage, including Chinese carts, rickshaws, tables and chairs. Count von Waldersee will remain for a time on board the Gera. After the evacuation an adequate number of troops will be left to guard the legations and to keep up communication with the sea.

The Baluchi regiment left this morning amid impressive ceremonies of farewell. All the other British troops, with their hands, and every American officer in Peking was present, the Americans being particularly anxious to show their appreciation of the manner in which the British had fared well to the American troops.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION, BUFFALO

could not even save the house in which she had lived so long, and she was poor, alone, with a hopeless burden upon her young life.

At first it came like a horrible dream wherein she stood helpless, and besieged by terror too horrible to endure; but through it all one recollection came to strengthen her; Dwight was left—Dwight, with his strength and love, and he would come to her when he knew.

She wrote, just as any woman would have written, from the depths of a breaking heart.

"Come to me, Dwight. Father is sick—dying, perhaps—and I am so lonely and so unhappy. Please come to me, darling!"

And she waited. Did you ever wait for help, for a message, or needed somebody or something, or waited, watched, hoped, despaired for something, without which it seemed impossible for life to go on? If you have, you know how she waited for the message that should bring her comfort, and save her from despair.

Yet it came not. Morning after morning a pale, tired face looked from the window as the mail carriage passed, and day after day tired feet climbed the hill leading to the post office, and white lips asked for the hoped-for letter.

The farm, the stable, and all the well-fed stock, hay and farming implements were sold; and then someone came and told her that the house was sold, and the owner must move into it.

There was a little place to rent in the village, kind hands transferred the few things left the broken family to the small, lonely, and Lilyan, complainingly took up her life there. But she said, with that sad smile of hers:

"It will be righted yet. I have not given up yet. I would not lose faith in him for worlds!"

And then she went on working, patiently, perseveringly and hopefully. Everybody wondered. Such a petted, happy, ordinary little thing she had looked all her life, with a grain of heroism in her composition, or anything but her tender little ways to distinguish her from other women, that it seemed incredible she would possess so much courage and strength.

She worked with the earnestness of a woman who knows she must be never flagging, never losing heart, but keeping steadily on and hoping. "I feel such a woman of ironing rest," she said one day to a friend who had comforted her all through this trial. "Something good will come to me. I have worked so long and uncomplainingly, that I cannot think that God will forget me in the distribution of his joys. Wait, and you will see."

And it came. Right in the midst of her greatest sorrows, when life seemed the darkest and hope seemed the furthest away, there came a message. It said:

"Lily—My own little girl, what can I say to you after this long silence? How can I atone for the anxiety I must have caused you? I feel, little one, that an atonement is impossible; for, Lily, after weeks of terrible illness, I come back to life and strength, yet totally, hopelessly blind. Think of it—blind, dearest, with nothing to hope for so long as I shall live—and I may live to be an old man—with only the memory of the beautiful world, of which henceforth I must know nothing! And you—almost my little wife—what can I say to you? Nothing, but tell you of my broken life, and give you back your freedom; for I am poor, helpless and blind."

"God bless you and send you a better husband than ever I could have been!"

Only a little more added to her burden, and it did seem too heavy. Even this was better than to know she had forever lost him. So she wrote:

"Come to me. I will be your eyes."

He came, helpless and blind, as she said, and Lily took up her work and was happy. Two men, strong in their lives as men are ever, now like little children, lean upon this one frail woman, whose trust in God and love of them alone support her; and those who know and love her, look upon her as one who has merited the greatest reward that heaven can give—a patient, loving woman.

AFTER 15 YEARS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T. R., Bradford.

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Sir—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. As a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a living, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. Jones, Lockport, N.Y. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

TEN YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Since Sir John A. Macdonald, the Great Conservative Chieftain, Passed Away.

Memorial Services to be Over the Grave of the Great Canadian To-Day

Kingston, June 6.—Among those who have been invited to take part in the memorial service at the grave of the late Sir John A. Macdonald to-day, will be Mr. George Taylor, M.P., of Gananoque, and Rev. John Mackie, of St. Andrew's church, in this city. Brief speeches will be made by Mayor Kent, ex-Mayor Minnie, president of the Conservative Club, the president of the Conservative Association, and the president of the Reform Association and others of this city.

The death of Sir John Macdonald occurred on June 6th, 1891, after a lingering illness, at Esauville, Ottawa city. Parliament was in session at the time, it being the first session after general elections. The vacant leadership of the party was given to Sir John Abbott.

after whose death Sir John Thompson became Premier. The sudden death of the latter at Windsor Castle placed the mantle on Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who was followed by Sir Charles Tupper. The general elections in 1896 placed the Conservatives in a minority, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier became Premier.

Ambassador Pauncefote Will Sail for London.

STHMAN CANAL TREATY.

Home Government Wants to Know the State of Feeling in America

Worried About Proposed Isthmian Canal and Treaty—State Department will in fact on Abrogation of Old Agreement.

Washington June 6.—Lord Pauncefote, ambassador of Great Britain, who sails to-morrow for London, ostensibly for a vacation, is understood to be going at the express command of the British foreign office, which desires to consult him about the state of public feeling in the United States regarding the construction of the isthmian canal. So much conflicting information on this subject has reached Great Britain that the authorities desire to hear a full explanation from their representatives on the ground. Lord Pauncefote is in a position fully to enlighten them. He takes with him papers containing a complete review of the opinions of United States senators as to the propriety of the canal, as well as the views of the secretary of state, the attorney general and other high government officials. None of these confers with the ideas of the British foreign office as indicated by Lord Lansdowne's note declining to accept the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. A majority of the senators stand for arbitrary abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty so that the United States will be unhampered by its diplomatic obligations in connection with the great interoceanic canal project.

Lord Pauncefote regards the prospect as exceedingly perilous for the prestige of the British government in the western hemisphere and it is believed in Washington that he will advise the foreign office to take the initiative in negotiations for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty so that the English people may be saved the humiliation of seeing the senate act without resorting to diplomatic expedients.

Lord Pauncefote is especially impressed by the unequivocal jingo declarations of such senators as Lodge, Mason, Spooner, Elkins, Hale, Hoar, Frye, Perkins and others equally known. Lord Pauncefote will inform the foreign office that the state department in Washington is ready to receive negotiations upon the basis of unconditional abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and American control of the isthmian canal, and upon no other terms. Secretary Hay is cognizant of the importance of Lord Pauncefote's mission and will await news from him with the keenest interest.

McKinley Tires of High Tariff.

The frequent references to President McKinley's change from an ultra high tariff advocate to a champion of reciprocity no doubt accurately represent the president's attitude, he chief executive is heartily in favor of adopting reciprocal trade relations with all the world, and if he has his way during the coming four years reciprocity treaties already negotiated and others that have been considered will be in full force and effect. The president of the American Protective Tariff League, O. A. Moore, who accompanied President McKinley to the Pacific coast and heard every speech he delivered as well as one delivered at the Union League club, San Francisco, comes back convinced that Mr. McKinley has abandoned the policy which contributed so much toward placing him in the white house. AN ITALIAN LOVE TRAGEDY.

Wife and Mother Murdered by a Former Neighbor—He Had Lived in the Family. Another Dead Credited to J. P. Morgan.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—Benjamin Setty, who narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of an infuriated mob at McKeesport, Pa., yesterday and last night for an alleged assault on the young daughter of Thomas Sullivan, was brought to this city at an early hour this morning and placed in the county jail. Mayor Bickel learned that Setty met meetings to arrange for an onslaught on the jail where being held, and taking advantage of the temporary quiet that reigned had the prisoner removed to this city.

What Two Leprosy Stations.

The marine hospital service is making exhaustive investigations of leprosy in the United States for the purpose of persuading congress to establish at least two stations, one in the north and one in the south, where persons suffering from this incurable and horrible affliction may be segregated. The investigations thus far made show that there are 276 known cases of the disease in the country. Five of these are located at Chicago. Congress has in the past been petitioned by the medical profession to establish leprosy hospitals, but in the absence of reliable data indicating the prevalence of the disease has refused to do so.

Platt Distrusts the Cubans.

The Cuban imbroglio growing out of the recent visit to the United States of the commission that was supposed to be seeking information about the meaning of the Platt amendments is not surprising to persons who know and understand the Cubans. They are different from any other race of people on the face of the earth. They invited the fullest expression of views from Secretary Root and the president, and after securing what they came for went back and deliberately broke faith by incorporating the secretary's views in the instrument that was finally adopted by the convention. Senator Platt of Connecticut warned the secretary against trusting the Cubans. Notwithstanding that he is chairman of the Cuban committee, the senator flatly refused to have anything to do with the commissioners, because he distrusted them. Other senators who were in Washington took the same view as Senator Platt and remained away from the white house dinner because they did not think it was discreet to attend such a function to such slippery statesmen.

SLAIN BY FORMER LOVER.

New York, June 6.—Francisco Alasko, 22 years old, shot and killed his cousin, Mrs. Angeline Faia, 27 years old, in the Woman's House early today, and then committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast. The tragedy occurred in a tenement at 163 Elizabeth street.

Alasko had been in love with the woman for years. Mrs. Faia, her husband, Angelo, and Alasko were natives of the little town of Potenza, Italy, and grew up together. Alasko and Faia were rivals for the woman's affections. She married Faia, and Alasko appeared to make the best of his disappointment. He professed enduring friendship for Angelo and his wife, and when the couple came to this country he accompanied them, and all three, with the Faia's two children, lived together.

This morning Faia went out to buy milk and bread to the breakfast. The tragedy took place soon after he left the house. No one except the two children in the tenement heard the shots. When Faia returned to his rooms he was not at the threshold by his daughter Carmela, who cried "Oh papa! Francisco has shot mama!" Faia was arrested as a suspicious person, but his innocence was apparently established by the straightforward story told by his little daughter Carmela, who said Alasko had done the shooting and he was discharged.

A MORRIS DEAL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 6.—A special from Charleston, W. Va., states that a movement is on foot in the Kanawha and New River districts to combine the coal and coke companies along the Kanawha & Michigan Railroad. Options have also been secured on the mines along the Ohio Central and Hooking Valley roads. It is said that J. P. Morgan is behind the deal. Several companies say they will fight the combine.

SHOT DEAD BY A MARSHAL.

Metropolis, Ill., June 6.—Marshall W. E. Oakes of this city is fatally wounded and A. M. Covington is dead as the result of a shooting affray which occurred here to-night at 10 o'clock.

Such a shooting will be a bitter disappointment to many, as the smallest estimate made by census experts some months ago prophesied an increase of about 1,100,000. These figures will appear particularly small when compared with Germany's increase of 800,000 in a single year, Austria's 500,000, England's 400,000 and Italy's 400,000 in the space of twelve months.

FRANCE MAKES SLOW GROWTH.

Census Figures Show Small Increase in Five Years.

Paris, June 6.—To-morrow it is expected that full official figures of the recent census of France will be published. It will show the population of Paris has now reached 2,600,000, representing an increase of 49,000 since the census of 1896. During the same period the city's widespread suburbs have experienced a like increase.

It is believed that for the entire country the report will show an increase of only 500,000 during the past five years. Such a showing will be a bitter disappointment to many, as the smallest estimate made by census experts some months ago prophesied an increase of about 1,100,000. These figures will appear particularly small when compared with Germany's increase of 800,000 in a single year, Austria's 500,000, England's 400,000 and Italy's 400,000 in the space of twelve months.

Something Worth Knowing.

Oatmeal is more prevalent than it formerly was, and many people are afflicted with this dangerous disease long before they are aware of it. Then it has developed into the worst form, and the sufferer rushes for a doctor from whom he gets little or no relief. A special study of the disease was made by the Oatmeal Company and their labors have been awarded by the discovery of a true specific "Oatmeal Cure" which they guarantee is a cure. The "Oatmeal Cure" can be bought from the Oatmeal Company, or from the editor's family used it with most satisfactory results; it is pleasant to use and gives instant relief.

BATTLE FOR FREEDOM

Fierce Fight Between Criminals and Police in Toronto

A CONSTABLE SHOT DEAD

Bank Robbers Became Fiercely Desperate, and Desperately Fight for Liberty.

Fell Particulars of the Terrible Tragedy on the Streets of Toronto—A Thrilling Story.

Murder is the cost of the hard fought extradition of the desperate criminals, Rutledge, Rice and Jones, who were brought here from Chicago to stand trial for bank robbery charges, and if Jones, one of the prisoners, does not die of bullet wounds, he will lose his left arm.

The victim is County Constable William Boyd, of Toronto, who is now lying dead at the morgue in the General Hospital, his death having been caused by two bullets fired from a revolver in the hands of the prisoner Rice.

The tragedy resulted from a bold attempt on the part of a confederate to secure the escape of the prisoners.

At the adjournment of the trial of the prisoners for robbery, they were placed in a hack to be taken back to the jail at six o'clock. Jones was in the centre, with Rutledge hand cuffed to his left hand and Rice to his right, and the three occupied the back seat of the vehicle. Facing them were County Constable Walter Stewart and William Boyd, while County Constable Lyman Bogart sat upon the seat of the hack, with driver George Highley of 237 Sackville street.

ON UNKNOWN MAN APPEARS.

When the carriage was rolling at a leisurely pace along Gerrard street, an unknown man who came up Sumach street, ran towards it and threw a package inside. It was a hat, in which was a cloth and two revolvers. The weapons were grabbed by Rice and Rutledge and the man who threw them into the cab ran away down Sumach street.

When Rice got his revolver he fired at Constable Boyd twice, the bullets going through the constable's head on the left side, causing injuries which resulted in his death about an hour later. The guns were turned upon Stewart, who, with presence of mind, threw up his hands and, feigning fear, told the prisoners to get out. As they left the cab Stewart drew his revolver and fired, shattering the left forearm of Jones, who was the middle prisoner.

BOARDING A PASSING CAR.

A Carlton and College street car was passing east and the three fugitives boarded the front platform, while Jones howled with pain from his wounded arm, but was dragged along by his shackled comrades as he was shot again in the groin, by Stewart. An effort was made to overcome the motorman and bullets were flying in all directions. Stewart had struggled with the men as they boarded the car and threw away his revolver which he thought must be empty, and grabbed one in the hands of Rutledge. The discarded gun was secured by Rutledge at the side of the car, and Stewart started in to club the men into submission, regardless of danger. The trolley pole was pulled down and the back brakes of the car worked till it stopped in front of Hathaway's butcher shop on the south side of Gerrard street, east of Sword street. In the mean time there was a hail of bullets, and it is a miracle that others besides poor Boyd were not killed.

Bullets crashed through the doors of 49 and 51 Gerrard street, and it looked as if the desperadoes would get away, when Guards Spanton and Doods of the jail who were on their way home to supper, came on the scene and helped Stewart in his brave efforts to conquer the outlaws. Spanton took a gun from Rutledge, who said he would give in, and after a fierce fight of a minute or so all resistance was overcome and the car was run along as far as the jail, the prisoners being covered by revolvers in the hands of the three officers. Several citizens rendered valuable assistance, and by combined action the desired result was brought about.

When the prisoners were safely landed in the jail, Dr. Sneath, the nearest physician, was called in, and he summoned the jail physician, Dr. Richardson, and Dr. Bingham.

WANTED TO LYNCH PRISONERS.

In the meantime a large crowd of excited citizens had collected around the jail, the hospital and the scene of the tragedy. While the curious and sympathetic awaited news of the condition of Constable Boyd at the hospital gates, a score or more men assembled at River street and Gerrard and threatened, indignantly, of going to the jail and having the three prisoners shot immediately by the jail yard. Cooler counsel prevailed, however, and ideas of such summary methods were abandoned.

It was when a carriage containing the bereaved wife and daughter of Constable Boyd came tearing down Sumach street, on its way to the hospital, that indignation ran at its height, and the proposals of lynching were freely made, as at that time the news of Boyd's death was announced.

TERRIFIED BY THE GANG.

The greatest excitement prevailed in the immediate neighborhood. The nerves of the women were unstrung, while the men who were eye witnesses seemed too much worked up to give a truthful story of the awful occurrence. The crowd of the morbid curious increased to thousands as the news of the tragedy spread farther away.

It was hard to get any details from some of the witnesses. They were afraid that there was an organized gang that would not hesitate to put to death anyone who would say anything that would help to hang the murderers. Even at the hospital, the superintendent, Dr. O'Reilly, refused to assume the responsibility for the fate of Boyd's body, and the remains were handed over to the coroner.

STEWART A HERO.

The presence of mind and the daring of County Constable Stewart have made him a hero in the eyes of the people.

Stewart was a young fellow, and his strength stood him in good stead.

HYDE CHASED THE UNKNOWN.

Several who saw the man throw the parcel into the cab are unable to describe him. He was chased to Sumach by William Hyde, who keeps the corner fruit store, and Mr. Hyde says he wore a hat and a dark suit and was a young man, short in stature. Others say the man did not wear a hat.

The first move of the police was to arrest the mysterious veiled woman, known as "Vina," who has been in close attendance upon the prisoners since their arrest in Chicago a year ago this month. The woman was taken into custody in the corridor outside the Asseize Court, and on Monday morning, by Detective Cuddy and Orlie. She was arraigned in the Police Court under the name of Vina Seavey, on a charge of vagrancy, and was remanded for a week to $100 bail. A score of people in the crowded courtroom knew that the tall, red-haired woman was supposed to be concerned in the conspiracy to release the three men, and that before a week was out she might be charged with being an accessory to the murder of Constable Boyd.

Vina is a tall, slender young woman of rather dark complexion. She was clad in a striped blouse and a gray skirt, and wore a round hat with many flowers. She took her arrest very coolly and refused to give the officers any information concerning herself. She refused to say why she was here or where she was stopping. In Police Court she was as nonchalant as if she was a mere spectator and an uninterested one at that.

HER CAREER IN TORONTO.

Since she has been in Toronto she has lived at the home of Charlie Rutledge, a brother of the prisoner Frank Rutledge, at 12 Agnes street, and in other places. During the race she lived at the Romain House with a man who gave her the name of Irish and said he was a bookmaker at the track. She passed as his wife. She left the hotel Sunday night, presumably to go to Hamilton with the horses. Though the detectives suspect of having a hand in the conspiracy, she was not in the neighborhood of the shooting last night. Her movements were carefully traced. She was seen of Tonge street a few minutes after 8 o'clock, and occupied a seat at the Grand Opera House during the remainder of the evening.

THIS ACCOMPLICE.

"We have had half a dozen descriptions of the man who threw the revolver," said Inspector Stark, "but they all agree upon that he is an American individual. It would be a mistake for me to hazard an opinion as to whether the accomplice was a Toronto man or not. There was not little risk to him, and a $10 bill would tempt a hundred laughs here to do this deed. Of course, if he caught he will be tried for murder along with the other three. I do not think that the man who escaped was 'Auntie,' the fourth man of the gang. I don't think he would trust himself in town."

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES

Will In All Probability Visit Peterborough in October and Other Interesting Points.

Ottawa, June 6.—Government House gave out this morning the program for the arrival of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, it says.

We are authorized to state that according to present arrangements their Royal Highnesses will arrive at Quebec on Monday, September 16th, on H.M.S. Ophir, where they will be officially received by the Governor-General, the Prime Minister, members of the Cabinet, and officers of State. Their Royal Highnesses will leave Halifax for their homeward journey on October 21st.

The following outline of their tour through the Dominion has been provisionally approved:

Arrive Quebec midday September 16.
Leave Quebec a.m. Wednesday, 18.
Arrive Montreal midday Wednesday, 18.
Leave Montreal a.m. Friday, 20.
Arrive Ottawa midday Friday, 20.
Leave Ottawa a.m. Tuesday, 24.
Arrive Winnipeg a.m. Thursday, 26.
Leave Winnipeg late Thursday, 26.
Arrive Vancouver, Monday 30.
Arrive Victoria, Tuesday October 1.
Leave Victoria Thursday, October 3.
Arrive Toronto, Monday, October 7.
Leave Toronto, Saturday, October 12.
Arrive St. John, N. B., Tuesday, October 15.
Leave Halifax, Monday, October 21.
Their Royal Highnesses will be the guests of the Governor-General at the Citadel, Quebec, and at the Government House while at Ottawa. It is expected that their Royal Highnesses, after leaving Winnipeg will make short stops at Brandon, Regina, Calgary, and will probably spend Sunday at Banff. The time allotted at Toronto is intended to include visits in Ontario generally, while it is hoped that the time available after leaving Toronto will enable their Royal Highnesses to visit the chief towns in the Maritime Provinces.

It must be understood that the arrival of the Ophir at Quebec on September 16th, on which the above time is based, is so some extent dependent on the weather she meets with during her voyage. The dates of the itinerary are only approximate, and will require detailed consideration. The program will ultimately require the approval of his Royal Highnesses. As court mourning for Queen Victoria will not be over, His Excellency has been informed by His Majesty's Government that their Royal Highnesses cannot attend balls or public banquets, either Government or civic, but that official dinners, concerts, receptions and reviews may be held. His Royal Highness has expressed a desire to present medals to all Canadians who have served in the South African war. Their Royal Highnesses are accompanied by his Serene Highness Prince Alexander of Teck, and then follows the list of names already published.

The proposals of all Reception Committees should be submitted to the Secretary of State as soon as possible.

THE REVOLVERS USED.

The revolvers thrown into the cab are of thirty-eight and forty-four caliber. Both are hammerless Smith & Wesson guns. One gun has been fired six times. The hat thrown into the cab with the revolvers was from a recent block, but the name of the maker had been cut out.

BULLETS FLEW.

Bullets were found imbedded in passing wagons and in the front of houses near the scene. There were quite a few people on the street at the time of the attack, and it is a wonder, some of the spectators were not injured.

William Callow of 5 Sword street was on his bicycle near Sumach and Gerrard streets when the shooting occurred. He saw the prisoners bundle out of the cab, after shots had been fired, but he could not say how many shots. Mr. Callow said: "To tell you the truth, I can hardly believe now what I did see. The fellows scrambled on the cab down near as far as River street, when they were overpowered by the officers."

JONES IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

Jones was this afternoon removed from the jail to the General Hospital for treatment. Though he is in a critical condition, the jail officials took no chances, and he was guarded on the journey, and will be as long as he remains in the institution. If the doctors are of the opinion that he is able to stand the shock of the operation, his arm will be amputated this afternoon. Governor Vauxant says he is in a very dangerous condition, and the chances are against his recovery.

Vina Seavey, the woman who was arrested in this year's Derby owing to the open character of the race was testified to by the vast numbers who left London for Epsom throughout the morning. From an early hour the roads and railroads toward were densely thronged with a strange medley of race-goers. The road, as usual, was favored by everyone able to secure room in any kind of conveyance, and a continuous stream of every conceivable type of vehicle, from the luxurious four-in-hand to the costliest donkey cart, rolled towards the sands at Epsom. An exceptional number of motors evidenced the growing popularity of automobilism. Huge crowds gathered at the main points along the route to watch the quaint scenes witnessed only on Derby day.

NO DESIRE TO BE LAW LORD.

Sir Louis Davies Hopes the Hon. Edward Blake Will go on the Imperial Bench.

Ottawa, Ont., June 6.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. A. G. Blair, and Sir Louis Davies left for England yesterday. They will join Hon. David Mills in Boston to-day and will sail from that port by the Commonwealth. Before leaving Sir Louis Davies asked your correspondent to contradict the statement which had appeared in a number of newspapers to the effect that he was an applicant for the position of Lord of Appeal to sit on the Privy Council, and afterwards to enter the House of Lords, as impudently by Hon. Joseph Chamberlain in the reorganization of the Judicial Committee.

"I am not an applicant for the position at all," said the Minister of Marine, "but, on the contrary, I hope that the Hon. Edward Blake, who is eminently fitted for the position, will be asked to accept it. His appointment would be one which the Canadian people generally would heartily approve of."

His, therefore, as at rest the stories connecting the name of Sir Louis Davies as Lord of Appeal for Canada. It is in connection with this matter that Mr. Mills leaves for England, and until the matter is settled the Imperial and colonial authorities are over the exact nature of the appointment will not be known. The salary, however, will be paid by the Imperial Government, and it will be about $30,000 a year.

THE DERBY IS AN AMERICANS' PRICE

London, June 6.—The widespread interest in this year's Derby owing to the open character of the race was testified to by the vast numbers who left London for Epsom throughout the morning. From an early hour the roads and railroads toward were densely thronged with a strange medley of race-goers. The road, as usual, was favored by everyone able to secure room in any kind of conveyance, and a continuous stream of every conceivable type of vehicle, from the luxurious four-in-hand to the costliest donkey cart, rolled towards the sands at Epsom. An exceptional number of motors evidenced the growing popularity of automobilism. Huge crowds gathered at the main points along the route to watch the quaint scenes witnessed only on Derby day.

NEW STRIKE AT OTTAWA.

Ottawa, June 6.—Thirty-six union plasterers went on strike this morning. They want 30 cents per hour and Saturday half-holiday during seven months of the year, and 28 cents per hour the rest of the year. The employers consent to this, but will not sign an agreement, and the strike is to compel them to sign. Eleven contractors are affected.

There is no change in the general strike situation, but there may be a sympathetic strike with woodworkers and others now out by the bricklayers, masons and painters.

CONSUMPTIVES BARRED.

New York, June 5.—The order of T. V. Powderly, superintendent of immigration for this port, that tuberculosis of the lungs is to be considered a dangerous contagious disease, is expected to result in a large decrease in the number of immigrants admitted to this country. Heretofore immigrants having tuberculosis of the lungs have been admitted unless the disease was in an advanced stage.

REV. F. W. DOBBS DEAD.

Kingston, June 5.—Rev. F. W. Dobbs, aged 87, a Church of England clergyman of 60 years service, died this morning from old age. He was for 47 years in the rectorship of St. John's Church, Portsmouth. He was uncle of Sir Richard Cartwright.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION, BUFFALO

THE STATIC FORCE OF PLAGE

In New York city it was said that to be employed on the Star was a mark of journalistic aristocracy. The men and women who worked for the Star had the aloofness which comes from conscious merit. They said: "I am a Star man" or "I am a Star woman" with the vocal inflection and meaning of the Bourbon who remarked: "The state is I."

Phil Rand was a star reporter on the Star. Most of the big news stories were given to him. He interviewed senators and foreign celebrities; he was familiar in the dressing-rooms of actresses, agonizing thrills on the stock exchange floor; he had done these things well. He rather fancied himself. A handsome, brilliant fellow, good natured and liberal, his money easily made and easily spent, and he was popular. In the world of the greatest men in the world, the youngest reporter would have answer with scorn.

Well, Horace Matheson, managing editor, Dan Derrick, city editor, and Phil Rand, of course.

Matheson was a dark, silent man of 50 years, with high bald forehead, eyes, and a portly person. In the Star office he spoke of his wife as "Mrs. Matheson." Outside he was irreverently termed "The Human Ice Box." He maintained a reputation for wisdom by saying little and writing nothing at all. Derrick was short, fat, explosive and pithy.

There came into the Star rooms one day—imported, it was understood, by the managing editor—Miss Clarice Dunn, an Englishwoman. A dark next to Rand's was given to her and she began work. When Phil saw her his heart turned to water. His fate was sealed, he knew. She was a red-headed mix of 20, with a perfect, wonderful, dusky brown eyes, crimson lips, a buoyant figure and dazzling teeth. Also her ears were small and nestled like in the masses of her tawny hair. She was lively, unaffected, energetic, dauntless and cheeky. As an expert of copy she was superb in quantity and a little careless in quality. Born an English woman, she had left London because it was too slow and she began at once a daily department called "The Visitation of Clarice," in which she poked her turned-up nose into the private affairs of the 10,000. Any society maiden who were a too abbreviated skirt in the waters of the Atlantic coast; from Mount Desert to Long Branch, and society man who rolled from his club at 2 in the morning with a crushed hat on the back of his head and a rent in his trousers leg, any young matron of high life who sat too long in a conservatory with a male dandy, any married man of 60 who had a photograph of a scabrette on his office desk was visited and devastated by Clarice. The paper said cynically, and frenzied fathers, brothers, husbands called at the office to whip the writer—yes, but they could not stop the sale of the paper and they could not whip a red-headed child who laughed at them. A week after her arrival there were fresh flowers each afternoon upon her desk. They came from Rand's carriage. A week later he was editing her copy, in addition to his other work, making corrections which she corrected and offering suggestions which she ignored. Three weeks afterward he was sitting from his chair white-hot with passion and turned a collar and tie, three vest buttons and a Newmarket overcoat for Algernon Reginald Dicks-Jenks of the 10,000, whom she had alliterated as "Absorbent Algie."

Thereupon Derrick yelled that he would have no disturbance in the office and Matheson wrote a note to the effect that a repetition of the offense would be followed with a request for his resignation.

It was sweet to have that fair, dainty bit of femininity so close at hand; there could be no doubt of that. The noises and evil smells of the city might roll in through the windows, the day's assignment might prove intricate, the work might be hard and thankless, but there was always consolation in glancing into brown eyes and listening to a low capricious utter words of no especial wisdom, it is true, but still musical with the fresh melody of a loved girl's voice. Looking back over four weeks, Rand could only admit that his earnings had been low since she came and that his writing had taken on a distinct taint of shoppiness, but did that matter when he was near her for an hour or two every day?

While love is blind, most lovers are sufficiently clear-sighted to recognize a rival at long range, but this was not so with Rand. He was a supreme confidence in himself, he felt that his ardor must bring return and he bent to the task of winning her with more earnestness than he had put into any effort of his busy life. Auto rides, theaters, operas, late expensive lunches, looks, music, paintings, were bent to command and through it all she thanked him sweetly. He had been rather successful with such women as he had cared to pursue and it piqued him to coax up accounts and find that he had not so much as squizzed her hand. She had a freezing way with her when she needed it.

It surprised him somewhat, but caused him no special uneasiness when he passed her one night on Broadway and saw that she was accompanied by fat Dan Derrick, who was enjoying his weekly "night out." That fiery person gained alibi as they went by, but said nothing. Clarice nodded audibly. Suspicion came to gnaw at his heart, however, when the fact was borne in on him that on the evenings when Derrick was at liberty Miss Dunn was never in the office, nor could he make any engagement with her. About this time the quality of his assignments began to decay. Once or twice other men were called upon for "feature stories" which he knew, should have come on him. The huge puffed face of Derrick looked at him stonily over the rim of his desk, but nothing was said. Of course when the quality of the assignments decayed the amount of the earnings decayed also. Then a great light came to him:

Derrick also loved the girl, as why shouldn't he? Derrick, as city editor, was giving poor details to him in the hope of forcing him to leave the paper. Derrick was a deep villain who was using his power to place to the life of one who had never done him a wrong. Derrick was a fat and obnoxious, a disgusting animal who had become city editor by accident and, despite his swinish nature and gross appearance, dared to aspire to a position who was the flower of her sex. Rand had never whipped a city editor, but he felt that it must be done.

He did it thoroughly, scientifically, minutely. The battle opened in an uptown cafe, the meeting being accidental. "I am going to whip you, Derrick," said Rand. "Oh, are you?" was the response. "Well, I'm a little out of condition, but I've got three minutes in me that are deadly." The men adjourned to a private room. Derrick was game had come up for repeated mailings, but finally succumbed. He was absent from duty a week. Much to Rand's surprise, nothing was said about it. Apparently the status was unaltered. He stopped the day by Derrick's desk and whisperingly asked why he was not discharged. The other looked up heavily and impatiently: "You're a good reporter," he said. "Which shows that you're not a fool. I don't fool about Clarice has nothing to do with the Star."

Rand hated Derrick, but was forced to acknowledge that he was a good deal of a man. The chic and charming Visitation heard of the row in some way. For two days she was ice to Rand and sunshine to Derrick. Two huge bouquets visited her desk in those times, two boxes of bonbons tickled her palate; two opera tickets reposed in little yellow envelopes; two invitations to ride, or swim, or sail or sail or lunch were read and answered by her. It was open, frank rivalry and the other men enjoyed it, but it is to be questioned that any one of them so enjoyed it as the young woman.

June Managing Editor Matheson had broad, eye-glassed, purty and sentimental, came into the city room and said:

"I shall be away for two weeks, Mr. Derrick. Mr. Martin will take charge. Kindly consult with him."

He went out.

That afternoon Clarice said: "I'm tired of the work, Mr. Derrick, and have decided to quit. I want rest, my resignation has been handed in, and accepted."

She went out.

At 11 that night the society reporter with a scared face, peered up a paragraph that on the morrow Horace Matheson and Clarice Dunn, both of the Star staff, would be married and would spend their honeymoon in the Adirondacks. The writing was Matheson's own. Derrick read it alone and laughed vacantly. He looked at Rand, who had gripped the arms of his chair until they cracked.

"What are you going to do about it?" Rand asked huskily.

"Why," said Derrick, raising slowly and reaching in a blind way for his coat, "Martin is my friend. I guess I'll go out and lap up the high red ones till I can't tell a cigar from an umbrella. Come along!"

We have just completed a new book on Cancer which we believe is the most comprehensive popular work on this subject published in America. From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Come a letter from a member of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Elin" helped the Canadian boys on their march.

There is no section of the British Army now in South Africa so well equipped to undertake long treks as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Elin" in their shoes, and this harness and wonderful discovery prevents sweating, blistering, and chafing, and the marching of the foot-soldier which is its inevitable accompaniment.

Mr. T. Buckart, "C" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Scott and J. J. Bowmanville, Ont.:

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Elin on route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results. A friend of mine still has a portion of his foot left, and he says it is one of the most useful things he has in his knapsack." (Signed) T. Buckart.

CONCERT IN ONTARIO

Given by St. Paul's Church Choir Tuesday Night

The splendid choir of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, under the management of Mr. John Crane, gave a concert in the Town Hall, Ontario, on Tuesday night last, which was a great success.

The party left Peterborough at 5:30, and returned by special at midnight. The hall was filled to the doors with an enthusiastic audience on every side. The choir were all perfectly rendered, and all the songs were well sung.

Glennora, a song by Mr. Charles Brown, and the Highland Fling, danced by little Miss Gladys Crane and little Robertson, gave variety to the entertainment, that greatly added to the enjoyment.

After the concert the party were slightly entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Macpherson.

Irish Flag Handed Down

New York, June 6.—Patriotic Irishmen of this city learned for the first time today that the flag of the Emerald Isle cannot float over the graves of their most illustrious dead if they are sleeping in St. Paul's church yard. Since Memorial day Irishmen have been aroused to anger over what has been called by them "wanton maliciousness." The Irish flags were twice placed over the graves of Irishmen in the little graveyard by patriotic societies were removed. The place was then occupied by the flag of the United States.

The "slueths" retired and inquiry at the offices of the Trinity corporation disclosed that there is a rule which prohibits the decoration of any grave or stone with the flag of any other nation than the United States.

Unlucky Germany

Mr. A. W. McPherson, teacher of modern at the Collegiate Institute, has sent the following to the Board of Education:

"I beg to make application for leave of absence for the school year of 1901-2 for the purpose of visiting France and Germany in order to fit myself better for the teaching of French and German. As I am anxious to retain my position I shall be very glad to assist the Board in any way in making a suitable arrangement.

Hope that the Board may find it possible to grant this favor.

No action is yet announced by the Board Committee.

OT OUT.

The Food Cure Brought Her Out With Many Others.

A lady in Lawrence, Ind., Mrs. M. O. Waring, was a poor judge of food and also a worker in literary and educational lines where she exhausted her vitality because of the bad combination of a long day's work and poorly selected food to rebuild her.

She was using hot cakes for breakfast, meat, coffee, etc., and gradually lost ground until she became a total wreck. She says, "I was so reduced that the slightest noise brought a cold perspiration all over me. Sleep was out of the question and my appetite was gone. I was apprehensive of a mortal disaster. I became really very ill. I was on the verge of losing my mind when one day a friend who met at my bedside remarked that she would bring me something to eat."

Sure enough when she came over she had a dainty luncheon on a tray with pretty decorated china dishes, and a cup held some coffee, as I supposed, and a dish held some hard, brown granules, and she told me that was Grape-Nuts Food, whereas the liquid was Postum Coffee.

I liked the taste of the Grape-Nuts Food a little better than all I had tried. After some persuasion I drank the Postum Coffee and that night was the most peaceful night I had enjoyed in months, and when I awakened in the morning I found the Grape-Nuts Food on the table near my bed, and I had some for breakfast with some Postum Coffee.

I at once began to feel better and discarded all kinds of medicine, stimulants, narcotics, and used only Grape-Nuts Food four times a day with Postum Coffee. At the end of thirty days I left my bed and after three months building up on Grape-Nuts Food and the famous Postum, I have taken up my literary work, working harder than ever making up for lost time.

Mental strains have no more terrors for me. I keep my mental faculties clear. All my inner organs have become clear and healthy so I never know I have any, yet I work and study sixteen hours out of the twenty-four on an average. I often wonder what has become of those dreadful nerves. Things that formerly disturbed me now seem trifles.

A healthy body is a happy body, and I am happy and happy, and I am a worker in literary and educational lines where she exhausted her vitality because of the bad combination of a long day's work and poorly selected food to rebuild her.

Send for a free trial of Grape-Nuts Food. It is the only food that can be taken and the doctor said she would have died had it not been for the nourishment given her by Grape-Nuts Food. Do you wonder if she can feel better? Grape-Nuts Food is the only food that can be taken and the doctor said she would have died had it not been for the nourishment given her by Grape-Nuts Food. Do you wonder if she can feel better?

There is a reason why the Postum Coffee and Grape-Nuts Food are so popular of strength in times of trouble. Anyone can learn the facts and the reason for it by reading the famous book "The Food Cure" which is sent free of charge. The Company furnish the details, but it is sufficient to most people to know that whereas they have been poorly treated, and perhaps weakened with disease from improper food, the change to Grape-Nuts Food and Postum has made them well.

BRITAIN'S WAY IN CHINA GIVES GREAT OFFENSE

Sir Robert Hart Makes a Strong Statement in a London Paper.

BRITAIN MUST FOLLOW RUSSIA'S EXAMPLE.

Or She Will Always Give Offense to the Celestials—Russia Shows Great Courtesy, Hence Her Advantage.

London, June 7.—These utterances are certain to bring upon Sir Robert the renewed scorn of those to whom the words "British" express the extremity of condemnation. Sir Robert is already in very bad odor with that great majority of Englishmen which insists that all mankind shall conform to British patterns. Nevertheless, his record of forty years' successful dealing with the Chinese makes his endorsement of the Russian methods worthy of careful consideration. This is now being felt by the British people.

It is said that Russia, by kindness, has secured the ear of the Chinese government, and will speedily make things so unpleasant for Britain, that war between the two great nations is sure to loom up in the near future.

LACK OF WAR NEWS ALARMS BRITISH

Public Uneasy Over Details of Recent Battle.

THE FACTS ARE SOUGHT.

Officials Say All Information Has Been Given Out.

Retained Attack Made by Sherbro's Command Upon Willmore is Reported.

London, June 7.—The scantiness of the news from South Africa is causing great uneasiness among the British public. Nothing has come through to throw light on the recent battle of Vloerfontein, the only dispatch on the subject since the first official announcement being a three-line message from Lord Kitchener giving three additional names of officers killed. The war office to-night issued a statement saying that all information received from Lord Kitchener respecting recent engagements had been communicated to the public.

Details just received of the relief of Zwartkops by General Methuen, show the town was practically besieged for several months, and that its food supply was about.

A dispatch from Pretoria announces that the constabulary has captured Abraham Malan, son-in-law of the late General Joubert. Malan was an energetic, progressive politician before the war, and since it began he has been very active against the British, and has filled several important commands, including that of Pietersburg until the British occupied the place.

EUROPE AGAINST AMERICA

Count Herbert Bismark Says That A Combination Exists.

Britain Will Once Again be the Friend of the United States.

Berlin, June 7.—Count Herbert Bismark, son of the great Iron Chancellor, publicly states that Germany will, in self protection, be obliged to enter into the combination against the United States. That such a combination exists, there is little reason to doubt.

London, June 7.—The London Times, teeming with deserved ridicule for the German and Austrian press clamor for a European tariff alliance against the United States, it points out that Napoleon attempted twice to strangle England. "If this system failed," it says, "when applied with the remorseless energy and undivided power of Napoleon, it would hardly have much prospect of success in the hands of the concert of Europe."

"If by any conceivable infatuation any or all of the continental powers were to combine for such an end," the Times then declares "the British empire would leave them to their fate and continue to trade with the American Union."

KITCHENER'S SCOUTS ROUT THE BOERS.

A Body of Them Inflict Defeat Upon 400 of Beyer's Command

37 KILLED AND 100 PRISONERS

Pretoria, Wednesday, June 6.—Colonel Willson, with 10 of Kitchener's Scouts, has surprised and routed 400 Boers belonging to Beyer's command, 34 miles west of Warm Springs. The Boers retreated stubbornly, but finally broke and fled, leaving 37 dead, a hundred prisoners, and all their weapons and supplies, including 2,000 cattle, in the hands of the British. The loss to the latter was three men killed and 15 wounded.

The Boers' main command arrived on the scene soon after the engagement, but failed in an attempt to recapture the supplies. Beyer was thus left practically without any transport or supplies.

TO REVISE THE CONFESSION.

Presbyterian Committee Will Meet at Pittsburg June 14.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—The Rev. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, today received a telegram from the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Minton, moderator, announcing that all of the members of the committee appointed to revise the confession of faith had accepted and would serve. Pursuant to Dr. Minton's instructions, Dr. Roberts issued a call for the first meeting of the revision committee to be held at Pittsburg June 18.

Resolutions adopted at the recent general assembly increased the membership of the committee to twenty-one, continuing the members of the old committee, and electing Dr. Minton chairman. The new members are: Dr. John Dewitt, synod of New Jersey; Dr. J. Rose Stevenson, synod of Missouri; Dr. D. W. Moffat, synod of Indiana; Dr. S. B. McCormick, synod of Iowa; John W. Foster, synod of Baltimore; and Charles T. Thompson, synod of Minnesota.

folk. Our interests, traditions, and institutions all dictate that course. With the markets of Great Britain and her colonies remaining open, the suggested world boycott against America does not wear a very hopeful aspect."

The Times is quite correct in its judgment that the United States and the British empire together, could successfully defy any world combination, either commercial or military.

Sperks of "Malicious Intention" to Injure the Volunteers.

Chicago, June 7.—A plot on the part of the Salvation Army to injure the Volunteers of America in circulating the report that the two organizations were to be amalgamated is hinted at by Brigadier General Edward Fielding, territorial commander of the Volunteers of America, in a statement issued yesterday. Brigadier Fielding is one of the most influential leaders in the ranks of the Volunteers of America, hence his statement has been received as an official declaration, sanctioned by Ballington Booth. The statement, in substance is as follows:

"I desire to make an unqualified denial of the statement that the Volunteers of America will amalgamate with the Salvation Army, and I cannot help thinking that the story is circulated with a malicious intention to injure our cause. It is not the first time this statement has been made by Salvationists, and they have never yet had the slightest reason for thinking this was possible. Prior to the visit of General William Booth to this country, some time ago, the same statement was made, and hence we are compelled to feel that it is circulated for the intention of creating a sensation, and, if possible, disturbing the minds of the members of the Volunteers."

Details Received Regarding the Surrender of Jamestown show that 1,300 Boers under Commandant Kruger, made a determined attack at daybreak Monday morning.

Details received regarding the surrender of Jamestown show that 1,300 Boers under Commandant Kruger, made a determined attack at daybreak Monday morning. The burghers rushed the advance position, which was held by 67 Boer volunteers. A hand-to-hand encounter ensued, and the volunteers surrendered after four of their men had been killed and one severely wounded. The town guard kept the Boers at bay for three hours longer. Then General Kruger sent word under a flag of truce that it would be murder for the defenders to continue their hopeless resistance. The Boers were then within fifty yards of the trenches and the British surrendered. The fighting which was hard, lasted about four hours. The Boers are said to have outnumbered the British 30 to 1. The Boers set fire to a couple of stores after they entered the town. The British had four killed and two wounded. The Boer casualties were 13 killed and it wounded.

MRS. MCKINLEY IS VERY LOW.

Friends Abandon Hope of Recovery From Present Illness.

Washington, June 6.—Those who are in close touch with the presidential household assert that all hope of Mrs. McKinley's ultimate recovery has been abandoned. According to the official bulletin there is no change for the worse, but her friends sadly admit there is every fear for the worse. Today for the first time since this last attack Mrs. McKinley has been entirely unconscious and has even failed to rally when the president spoke to her. Since midnight last night she has not been roused even by the beloved voice of her husband, and another alarming symptom is that each time she comes out of the attacks of unconsciousness her vitality is at a lower ebb. Her pulse is fainter, her breath more labored and her temperature higher. All these things count her friends in the belief that if she does not rally in the next twelve hours the end cannot be deemed much longer.

DEATH IN TORONTO OF WOUNDED BURGLAR

Little Is Known About His Past History--Were Betrayed by a Woman.

Woman in the Case Hails From Port Hope--Now She Tried to Deceive Governor Van Zandt--Thousands at the Scene.

Toronto, June 6.—The miserable career of the burglar Thomas Jones, as he is called here, ended at the General Hospital at seven minutes past eight this morning. After the operation yesterday afternoon, when his left arm was cut off at the elbow, he rallied a little, but nothing passed his lips but groans. At 3 o'clock this morning signs of a sudden collapse appeared. These became more pronounced between 4 and 5 o'clock, and he sank steadily and rapidly until death came at 8:07 in presence of the house surgeon, Constable H. F. Brown and the night nurses. Crown Attorney Dewar was at once notified, and Coroner Powell was asked to hold an inquest at the General Hospital this evening at 8 o'clock. Jones' body will probably go to the pike vat of a medical college. The surviving murderers, Rice and Rutledge, are in the jail, and were not told of their partner's death. Jones was suffering from consumption, and his vitality was at a low ebb even without the wounds. The wound in the groin was not particularly dangerous unless blood poisoning set in.

SEES AID FOR BRITAIN.

Andrew Carnegie Makes a Baring Prediction.

London, June 4.—"Mark my words," said Andrew Carnegie to-night, "the time is coming when the continental powers will combine to smash up this little island of Great Britain. When that happens she will have to turn to the United States for help. I feel certain it will not be refused. The United States will stay in and say 'Don't.' They will act just as Great Britain did in the Spanish-American war. What she did then was great and it is not half real yet."

WOMAN BETRAYED THEM.

Chicago, June 6.—The Inter-Ocean, in a special article on the murder committed in Toronto by the Aurora bank robbers, says:

The Chicago police believe the plot to escape was hatched by the mysterious woman known as "Louise," who has been mixed up in the case since the arrest of the alleged burglars in Chicago more than a year ago. She is the one who betrayed Rutledge, Rice and Jones to the detectives when they were robbing Canadian banks. Two Chicago girls, Myrtle Norrie and Miss Martha Dwyer figured prominently in the arrest of Rutledge and Rice, as they were engaged to be married to the two men, who they thought were artists.

TRIED TO ESCAPE IN CHICAGO.

Though it is now generally known the three men, Rice, Rutledge and Jones, made an attempt to escape from the jail in Chicago on November 6 last while awaiting extradition. They were caught in the act of escaping from one of the corridors, and were taken back to their cells. They had picked the locks in their cell doors.

JAMES WEST'S AWAKENING.

might pay it. He glanced impatiently at the amount, and then tossed it carelessly on one side.

"Let it be, Millie, for the present; they are owing me for hay and corn."

"But they have allowed for that, and the bill has been due a long time."

"I can't help it. Times are bad with farmers, Millie; you know that."

"It is not the times," she answered, "it is not the times, but your own fault."

"If you would let me have what goes in other ways I would not have a bill unpaid."

He turned obstinate, as he always did when she began what he called nagging.

"You mind the house, Millie; that is your business. Scott can well afford to wait for his money, and he will have to."

He was just getting on his horse to ride round the farm when she came out. "There is something wrong with the well water, James; it's gone too long without being changed and then you expect a man to do it to-day!"

He was more irritable than usual from the shaking of the day before, and answered her curtly enough.

"They'll all have to take the water-gold out of the ground, or else it will get trodden. The well is right enough; what is wrong with it? You leave outdoors alone, and don't hinder me with my work."

She looked after him, noisily, the harassed, worn lines on her face deepening. He was always putting off those things that were needed to be done at once, and the more she nagged, the more he put off.

He was more irritable than usual from the shaking of the day before, and answered her curtly enough.

"They'll all have to take the water-gold out of the ground, or else it will get trodden. The well is right enough; what is wrong with it? You leave outdoors alone, and don't hinder me with my work."

She was a pretty child, fair-haired, like her mother, and already the quaintest and most industrious of housewives, for Millie set her child the example of being always at work.

She had her own little garden, about three feet by two, with an apple tree, a gooseberry bush in the centre, and the pleasant hours in Millie's careworn existence were spent with the little daughter in the garden tending the flowers.

But in a farm no housewife's industry can make up for the master's want of energy, and although Millie did her best with the dairy and the poultry, things went from bad to worse, and because of this West drank harder than ever.

And still his wife tried patiently to keep up all the old order and equanimity, only her face grew sharper and more pinched and her tongue more bitter.

But the mills of God were waiting for James West, and it was fast that he should save his soul alive. The well of drinking water that should have been cleaned out was left untouched, and little Lisa fell a victim to diphtheria. The mother fought desperately for her child's life—fought as one to whom the passing of the innocent spirit might mean despair. But the mills of God were stronger than her anguish of terror and love, although she well-nigh defied heaven itself, clasping the little body to her, that no power might wrest it from her. But close and impassioned as was the clasp of her arms, death came and went, leaving them empty. Then she sorrowed, as one quite without hope.

The doctor, an observant man, was struck with her strange demeanor, which had no restraint in it. "It is not all grief and heartbreak," he told some sympathizing neighbor; "I'm afraid there is more wrong than we can see at present."

But to the doctor's sorrowing and remorseful father came slowly a broken and contrite heart. He knew himself partly responsible for his child's death, but the knowledge was wisely tempered to him, as the he had not noticed until penitence and not hardened into despair.

Once more he went soberly and industriously about his work, and the widow would not run down his face as he passed Lisa's little grave, not so big as the small grave. He took from it a tiny geranium plant that was withering and dying in the frost. He potted it and put it in a warm and sunny window, and tears dropped upon the withered leaves as he tended and cherished the feeble, dying plant.

Many times, unseen of all, he would ask divine forgiveness for the sin which had brought so heavy punishment, and divine grace permitted him an entrance into the right way.

It was Harry Falk who noticed, first of all, that West drank nothing at the market dinner, and remembering the poor, stricken wife at home, he was honestly glad that West had turned over a new leaf.

"Stick to it," he cried, heartily, "as they were driving home, together."

"Being only a widow man I like my drop of comfort, but for married men it's a different matter, and some can't pull up as easy as others; I reckon the wife's trouble thankful, baint she?"

West shook his head sadly.

"She hardly takes notice of much yet; it's almost as though her spirit had gone along of the child. There's hardly sense in her at times."

"The poor soul's about worn out, West. You must be tender to her, for she's been a wife in ten thousand."

There was keen reproach in his tone, and West suffered it humbly enough.

"I know it, Falk; and for all I've made her suffer, I love her dearly, God knows I do."

"And now's the time to prove it. Unless I am much mistaken, you'll have all to do for a bit. As I said, she's pretty nigh worn out."

And as West drove into his own yard, the neglected look of the house struck him painfully. The steps were unwhipped, the parlor blinds not drawn up, and the window plants drooping for want of water—save the one which he had watered with his tears, but that was dying fast.

It was all so unlike Millie that it seemed as though she were dead too. Where could she be so that she did not come out to receive him? He was accustomed to see her in the doorway, spotless and neat, with an anxious smile of welcome for him; that he could not understand her failing to be there.

How desolate everything looked as he entered, and how the ceasing of endless housewifery care made all the sameness so startlingly apparent.

The little sitting-room was cheerless and cold as he entered, and the fire, which was always part of her welcome to him, was on this occasion nearly out. In the half dark he thought the room was empty, but in turning to go out he saw a woman's figure huddled up in an armchair. It was his wife, his wife, with her fair hair all disordered and uncombed, and her face ashen and wild. She had a glass in her hand, and there was the smell of spirits in the room. As he faced her, horror-stricken, she looked at him vacuously, until her poor lips began to quiver, and half ashamed, she put the empty glass down.

"It's the only bit of comfort I've got left, James; the only comfort I can find anywhere."

She sank back, half in stupor, half in sleep, and he left her with the face of a man who had seen the fall of one of the angels; but he knew whose the blame was, as he went, blind with grief and horror, to the little grave, so pathetically small and new. Kneeling down by it, he raised his anguished face to Heaven.

"God be merciful to me a sinner, and put me into the winepress of Thy wrath—but not her, the dearest, kindest woman that ever was a wife, leaving punishment be greater than I can bear."

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Sir,—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk.

At a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a lively, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to express my gratitude to Dr. Clarke's Pills.

Life in Orbit

From the News-Letter: On May 23, Richard Ross, aged about 50, and Emma Young, aged 18, were married here by Rev. Mr. Weeks. The next day, Wm. N. Graham, a nephew of the groom, informed the authorities that his uncle was already married and had a wife in Hamilton. Constable A. K. McKay took the matter in hand, and this morning received a message from the police at Guelph that they had Graham under arrest there.

Jane Duval, a 16-year-old girl, came from Barrie last week. On Thursday she went to a local liveryman and hired a horse and buggy. Not returning in the evening, the liveryman used the telephone and discovered the young lady was between Beaton and Appleton, with no apparent intention of returning. The gentleman sent Constable George Clark after Jane, and she was brought back on Saturday. The Police Magistrate committed her to Mercer reformitory for two years. Jane now has a more tired feeling than if she had walked.

Brink is in the custody of the police and may recover. Mrs. Walker's husband, who is agent for an eastern publishing-house, is either at Denver or in the western part of this state. Brink says the dead woman and himself were intoxicated, that she challenged him to die with her and they both swallowed cocaine and were slain.

Treatment Kills a Child

Louisville, Ky., June 6.—What is considered a remarkable case of spontaneous combustion is brought to light by Dr. B. O. Wilson, a reputable physician of Soldier, Ky. The burns of a child were treated with a substance of benzoin, then linseed oil was freely poured on and the parts wrapped in cotton batting. A sheet pinned around it snugly and, lastly, a quilt was wrapped around this. The child complained bitterly all night long and about daylight the parents saw smoke arising from the bed. Being very ignorant, they thought it was the "fire leaving the body" and did not remove the dressing until later, when the child was dying. Upon removing the dressing they found the sheet pinned around it was scorched, the cotton batting was burned almost entirely up and still smoking. The child died in a few moments.

A Tonic Nerve Tonic.

acts so much upon the nerves themselves, as upon the digestive functions, and the abundant formation of rich, red blood. The nerves can be fed on medicine. They can be fed and strengthened by digested and assimilated food. Ferrero's marvellous action arises from its power over the digestive and assimilative functions of the body. You take it, the blood grows richer, ruddy. You feel strength and vigor, digestion ceases to be noticed, for it has become good. Work is easier, for you have the strength to do it. In a short time you have health. Use Ferrero's. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Former Swell in Poverty

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Dick Whitehead, beat of St. Louis, leader of the swell set of the early days of the city and renowned matchmaker, is living alone and in comparative poverty in a single room, poorly furnished and devoid of all comfort on the 14th floor of 118 North Third street. Whitehead was wealthy in his day and spent his money lavishly. He was the boon companion of men who have since risen to prominence in the social, religious, political and commercial circles of the city. He knew "Mark Twain" well and some of his fondest memories are connected with the early life of General Ulysses S. Grant. Now Whitehead has lost his money and his friends and is making a living by acting as janitor for three downtown office buildings.

RAILROADS HELP FARMERS

"Harvest Excursions"—After Canadian System in Western States

Chicago, June 6.—Several of the big railroads operating west from Chicago are planning to establish employment agencies for hiring men to work in the wheat fields during the coming harvest. During the past three or four years farmers west of this city have had difficulty in obtaining men to garner the crops regardless of wages and rates offered. Last year there was considerable misunderstanding between the farmers and officers of the railways regarding the number of men wanted and the territories in which scarcity of help existed. This year it is planned to have the farmers and the transportation people co-operate in hiring and sending men to the fields.

The Santa Fe is the first road to inaugurate the new system. This company has established an employment agency in Kansas City. Agents of the system have been instructed to ascertain the number of workmen desired in each locality, and report same to the employment agent in Kansas City.

Though the first agency will be started in Kansas City, a number will undoubtedly be established in Chicago by the railroads operating west from here and by the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. Along the line of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Companies there was a continued scarcity of help last year.

An Easy Victory For Garbutt.

Quite a number of spectators witnessed the 5-mile match race between W. Garbutt and W. J. Koster at the Nichol oval yesterday evening. The event proved very interesting and resulted in an easy victory for Garbutt who finished over half a lap in the lead, the time was 11.4, and considering the condition of the track, was very good. The last lap was made by Garbutt in 40 seconds, which shows that he has considerable speed. Koster attributes his defeat to a cramp, which he took in the seventh lap, and which effected his riding. Garbutt has expressed his willingness to ride again, and it is not at all unlikely that they will race again in a few days.

WHITECAPS WHIP A WOMAN.

Farmer's Wife Roughly Treated and Smacked with Tar.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—The home of Hiram Henderson, a farmer of Paul county, was the scene of a brutal outrage last night. Mrs. Henderson being the victim. About midnight the house was entered by a dozen persons, each entering in women's clothes and wearing a mask, and Mrs. Henderson was taken from her bed and stripped to the waist. She was then given a severe whipping with a leather strap, and ordered to leave the county. Not content with this the mob covered her face and head with a coat of tar, rubbing it into her hair with some of her clothing. The husband was in bed and was kept still by cocked revolvers held in the hands of two of the mob while his wife was being whipped.

It is charged that Mrs. Henderson possesses a terrible temper, and is of evil disposition and that in the last few days she has threatened to kill her husband, and at one time knocked him down, and would have carried out her threat but for the interference of neighbors.

She then declared, as further charged, that she would burn her neighbors' houses, and poison their cattle. Because of this the "whitecaps" retaliated. The husband and a farm company scrubbed off the tar, and Mrs. Henderson left the county. She is 60 years old, while her husband is twenty years her junior.

MURDERED HIS WIFE

THEN KILLED HIMSELF

Brampton, Ont., June 6.—Benjamin Parsons, wholesale butcher, killed his wife this morning, and then committed suicide. The three children, Ida, aged eleven, and Florence, occupied room upstairs. Ida was awakened by her mother's screams, and immediately afterwards her father walked into her room. He said, "Ida the Lord told me to kill you children." The poor, frightened child pleaded with her father to spare her life, and those of the other children, and in a moment of sanity he walked out of the room, and returned to his bed-room, where he committed suicide by his throat with the butcher knife with which a few minutes before he had killed his wife.

The children finally crept down stairs and hastened to the nearest neighbor, Mr. Kenny, who lives across the street and gave the alarm. Mr. Brown, next door, was also aroused, and together they proceeded to the husband's residence (he entering the house by the back door) and mother lying in a pool of blood. Parsons had evidently dragged his wife out of bed as she was in her night attire.

SOME MONTHS AGO Parsons lost a child aged six years. It suffered from cardiac trouble following acute rheumatism. Its father was deeply devoted to it, and its death is supposed to have effected his mind. After its death the father said, "I have nothing to live for now, the world has no pleasure for me." At the funeral of the child the parents remained in their bedroom and refused to come out to the service, their grief was so great.

Parsons was a wholesale butcher, and a diligent and hard worker, and had accumulated some money. The cause cannot be attributed to financial trouble. He was married about thirteen years ago to a Miss Elizabeth Cheatham, daughter of a merchant in this town.

STUCK IN THE MUD.

Ringling Bros. Circus in a Fix at Ogdensburg.

Ogdensburg, June 6.—Ringling Bros' circus, which arrived here yesterday morning, decided after the latest parade not to attempt to exhibit. The half constructed tents are being pulled down, and the 900 men connected with the show, armed with shovels, are digging the wagons, which are mired to the tops of the wheels, out of the mud. The condition of the grounds when the show arrived was execrable, but the management thought that with the aid of cinders and sawdust they could be put in shape. Over 200 loads of cinders and 300 loads of sawdust were dumped on the field, but was absorbed like water in a sponge.

About 4,500 visitors besides the citizens were preparing to go to the afternoon performance and were disappointed. Twenty-four teams of horses were unable to move some of the wagons and the elephants were pressed into service.

ANOTHER GHASTLY DEVELOPMENT IN THE AURORA BANK ROBBERY CASE.

Frank Rutledge Deliberately Jumps Over The Stair in The Jail and Kills Himself on the Stone Floor Beneath--A Drop of Over Twenty Feet.

Judge McDougall Sentenced Them to Twenty-One Years

Prisoners Were Then Charged With Murder Before Magistrate Dennison--Manacles Were Removed For Dinner at the Jail and Rutledge Eluded the Guards.

Toronto, May 7. Fred Lee Rice, of Champaign, Illinois, and Frank Rutledge, formerly of Streetville, the two survivors of the three burglars who robbed the bank and postoffice at Aurora, and who, notwithstanding the view of certain jurors, were undoubtedly the people who tied up P.C. Ward and tried to rob the Standard Bank in Parkdale, were brought up before Magistrate Dennison this morning, and arraigned on a charge that on the 4th of June they murdered County Constable William Boyd.

Both prisoners were ashy pale. The bandage and cotton dressing had been removed from Rice's head, but the hair had been removed from the vicinity of both his and Rutledge's wounds.

As the sound of their steps was heard coming up the iron steps from the cells there was great craning of necks and the crowd pressed closely around the dock to gaze at them. The prisoners first held a short conversation in whispers with their counsel, Mr. Robinson, and then the magistrate read the charge, over, and they both pleaded not guilty, and were sent back to the cells until the other work of the court, which had been temporarily side tracked, could be finished up.

The crowd quickly melted away, and the atmosphere became a little better.

PRISONERS SENTENCED.

As the court officials at the Sessions wished to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Boyd tomorrow, and as the prisoners were on hand, it was decided to sentence them immediately. They were taken up to Judge McDougall and placed in the dock. The pair looked craven.

When His Honor asked them if they had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced upon them, Rutledge said "Nothing," and Rice simply shook his head.

In a low voice, Judge McDougall said that he did not think it proper to say anything which might add to the gravity of the situation in which they had placed themselves. He reminded them that they had invaded a peaceful country for the purpose of pursuing a life of crime. We have quite enough to do to deal with our own criminals and we have no intention whatever of allowing Canada to be a hunting ground for foreigners. He then sentenced them to fourteen years in the penitentiary at Kingston for robbing John L. Ross' private bank at Aurora; seven years extra for stealing Philip H. Butler's station allowance, and seven years, to run concurrently, for robbing the Aurora post office. The prisoners were then led away, handcuffed and under a heavy guard. The verdict caused immense satisfaction.

JURY BRINGS IN A VERDICT.

Coroner Powell's jury, after listening to several witnesses at the inquest on the dead safe-blower, Thomas Jones, returned a verdict: "That at the city of Toronto June 6, from shock and collapse, the result of gunshot injuries, and a serious struggle, following their receipt, Thomas Jones came to his death." Further, we say, and find, that County Constable Walter Stewart shot the deceased in the execution of his duty, and that we commend him for the coolness and bravery which he exhibited in the attack made upon him and upon his comrade, the late County Constable William Boyd. We recommend that the county authorities provide a suitable conveyance for prisoners to and from the jail."

The inquest was held at the General Hospital where, on the previous night, an inquest had been held on the late Constable Boyd. Rice and Rutledge were not present. When it came to the choosing of a jury the coroner, in accordance with custom, when the dead man is a prisoner, was about to select half the number from those in the jail. To this County Crown Attorney Dewar took exception, and finally appeal was made to Deputy Attorney General Cartwright, who decided in favor of Mr. Dewar on the ground that Jones, though a prisoner, was not under sentence.

DEATH OF JONES.

Dr. O'Reilly, superintendent of the General Hospital testified as to the treatment of Jones and his death. Jones had told witness he was a Roman Catholic and a priest was with him when he died. Jones made no ante-mortem statement to anyone.

Dr. Richardson, the jail physician, also described Jones' injuries. Drs. C.

R. Sneath, Geo. A. Bingham and Harold Parsons were also heard. Dr. Richardson's testimony revealed the fact that terrible suffering was endured by Jones during the fight on the street car. The bullet from Constable Stewart's revolver smashed one of the bones in Jones' arm and the splinters of the ball scattered throughout the wound. The other bone of the arm was broken in the fight, and the jagged ends of it were driven several times completely through the flesh. Although there were several wounds in the arm, only one was caused directly by the bullet, the others being caused by the wrenching of the broken bones. When it was found that an operation would be necessary, Dr. Richardson notified Sheriff Mowat that there was no proper accommodation at the jail for the prisoner, and Jones was accordingly taken to the General Hospital, where the operation took place. Dr. Richardson said that he believed that no patient could have received more careful treatment than that given Jones from the time of the arrival of the doctor until his death. It was his opinion that Jones died from shock.

BULLET IDENTIFIED.

Constable Stewart, who shot Jones, identified a bullet found in deceased as one which had come from his revolver. He had fired because of the murderous attack made by the prisoners on Boyd.

Inspector Greer, of the Provincial Department, swore that Rice, Rutledge and Jones were the most desperate criminals he had dealt with in 28 years. He testified as to their records, which were very bad. Jones killed a man in Chicago and had served terms for horse-stealing and burglary.

RUTLEDGE SUICIDES BY JUMPING OVER A RAILING

Toronto, June 7.—Another ghastly development took place in the already horrible Aurora bank burglars case. Rutledge, one of the two survivors, who on Friday morning was sentenced by Judge McDougall to 21 years in the Kingston Penitentiary, committed suicide by jumping over the railing of the second storey corridor, and receiving injuries that were at once seen to be fatal.

The prisoners had been brought back to the jail from the City Hall and were to be given their dinner, when Rutledge darted up the stair, and mounted the railing, turned backward and pitched himself to the stone floor beneath.

Word was sent to the sheriff, and the news spread to the police departments and then to the various other departments, and through the streets like the proverbial wildfire.

This leaves only Rice of the three desperadoes.

Although nothing in known of Jones' personal antecedents, he had a long police record. Jones, Rutledge and Rice met in the Colorado State Penitentiary. While the extradition proceedings were being fought in Chicago, Jones sprang at an officer who had him in charge while they were in an elevator and attempted to take the man's gun from him. On another occasion the prisoners, being allowed the privilege of having their meals specially prepared for them, had two loaded revolvers sent to them, one having been baked in a loaf of bread and the other in a dish of pork and beans. In answer to the foreman, the Inspector stated that in his opinion it was quite safe to transport prisoners in a cab if the custodians are armed and other precautions taken.

Coroner Powell, in reviewing the evidence, stated that Toronto was not accustomed to Western methods of using fire-arms. He praised Constable Stewart for his heroic action, and said he had a perfect right to shoot all who attempted to interfere with him. The jurors were out only a quarter of an hour.

PUS O'BRIEN HERE.

Pus O'Brien, alias Kate Spellman, the Chicago woman who was one of the witnesses whom the prisoners in their application for a postponement of the Aurora case maintained, has arrived in town and yesterday made application to Coroner Powell for the body of Jones, whose pet she was, she claimed him as her brother, but the coroner told her she must prove her relationship.

Rice and Rutledge, in all their wanderings, have had a large following of foolish females, but Jones was not so fond of mingling with the other sex. Pus being the only one for whom he appeared to have a liking. She was always ready to aid the burglars, and the Chicago police say she is herself a shoplifter and a thief.

PORT HOPE NOT STARTLED.

A despatch from Port Hope says that the town was not at all startled when it was learned that Vina Seavey, whose real name is Levisia Hudson, was arrested. She lived in that town about 15 years ago, when her reputation was rather doubtful.

Her mother's name was Lou White, and she had a reputation not considered at all creditable. Her mother married a man by the name of Hudson, who left her, after which she married a man by the name of Graham and was arrested for bigamy, for which she received 30 days in jail.

Miss Hudson, who always went by the name of Vina while in Port Hope, was a very handsome and clever girl, but had a few bad traits of character. She left for Chicago about 15 years ago and has been back only once in that time.

JIM MURPHY IN TOWN.

Jim Murphy, of 160 Rebecca street, Hamilton, the man to whom was addressed a very compromising letter found in Rutledge's pocket, when the Chicago detectives pounced on the gang in that city, has been in town, and has demanded the stamps found by Inspector Greer in his house. From various circumstances, it was made clear that these stamps formed part of the supply stolen from the Aurora postoffice. The burglars after their flight from Aurora, went to Hamilton, that they had heard it already, the news having come to them by some of those indefinite sources so well understood in jail. They sent a telegram to Kate Spellman asking what was to be done with the body, and a reply came asking that it be given to the dead man's sister, Mrs. Black, who had gone to claim it. Undertaker McCabe, of 222 Queen street east, now has the body.

At 1.15 the prisoners were again brought before Magistrate Dennison and the evidence of Walter Stewart was taken. The Crown fears that some attempt might be made to murder Mr. Stewart, as on his evidence depends the conviction of the murderers. It is now safe and even if anything happened him before the trial his evidence is available. His story was just as given at the inquest, and the prisoners were remanded until Friday.

REFUSED THE BODY.

Mrs. O'Brien, of Chicago, who claimed the body of Thomas Jones, has been unable to satisfy Dr. Powell that she is a relative of the deceased. He has therefore refused her the body, and as required by law, has handed it over to the inspector of anatomy.

A PETERBOROUGH GIRL.

Said to Have Been Exchanged With The Burglar Gang of Burglars.

Referring to the bank robbers, the Toronto World of yesterday says: At least four of the women friends of the Rutledge gang, who followed the prisoners around in Chicago, are now in this city. They are "Puss" O'Brien, alias Spelman, Louise Rutledge, sister-in-law of the prisoner Rutledge, May Valentine, sister of Louise, and Vina Henderson, alias Seavey, alias White. Mrs. Joseph Valentine was formerly May Grace, and her home is in Peterborough. She is comely, and her friends in Toronto say she has a most jolly disposition. Before she was married she was employed as a waitress in some of the leading hotels in Toronto, and she was very popular with patrons. She is a sister of Mrs. Charles Rutledge, Louise, and she is about 27 years of age. Mrs. Valentine is said to be the cause of the capture of the three robbers. Her husband, shortly after they were married, is said to have become engaged over attentions the prisoner Rice paid to her, and in a spirit of resentment informed the police of the wrong doings of the gang.

May Grace will be remembered as a pretty brunette waitress at the Oriental Hotel, from where she was married to Mr. Joseph Valentine, a cigar traveller, some two years ago. She afterwards visited Peterborough on several occasions, the last time being when she accompanied her husband to town to meet the returning members of the Toronto boys who went to South Africa. Mr. Valentine is at present engaged in the manufacture of cigars in Simcoe and doubtless saw Murphy. At any rate, stamps and dynamite fuse were found in Murphy's possession and Rutledge's letter shows that Murphy and he were very intimate. Murphy's demand that the stamps go back to him instead of the Aurora postoffice led to a wordy combat between him and Greer yesterday, and the latter threatened Murphy that he might be proceeded against criminally unless he was careful.

HEARD OF THE DEATH.

The two desperadoes, Rutledge and Rice, who are confined in the first cells of corridors 3 and 4, respectively, heard of the death of their pal, Jones, which occurred at the General Hospital, yesterday morning from prisoners in the adjacent cells. Just before the noon hour, Governor Van Zant went to the prisoners to tell them of the death, but he found that they had already learned of it. Neither of the men showed by the slightest expression or their faces what their thoughts might have been, their actions in the matter being the same as have characterized them since the first day of the trial on the charge of breaking into the bank.

NOT "PUS" O'BRIEN.

The woman who has been called Pus O'Brien and who claimed the body of Jones yesterday, is now said to be not Pus at all, but Mrs. Margaret Black, a sister of the dead burglar, whose right name is Francis James Ryan. Pus O'Brien, she says, alias Kate Spellman, is still in Chicago.

thought came to him that stopped the beating of his heart. If he died before the three days were up he would not have to pay the next installment, and his wife would have the $5000. He found his head on his hands, staring straight in front of him, and a whisperer dimmed insistently in his ears, "You can die if you choose."

The next morning when he went but at the time of his usual fruitless round, he returned to his wife the second time. That was his farewell.

He made his way in the direction of the crowded thoroughfares, toward Broadway and Canal streets. Then he deliberately turned right, and for the first time discovered how really difficult that operation is. Everywhere that there was a crush of vehicles or a fast driven horse, he went, but all in vain. He appeared to lead a charmed life. He stood in the midst of a roaring traffic and it surged by and left him unharmed.

At last he gave up the attempt in despair and turned and fled in the direction of the river. But, by the irony of fate, no sooner had he ceased to woo her than Death came to him unasked, and that in the very form he had been seeking her. For this time he had reached Sixth avenue. He started to cross in front of a brewer's dray, but now that the calmness of his monomania and the very carelessness of danger, which he had hitherto been his safeguard, had deserted him, his natural timidity asserted itself; he hesitated in the middle and turned to retreat his steps. He started forward once again, slipped and fell under the wheels of the slow-moving wagon. It ground remorselessly across his chest. The moment the driver felt the soft flesh under his load he stopped. But it was too late. The moment white hair burst forth from the greasy mud of the roadway, the next a shiver rippled down all the limbs, and they stretched out rigid in death. The inquest, the policeman at the crossing gave evidence that Taylor's death was a pure accident, and the insurance money was paid to his widow without demur. He was only a clerk out of employment, and before the death had closed over him he was forgotten by the world. But he lives in the memory of his wife who guessed what he had done.

Paine's Celery Compound
The Most Famous of Medicines.

IT MAKES SICK PEOPLE WELL.

Honest worth, merit and strict fulfillment of every promise made to suffering humanity have combined to place Paine's Celery Compound on the highest round of the ladder of fame. Its praises have been sounded by men and women in every walk of life—by the affluent, the distinguished, and by the humblest, but equally grateful people.

Paine's Celery Compound is the established home medicine of the large majority of our Canadian people. It is a medicinal food of healing, strengthening and health-giving power. It nourishes the delicate nerve fibres, sustains strong heart action, and keeps the stomach, liver and kidneys in vigorous health.

Mrs. G. Duranti of Elms, Ont., briefly gives her experience with Paine's Celery Compound.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from liver troubles, and have doctored with several physicians, but only found relief for a short time. My husband advised me to try your Paine's Celery Compound. I did so, and found so much relief from the first bottle that I continued, and am now using the third bottle. Your compound has done more for me than any physician. For months before using the compound I never had one night of sound sleep; now I can go to bed and sleep soundly, and naturally, and feel like a new woman in the morning."

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.

Sir—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constive, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. As a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am now living, walking, and feeling as well as I can. I am not a doctor, but I can speak for the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. Jones, Leamington, N.Y.

They cured me when every remedy had failed. Jas. Brittain, G. T. H., Stratford.

From the Camp Outside Bloemfontein

Come a letter from a member of the Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, telling how "Foot Eim" helped the Canadian boys on their march. There is no mention of the British Army now in South Africa, so well equipped to undertake long treks on marches as the Canadians. The secret is that they have "Foot Eim" in their shoes and in their harness and wonderful discovery prevents, mending, blistering, and chafing, and the marching of the foot-soldiers which is its invaluable accompaniment. Mr. J. Buckart, "Foot Eim" Co., R. C. R., sends the following letter from the camp outside Bloemfontein to Messrs. Keith and Dowling, Peterborough, Ont.

"The regiment was supplied with Foot Eim on route to Cape Town. Most of the boys have used it continuously, and all express themselves as highly delighted with the results, as it prevents mending and chafing. A letter from Mr. J. Buckart, 'Foot Eim' Co., R. C. AN ENJOYABLE OUTING.

The Olympic Club's Annual Excursion on Thursday.

Professional and business men of Peterborough laid down their cares on Thursday, and leaving the Grand Trunk station shortly after eight o'clock, were conveyed to Lakefield, accompanied by the 15th Regiment Band. The occasion was an annual event that has come to be one of the most notable institutions, the excursion of the Olympic club. At Lakefield the steamer Majestic was in waiting, and the party at once embarked and left the shore with colors flying and the band playing. When McCracken's Landing was reached a sumptuous dinner was served, Mr. J. H. McQuay being the caterer.

In the afternoon a trip to Mount Julian and the head of the Lake proved most enjoyable.

The usual programme of sports was run off, and the names of the winners will be announced in a future issue. The trip home was accomplished without a mishap and with undiminished enjoyment.

On the run down from Lakefield for special train a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. W. B. Lech for the day's pleasure.

The excursionists gave a point to the town authorities while on this train. A resolution was adopted with only one dissenting voice in favor of holding the band concert in Victoria Park.

Among the excursionists were Mr. E. Williams, of Manchester, Eng., a representative of an Old Country house, who is most genial company, was not called upon to hold up the honor of Manchester alone, although most polite would he do so if occasion called for it, but he was "not the only one." Mr. Moss, who is superintending the construction work at the Canadian General Electric power house at Nassau, Mr. Keane, engineer of the Cereals Company, Mr. A. K. Rhoden, of Sheffield, Eng., who is in Canada representing a steel industry. These three gentlemen were guests of Mr. Robert Fair.

Messrs. A. H. Notman, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the C.P.R., W. J. Macmillan, travelling passenger agent for the same road, Mr. Andrew Taylor, District Passenger and Freight Agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and B. H. Bennett, District Passenger and Freight Agent of the Chicago and North Western were also in the party, guests of Mr. W. B. Dutton.

After reaching the Oriental on the return these gentlemen surprised Mr. Dutton with informal address and presentation. The present was a suitcase and the little affair was very enjoyable to all concerned.

A BRILLIANT STUDENT.

Extraordinary Success of E. J. Kyle at Toronto University.

In the recent examinations at the University of Toronto, Mr. E. J. Kyle, of Lindsay, won the B.A. degree with double first-class honors in Classics and in English and History. He also won the McColl Gold Medal for first place in Classics, and the Governor-General's Gold Medal for first place in proficiency. To cap the climax, Mr. Kyle won the J. W. Kewell Travelling Scholarship, which means two years at Oxford as the scholarship is worth $750 per year for two years. This is one of the most brilliant records ever taken in Toronto University in Canada. For that matter, Mr. Kyle is well known in Peterborough, having visited the town at various times. He is a nephew of Mr. John Kyle, of Ashburnham, and his Peterborough friends will be pleased to learn of his success.

The Census Enumerators.

The Toronto Globe reports in its Ottawa correspondence that "the chief census officer is indignant over the fact that a number of commissioners have made public the returns of the population in their respective districts. Mr. Hume draws attention to the fact that the commissioners have taken an oath to observe all the provisions of the census act, and accompanying instructions, whereby it is specially declared that no information shall be given except by the chief officer, acting upon the authority of the Minister."

The Vaselet at Ottawa.

The Ottawa Mirror refers as follows to the concert given by St. Paul's choir in St. Paul's hall there on a recent evening: "From the outset, one saw that Mr. Clark enjoyed the confidence of every individual member and the blending of the voices was excellent." Mr. Clark bought down the house by one of his low quotations as: "I have a lot of money, I have a lot of money, I have a lot of money." The audience was delighted, and the concert was a success.

GAS OUT.

Right food, (Grape Nuts) does not cause gas.

School Ma'ms have troubles of their own. Their work is of a nerve destroying character and frequently the question of food is a serious one with them. The right selection of food will cure depression, and many other disorders of the body.

Madie Ormer, 131 Olney Ave., Marion, O., says that after she had suffered from stomach trouble for years and without being able to find food that would agree with her, she finally was induced to try Grape-Nuts. The trouble with gas and nervousness coming from indigestion, disappeared, and her own testimony says "I gained in flesh so much that now I am heavier and better than I have been during the eight years I have taught school here."

My stomach does not cause me the least trouble. I can eat anything I wish and still continue to eat Grape-Nuts. Food, for I like it and know of its value.

Do not allow your little ones to use starchy and irritating foods such as oatmeal and the majority of ordinary prepared grain foods. They are hard to digest and lack the grand constituents for the formation of bone and muscle. Malt Breakfast Food is predigested, therefore does not tax digestion, and the children love it, and thrive on it. Malt Breakfast Food is as cheap as common oatmeal; one packet makes thirty meals. FAMOUS FUNNY CLOWNS.

Forty Merry Men Making with Ringling Brothers' Popular Show.

Ringling Brothers, whose famous big circus exhibits in Peterborough, Friday with old ideas or with the stereotyped method of doing things, have this season introduced a new element into the circus programme—an element of pure comedy, based, it is true, upon the popular idea of the clown and his buffoonery, but so elaborate as to constitute a revolution in the humorous side of circus entertainment. To do this it was necessary to introduce an entire company of entertainers each of whom was of a necessity, a comedian, but a comedian in pantomime—for the colossal proportions of Ringling Brothers' vast canvas Coliseum is such as to render any performance dependent upon the human voice for its success a physical impossibility. This great company of clowns embraces forty high-class pantomime comedians, who are not introduced simply as an interlude in their acts, and in their individual character as fun-makers, but as an integral part of the programme. From time to time during the performance they present fun-plays and laughable comedies, so nicely timed and so admirably fitted into the more startling portions of the programme as to keep the audience in a constant state of intermittent wonder and merriment. It is fun—pure fun—genuine fun—the kind of fun which men and women, and children enjoy, and which makes life brighter and better for its enjoyment. There is nothing these clever clowns do not perform. It is something that has not yet been invented. They run the entire gamut of human fun-making. They are actors, and comedians, and musicians, and acrobats, and contortionists, and all the other things that a circus can do. An entire carload of paraphernalia is used in their varied and mirth-provoking performances. A mere enumeration of the leaders in Ringling Brothers' great company of clown comedians is sufficient to stamp it as the most remarkable congress of entertainers ever organized. There are the two Miacos, famous descendants of a long line of world-famous clowns, the great Megret, the formidable Jules Tarnour, the mirth-making Art Adair, Fred Jenks, Dick Reno, George Hartzel, Fred McNabb, John Slater, Geo. Kelly, Geo. Jammer, and thirty-two others. This great array of comedians, striking as it is, represents, however, only one feature of the show. There are thirty famous riders, thirty fearless acrobats, sixty world-renowned acrobats, and hundreds of other specialists, and the performance given in the three rings, on the double stages, in mid-air and upon the fourth mile hippodrome track, surpasses anything ever attempted, much less accomplished, by any other circus management on earth. This show has the only living giraffe on exhibition.

Valuable Information about Cataract.

Is a sure method of curing it. Cataracts and powders won't cure it, and you never heard of medicine in tablet or liquid form that could cure it either. What is the reason? Simply that the cause of cataract, and these germs take up among quarters far back in the nasal passages, or deep down in the branches of the eye, where ordinary remedies can't go. What will reach them? Otta-hozone will, for it is inhaled in the lungs and bronchial tubes, goes where the air you breathe goes, kills the germs and cures the disease. It never yet failed. Try Otta-hozone, $5.00 and $10.00.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION, BUFFALO

A GIRL AND A PONY.

was an American—the other a French man. It was some time before I could get it through my head that I had been deceived to the house to be robbed, and my stupidity caused the pair much merriment. When I at last saw the game I began to bluster and threaten, but they did not care worth a cent. I had a watch, ring and pin, and about $20 in cash with me. I finally placed this plunder on the table before them and started to bid them good evening, but soon discovered that it was only the first move in the game. They questioned the amount of my bank account, both in London and Paris, and strange to relate, they had checks on both banks. I was ordered to fill out two checks for $1000 pounds each. I flatly and loudly refused, and the American smoked a third of his cigar before saying:

"Don't be a fool! You see the game. We have had you marked down for some months past, and having got you in the net we are bound to make a haul. You will either give us the checks or be shut up here to starve to death. Don't hope for any outside aid. Even if the house were to be searched 10 times over you could not be found in the room where we shall put you."

Well, what could I do? I had been deceived to the house and was unarmed and helpless. I was put up with a room, and there was no question but what the men meant to carry it through at all hazards. I sat down and signed the checks, hoping that was the end of it, but it wasn't. They must get their money before saying I had a room, and I was shoved into a smaller room, a man set to guard me and held me there three days and nights. By that time the checks had been cashed and the gang was far away. I was finally let out of the house at midnight, having been fairly well treated by the guard, and you may guess I did not open my lips to the police. I had been made a fool of in the most perfect manner, but I preferred to bear my loss rather than the ridicule of my friends. Had the house been searched, however, nothing would have been found. The guard probably left as soon as I did, while the others had gone before him. While my uncle George is in blissful ignorance of my adventure, yet whenever he grinds me with the salutation, "George, you are an ass," I seem to take the words seriously to heart instead of smiling over them as before. In fact, I am more than inclined to agree with him, and I think if I marry I will take the girl he has chosen for me.

AFTER 15 YEARS.

Editor Morning Times.
Sir:—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from constipation and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Brittain, G. R. B. Bradford.

The Great Kidney Specialist.

The Famous Physician Who Has Cured Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases a Life-Long Study.

DR. ZINA PITCHER.

For many years in the hospitals of Detroit and Professor of Genito Urinary diseases in Michigan College of Medicine, Dr. Zina Pitcher devoted his time to the scientific study of diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary System.

By this exclusive devotion to one branch of medical investigation Dr. Pitcher was enabled to perfect a treatment for Kidney troubles that far surpasses any other remedy.

After testing it extensively in private and hospital practice and demonstrating its incomparable superiority to all other forms of treatment, Dr. Pitcher decided to give this great boon to suffering humanity at large and not confine it exclusively to the circles of his private and hospital patients.

He has placed his remedy before the public under the name of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets and as confident in the positive curative qualities of these Tablets for backache, lame or weak back, drowsiness, headache, pain in the loins, brick dust deposits in the urine, pain under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, leg, irritation, frequent urination at night, dribbling, inflammation or irritation of the bladder, gravel, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease and Diabetes (except in the last stages), bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, constipation, puffiness and pasty appearance of the face, dropsy, backache and weakness of women, urinary weakness of children and old people or any symptomatic indications of Kidney disease that to anyone suffering from any of the above troubles, who use the Tablets faithfully, according to directions, and derives no benefit therefrom, their money will be cheerfully refunded.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are for sale at a box at all drugists or sent by mail to The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE KIDNEY TABLETS

(Formula of Zina Pitcher, M. D., Late Professor of Materia
Medica and Genito Urinary Diseases Michigan College of Medicine, Detroit, Mich.,
U. S. A.)

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the quickest and surest relief for Backache and Kidney troubles, and can show more evidence to that effect than all other advertised remedies combined. Dr. Pitcher makes his reputation on these tablets for Backache and Kidney troubles, and will not allow them to be advertised as a "jack of all trades" medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Leavitt of Port Hope says: "Thirteen years ago I fell and injured my back, and since then have known little comfort with backache and Kidney troubles. I have tried all kinds of medicines and even many physicians, but got no help until I began the bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that I got from Mr. Dwyer, druggist. They have done me a world of good. I feel stronger; the aching and pain is gone, and I cannot tell you how pleased I am, and everyone else says the same of them. They are just what everyone wanted. I hope others will use them and get well."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are put up in wooden bottles, with green wrapper bearing the portrait and signature of Z. Pitcher, M.D. Each bottle contains 50 tablets, price 50 cents per bottle. Manufactured by The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

LIVELY LAKEFIELD LOCALS

Patent Budget of News from Our Pretty Northern Village.

—Miss Minnie Gilroy is visiting friends in Oshawa.

—Rev. Mr. McCamus is attending conference at Cobourg.

—Miss Mary Norish, who has been ill for some time, is recovering.

—Miss Tate has returned to Montreal to resume her musical studies.

—Our enterprising fellow-townsmen, Mr. Leahy, is having his hotel re-appointed.

—Mr. F. Vizard, of Toronto, is visiting his brother, Mr. Chas. Vizard at the Chalmers House.

—Vladimir is open for the season, Mr. Wm. Graham and family having taken up their residence there last week.

—The Trent Valley Navigation Company is fortunate in securing the services of Mr. George B. Hilliard, as local agent.

—The meeting on Thursday last to listen to Mr. Daniel's address on "Life in Eternity" was well attended, and was very interesting.

—Mrs. M. C. Davis of Aylmer, who has been staying for some months with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Baker, returned home last week.

—The Olympics under Col. Billy Lech, passed through here on Thursday last, and appeared to be a jolly crowd. Mr. John Craig was at the station to welcome the boys.

—100 delegates are expected here in connection with the Peterborough Association of the Baptist Church, which assemble here on 15th inst.

—The new steamer Alert is fast approaching completion. The machinery has all been placed in position, and the woodwork is now being pushed forward.

—Ex-Reeve Lillie has written a letter to the News in which he very successfully defends the record of previous councils. It is a cold bluff to state that Lakefield receives no benefit from the Dickson Company's works here. The merchants will not endorse this statement. If the village could get other industries on the same terms, it would be quick to do so.

—A pleasant outing was spent a few days ago by the members of the "Out-of-the-day" Club, an organization under the popular leadership of Mr. Haskell, the popular conductor of the Lakefield train. The party drove from Peterborough and put up at the Craig House, whence after indulging in a substantial breakfast, they started for a voyage round the Lakes on the steamer Empress.

The gentlemen who composed the party were Messrs. J. M. Breake, M. C. Tooley, R. Matchett, J. Wilson, F. Perry, J. M. White, P. Carroll, R. Waram, D. Hummel, J. Fanning, R. Gibbs, W. Bunton, Chas. Rheumatism is a Constitutional Disease

The pain and localized conditions are mere results of constitutional conditions. Poisoned blood sends its evil influence to various parts of the body, and to cure permanently, you must treat it constitutionally. Nothing so completely dispels these poisons from the system as Ferrozone. It makes new blood, it imparts vitality and vigor, enabling the system against the throw off the poisons that engender rheumatism. Ferrozone also fortifies the system against the weakening effects of rheumatism, and cures, not simply relieves as most medicines do. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

On Saturday Lieut. Col. Edwards received from the D.O.F., Col. Montanari, an order requesting him to report what regiments indicated Nos. 3 and 4, were in a position to respond to an order to turn out to form part of the troops to participate in the reception of the Duke of Cornwall and York either at Ottawa or Toronto.

The 57th will be reported as fit and ready to participate in such a reception, and it is more than probable that the regiment will do so at one of the two cities mentioned.

More Killed Yesterday.

A horse, belonging to Mr. MacMullin was killed yesterday afternoon. The animal jumped over a barbed wire fence on Homewood Ave. tearing its breast and legs so badly that it had to be shot. The animal was valued at $100 and will be quite a loss to Mr. MacMullin.

IT SLUGS.

Even Harder Than a Fistic Fighter.

A newspaper man is subject to trials and tribulations the same as ordinary mortals. Coffee "slugs" a great many of them.

D. McEldan, of the Windsor Barre Record says regarding his experience with coffee, "A little over two years ago I was on the verge of collapse, superinduced by the steady grind of the newspaper office. For weeks I did not have a night's sound sleep and the wretched nights were followed by depression and a general breaking up of the constitution. I ran down in weight. My family physician insisted that I leave off coffee and take on Postum Food Coffee but I would not hear of it.

One day I was served with a cup of coffee, as I supposed, that had a peculiarly delicious flavor. I relished it, and when drinking the second cup I was told that it was not coffee but Postum Food Coffee. I was dumfounded, and for a time thought I was the subject of a practical joke. However, I became a firm believer in, and a user of Postum from that time, and almost immediately I began to sleep nights and the irritableness disappeared, and in less than three months I was completely well and in seven months my weight increased up to 190 pounds. I can now do the work of two ordinary newspaper men."

There is a great, big lot of common sense in leaving off coffee and using Postum Food Coffee.

PRICE OF BINDER TWINE

The Ontario Government Fixes it at Eight Cents.

A Big Improvement Has Also Been Made in the Method of Parceling It—Packings Material Will be Useful.

The Hon. Mr. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, and the Inspector of Prisons have decided upon the price (8 cents per pound) by which farmers can be supplied with binder twine from the Ontario Central Prison, for the season of 1901. This year there is only one quality that will be supplied, and that the best, of which every ball and farmer who purchases this twine does not find it satisfactory can, by returning it have the price paid for the twine returned. This condition, however, is not likely to arise, for there is no question of the quality of the twine supplied the farmer—it is as good as the best twine that will be placed upon the market this year.

There will be besides a decided, and to the farmer, profitable, improvement in the mode of parceling. Heretofore it has been the practice of binder-twine manufacturers to ship twine in ordinary jute bags, which were useless to the farmer after they were received, and the lashings, which were also useless after their temporary purpose was served. The weight of these sacks and lashings was six per cent. of the weight of the bale.

But this is now changed as regards the twine from the Central Prison, and there will be no six per cent. loss to the farmer. The twine will hereafter be shipped in two-bushel, 10-lb., cotton grain bags of excellent quality, which will be of permanent use to the farmer, as will also be the lashings, which consist of two nine-foot rope halters, with snap and ring ready for use. The value of the grain bag is greater than an equal weight of twine, and the same applies to the halters. The twine bales are five pounds in weight each—twelve to the bag—and of a length of five hundred feet to the pound, and of uniform quality throughout.

Successful Advertising.

The mere appearance of a business man's name and address in every issue of a leading newspaper will do much to increase his trade. Every business man, however, is able to give facts about his establishment which will encourage people to deal with him. To state such facts clearly (varying them day by day) in conspicuous type in a newspaper of large circulation is the principal secret of successful advertising.

SUGAR BEET PLOTS.

Have Been Inspected by Mr. E. A. Shuttleworth and are doing remarkably well.

Dear Sir,—Having just completed my June inspection of the sugar beet plots planted at Peterborough in the townships of Smith, North and South Moneghan, Otonabee and Duoro under the direction of Dr. A. E. Shuttleworth, of the Ontario Agricultural College, by direction of the Minister of Agriculture of Ontario, I am pleased to be able to say that I have found them generally in good condition, although the season has been cold and the ground very wet. There are two cases where the plants are not up yet owing to the ground being so wet that the seed could not be planted at the proper time. But where the land is high and dry the beet plants show well; some of the plots being unusually fine. I find the farmers quite interested in the cultivation of the sugar beet, and they generally follow instructions closely, though some forget. On the whole, I think they are doing remarkably well, and their beet plots show it. I find a large breadth of land suitable for the growth of the sugar beet around Peterborough and much more could be made so by draining.

Respectfully yours,
E. H. SHUTTLEWORTH,
Inspector.

M'GUIRE VS. CORRY.

An Appeal Case of Local Interest Heard at Osgoode Hall.

McGuire vs. Corry was an appeal case of local interest heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto on Friday last, by W. R. Riddell, K.C., and D. O'Connell (Peterborough), for the defendant, against the judgment of the County Court, entered for $500 upon verdict of jury in action under workmen's compensation act, for damages for injuries sustained by plaintiff while employed by defendant, owing to their alleged failure to supply sufficient cribbing work to prevent the sides of an excavation from falling in. The plaintiff alleged that he was at the bottom of the pit acting under the direction of the foreman when he was struck by earth and stones from the caving in sides of it. It was contended for appellants that the evidence showed that here the plaintiff had only preceded his danger, but fully comprehended his risk, and the maxim "volenti non fit injuria" applied. Thomas vs. Quarterman, 18 Q. B. D. 685, South v. Baker (1891), A. C. 513, were cited in evidence of negligence of defendant's proper under the circumstances to be submitted to the jury; that the alleged foreman, Macnamara, was only a fellow-laborer, and that the appellants were prejudiced in several respects by the judge's charge. E. B. Stone (Peterborough), for plaintiff, opposed appeal. Judgment reserved.

PREPARATIONS FOR WINTER CAMPAIGN BY THE BRITISH IN SOUTH AFRICA

The Departure of Lieut.-Colonel Steele, Late Commander of The Strathconas For South Africa.

How War Will be Waged During the Winter

The Purposes of the British in Regard to the Closing Scenes of the Great War.

Pretoria, June 11.—The South African winter is now upon us. This may not contain much meaning to the casual student of the war. It will be dismissed with the thought that there will be a relaxation from the heavy inroad which horse sickness has recently made in the ranks of the mounted troops north of the Vaal; that is all. What does South Africa know of winter? But to every one in this war-devastated continent it means much. From the High-Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief to the lowest infantry recruit and starving refugee on the coast-board it means everything. It means that unless the enemy is prevented from moving north of the Bushveld, and unless the hostilities are brought by some means to a definite termination, there will be another spell of severe and unsatisfactory campaigning in an impossible country, together with six months of comparative peace upon which the greatest hopes will be built-to be broken by a recrudescence of guerrilla operations all over the country when the first spring rains again enable the enemy to operate on the high veld. But this will mean no respite to the troops; relaxation of the military regime in the towns, no moving into winter quarters, only a solid continuation of the most demoralizing warfare that can be undertaken.

But a strenuous effort is to be made in fact it has already begun-to prevent the enemy from carrying out their pet scheme of retirement to the winter quarters which suits them so well and are so difficult for us. A glance at the map of the Transvaal will make clear the present scheme. General Plumer, with his usual dash, was in Pretoria before Commandant Beyers could make up his mind to oppose his advance. Based upon Pretoria on the west, and Lydenburg on the east, it may be possible to hold the line of the Luthenge, and close to some degree the Bushveld districts to the enemy. At any rate this is the scheme; and while columns under the direction of Sir Bindon Blood move north from Middleburg and Belfast on the Eastern Railway, and thus clear the north of the Middleburg district, other columns, drawn from the mounted force which was General French's command in the Pieter-Relief Vryheid districts and which are now being hurried back, will operate in the southern half of Middleburg, with the object of defeating the rather large concentrations which, in direct communication with Botha, have collected between Bethel and Ermelo. That is, columns are due to move north from Heidelberg and Standerton, and a column moves east from the Springs. General Darnley returns up through the country which General French swept in February last. General French, who has returned to Johannesburg, will direct the whole of the southern movement.

Lieut.-Col. Steele, of the Strathconas.

Here is the scheme. What its measure of success or failure will be it is impossible to forecast. Upon the map, like the majority of the schemes which have promised much and failed, it furnishes, in conjunction with the simultaneous movements in the western districts and Orange River Colony, every promise of success. Yet every one in the country has ceased to be sanguine. But there is this hope. The main difficulty of all recent operations has been that the enemy have refused battle on every occasion. But for some reason, hitherto unexplained, the burghers of the southern Middleburg district, Ermelo and Carolina have, throughout the campaign, shown a martial spirit as distinct from that of the other Boers as that of the Pathans from that of the Madagascan. There is just the chance that these men, the same men who bore the brunt of Spion Kop, who simultaneously attacked at night six of the Middleburg-Komati pools in January last, who hung persistently on French's flanks and rear during his first march through the South-

PRO-BOER RESOLUTION.

Stirs Up Trouble at a Church Congress in New York.

RESOLUTION WAS CHANGED

At the Session of the General Synod of Dutch Reformed Church.

Pro Boer and Pro British Have a Word War in Which the British Succeeded.

New York, June 11.—The session of the general synod of the Dutch Reformed church in America, now meeting in the Second Reformed church in New Brunswick, N. J., was enlivened today by a clash between the pro-Boer and the pro-English elements of the synod. Rev. Dr. David J. Burrill of the Marble Collegiate church, New York, was the leader of the Boer forces, while Rev. Abbot E. Kittredge of the Madison Avenue church, New York, formerly pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, Chicago, led the English party. The clash arose over a resolution extending to the Boers the sympathy of the synod. Dr. Kittredge's side was successful in preventing the adoption of the original resolution which was referred to a special committee.

The trouble was started by an address made by Rev. H. Van Broekhuizen, assistant pastor of the Dutch church at Pretoria, who was banished from the Transvaal by the British.

He made an earnest plea for assistance and sympathy and declared that he did not blame England for her late war, but that if the people of England knew of these things they would not be permitted.

Rev. J. Talmadge Bergen, representing the Dutch element of the synod, was on his feet in a moment and submitted this resolution:

The general synod of the Dutch Reformed church in America extends its love and sympathy to our sister churches of the Reformed faith in South Africa, which are now dismembered and devastated by a cruel war.

We enter our protest to the Christian people of the British empire and the world against the imprisonment and banishment into exile of the ministers of the Reformed church in that country.

We protest in the name of humanity against the arrest and imprisonment of Boer women and children, against their retention in guarded camps which are unfit in provision and shelter, and declare that such a policy demands the severest condemnation as unchristian and uncivilized.

Dr. Burrill declared for the passage of the resolution.

"Of the liquid that runs in my veins," he exclaimed, "every drop that is not water, every drop that is called blood, aims me to second this expression of sympathy and support."

Rev. A. E. Kittredge said: "There is a question of politics involved and with politics the synod has nothing to do. To adopt this resolution will be to put the synod in the position of taking sides."

After further discussion the resolution was referred to a committee. Later in the day a much modified resolution of sympathy with the Boers was reported and this was adopted without further discussion.

PLANS ALL-POWERFUL BANK.

Morgan Said to be Arranging for One With Capital of $1,000,000,000.

London, June 11.—It is reported that J. Pierpont Morgan is engaged in arranging for the establishment of a great Anglo-American bank with a capital of $1,000,000,000. It is proposed to abolish all of the principal financial agencies and banks already engaged in Anglo-American business.

The proposed institution is said to be intended to be the principal agency for the already vast and rapidly growing banking transactions between Europe and America. Mr. Morgan is understood to have associated with him in the stupendous undertaking not only the principal capitalists who aided in the organization of the billion-dollar steel trust, but also the Rothschilds.

It is said that Mr. Morgan has had in mind for a considerable period the creation of a single great institution which would dominate not only the banking business passing to and fro between America and Europe, but would practically dictate the financial operations of the world. His experience with existing banking facilities during the recent panic, it is said, has hastened his desire to put into operation his great scheme.

LONDON MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Fulford Killed His Mother-In-Law Then Shot Himself.

THE WOMAN WAS OUT MILKING

London, Ont., June 11.—Robert Fulford, formerly of St. Louis, but now recently of Chicago, shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah McCord, on Saturday evening at her home on occasion 9, London Township, and then committed suicide.

Fulford, who was a builder and contractor by occupation, arrived in London from Buffalo yesterday morning, and made inquiries about getting some one to drive him out to Ilderton. Securing the services of a shoemaker named Wm. Swartz, he was driven to the farm of Robert McCord, located as noted above. On reaching the farm gate Fulford alighted and told Swartz to drive up the road and be back in ten minutes, as he would only be detained a short time. He walked up the lane to the barn-yard where Mrs. McCord and a son and daughter were milking. Mr. McCord being similarly engaged in the barn. Fulford accosted Mrs. McCord and inquired about her daughter, Gertie, Fulford's second wife, and first cousin. She had left Fulford because of ill-treatment; she came home, but only stayed a short time, and then went to visit friends in St. Mary's. In reply to Fulford Mrs. McCord said that Gertie was well, but refused to tell Fulford where she was. "She's not at Exter, anyway," she said.

LORD KITCHENER'S REPORT.

Kitchener Reports 2,640, Killed, Captured or Surrendered Last Month.

London June 11.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Pretoria under today's date says the number of Boers killed, imprisoned or surrendered during the last month totalled 2,640. From June 1 to June 9, twenty-six Boers were killed, four were wounded, 409 were made prisoners, and 33 surrendered, and 651 rifles, 115,500 rounds of ammunition, 100 wagons and 4000 horses taken.

referring to the family place of residence up to February.

Fulford then drew from his pockets two revolvers, holding one in each hand and immediately fired four shots from the one in his left hand at the helpless woman, who fell at his feet. One shot entered Mrs. McCord's body just below the left breast, striking the apex of the heart; two more struck her in front of the left thigh, and as she fell another bullet crashed into her brain. Then, without a moment's hesitation, raising his right and with its unused revolver, he put the muzzle of the pistol in his mouth and shot himself dead. So horrible a tragedy that they cannot say whether Fulford fired more than one shot with the second revolver. Mr. McCord came out of the barn just as Fulford pointed the pistol at the unfortunate woman. Seizing the only weapon at hand, a large stone, Mr. McCord ran to his wife's assistance, but before he could reach her the tragedy was complete.

Fulford's body was brought here last night. Mrs. McCord's remains are at the home. Over $400 in money was found on Fulford's body; also cards and addresses showing that he had been in Buffalo at the Pan-American. His address in Chicago was 369 Monroe avenue. He had no letters on his person. Fulford and his wife had been separated about two years. He had a bad record, was violent of temper, indulged in drink and abused his wife.

A VERY COOL SUMMER IS PREDICTED

Eminent Scientists Say That Spots on the Sun Indicate a Cool Summer

The Effect on Crops Will Not be Disastrous.—Injury Will Not Cover Any Extensive Region.—No Lack of Strong Sunshine.—There Will be Some Hot Waves.

New York, June 11.—With the discovery of a magnificent group of spots on the sun by a French astronomer, after an absence of these phenomena for seven months, comes, scientists say, a promise of a pleasant summer. Though indicative of increased solar heat, their presence forebodes an absence of stagnant hot waves, like those of the summers of 1896 and 1900, when for weeks the air was like steam, laden with heat and moisture and unrelieved by the slightest breeze.

These great disturbances were discovered by the Abbe Th. Moreux, of the Observatory of Saint Celestin, Bourges, France, on the morning of May 20. In a communication to the European edition of The Herald on May 21 he said: "I was making my daily inspection of the sun, when I perceived on the eastern edge a magnificent group of spots extending over an immense surface, and giving all the signs of frightful activity. The diameter of the spotted surface, according to the measurements calculated during the morning of May 20, was 29,830 miles. The group extended over a surface of 667,000,000 square miles—nearly four times the area of the earth's surface.

"On the previous evening there was nothing visible upon the surface of the sun. The group of sun spots observed of May 20 rapidly underwent transformation and tended to unite in a single spot."

From the Abbe's description of this tremendous spot, it is obvious that the solar fires underwent last month a frightful increase over an almost incomprehensible area. That the great outbursts of solar energy represented by the spots are sufficiently far reaching to be felt within the earth's atmosphere has long been evidenced by the occurrence of magnetic disturbances on the earth simultaneous with the appearance of the spots.

OUTLOOK FOR SUMMER.

At first glance, the most natural inference would be that the summer of 1901 and the three succeeding summers would be generally warmer than usual. The sun has not yet developed maximum activity and its disturbance will

WILHELMINA TRIES TO END BOER WAR

German Newspaper Says Her Interview With Emperor William was to Obtain Intervention.

Official Statement From Berlin on the Matter—Boer Side Has Asked The Hague Court to Take Steps, and a Session Has Been Held Regarding the Affair.

Berlin, June 11.—The "Kleines Journal" today prints a despatch from The Hague, saying that Queen Wilhelmina's recent visit here was meant to obtain Emperor William's consent to end the South African war, both the Zwiabund and the Dreibund being willing to do so, through The Hague arbitration court, and that the Emperor consented and the court began work thereon. The despatch has created a sensation here.

The Associated Press has just obtained the following Foreign Office statement which is authorized by Count Von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor: "Neither Great Britain, France, nor Russia ever approached Germany to participate in any action aiming at ending the South African war. Germany has all along distinguished between offering her good offices and intervention. To render her good offices would be possible under certain circumstances, viz. if both parties to the war should request it; but it will be remembered that Great Britain joined The Hague conference only on condition that the Boer States were excluded. There is no doubt that Mr. Kruger, who is a serious statesman, came to Europe to obtain the good offices of several of the powers to end the war; but there is also no doubt that Great Britain does not want their good offices. At least, it is true that since the South African war began Great Britain has never, either verbally or in writing confidentially or officially broached such an idea. It is quite possible that the Boer side has now formally asked The Hague arbitration court to lend its aid to end the war somehow, and that the court has held a session regarding the matter; but that of course is entirely different from any serious steps to end the war."

PEACE RUMORS DENIED.

London, June 11.—The War Office authorities say that they have received no news of a meeting between Lord Kitchener and General Botha near Standerton last Wednesday, and the report of a tentative settlement between the British and Boer commanders is consequently discredited in official quarters. Mrs. Botha's arrival in London has nevertheless revived the peace rumors, to which publicity has been given on several occasions recently. It is impossible to say exactly what is going on, but the general opinion is there must be some foundation for the rumors. Mrs. Botha's visit is still shrouded in secrecy, and although it is freely stated that she is on a peace mission no definite information on the point is obtainable at present. Military men and members of Parliament have little faith in the success of her mission. They apprehend that the main object of the appearance of Mrs. Botha and Mr. Fischer in England is to make futile suggestions and revive the pro-Boer agitation in and out of Parliament.

THE DISPATCH'S STORY.

The Weekly Dispatch, which recently anticipated accurately several official announcements in regard to the peace negotiations in South Africa says Lord Kitchener and Gen. Botha, the Boer commander-in-chief, accompanied by two aides as witnesses, held a protracted conference a few miles from Standerton on June 5 and arrived at a tentative settlement.

The Government is keeping the terms secret, but the Dispatch says it has ascertained that the outlook for the conclusion of peace is more hopeful than at the time of the first meeting between the two generals some months ago.

The paper also states that within the last twenty-four hours the Government has countermanded orders for large shipments of horses and stores to South Africa and that announcements to that effect will doubtless be made in the House of Commons during the coming week.

A VISIT TO HEAVEN.

A Minister Tells of a Wonderful Vision of Paradise.

Says He Saw Heaven in All Its Glory—The Truth of the Story Vouched for by Many

Indianapolis, Ind., June 10.—The Rev. B. U. Johnson celebrated his seventieth birthday by attending a large revival at his home in Mulberry, Clinton County. He told for the first time publicly, what he firmly believes to be his actual return from death an occurrence of thirty years ago.

"I was seized with a fever and lost consciousness," he said. "Two physicians pronounced me dead, and my relatives were summoned. The funeral was fixed for the third day, after my supposed death. It was a church funeral, and I was carried in the hearse and coffin nearly four miles to the church."

"The people had gathered, and a brother minister of mine was reading the opening hymn when a gust of wind slammed the church door, causing a vibration of the building, which moved the coffin in which I lay. I was shaken out of unconsciousness."

"I sat up in the coffin and looked around with a feeling of wonder. I saw the crowd, the minister, and I thought I had gone to sleep in the church. The glorious visions that had come to me during the three days I was supposed to be dead I then thought them to be dreams. I lay down and then went to sleep.

"My arising in my coffin caused a stampede in the church, of course, but the local undertaker saw the situation and helped me out without awakening me. I was laid on the pulpit floor and slept an hour longer before I was awakened by the few relatives who had stayed with me. I recovered rapidly."

"I will not talk of the visions that came to me while I was in my coffin. I firmly believe they were glimpses of the next world. They were beautiful and beyond compare. It would be sacrilegious for me to describe them. I will say that they were so real I have had my faith strengthened and am now more than ever convinced of the glorious promises of the grandeur of the next world."

Neighbors have visited and talked with me since about the experience, but I have told them nothing. This is more than I ever expect of the matter before. "I believe I was dead and was brought back to life by God to tell the glad tidings of a future life."

Alive Yet Half Dead.

Felling miserable. This is the condition of thousands of growing girls and women. Can't eat enough to be truly alive. Digest so little of what they do eat, as to scarcely know what life really means. Miserable! Of course. Eat more, digest more, then feel streaming through life's renewed current, the buoyancy, the strength, the hopefulness of youth. Simply done if you'll just try Petrosque, the wonderful blood maker, nerve strength and brain vigor. Messrs. Ormond and Walsh, druggists, know all about it. Call and ask them about it.

HON. A. S. HARDY DYING

His Condition Up to 3 O'clock This Morning Very Critical

Underwent an Operation Saturday the 9th Which he Not Likely to Recover.

Toronto, June 11.—At noon to-day there was no improvement in the condition of Hon. A. S. Hardy, who was removed to the Toronto General Hospital late Saturday night.

Mr. Hardy was taken ill a week ago and compelled to leave his office in the Legislative building, but it was no until Saturday his condition became critical. Shortly before midnight an ailment that had seemed about to be a simple attack of indigestion, and on the advice of Dr. McPherson, who was in attendance, the distinguished patient was removed to the General Hospital, where shortly afterward an operation was performed by Dr. L. H. Cameron and Dr. Starr.

Mr. Hardy was much weakened by the operation, but rallied somewhat by Sunday evening. At noon today no improvement was reported in his condition, but hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The hospital is deluged with telephone messages of enquiry, and telegrams are pouring in from all over the Province voicing the very general anxiety over the ex-Premier's illness.

Mrs. Hardy remained in the hospital with her husband until an immediate danger was over. Judge Hardy of Brantford, a brother of the ex-Premier, is also in the city.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.

Sir,—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. As a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a living, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. P. Jones, Lockport, N.Y.

They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Brittain, G. T. B. Brantford.

We here give a few cases, where the efficacy of our Constitutional treatment in curing Cancer, is established beyond all question. We have plenty on file. There is ample proof that where our remedy cures, it cures to stay and saves people from the torture of knife and plaster.

THE BY-LAW TO-DAY.

Ratepayers Should See That The Shovel Co. By-Law Is Carried.

The property owners of the town are reminded that the by-law sanctioning the grant of a site for the factory of the Peterborough Shovel Company, is to be voted on to-day, and it is the duty of all who desire to see the town advanced, to turn out and record their votes in favor of the by-law.

In matters of this kind there is, unfortunately, too much apathy. Property owners do not take individual interest in helping the work of town building along. In this case, at least, there should be no half-heartedness, for the people have everything to gain and nothing to lose by the proposed contract with the Shovel Company.

The town is asked to give the company a deed of the south half of the corporation lot on which the Kennedy Stock Yards are located, but before the papers are signed the company agrees to erect a brick building 50x150 feet in size, and to install therein machinery to the value of $25,000. Another condition attached to the deed of the property over to the company, is that if at any time operations cease for 12 consecutive months within the next ten years, the property shall revert to the town, the company having the option of purchase at a valuation.

Let every voter not only vote himself, but see that his neighbor does likewise.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION.

A Good Start Made in the Arrangements.

The Victoria-Dominion Day celebration committee met last night in the Council Chamber to set the ball a-rolling for the postponed celebration. There was quite a large attendance, and everybody showed unabated determination to have a big celebration.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey was present to see that the procession, etc., be so managed as not to conflict with St. Joseph's picnic. The request was readily granted, and Archdeacon Casey is returning thanks to the managers of the picnic who endeavor to help on the celebration.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Finance—Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, T. H. O. Denne, W. B. Hamford, P. Campbell and T. B. Bradburn.
Printing—Messrs. Bradburn, Denne, and Knapp.

Messrs. Winch, Burritt, and Leifur and the chairman were appointed a deputation to go on business men to see about having floats in the procession.

It was resolved that the procession shall leave the Bridge Works at 10 a.m. or 11 a.m.
Prof. Gidycz was applauded when he stated that the band had an offer of $100 to leave town on the 1st, but had declined the offer. A resolution was moved appropriating $100 for the band, on Monday, June 24th.

BESANT AND BUCHANAN ARE DEAD

Two Well-Known writers Pass to the Great Beyond at Almost the Same Time.

Baron Wantage Dies at the Age of 69 Years—Served in the Crimean War and Acted as Equerry to King Edward While He Was Still Prince of Wales.

London, June 11.—Sir Walter Besant, the novelist, died yesterday at his residence in Hampstead after a fortnight's illness from influenza. He was born in 1836. Besant was to have attended the Atlantic Dinner to-night and to propose the toast to "English-speaking communities."

Sir Walter Besant was born at Portsmouth in 1836. He received his education at King's College, London, and Christ's College, Cambridge, where he took high mathematical honors. He was intended for the Church, but abandoned this career. He was then appointed senior professor in the Royal College of Mauritius. This through ill-health he resigned, and returned to England, where in 1868 he published his first work, "Studies in Early French Poetry." While secretary of the Palestine Exploration Fund, he wrote in 1871 "Histories of Jerusalem." This was written in collaboration with Professor Palmer, who was afterwards killed in Arabia. He was also editor of "The Survey of Eastern Palestine" in 1871. He entered into a literary partnership with the late Mr. James Rice; "The Golden Butterfly," being the principal book, "Monks of Thelema," "Ready Money Moray," All in a Garden, "Armistice of Lyons," "Beyond the Dreams of Avarice," the book "All Sorts and Conditions of Men" led to the establishment of the "People's Palace" in the east of London. He was the first chairman of the Executive Committee of the Incorporated Society of Authors. He was editor of "The Author," a monthly paper devoted to the interests of literary men and literary beginners. In the latter part of his life Sir Alfred took great interest in the scheme for celebrating the millenary of King Alfred.

Sir Walter Besant was in Chicago at the time of the World's Fair. He attended a meeting of the Library Association; but it was merely a pleasure trip. Sir Walter's first novel, which was published in 1874, was "The House of the Dead." His literary career was a long one. He was a prolific writer, and his works were widely read. THE PROPOSED CONFEDERATION OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN COLONIES

England's Bill of Expense is Causing Much Discontent Throughout the Country.

Arbitration Between England and France to Settle the Newfoundland Land Matter.

London, June 12.

There are some indications of a desire on the part of the Government to end the South African war as speedily as possible if it can be done without too great a loss of prestige. The cost is far greater than anyone dared to predict two years ago that it would be, and there are signs of revolt among the taxpayers. The tremendous loss of life in the war is a secondary consideration with the public at large. The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, gives the total cost of military operations incident to the Boer war as £74,013,529. This embraces all that has been spent up to the present time and all that will be spent, according to recent estimates, to the end of the fiscal year in 1902. The war in China from 1900 to 1902 is estimated to cost £23,300,000, the aggregate of two wars carried on at the same time with £2,250,000 of interest added, being £76,563,529. This does not include the cost of two other "small" wars was begun and ended while fighting was in progress in South Africa and China—namely, the formidable war in Ashanti and the military expedition in Somaliland. These together can hardly have cost less than £9,000,000. From which it appears that the burden imposed on British taxpayers by actual fighting in three years is over £75,000,000.

A CONFEDERATION PROPOSED.

Of course, no one talks of surrendering in the full meaning of that term, but retreat is being debated in many prominent circles. Not, perhaps, flight from the scene of action that would be disgraceful. But suggestions are made that the Boers be given a fair measure of independence provided they will consent to a nominal British suzerainty over their country. One statesman of high repute has urged that Cape Colony, the Free State and the Transvaal be formed into a confederation similar to that recently organized in Australia, that the governing power shall consist of a congress elected by the people, but that the governor general shall be appointed by the British Government. This plan, he suggests, would satisfy the moderates among the Boer population, for the recognition of British sovereignty would not be wholly distasteful when combined with nearly all the prerogatives of local self-government. The local congress, it is proposed shall have the right to make laws for the government of the people which can only be vetoed by the British privy council in the manner that acts of the Dominion Parliament of Canada are made inoperative when they are in violation of the letter or spirit of the organic law. The plan proposed in short, is not essentially different from that proposed by the United States in Cuba.

It is urged in behalf of this scheme that Cape Colony, being more populous than both of the other states combined, would exercise a controlling interest in the legislation of the new confederation and would see to it that none of the rights of the British Government or of British subjects were infringed. Cape Colony, say the advocates of South African confederation, is as loyal to the crown as is England or Scotland, and can be implicitly trusted. This, however, is mere speculation. There is a large mixture of Boers in the Colony. It is not improbable that these could elect a few members of congress, who, in conjunction with the unanimous delegations from the Orange State and the Transvaal, might be able to control that body. This is a danger that will not be overlooked in any plan of settlement that may be arranged. The more conservative of statesmen are not sanguine that such a plan would be productive of good results. It would be largely experimental, of course, and if it should fail all the work already done in South Africa would count for naught. There could never be a guarantee of peace so long as the legislative body of the proposed confederacy was in the control of those hostile to British interests and government.

THE WAR OUTLOOK.

Latest advices from the front line indicate that Lord Kitchener is making considerable progress in bagging the rapidly decreasing Boers. Matters are more hopeful for a speedy termination of the war, than ever before.

ARBITRATION WILL DECIDE IT.

It seems likely that one bone of contention between Great Britain and France will be soon removed. The Walrus incident seems at last to be in a fair way to settlement. It was announced last August that the French Government had agreed to refer to immediate arbitration and a bill has now been introduced in the French chamber upon those lines. The incident itself was one of those obscure frontier squabbles which occur so frequently where the marines of Great Britain are with those of another European power in an African swamp and which are fraught with possibilities of danger out of all proportion to their intrinsic importance. After some 4 years of diplomatic higgling the French Government is now showing signs of willingness to compensate the sufferers if it can be proved that the incident happened upon English soil, while the British are prepared to make concessions in the parallel case of the "Sergeant Malamine." If these two old causes of quarrel are referred to the Belgian arbitrator, Baron Lumbrer, as is proposed, they will more or less cancel each other. It is line now that both of them were buried in oblivion and the public united in the hope that their reference to an arbitrator will result in their speedy and decent interment.

DUTCH FACE A CRISIS

Catholics May Win in the General Elections.

A BITTER CREED FIGHT.

The Defeat of Protestant Regime Expected by the People.

Roman Party Shows Van Gaster at Previous Elections—Success in Friesland and South Will Place Them in Control.

The Hague, June 12.—It is now more than ever probable that the greatest political and religious event in the history of the Netherlands may occur to-day, (Wednesday), when the parliamentary elections will be held. The Roman Catholics have been steadily gaining at each general election during the past decade and recent provincial elections have gone almost entirely in their favor. It is predicted that the young queen, whose ancestors have all espoused and shed their blood for the cause of Reformed Protestantism, will be surrounded by a Catholic ministry.

Already the Catholics are a great power in the second chamber, and should they continue their successes in Friesland and southern Holland they will find themselves in a position to turn the balance of parties. A clerical majority in the second chamber will give a Catholic ministry the opportunity of dissolving on the first approach of a deadlock and will virtually change Holland, the birthplace of Erasmus, from a Protestant to a Catholic country.

COUNTRY IS MUCH EXCITED.

For this reason the people are wrought up to an unusual pitch of excitement. The most conservative independent dailies such as Het Amsterdamsche Algemeene Handelsblad, profess an increase in both Catholics and Protestants, but chiefly the latter, at the expense of the old liberal and moderate party. Out of a total of 100 seats in the second or lower chamber, the liberals gained fifty-two at the last general election, the Catholics and Protestants forty-five and the socialists three. As the ministerialists have since lost two seats, one to each of their opponents, it can hardly be said that they now command a working majority.

A more serious disaster has since overtaken them through the dissolution in February last of the Union Liberals, whose executive body drew up a programme of reform comprising universal suffrage for both sexes, church disestablishment and sundry modifications in the customs tariff. These proposals were too sweeping to satisfy the moderate section, and the most powerful league of the country, reckoning over 10,000 members, came to an end. An attempt at reconstruction was only partially successful, and many advanced liberals joined the socialists or held aloof. The net result of this movement was further to subdivide the left into four clearly defined parties—namely, the old liberals, the advanced liberals or radicals, the democratic liberals and the social democrats. Each group, pretends to have its own candidates, but a shifting will take place at the second ballots, when voters can rally to those representing their particular shade of opinion.

NO END OF FACTIONS.

Despite the diminutiveness of the country there are no end of factions. The members of the right in the second chamber are almost as divided as their opponents. In addition to the Catholics, the party known as the Protestant anti-revolutionaries are subdivided into those who acknowledge Pastor Kuiper as their leader and those who follow Saroth, Lohman, Fijlstra, there are the historic Christians, or orthodox Calvinists, led by Pastor Visser. These divisions are, perhaps, more apparent than real, and a coalition is spoken of between the historic Christians and the anti-revolutionaries.

Whatever may be the outcome of the complex state of parties, it is certain that the old liberals or doctrinaires will, as it Belgium, suffer at the hands of the Catholics as well as of radicals. For the rest, it may fairly be expected that (two years of good government under the liberal regime, including many reforms which are only now beginning to bear fruit, will not be entirely forgotten at the polls.

GRAND TRUNK PRESIDENT.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, interviewed in New York—Talk of American Locomotives and the War.

New York, June 12.—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, who is here en route to London, speaking of American locomotives, an Indian railway, said: "My opinion is that Sir Alfred Hickman will be informed that the English Government places contracts for locomotives with American firms because it is believed that they are the best, that's all."

Speaking of the Boer war and the increased national debt, Sir Charles said he did not see how that could have been avoided. "I think," he said, "that if it is true England has added about £120,000,000 sterling to her debt because of the war, but that is nothing considering the prosperity of the country. It's as if Beaconsfield said when speaking of the country in 1862, 'It is nothing but a flea's bite.'"

THE GERMAN POLICY IN SOUTH AMERICA

Great Britain Afraid of the Increase of the German Navy.

A COMPLICATED CONDITION

Every little while England gets chilled looking at Germany's increasing navy and seeks some way to account for it other than the obvious one that she wishes to increase her prestige and protect her colonies in South Africa. The favorite explanation is that Germany is getting ready to colonize South America and that she expects to be called upon to threaten the United States as an incident to that undertaking. The Saturday Review put forward that statement now. Last year it was the Spectator. The Saturday Review uses its hypothesis to argue against any British alliance with the United States which shall include the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine. It says that such a step "would not only be ludicrously in opposition to our own interests, but it would rightly arouse every other nation to a death struggle against a genuine Anglo-Saxon menace."

European writers seem singularly unable to grasp the idea that the real contests for control of the world are becoming every year more and more purely commercial contests and that war in such a struggle is becoming more and more undesirable, because it eats up all the profits of trade. Germany has large interests in South America, but they are commercial interests. At present they are abundantly well protected and such competition as she has does not come from the United States. There are tea liges of steamships running to Buenos Ayres. Of these two go to Hamburg and two to Bremen and not one to any North American port. It is hard to say why Uncle Sam has so utterly neglected this steadily growing South American trade, but he has done it and the Germans and English have stepped in and annexed a market which Uncle Sam has overlooked. Some day the United States shall attempt to recover the lost ground and then there will come a commercial war like that between two great department stores which put increasingly attractive goods upon their bargain counters. Germany in that struggle will have a great advantage because she has been sending heavy emigration to Brazil and the Argentine Republic. There are said to be over 300,000 people of German descent in the southern provinces of Brazil and on that an argument is based that Germany proposes to establish a German colony there.

There's a Story in Morning Tiredness.

A story of poor blood, weakened nerves, of a starved mind. Plenty of food, mind you, but perhaps poorly prepared and too poorly digested to maintain a vigorous body. Ferrozene quickly makes blood, gives strength to the nerves, cures the fagged feeling that prevents vigorous thought and action. Use Ferrozene, it makes blood, and good blood feeds the nerves. Strong and vigorous nerves are not another name for good health. If you seek health, and a relief from the tired morning feeling, use Ferrozene.

MASSACRE OF ENGLISH MISSIONARIES

Details of the Murder of Dr. Chambers and Dr. Tompkins, by New Guinea Cannibals.

WERE DECEIVED FROM VESSELS BY WARRIORS.

Upon Landing They Were Surrounded by Eight Hundred Blood-Thirsty Natives—Expedition Which Averted the Horror.

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—Particulars of the fate of a party of English missionaries at the hands of the cannibals of New Guinea have just reached here from New Zealand.

The noted explorer, the Rev. James Chalmers, and Dr. Oliver Fellows Thomas, of the London Missionary Society, James Walker and Thomas Rathbone, young men, who accompanied the expedition from Australia, and eleven native converts, who were with the party, were deceived from their vessel, led into the interior and murdered by warriors.

After the massacre the bodies of the victims were cut to pieces and the savages devoured the flesh.

It was at a place known as Risk Point, not far from the mouth of the Fly River, that the massacre occurred. On April 1 last the missionary party set out from Thursday Island in a little schooner, the Niue, which is owned by the London Missionary Society.

MET BY THE CHIEF.

The nine cruised until on the morning of April 6, she dropped anchor off the shore of Courabitia. A few hours later several canoes filled with natives came out to the vessel. The chief of the island greeted the visitors warmly and assured the visitors that they would be safe with his tribe.

Mr. Chalmers conversed with the chief for an hour, and after an exchange of presents the natives withdrew to the shore. On the day following the chief returned and invited Mr. Chalmers and his companions to visit his village, in order that the natives might have an opportunity to hear the message brought by the missionaries.

Mr. Chalmers accepted the invitation of the chief and the entire party landed in the native canoes, leaving the Niue in charge of Captain Sadanaker.

When the little party was about three miles from the beach several of the warriors closed around it, and with uplifted clubs intimated that the visitors were prisoners. Arrived at a little cluster of huts that formed the native settlement, Mr. Chalmers and his party realized the fate that had been treacherously prepared for them. There were assembled at least eight hundred warriors, apparently waiting for the missionary party. The missionaries were placed in a row and surrounded by the savages.

Knowing that death was coming to him, Mr. Chalmers spoke to the cannibals. He made no appeal for mercy, but talked to the savages of the future and implored them to seek for deliverance from their error through the Word of God.

KILLED WITH CLUBS.

While the gray haired missionary was still speaking eloquently of the native tongue several of the warriors rushed upon him and with clubs beat him to the ground. Then the murderers cut off the head of the victim and raised it aloft on a spear.

Dr. Tompkins was forced to look on at the murder of his friend. The eleven native converts threw themselves on the ground and refused to see the horrible spectacles.

Dr. Tompkins was seized and bound and taken to a hut, where he was kept all night with the two other Englishmen. The native converts were closely guarded in another part of the village. At sunrise Dr. Tompkins, with Walker and Rathbone, were killed.

Toward evening of that day a massacre of all the native converts took place. The eleven young men were placed in a group and then the cannibals attacked them with clubs and spears until they were killed. The bodies were cut up and the flesh was placed in baskets and sent to other villages.

All this time Captain Cadensaker was on the schooner Niue. The day following the departure of his companions a swarm of canoes came out from shore and surrounded the missionary craft.

The captain gave the natives all the tobacco he had, but they were not satisfied with that and pilaged the vessel. When their canoes were loaded they started for the shore and the captain set sail. He was pursued for some distance by a number of warriors, but managed to escape. He returned to Daru and reported the disappearance and probable fate of Mr. Chalmers and his friends.

MASSACRE AVENGED.

An expedition was organized to avenge the massacre. The steamer Eurus left Thursday Island with a detachment of Royal Australian Artillery. About the same time the Merrie England, with another party of government troops, departed for the massacre from Port Moresby.

When the party arrived at the island where Mr. Chalmers and his companions met their end, great difficulty was experienced in landing. The natives attacked the boats, but a hot fire from the Maxim dispersed them. On the shore they mustered in large bands and fiercely assaulted the invaders.

The punitive force marched into the interior and captured several villages. Every hut was razed. It is no known how many natives were killed.

NO PEACE POSSIBLE WITH THE WILY BOER

Unless He is Whipped Into Subjection by the British.

SO SAYS AN AUTHORITY.

There Will be no Surrender Unless The Cape Rebel is Protected.

This is How the Situation is Regarded in Many Quarters by the Press and the People.

London, June 12.—It is again reported that General Kitchener and the Boer leaders are trying to arrange terms of peace that will be satisfactory to the republicans of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. This does not mean that there will be peace, but that the soldiers in the field are discussing measures looking to the end of the war.

It is now clear that the English government and the English people desire peace. Over $600,000,000 has been expended in the war. A struggle which has been believed would not extend over three months has extended over twenty months. The war that should have ended when President Kruger left Pretoria still continues, and its continuance is almost as disadvantageous to England as to the Boers.

Both parties are fighting with the old fury. The losses in battle are proportionately as heavy as at the beginning of the war. The racial animosities are growing stronger instead of being eliminated. There is less and less chance for reconciliation every day.

of war under present conditions and circumstances.

There will be peace when the English government is willing to submit terms to the Boers. Putting aside the question of independence, there are other points for which the Boers are contending. It is stated that more than half of the men now in the Boer army are Cape Colony Dutch. The English government insists that all these shall be punished as rebels under the existing penalties for treason. As long as England insists on this policy there will be no peace, because these men have nothing to gain by peace and everything to lose.

The Boers demand that the soldiers in the field shall be treated as soldiers, shall be treated as were the soldiers of General Lee's army as the close of the American war. When the Cape Colony Boers who took service in the Boer army and the Transvaal Boers still in the field are offered the same terms that Grant offered to Lee at Appomattox, there will be peace. But as long as the English government insists on its policy of deporting prisoners of war, denying rights of citizenship to men who have supported the Boer cause, and discriminating against leaders who have declined to surrender, there will be no peace.

STRIKE AT KINGSTON.

Street Car Company's Employees Stop Work But Services Is Not Interrupted.

Kingston, June 12.—The employees of the Kingston Street Railway Company are on strike, but this does not prevent the cars running. The company have men enough, including relatives and friends to man them. The first demand of the men was for an advance in wages of 25 cents per day for four months. This request was amended later so as to apply to conductors only. The company refused all the demands, and ordered the men to call off their requests for an increase in pay and agree to give 48 hours notice if they intended to leave. Failing to sign this agreement they were to consider themselves discharged.

The men refused to sign the document, hence the strike. The Trades and Labour Council have decided to boycott the boats of Folger Brothers, and will not buy goods from any store, firm or man that patronizes the street car company. No picnic will be held on labour day at the company's park, in ab snail team.

TWENTY MINERS IN A BURNING MINE

Terrible Fatality in One of the Pittsburg Coal and Coke Company's Shafts.

BLACK DAMP CHASED OUT RESCUING PARTIES.

Mothers, Wives and Sisters Gather About the Mine From Which Volumes of Smoke are Pouring.

Port Royal, Pa., June 11.—By the explosion of gas in shaft No. 3 of the Pittsburg Coal and Coke Company's mine about six o'clock last night, seven men are supposed to have been killed and thirty miners entombed. Smoke rose from the mouth of the shaft in volumes during the night. The entire population of the town remained up all night at the mine, eagerly awaiting some news from those thought to be either buried under tons of slate or slowly awaiting either death from flames or relief from the outside. In the attempt to rescue the men known to be in the mine other lives may have been lost.

About six o'clock there was a low rumbling sound, followed by a roar which sounded like a cyclone, then three sharp and short reports. Immediately measures for the rescue of those in the mine were taken. Messengers were dispatched on horseback to West Newton, which is five miles away, and while awaiting the arrival of appliances necessary for entering a burning mine a temporary party composed of the men who had knocked off early in the day, was found.

WORK OF RESCUERS.

About three hours after the rescue party had been in the mine two more explosions were heard. Meanwhile the crowd around the opening of the shaft had increased, including mothers, wives and sisters of many of the men entombed. At 3 o'clock A. W. Sweeney, and Frank Stratton came to the surface, bringing Harry Beveridge in an unconscious condition, with both arms and a leg broken, and badly burned. He cannot fire. Sweeney and Stratton succumbed shortly after reaching the surface. Sweeney who was mainly instrumental in saving Beveridge, was able to tell that he climbed over the bodies of at least three men on his way out.

WILL FLOOD THE MINE.

Seven years ago there was another disastrous explosion at Port Royal, and the mine caught fire. It was necessary to fill it with water to finally quench the flames. To do this a hole was drilled from the bed of the river. This is now closed, only with a plug, which was arranged for such an emergency as the present, and to drown out the fire all that is necessary is to take out the plug and the water of the Youghiogheny will rush in. This, of course, cannot be resorted to until all the men in the mine have been recovered or known to be beyond rescue.

BLAME NEGROES FOR DEATHS.

Three Soldiers Expire in Great Agency, as if Poisoned.

Beaufort, Ga., June 12.—Three soldiers at Fort Fremont have met mysterious deaths in the past four days. On Wednesday W. E. Wright died suddenly. He was the son of one of the wealthiest department store owners in Indiana. His term of enlistment expired about a month ago and his commander tried to persuade him to return home, but he insisted on re-enlisting. The second victim was Emmet Eastwing, of South Carolina, who was a clerk at post headquarters. Both men had been drinking freely of the contraband liquor sold by the negroes near the post. Today the third victim, a private, died, and it was rumored the deaths were the result of a conspiracy on the part of the negroes to avenge alleged indignities. All of the victims are said to have died in extreme agony. All the circumstances went to show that the men did not die of alcoholism, but had been poisoned. The greatest consternation prevails at the post and in Beaufort and the governor will be called upon to make an immediate investigation.

WATCH GRAVE OF DRUGGIST.

Stranger at Alexandria, Ind., Tells of Plan to Steal Body.

Elwood, Ind., June 12.—Two months ago Al Painter, a druggist of Alexandria, died from Consumption at Denver, Col. His body was interred at Alexandria. This week a stranger drove into Alexandria, visited several drinking places and, becoming intoxicated, confided to some chance acquaintance that he was there for the purpose of securing the body of Painter. The family were immediately notified and for a week past the grave has been constantly watched. Painter's wife helping to keep up the nightly vigil. The stranger stated that consumption specialists were after the body.

STUMBLES ONTO A FORTUNE.

New Haven Man Finds Quarter of a Million in an Old Trunk.

Hartford, Conn., June 12.—William Warner, a travelling man of New Haven, has just unearthed a fortune in a peculiar fashion. While rummaging through an old hair-dress trunk, the property of a relative, he found a packet of letters. Thinking them a bunch of sentimental effusions, the work of his father, Warner stuffed them into his grip and packed up his sample case for a trip. While seated in the smoker he noticed the package and great was his surprise on finding the documents to be bonds of an early issue of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroad, with great parcels of stock of both the Adams and United States Express Companies. Arriving in Hartford Warner hastened to a brokerage firm, where he found he had some $48,000 of secured interest coming to him as well as property valued at $250,000.

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.

Sir,—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk.

At a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a living, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. EVERY NATION SHOULD HAVE A LARGE FLEET

Naval Forces Have Materially Influenced All Campaigns of Last 70 Years.

THE STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS OF BRITISH FLEET

British Navy Equal to any Other Two Powers but Undue Reliance Placed on Permanent Force.

London, June 12.—In the first chapter of the Naval Annual for 1901, published in Portsmouth, England, Lord Brassey emphasizes the necessity of a fleet, and quotes as follows from a noted French report: "Every nation desirous to play a part in the world, is therein written, must possess the means of using an adequate force in support of its policy. A navy cannot be improvised; a policy must be consistently pursued, it is the foundation of all that have faith in this country to sustain that position and as far as possible, to strengthen it. In all the campaigns of the last seventy years naval forces have materially influenced and have often decided the result."

Lord Brassey is disatisfied, as he well may be, with the condition of the permanent force, as well as with the fleet reserve. It is true that during 1901 and 1902 the competent authorized aggregates 119,000 men, as against 130,000 for France and 125,000 for Russia, but the reserves are neither more efficient, and number 23,000, as compared with the 14,000 in the French inscription maritime. The fleet and the reserve of the British navy are, however, in a position to furnish annually about 4,000 men for sea duties, while engine room complements are secured through voluntary enlistments. These yield annually about three thousand men for the general service, but the reserves are not so well equipped as the French. The fleet in Great Britain seems to be the undue reliance placed on the theory of a permanent force. That policy is extravagant in method, for the sea training and fleet to provide the proper reinforcement needed in war.

A BRITISH WEAKNESS.

While the strength of the British navy is, according to Lord Brassey's judgment, equal to that of any other two powers, still deductions that must be made for a fleet expected to take the offensive makes this superiority a variable quantity. Blockade under modern conditions is an arduous duty, because steam, unlike sail, makes the escape of the blockaded possible in all weathers. The British navy is not so well equipped as the French to attack by torpedo vessels are greater now than any Nelson had to meet. Then, too, this watch and ward outside of an enemy's port soon exhausts crews and empties coal bunkers. The British navy has a decided numerical and tactical superiority, but for the full protection of commerce further provision must be looked for in the auxiliary merchant fleet. This source of supply will enable efforts to be concentrated upon the powerful fighting ships the merchant marine can not furnish, and in future estimates appropriations for battle ships may be increased if the merchant auxiliaries are to be depended upon for the scouting ships of the squadrons and for the roving and quick hitting commerce defenders.

In the chapter on "Commerce and Strength," by Mr. Leyland, the number

SINKING OF THE MAINE

An Investigation by the U. S. Senate to be Made.

ATTEMPT TO SMOTHER IT.

But Chairman Chandler Will not Give Way, and Investigation to go on.

There Will be Some Hardening Facts Come to Light Regarding the Destruction of the Vessel.

Washington, June 12.—The Spanish claims commission, of which ex-Senator Chandler is chairman, will make a full and comprehensive investigation of the blowing up of the Maine in spite of the efforts of the department of justice to prevent the commission from going into this subject. A member of the commission announced today that responsibility for the disaster would be fixed, if that can possibly be done, and under no circumstances will the finding of the subject board of inquiry be regarded as conclusive. The projected raising of the Maine from the mud of Havana harbor will enable the commission to make a more intelligent inquiry into the cause of the explosion that destroyed the battleship and determine with greater exactness than was possible when the naval board made its investigation whether the explosion occurred from the outside or the inside. The determination of the commission to go into the subject is certain to produce friction between the commission and the new attorney general, who has practically announced that the subject is tabu. When Mr. Knox made this announcement he probably did not take into account ex-Senator Chandler's capacity for trouble-making and independent action.

New York, June 12.—It is asserted here that the investigation into the sinking of the battleship Maine will disclose some startling facts. It will, it is said, be shown that the work was done by order of several of the Spanish officers, and with the knowledge of certain American officials who stood to make money out of the affair.

RUSSIA WILL SEND SHIPS

U.S. Government Foretells Plan of Attack for Revenge.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—Senator Beveridge, of the United States, is conferring with the foreign office relative to concessions for a steamship service between Vladivostok and a port on the Pacific coast. He found the Russian Government already prepared to open up this traffic by starting a line of steamers between Vladivostok and San Francisco for the carriage of Trans-Pacific mails in connection with the trans-Siberian railway, which will be completed by the end of the year. Two steamers, the Manchuria and the Mongolia, 345 feet long, of 5,000 tons burden, 405 horse power and sixteen knots speed, are building at Trieste for the East China Railway Company, which already has a fleet of twenty-eight steamers for the Yellow Sea traffic.

FORM GIGANTIC OCEAN LINE.

J.P. Morgan and Others Plan New Company with $150,000,000 Capital.

Baltimore, Md., June 12.—President Bernard N. Baker of the Atlantic Transport Company is said to be on the ocean to join J. Pierpont Morgan in completing the negotiations for consolidating a number of ocean lines besides the Atlantic Transport and the Leyland lines, the new company to be capitalized at $150,000,000. The Golda, Vanderbills, Hartman, Kuhn & Loeb, Hill and the Pennsylvania syndicate are said to be in the deal with Morgan.

A big underwriting syndicate is forming to guarantee the execution of the financial plan, the details of which are carefully guarded and may be announced only through J. P. Morgan & Co. Some ambitious plans are in view for this consolidation. It will have among its stockholders most of the big railway syndicates and is expected to dominate the trans-Atlantic carrying trade. The mutual interests expected to exist between the company and the other lines not taken into the consolidation is depended on to insure great economies.

One aim will be to avoid duplicating service. When a full comes in business ships will be withdrawn, only enough being run to carry the cargo. Contracts exist, it is understood, between the companies to become constituent parts of this combination and every railroad running to the Atlantic coast and gulf ports. These contracts, it is said, control the tonnage taken to the seaboard for export.

New York, June 12.—White Wall street is not inclined to accept the report that from London that J. Pierpont Morgan is planning to establish a "billion dollar" bank, after the plan of the Bank of England, it would not be surprised if Mr. Morgan were to increase the capital stock of the Bank of Commerce from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000, which would make it the strongest financial institution in the United States. While Mr. Morgan is a large stockholder in the National City bank, there is no possibility that he would include it in any big consolidation scheme. Its charter is of the double liability kind and would not be desirable for such a combination.

RICE CASE AGAIN HEARD.

Albert T. Patrick and Two Others Are Once More Arraigned.

New York, June 12.—Albert T. Patrick pleaded not guilty to the murder of William Marsh Rice, the Texas millionaire, when arraigned before Judge Cowing in the court of general sessions today. With him were arraigned David L. Short and Morris Meyer, charged with forgery in connection with the case. They pleaded not guilty also. All three were remanded back to the Tombs. The men were arraigned as a sequence to the decision rendered by Judge Foster last Friday overruling a demurrer entered by the attorney for the defendants.

Moore & Cantwell, attorneys for Patrick, Short and Meyer, made an application to Judge Cowing for bail for Short and Meyer. Assistant District Attorney Garvin, representing the people, asked that bail be fixed at $10,000, which he thought the accused could secure. Judge Cowing named $25,000 in each case as the sum he would require.

BOW LOW TO BERNHARDT

British's Great French Ambition With Defiance Due to Royalty.

London, June 12.—Sarah Bernhardt visited the House of Commons this afternoon, where several statements were presented to her, treating her with the deference paid only to royalty in this country. Arthur Balfour, John Morley, Herbert Asquith, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Paquhar and Winston Churchill were among those introduced. Mr. Chamberlain bowed low over the divine Sarah's hand with an obeisance almost oriental and addressed her in French, while she replied in English. She expressed great admiration at the architecture and decorations of the House of Parliament. It was generally agreed that she would pass for the age of 35.

RICH FIND FOR THE GOULDS

A Son of Jay Gould Makes a Big Strike in British Columbia.

Ore That Pans Out Over a Thousand Dollars a Ton.

Vancouver, B. C., June 12.—One of the greatest mineral finds made in British Columbia for some time, is that reported by S. Arden Singh, manager of a large mining property on the Skeena River, belonging to Howard Gould, son of the late Jay Gould, of New York. The rich ore is on the 15-foot level, and the vein is ten feet in width of continuous quartz, and the value of the ore is between $1,000 and $1,200 to the ton, the showing of silver and gold being phenomenally high. There is silver to a value of $650 to the ton, and it carries $500 more in gold. Free gold can be seen in many samples of the quartz. The ore is also 4 per cent copper, and altogether Mr. Gould is believed to have one of the richest quartz properties in the northern part of the province. A road has been built to the water, and there is a rush of miners to the vicinity. A large number of men are daily leaving Port Esmington, and other places to prospect for more gold near the new find.

SAMOANS DOCILE AND CONTENTED.

Governor of American Possessions Makes a Statement.

ARE IN SORE NEED OF PEACE.

San Francisco, June 12.—Commander B. F. Tilley, U.S. navy, Governor of the United States possessions in Samoa, who is here on leave of absence, discussing the conditions in Samoa, said: "The natives are now docile and contented. We have permitted the natives to follow their own customs when they are not pernicious. It was necessary to reform their customs regulating marriage and divorce. The uniqueness of the conditions and the remoteness from higher authority compelled me to act the part of a supreme law-giver as well as that of an executive officer. I issued ordinances forbidding the transfer of real property to natives by natives and regulating contracts between natives and whites. The ordinances were necessary for the protection of the natives, and the general laws of the United States do not fill the conditions of the islands."

"The possessions are divided into countries, each governed by a native official appointed by the American commander. This system has pleased the Samoans. Recently the chiefs at Faga Togo offered the waterfront land to the Government at a reasonable price, and announced that they would build a Presbyterian church with the money. The London mission works among them. All the natives are Christians and extremely religious."

PEACE WAS NEEDED.

"Peace was what the islands needed. They had been warring perpetually, and the warfare interfered with production. The soil voluntarily yields breadfruit, coconuts and everything the Samoans require to eat, and there is really no reason why they should work. It is not surprising therefore that they are inclined to idleness. The white population of American Samoa is about 110 all told."

"I do not think the commerce of the islands ever will amount to a great deal. The chief value of the islands to this country is the great harbor which is protected against hurricanes and can easily be made secure against an enemy. Congress has passed an appropriation to enable us to enlarge the harbor to a capacity of the harbor of ten thousand tons, enough to coal a fleet. The harbor is 2,000 miles from Honolulu, 1,400 from Auckland, and about 2,000 from Sydney. German Samoa is doing well under Governor Self, a broad-minded man. Lieutenant Commander Dorin is now in command at Samoa."

ENGINEER'S WIFE IN WRCK.

Loss of Life Attributed by Presence of Train Men's Family.

Anderson, Ind., June 12.—Just before the passenger train on the Big Four at Jonesboro came together in a slight wreck engineer Will Jackson put his wife and baby in the coach at Wabasha, and, knowing both said he would see them at Anderson. He saw the engineer and fireman of the other train jump, and his own fireman, but remembering these behind him, he ran out of the door seeking his husband. He got through the crowd and met him, covered with grime and dirt.

These Factory Burns.

The Brickley Cheese Factory between Warkworth and Hastings was burned to the ground at noon yesterday. A portion of the stock was saved but the building is totally destroyed. The cause of the fire is a mystery. Insurance on building was $600.

TRANSVAAL CONCESSIONS.

A blue book was issued today containing the report of the Transvaal concessions. The commission recommends that the Government decline to recognize the dynamite and other concessions and add that it is satisfied Dr. Leyds and others have received from certain directors shares and financial considerations.

Regarding the Netherlands—South African railroad, the report, while admitting that the concession was legally granted, considers it injurious to the public interest that the monopoly of a single company. The concession should be terminated even if the company's contract is not open to complaint. But its extraordinary action in the war precludes the possibility of its continuance under British administration.

Discussing the position of the shareholders, the report says the belligerent acts, for which all the shareholders were legally responsible, caused immense damage to Great Britain, Cape Colony and Natal. The British Government as an act of grace, may show some consideration to the shareholders, but the commission considers that should be postponed till the shareholders have exhausted the remedies open to them against the directors and until the damage done by the company is made good. The commission recommends the debenture holders to full recognition.

MAY BREAK THE CONCERT.

Effect of United States' Refusal to Join in Indemnity Guaranty.

Washington, June 12.—The government has formally communicated to the foreign powers the impossibility of joining in a joint guaranty for the payment of the Chinese indemnity. The difficulties in the way of such an arrangement are set forth in the communication, particularly those relating to the constitutional restrictions on the president in making a joint guaranty of this character.

In view of the determination of the United States not to join a party to a joint guaranty there is anxiety shown in diplomatic circles as to the outcome on the question this day. One view is that the majority of the powers being favorable to a joint guaranty, will execute this joint instrument and thereafter cut out a concert of their own. In that event, it is said, the United States would arrange directly with China as to the European powers do not believe that resort to the Hague tribunal as proposed by the United States will be acceptable to their governments.

A Big Combine In Nova Scotia

Dominion Securities Company After Nova Scotia Trade.

WITH A CAPITAL OF $1,500,000

New York, June 12.—The initial step towards the carrying out of a big American combine of the larger portion of Nova Scotia transportation and industrial companies, and the establishment of a first-class modern steamship line between this city and Halifax has already been taken by the incorporation of the Dominion Securities Company, with a capital of $1,500,000. It is said that the Vanderbilts are behind the big scheme. Dr. Wm. Seward Webb has been made President of the company, and the directors are John Jacob Astor, S. R. Callaway, President of the American Railway Company, Edgar Van Elen, Second Vice-President of the New York Central, and Percy Chapman, President of the Rutland Railroad.

Having secured a number of concessions and subsidies from both the Dominion and Nova Scotia Governments, representatives of the new firm have already commenced operations on the proposed Cape Breton railway and the extended road will run through the district where the Dominion Coal, Iron and Steel plants are located. Commencing at Yarmouth at the southwestern end of Nova Scotia, the new road will run in a northeasterly direction to Halifax. In Cape Breton, the line will operate between Hawkesbury and Sydney, and at Lunenburg and North Sydney.

In a short time the projected steamship line between Halifax and New York will be in running order, and will make semi-weekly trips from each terminal port. The anxiety of the Vanderbilts to control the coal mines and steel plant of Nova Scotia can be better understood when it is known that about 90,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal were despatched via Boston last year. The Dominion Iron and Steel Company has recently completed at a cost of $10,000,000—the largest steel manufacturing plant in the world, and the dike at a cost of $5,000,000 more.

Boers Executed For Breaking Parole.

London, June 12.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Pretoria says that four Boers who had surrendered and taken the oath of neutrality escaped on Sunday, and tried to rejoin their commands. Three of them were captured and tried by court-martial. Two of them were sentenced to be shot, and the sentence has been carried into effect. The other man was made prisoner of war.

MILITARY RETURNS IN AUGUST.

In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain stated that Lord Milner of Cape Town, Governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, will return to South Africa in August.

A blue book was issued today containing the report of the Transvaal concessions. The commission recommends that the Government decline to recognize the dynamite and other concessions and add that it is satisfied Dr. Leyds and others have received from certain directors shares and financial considerations.

Regarding the Netherlands—South African railroad, the report, while admitting that the concession was legally granted, considers it injurious to the public interest that the monopoly of a single company. VERDICT OF MURDER AGAINST RICE

Coroner's Jury Which Investigated the Death of Constable Boyd, Arrives at this Decision.

Bullet Could Not Have Been Fired by Stewart—Medical Testimony Makes This Point Perfectly Clear—The Coroner Exonerates Sheriff Widdifield—Evidence of the Witnesses.

Toronto, June 12.—The jury summoned by Coroner Powell, who have been investigating the death of County Constable Boyd, last night returned a verdict: "That at the City of Toronto, on the 11th day of June, 1901, from a gunshot wound, inflicted by Fred Lee Rice, the deceased, William Boyd, came to his death, and the jurors aforesaid on their oath all say that the said Fred Lee Rice did unlawfully and of malice aforethought murder and kill William Boyd, the peace of our Lord, the King, his Crown and dignity. We further say that that Frank Rutledge, since deceased, through his own act, and a man to us by name unknown, who supplied firearms to the said Fred Lee Rice and Frank Rutledge, were parties to the commission of the crime herein charged. We recommend Walter Stewart and Selwyn Kohlmeyer for courage in the face of great personal danger, as well as for good judgment, which was largely instrumental in preventing the escape of armed convicts. We should recommend that in future the county provide all constables charged with the duty of conveying prisoners with uniforms and firearms, and that a suitable conveyance be obtained for such transportation to and from the jail."

The inquest was resumed at the General Hospital. Rice's presence was not deemed necessary. The first witness was Thomas Buchanan, who keeps a shop at the rear of the scene of the shooting. His attention was attracted on the night in question by two loud, muffled noises, which he at first thought to be caused by giant fire-crackers. He had also noticed a man running away, and to see what was the matter he came to the door. He saw what he thought to be three prisoners from the jail, the shooting, the rush to the car, and the struggle, first with Motorman Kohlmeyer and later with others. Jones, the centre man, was staggering, but the outside men supported him. At first, Mr. Buchanan did not notice handcuffs, and fancied the three were drunk. The passengers began to jump and run. Dr. O'Reilly deposed to the admission of Constable Boyd at 6:25 p.m., on June 12, and his death at 7:15.

James Simpson, druggist, 456 Gerrard street east, had been attracted to the door by the shooting. He saw Rutledge shooting and noticed that Jones had been shot by some one. He witnessed the struggle on the car.

BOYD AND THE DOCTOR.

Joseph Fogarty, another eye-witness of the shooting, told the same story, and Dr. Howland, of the General Hospital staff, described minutely just what was done when Boyd was brought in. The case was simply hopeless. He produced certain photographs of deceased at the time of the post-mortem examination, showing where the bullet had entered.

John Caven, who, with Dr. Geo. Bingham, had performed the post-mortem, gave a very full description of the wound, and the condition of the body generally. The bullet pierced the skull about two inches above a line drawn from the outer corner of the right eye to the top of the right ear. Its course was backward through the brain until it struck the back part of the skull, and with such violence that it broke the skull again, and almost escaped. No terrible was the force that the entire right hand side of the skull was shattered and so close was the range that the face of the deceased was spotted and burned by the powder. The fatal bullet, badly distorted, was found. Though portions of it had been split off on the skull there still remained more than the amount which would have been found in a perfect bullet from Constable Stewart's revolver.

Dr. Bingham corroborated Dr. Caven, and stated that in view of the position which Boyd, Rice and Stewart occupied in the cab, that of the question of the bullet, it was practically impossible for the shot to have been fired by any one other than Rice.

Detective Forrest gave brief evidence as to certain bullets produced.

CORONER'S SUMMARY.

Coroner Powell gave an admirable summary of the whole case. He referred to the narrowing of the issue by the death of Jones and the suicide of Rutledge. He pointed out the responsibility the unknown fourth man had taken in supplying weapons to the prisoners. He paid a tribute to the courage of the faithful constable. He had been brave, but not tactical, and under circumstances Constable Stewart had followed the only wise course, first surrendering and then fighting. He spoke also in the highest terms of Mr. Kohlmeyer, who played a most important part well in a trying and dangerous crisis.

The coroner finally took up the question of the transfer of prisoners to and from the jail in cabs. This was, and still must be, the only way in nearly all cases, especially in the country. It had been hitherto a safe way, and until the present time he had heard of no attempt at rescue. Sheriff Widdifield had been censured by one newspaper very severely, but the coroner stated that Mr. Widdifield had the County Council to provide a van, and with the economy which characterizes bodies of that kind, refused the petition.

KING GIVES THE REWARD OF VALOR

His Majesty Presented Medals to Over 3,000 Men Who Served in South Africa.

Roberts, Milner and Buller Were Among Them—Ceremony Lasted Three Hours and the King and Queen Stood Through It All—Some of Its Incognituses.

London, June 12.—London seldom had a finer spectacle than was witnessed on the Horse Guards' parade this morning, when King Edward presented medals to three thousand soldier participants in the South African campaign. The great square was filled with Guards drawn from the various regiments. In the centre of the ground was a purple-covered dais, surrounded by an Indian tent with silver corner poles. In the space between the dais and St. James' Park were drawn up three thousand officers and men of the Guards' Household Cavalry and City Imperial Volunteers, all of whom had served in the campaign. The Admiralty, Horse Guards, and other official buildings fronting the parade were all decorated with flags. The Lord Mayor, Frank Green, attended in state, and the members of the special Moorish Embassy, in picturesque costumes, were interspersed among the ranks.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the King, in a Field Marshal's uniform, the Queen, Princess Victoria, and other members of the Royal family, arrived and took up places on the dais, and the ceremony began. The recipients of the medals, in a long line, marched past the King, received the decoration from his Majesty, saluted and passed on. Lord Roberts came first, followed by Lord Milner, while behind them came crowds of generals and lesser officers, whose names have become familiar owing to the war—Buller, Ian Hamilton, and a host of others. Among the members of Lord Roberts' South African staff who received the medal was Captain, the Duke of Marlborough.

The procession, as a whole, was most magnificent. The officers of the Guards, Lancashire, Russians, and Highlanders, in dazzling uniforms; groups of solemnly-garbed men in frock coats, doctors who had served at the front, and half a dozen foreign attaches in uniform. There were also groups of time-expired men in civilian clothing, policemen and wounded soldiers, limping along in hospital clothes.

The ceremony lasted nearly three hours, the Queen standing beside the King throughout.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.

Sir—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk.

As a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am in living, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills.

Permanent Cures of Cancer

We here give a few cases, where the efficacy of our Constitutional treatment in curing Cancer, is established beyond all question. We have plenty on file. There is ample proof that where our remedy cures, it cures to stay and saves people from the torture of knife and plaster.

CANCER OF THE BREAST—A lady had Cancer of the breast, which rendered her right shoulder and arm almost helpless. Our remedy cured her over five years ago, and there is not the slightest return of the trouble.

CANCER OF THE FACE—This case of a gentleman who was so bad that his right cheek was almost eaten off with the disease, plaster aggravated his trouble. Our treatment cured him five years ago and he had been all right since.

CANCER OF THE STOMACH—Doctors pronounced the trouble cancer of the stomach. There was vomiting of blood, that looked like Coffee grounds. Great weakness and prostration. Cured over four years ago and well to-day.

CANCER OF THE NOSE—A severe case which was cured by our remedy in 1891 and has never returned to this day.

Full accounts of the above cases, together with the names and addresses of the persons, are given in our new book, "Cancer, Its Cause and Cure," sent to anyone, in plain wrapper on receipt of 2 stamps. Stott & J. Bowmanville, Ont.

THE COUNTY COURT.

Henry Fee of Cavan, Gets Damages for Loss of Two Cattle.

At yesterday's sitting of the County Court the Grand Jury made the following prearrangement:—

June 12th, 1901.
To His Honor Judge Weller, presiding, at the June sittings of the Court of Sessions:—

May it Please Your Honor,—Your Grand Jurors beg to make presentation as follows:—

We have in accordance with your suggestion, visited the county gaol, and made a thorough examination of it, and are pleased to be able to report that everything was found in the most satisfactory condition, clean, orderly and neat, evidencing most efficient attention to duty on the part of those in charge.

Your Grand Jurors, however, feel called upon to draw attention to what they deem to be a most deplorable state of affairs which continues to allow the unfortunate and aged poor to be incarcerated with the criminal classes in the gaol. Besides these aged persons, whose only crime is their poverty, we also found in the gaol one poor unfortunate helpless from paralysis, who, being without means, had to seek shelter in the gaol, and there also were two others mentally infirm. These unfortunate, we feel should not be in the gaol, and we think that this matter should be dealt with in some practical way by the Councils of the town and county so as to remove a condition of things that we felt when we saw it was not in keeping with a Christian community. We did not think it necessary to visit the hospitals or other public institutions, as they had been recently inspected by the Grand Jurors of the High Court, and will be visited by the Grand Jurors of the next court.

In concluding this presentation we desire to thank Your Honor for the manner in which you assisted us in defining our duties. We also rejoice with you in the law-abiding community in which we reside, our freedom from crime being indicated by the absence of criminal cases at our court sessions.

On behalf of the Grand Jury,
W. G. FERGUSON, Foreman.

In reply, Judge Weller stated that he considered those conditions which allow the unfortunate and aged poor to be incarcerated with the criminal classes to be deplorable. There were now a man of 82 years of age, another of 80, and another of 76, inmates of the gaol, and this, was not right, and should be remedied. His Honor was not surprised at the complimentary reference to the condition of the county gaol, for it was always extremely satisfactory.

In the action of Henry Fee, of Cavan, who claimed damages for $100 against the C.P.R. for the loss, by being killed by an engine, of a cow and a bull, the plaintiff was given judgment for $104 less $17.50, the amount he received for the meat. Mr. Fee is a farmer living in Cavan and his claim was based on the alleged defective fences there maintained by the Railway Company. The accident occurred in July last.

PUTS THE "GINGER" IN.

The Kind of Food Used by Athletes

A former college athlete, one of the long distance runners, began to lose his power of endurance. His experience with a change in food is interesting.

"While I was training on the track athletic team, my daily 'jogs' became a task, until after I was put on Grape-Nuts Food for two weeks I felt like a new man. My digestion was perfect, nerves steady and I was full of energy.

I trained for the mile and the half mile runs (long events which require so much endurance) and then the long daily 'jogs', which before had been such a task, were clipped off with ease. I won both events.

The Grape-Nuts Food put me in perfect condition and gave me my 'ginger'. Not only was my physical condition made perfect, and my weight increased, but my mind was made clear and vigorous as that I could get out my studies in half the time usually required. Now most all of the University men use Grape-Nuts for they have learned its value, but I think my testimony will not be amiss and may perhaps help some one to learn how the best results can be obtained. Please do not publish my name."

There is a reason for the effect of Grape-Nuts Food on the human body and brain. The certain elements in wheat and barley are selected with special reference to their power for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers. The product is then carefully and scientifically prepared so as to make it easy of digestion. The physical and mental results are so apparent after two or three weeks' use as to produce a profound impression. The Food can be secured at any first-class grocery store.

Mr. Wm. Helm Passed Away Yesterday Morning.

Mr. William Helm passed away yesterday morning. He was one of Peterborough's oldest and most highly respected residents, died yesterday morning, at his residence, No. 558 Bethune Street, after a lingering illness of Bright's disease.

The late Mr. Helm was a Canadian by birth, having been born in the County of Northumberland, near Gravelly, seventy-eight years ago. He came to Peterborough about 1866 from Port Hope, and engaged in business as one of Peterborough's early manufacturers on Simcoe-st., operating a machine shop and foundry on the site where the lock works now stand. He continued this industry until 1876, since then he has not been actively engaged, except for some years that he was connected with a manufactory at Gananoque. In his years of activity the deceased gentleman was prominent in local affairs, and served a term in the Town Council. In late years he had lived quietly, but was widely known and universally respected.

He married 56 years ago Miss Sophia Monnell, of New York State, who together with her son and two daughters survive him. The son is Mr. Ralph Helm and the daughters are Mrs. Thos. Bradburn of town, and Mrs. Nixon, of Toronto.

Deceased Mrs. Helm and two brothers living, one of the latter being Mr. John Helm, of Port Hope.

He was a charter member of Peterborough Lodge A.F. & A.M., of which he was also a life member.

The True Tragedy of Life is ill-health, disappointed ambitions, uselessness destroyed. Pathetic nay, tragic. Poor blood, weak nerves, a tired brain. Is there hope? Yes! Because there is a cure.

Ferrisone Tablets make blood, not blue blood, but the fluid that strengthens the whole body. Ferrisone does this quickly by improving digestion, stimulating assimilation and by imparting health and tone to the whole system. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, will tell you a great deal more about Ferrisone. Ask him to tell you of the wonderful curative properties of Ferrisone Tablets.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Kelly, Baptist minister, in the presence of about fifty relatives of the bride and groom.

The gorgeous drawing room was beautifully decorated with flowers, and while the guests were assembling Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered on the piano by Miss Wood, of South Monaghan. The bride was escorted and given away by her brother, Mr. W. Perrin. She was charmingly attired in white tulle with chiffon trimming. She wore, also, a veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Truena, of Hamanville, who was attired very prettily in white organdie and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Mr. W. Stewart, of Norwood, acted as groomsmen.

GETS RABBIT FROM HUSBAND.

Mrs. Nash contracts Hydrophobia While Nursing and May Die.

Chicago, June 14.—While nursing her husband, who died of hydrophobia last Friday, Mrs. J. W. Nash contracted the disease. She is now at the Pasteur hospital at the point of death.

On Monday at No. 7673 Railroad Avenue, her husband was a motorman and was bitten by a rabid dog the same day that six children were bitten in South Chicago. The children had their wounds cauterized, but Nash refused to care for his wound. He was afflicted with hydrophobia and died. While caring for him Mrs. Nash entered his room one morning and lit the gas. She burned her finger with the match and a drop of blood from the wound.

A few minutes later she sponged the blood from the mouth of her husband. The finger came in contact with the foam and blood, and she was infected. In the excitement of the funeral Mrs. Nash did not attend to her wound.

THE VENEZUELAN BOUNDARY

Senator Hoar Arraigns England for Refusing to Arbitrate.

But Says Nothing of the United States Doing Same Thing.

New York, June 14.—Senator Hoar is evidently trying to make some political capital out of the Venezuelan boundary matter, for he thus takes Britain to task in the Century.

Let us pause here for a moment's examination of the surprising refusal of Great Britain to submit this difficulty to arbitration and the more surprising reasons presented for its justification. The refusal was surprising, because the controversy had reached such a stage that arbitration was evidently the only means by which it could be settled consistently with harmonious relations between the two countries.

It was on this ground that Venezuela proposed arbitration; and she strongly urged on the further ground that inasmuch as the prohibition of her constitution prevented the relinquishment of territory by treaty or voluntary act, of any part of the territory, which her people and their government claimed to be indubitably Venezuelan, such a relinquishment would present no difficulties if it was in obedience to a decree of a tribunal to which the question of ownership had been mutually submitted.

In giving her reasons for rejecting arbitration, Great Britain says in effect: "The plan you urge for the utter and complete elimination of this constitutional prohibition—for its expurgation and destruction so far as it is related to the pending dispute—is objectionable because, we fear the prohibition thus eliminated, expunged, and destroyed will still be used as a pretext for disobedience to an award which, for the express purpose of avoiding this constitutional restraint, you have invited."

The remaining objection interposed by Great Britain to the arbitration requested by Venezuela is based upon the fear that an award might be made in favor of the Venezuelan claim, in which case, a large and important territory which has for a long period been inhabited and occupied by her majesty's subjects and treated as a part of the Colony of British Guiana would be severed from the Queen's dominions.

It first occurs to us that a contention may well be suspected of weakness when its supporters are unwilling to subject it to the test of impartial arbitration. Certain inquiries are also pertinent in this connection. Who were the British subjects who had long occupied the territory that might through arbitration be severed from the Queen's dominions? How many of them began this occupancy during the more than forty years that the territory had been steadily and notoriously disputed? Did they enter upon this territory with knowledge of the dispute and against the warning of the government to which they owed allegiance, or were they encouraged and invited to such entry by agencies of their government who had full notice of the uncertainty of the British title? In one case, being entitled to no consideration; in the other, the question of loss and indemnification should rest between them and their government, which had implicitly guaranteed them against disturbance.

In any event, neither case presented a reason why Great Britain should take or possess the lands of Venezuela; nor did either case furnish an excuse for denying to Venezuela a fair and impartial adjudication of her disputed rights. By whom had this territory been treated as a part of the Colony of British Guiana? Surely, not by Venezuela. On the contrary she had persistently claimed it as her own, and had treated it as her own as far as she could and dared. England alone had treated it as a part of British Guiana; her immense power had enabled her to do this; and her own decrees seemed to promise greater advantages as against her weak adversary than arbitration could possibly assure.

CITY HAS SUICIDE PLAGUE.
Emporia, Kan., June 14.—An epidemic of suicides in this town, culminating yesterday in three attempts, all exactly similar to recent successful suicides, has caused the Mayor and Board of Health to forbid publication of details of suicides or attempts in local papers. The Board is acting on the theory that publication spreads the contagion of suicide by psychic suggestion. Mayor Morse contends that the liberty of the press is secondary to the public health and is prepared to use force, if necessary, under the nuisance act. All the editors, however, have agreed to suppress details of suicides or attempts until the epidemic abates.

The Conference with President Shaugnessy. Montreal, June 14.—The Committee of the C.P.R. trackmen had a conference with Mr. Shaugnessy, the President yesterday. What took place has not yet transpired, but the impression is that the whole matter will be amicably arranged. Another conference will take place tomorrow.

The following changes have been made in the staff of the C.P.R.: W. H. MacInnes to be Assistant Traffic Manager of western lines, headquarters Winnipeg; W. B. Bulling to be Assistant Freight Traffic Manager of eastern lines, Montreal; S. P. Howard to be General Freight Agent of the eastern division; W. H. Brown, City Freight Agent, Detroit, to be General Freight Agent of Ontario and Quebec division, in succession to W. B. Lanigan.

NOT TO VISIT THE STATES.
A Telegram to this Effect from Ex-President Kruger. Washington, June 13.—The very latest information about the probable movements of President Kruger of the Transvaal republic is to the effect that he will not visit the United States next fall. He has completely changed his plans and itinerary, owing possibly to a belief that the Hague convention will begin consideration of the South African war with a view to restoring peace.

RELIGIOUS DIFFERENCES.

The Rev. Dr. Symonds has won the esteem and praise of all who know him, excepting perhaps the old-time theologians who believed in the strictness of theism with all their hearts. We, however, are not to judge God. The question is simply, "Did the Creator of Heaven and earth say that there was a place for the damned?" Further, is this decree based upon a system of rewards and punishments? We think it is. We also think that the Bible plainly says what God means in this and all other respects. Dr. Symonds seems to us to interpret the Word of God as he would have it rather than as it is. (An unbiased mind, reading the Bible for the first time, could take no such liberal or lax view. If such then is the case, Rev. Dr. Langtry is nearer the Word of God than Rev. Dr. Symonds. If, however, God is purely a God of Love, and made His punishments as mere threats not intended to be carried out, then Dr. Symonds is nearer the truth. The fact is the world at large is in rebellion against a strict interpretation of the Bible. But that is not the question: What did God say? That is what we want to know. There is no good in everybody's hawking out his individual view. That stacks of physics or of law and of error. In there no precise meaning then to the scriptures? Has God not revealed himself? Medicine is a science of men. Mathematics is a science of men. It is for men to interpret them. But the scheme of salvation is a divine science. Who will dare to interpret it by the methods of human science? That the gospel-writer's themselves differed is not admissible as argument. In reality argument respecting the revelation of God means nothing less than that God has created confusion instead of fact.

Advertisements themselves presume.

From a collection of queer advertisements made by a Washington man these are selected:

By a colored couple in Georgia: "Your presence is required to a swell wedding at the home of the bride. Come one, come all. Gentlemen, 25 cents; ladies, 15 cents."

By St. Louis man: "Wanted—A respectable gentleman, widower preferred to marry the housekeeper of an aged gentleman who has been an invalid for years, and who respects her as a good and true servant, whom he would like to see in the happy state of matrimony before he dies. She has had three husbands, but is willing for a fourth."

By a North Dakota Justice of the Peace: "I am reliably informed that some of our local clergy are cutting prices and thereby demoralizing business. I will not reduce prices to perform the marriage ceremony, but will give time if necessary, or will take meals, potatoes, grain, and will agree not to kiss the bride unless perfectly satisfactory."

By an English country gentleman: "Wanted—For a sober family, a man of light weight, who fears the Lord and can drive a pair of horses. He must occasionally wait at table, join the household, hold prayer, look after the horses and read a chapter in the Bible. He must, God willing, arise at 7 o'clock in the morning, and obey his master and mistress in all lawful commands. If he can dress hair, sing psalms and play at cribbage, the more agreeable."

By a Virginia merchant: "Bibles, Bibles, Bibles, butter, Testament, Tar, Treacle, Godly books and Glimpses. For Sale Here."

By a dog fancier: "Reward—Strayed from the premises of the subscriber, in Centerville, on the 1st of October, a small dog near the color of an opium, with yellow legs and head and tail cut off."

By a Philadelphia girl: "Wanted—A young unmarried woman without children wants a position as cook or housekeeper."

By a presiding elder: "Advent Meetings—Elder D. M. Cantrill, of Boston, and Elder D. M. Farnsworth, President of the Iowa Conference, will preach in the Baptist Church from Friday evening, April 5, till Monday evening."

By the Common Council, Jackson, Mich.: "Resolved, That the poundmaster be instructed not to receive into the public pound any cows that any person may drive to the same pound under the age of twenty-one years."

A red-faced and by no means portly woman came into our grocer's shop the other morning and by the gleam in her eye one could see that she had a bone to pick with the grocer.

"Why don't you send me what I send after," she demanded. "Here I sent you over here for five pounds of spuds and you sent back word you didn't keep them."

"We don't," said the clerk. "You do, too," contradicted the irate lady. "What's them if they ain't spuds?"

"Potatoes," said the clerk, mildly. "Did you want potatoes?"

"Of course, I did," snorted the lady. "Didn't I send for spuds? Law me, ain't you ever heard potatoes called by their right name before? Spuds, I said, and anybody but a born idiot knows what spuds is!"—Washington Post.

"Sleeping to Death." One of the most curious and fatal diseases on record is termed "the sleeping sickness of West Africa." The malarial has never been known to attack anyone except negroes. As the disease progresses the victim sleeps constantly and finally dies from starvation. The first symptoms are shown when the victim gradually gives way to a feeling of listlessness, which becomes at last a profound and lethargic sleep, the first noticeable sign of which is a violent and persistent drooping of the eyelids in the daytime and while at work. In spite of all efforts to arouse him, the patient lapses into slumber. The periods of sleep increase in number and the intervals between them lessen. Soon the negro appears to be always asleep. Death occurs at the end of from six to twelve months.

Retrospect.

It is an evil day for the wife and mother when she scans her own face in the mirror, and asks the question, "Does it pay?"

health and happiness to wedded love? But there is another question which rightly takes precedence of Does it pay? It is this: "Is it necessary to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?"

A SYSTEM IN BUSINESS

Cheap Theatre Tickets and the Modern Plan of Rejuvenating Things.

In the private office the head of the firm was closeted with the most important out-of-town customer, who had found that some matter of discussion or error in statement or correction of list price or some other picturesque detail of the higher finance made it imperative on him to visit the city even though it was the holiday season. That New York in holiday times is worth any man's seeing is wide of the question. It must have been business of the utmost importance, for even the confidential secretary had been dismissed. What ever it may have been, there was at least the evidence of cigars and hearty laughter to prove that it had been transacted to the satisfaction of both. After that had been settled the head of the firm broached the subject of entertainment. The customer was perfectly willing to take in a show that very evening and all the rest of the good things that might come his way, and it was the privilege of the resident business man to send out to reserve seats.

"I'll show you a wrinkle that may be new to you," he said with commercial pride. "You don't suppose that we pay box-office prices or speculators' premiums when it is possible to get just as good seats as there are in the house at fifty off. Just you wait while I telephone, and you'll see. I'll find the man in just a minute. That's the advantage of carrying a system into everything you do. Just look at this arrangement. I guess it's got in it pretty nearly everything I want to know. Well, I got down a memorandum on any piece of paper that comes handy and when I have leisure I file it away under its proper head in this system. Then when I want to use that idea all I have to do is to turn right to it here and find it at once along with everything else I know on the subject. Just you watch me. In this case the subject is theatre tickets, and where I can get them at a bargain. There's where the system of keeping track of things comes in. You observe I open the 'D' drawer and turn at once to the 'Dre's.' It's just like looking anything up in the encyclopedia. There, I've got just the man I want, telephone number and all, and I can promise you the tickets will be here as soon as we get back to lunch. That's where system comes in. You bet it's great."

"That's all very fine," replied the customer, "and I won't dispute the value of having a system. But I'll be hanged if I can understand why you turn up the 'Dre's' in order to find out where to scalp the theatres. Those letters are not the beginning of the man's name that you have just called and they do not spell anything that will make you think of the show. Why 'Dre'?"

"Why, man alive, that's just where the beauty and the simplicity of the scheme comes in. I want to get good seats at any theatre without paying too much for the tickets, so I look up the compartment 'Dreasmaker' in this arrangement and find the information immediately."

"But why dreasmaker? What has that to do with the subject?"

"See here, you mighty particular fellow! It's my system and not yours, but I don't mind showing you that the old man is right after all. The way I first got on to this theatre scheme was this, my wife told me that her dressmaker told her that she knew a clear dealer who always had good seats to dispose of for a reasonable discount. Got that straight and plain. Now, you don't suppose I'd put that under 'W' just because my wife told me. A man's wife tells him so many things that he has to put a system of this kind storage on them. The 'W' would be the whole thing and there wouldn't be any room for all the rest of the alphabet. So I skip the wife and nail the dressmaker as coming next. Then all I have to do when I want tickets is to think of my wife's dressmaker and there the whole story is told. But the more I use this system the more I wonder how we ever did business when a man had to remember things just any old way, in deed I do."

THEIR FAME SPREADING.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills a Wonderful Remedy.

Editor of the Morning Times.
Sir,—It is because I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid that I ask you to publish some facts regarding Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I was for many years a sufferer from indigestion and stomach troubles. I could not digest my food, I was constipated, and it was only by injections that I could get relief. Physicians did me no good. I was reduced to a skeleton, and could hardly walk. At a last resort I tried a box of these pills, and the improvement was so marked that I continued taking them. I have now taken twelve boxes, never remembering being so well in my life. I have gained 22 pounds, and am putting on more flesh daily. I am a living, walking advertisement and consider no trouble too great in order to spread the fame of Dr. Clarke's Pills. A. F. Jones, Lockport, N.Y.

SOME THINGS NOT TO DO

The Hamilton city improvement society in its very interesting publication has a number of useful hints for young people which might with profit be observed by Peterboro young people. They are as follows:
Don't throw ANYTHING into the streets.

Don't throw away banana skins.

They are slippery.

Don't forget that orange skins and watermelon rinds are easiest cared for when thrown into a garbage can.Don't tear waste paper and scatter it in the streets.

Don't fill the ash barrel too full.

Ashes are easily scattered by the faintest breeze.Don't throw water into the streets on frosty days.Don't throw anything into the sewers.Don't prevent water in the gutters from flowing into the sewers.Don't touch the fire hydrants. If hydrants get out of order, the damage in case of fire might prove serious.Don't defaced private or public buildings, fences, statues, etc. by chalking, cutting, striking matches, etc.

APSELEY

The annual union Sunday School convention of the Apseley and Clydesdale district held in Grace church, North Burleigh, on the 24th of May, although poorly attended on account of the rain, was a very interesting and instructive meeting, as will be seen by the programme:—
Afternoon session—The president
Mr. F. J. Wilson, in the chair; singing, the audience; Bible reading, Rev.
Mr. Berry; prayer, Mr. Howson; conventions, a paper, by Mrs. F. Hawkes, read by Rev. Mr. Shearer; reports of Sunday Schools in the district; solo,
Miss Julia Eastland; a model S. S. lesson, Rev. Mr. Berry; committee chosen to appoint officers for the coming year.Evening session—Reading and prayer, Rev. Mr. Shearer; "The material of the S. S.," Miss Payne; solo, Miss Julia Eastland; "The Instruments of the S. S.," Mr. Howson; the methods adopted by the superintendents presented; discussion, questioner, Rev.
Mr. Berry; singing, the audience;
 Benediction, Rev. Mr. Shearer.The officers elected were:—
President—Miss Hattie Eastland.
1st Vice-President—Mr. T. J. Wilson.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Charles Lauder.
Treasurer—Mr. T. McMillan.
Corresponding Secretary—Mr. F. Bullied.
Recording Secretary—Mr. D. Campbell.It was decided to hold the next meeting at Apseley, the time to be appointed later. Much regret was expressed at the absence of the delegates from Clydesdale and other parts of the district. Mrs. F. Bullied kindly entertained the delegates present.A Missouri farmer relates an experience which offers suggestions which, while they may not be exactly new,
may have for many great practical value. There were upon his farm several depredations which in wet seasons brought down water to the level of the ground. To drain these by ordinary means would have been very expensive, because no gravel was to be found near the farm, and there was no 3/4 in. (6-in.) pipe in the vicinity.
Open ditches were out of the question.
The services of an expert well-borer were secured. He sank several test shafts in various parts of the farm, and found that the underlying ground was a tenacious blue clay, fourteen to sixteen feet thick, and almost perfectly impervious. Beneath this was found a strata of white sand. The well-borer and his machine were placed in a wagon, which by means of a long rope was hauled to the deepest part of a pond about an acre in extent. Here he bored down to the sand, and completing the operation before sunset of the day when the work began. In thirty-six hours the water had disappeared and the pond was dry. To make this short perpendicular drain permanent he had it cleared of sediment, sunk the shaft about two feet into the bed of sand, and filled to the top with clean, coarse gravel from a creek bed. The gravel was heaped about a foot above the shaft to strain the water properly that the sand might not become choked.There are thousands of places in the West where, year after year, farmers have plowed around such wet spots, giving them up to the possession of rue and frogs. Yet they could be drained easily by few hours' work.
In western Michigan a large swamp lay for years on the southern edge of a village, a noxious barrier to progress and a bone of contention in village and ownership politics. To drain it a large ditch a mile or two long would have been required, but some one, fortunately, discovered that a thin sheet of clay was all that kept the water from going down into a deep strata of grav-sunk and the swamp thoroughly drained at an almost nominal cost, leaving rich black soil, which is the most productive and valuable in all that district. There may be thousands of similar swamps, where two or three days spent in sinking test shafts would show a ready means for converting sloughs or swamps into fields of wonderful fertility.Golden and diamond weddings were celebrated by 614 couples in Prussia in 1899, and the State distributed jubilee medals to each husband and wife. In Berlin and the provinces of Brandenburg the number of these couples was 115.An automatic window lock has been designed by a resident of New Zealand, having a sliding bolt set within a cason the upper sash and a lever which throws the bolt into the eyelet when the window is closed.At Liverpool details of a sailor's miraculous escape from drowning were related. The second mate, Henry Carrier, of the barque Valona, was overboard by an immense wave, but a minute later a return wave carried him back on the ship.The great Glenn ranch of 75,000 acres, in the heart of the Sacramento Valley, Cal., is to be subdivided into small farms and sold. Before the reforms in the Dakotas this Glenn ranch was the largest wheat producing establishment in the country.

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the admiration of all nations.
The most brilliant and gallant picture four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine, colored paper. A picture like this will command a high price and a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian.
It is the one called "Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg," there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the
